GERMANS ASK THAT BRAZIL EXPLAIN SHOT FIRED AT SHIP

Berlin Press Demands Inquiry in Shelling That Killed 27 Persons, 18 of Them Women — Four Dead in Baden Crew.

REVOLT LEADERS SUMMONED TO RIO

Conference to Decide Future Administration With Capt. Tavora's Attitude Carefully Watched—Has Large Following.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The shelling of the German steamship Baden in Rio De Janeiro harbor yesterday, aroused German editorial opinion today to demand that a promised Brazilian investigation be thorough.

The Vossische Zeitung's correspondent at Rio de Janeiro reports that 27 persons, including 18 women, were killed in the shelling. Four of the Baden's crew were among the dead. The women were Spanish emigrants. Thirty-five of the passengers were injured.

It is felt here that the action of Brazilian gunners in the Fortress Capacabana who fired the shot is almost incomprehensible, although it is said in some quarters that Brazilian political figures were aboard at the time, fleeing from the military coup d'etat which overthrew the Government of President Washington Luis.

No Explanation As Yet.

The whole affair is unexplained, since no direct news dispatches have come from Rio De Janeiro—presumably because of the strict consorship imposed by the military Junta—and the Foreign Office has had only fragmentary advices from German envoys in Brazil.

Advices from the German Legation in the Brazilian capital related that a shell from Fortress Capacabana hit the Baden yesterday as it steamed out for Buenos Aires. The message gave no information as to casualties, but added that members of the legation staff immediately went aboard, and said Brazilian revolutionary authorities explained that they had intended the shot merely as a warning, hitting the vessel accidentally. The Brazilian Ministry of Justice asserted that the ship displayed no flag.

Later the steamer itself notified its home office that 18 persons had been killed or wounded by the shot, while still later the Brazilian Legation here gave out the figures of 20 killed and 35 wounded, at the same time expressing regret over the affair and promising an investigation.

Rolin an Able Skipper.

The Hamburg-American offices tonight said they did not see how the commander of the Baden, Captain Rolin, could have been at fault. He was described as one of the most able of the line's skippers.

The demand for an investigation stresses the fact that the truth should be brought out not only as far as Germany is concerned but in the interest of Spanish citizens, who had chosen a German ship to go to their homeland and had perished before reaching it.

While some commentators assume that the nervousness of a new fortress commander may have been responsible, or new and ill-trained crews may have been at the guns, it is held that the large number of casualties calls for punishment of the guilty.

The Baden, outward bound from Hamburg, is a vessel of 8800 tons. It originally was intended for the New York service.

Sao Paulo Outbreaks Continue; Damage $1,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 25.—With three persons killed and 27 wounded in the riots here which followed the change in government in Brazil yesterday, Sao Paulo today saw a continuation of destruction that has caused property damage of $1,000,000.

Police thought last night and again this morning that they had checked the disturbances, at first considering them due to enthusiasm over the fall of the Federal administration and the state government, but tonight it was said that anarchists were responsible for most of the trouble. The police

Princess Giovanna in Tears At Wedding to King Boris III

Royalty Crowds Ancient Church at Assisi to Witness Ceremony—Bridal Pair Drenched by Sudden Rainstorm.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ASSISI, Oct. 25. — Franciscan mysticism blended with royal pomp when Princess Giovanna of Savoy became the wife today of Boris III of Bulgaria in a sanctuary built over the humble tomb of St. Francis.

At 10 a. m. she drove up the long mile from the train, where she had donned her white silk bridal dress and a veil which is a priceless heirloom. As the car appeared, escorted by cavalry of the Royal Household Guards with shining breastplates, this city rang with shouts of joy and welcome from 30,000 inhabitants and visitors. The Princess had driven from the train in an open automobile, and just before she reached the portals of the church a rain storm broke with fury.

Attendants at the door of the basilica hastened to the side of the carriage with umbrellas, but before the bride could get into the shelter of the doors her wedding gown had been wet and her veil blown in disarray.

King Boris and his suite, who had also arrived in open landaus were drenched.

Leaning on the arm of her brother, Crown Prince Humbert, the Princess, with the wedding party of 200 guests, passed slowly down the center aisle, and, while the vested choir sang the invocation "Oh, Lord, Make Safe Our King," they gathered about the altar for the ceremony.

Heralds in medieval dress blew a fanfare on silver trumpets as the bridal pair passed down the aisle. Giotto's frescoes alone decorated the ancient walls and masses of lilies shone on the high altar. To the strains of Franciscan music the couple knelt on a fald stool of ancient medieval days.

Royalty Among Guests.

At the left of the altar sat Giovanna's parents, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena; King Boris' father, former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and Sophie, former Queen of Greece. Behind them were 54 Princes and Princesses of the royal blood, chiefly of the houses of Bourbon and Savoy.

At the right of the altar stood Premier Mussolini in the black and gold uniform of the Bulgarian diplomatic corps, and state officials from Italy and Bulgaria.

By royal command, in respect for the Franciscan sanctuary, not a single jewel was worn.

King Boris, wore the picturesque uniform of the Bulgarian cavalry. Most of the men of the party were in uniform with Bulgarian or Italian decorations. The ceremony in itself, which was very short, was performed by Father Risso, a Franciscan, specially delegated by the Pope.

The mass was sung by Franciscan monks. The impressive scene so moved the bride that she wept. King Boris with a smile of affection whispered encouragement, and the ceremony over, they descended to the crypt of the church for a prayer before the tomb of the bride's ancestress, Maria Cristina.

But as every bell in the hundred belfries of Assisi began pealing the bride smiled on the crowds who welcomed her as Queen. Then in the still pelting rainstorm King Boris and his bride entered closed carriages for the short drive to the communal palace.

The bride's witneses were the Duke D'Aosta, her great uncle, and Prince Philip of Hesse, her brother-in-law. Boris' witnesses were his brother, Cyril, and his brother-in-law, Duke Albert of Wuerttemburg. Milanoff, keeper of the Bulgarian seal, affixed it to the document and Premier Liaptchoff and Congressional President Naidenoff witnessed it for Bulgaria, thus giving it the effect of a civil act according to the Bulgarian law. Mussolini, as crown notary and Luigi Federzoni, for the Italian Senate, witnessed it for the Italian Government.

Cheered by Crowds.

The drive to the villa Costanzi was another triumph. The road was lined with cheering thousands, gathered from all parts of Umbria. By Queen Elena's express wish the luncheon party was simple and as informal as possible. After luncheon Giovanna put on her traveling costume and shortly before 3 o'clock the royal couple left in a closed car for a special train which was to take them to Brindisi where tomorrow at Brindisi they will embark on the Bulgarian royal yacht Czar Ferdinand for a trip to Bulgaria where they will arrive in about a week. Soon afterward the long-deferred coronation of Boris will take place.

$6000 IN JEWELS AND AUTO TAKEN IN PARK HOLDUP

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Heman Robbed by Two Men Who Jump on Car on Clayton Road.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Heman, 53 Fair Oaks avenue, St. Louis County, walked into the Newstead avenue police station at 11:30 o'clock last night and reported that two men in Forest Park had robbed them of jewelry valued at $6085, and their automobile.

Heman, who is president of the Quarry Realty Co., said two men with pistols had jumped on the running board of his automobile as he was driving west on Clayton road in the park. They forced him and his wife from the car, he said, and drove away in it after taking the jewelry.

From Mrs. Heman the men took a diamond necklace valued at $2500, a $1300 diamond bracelet, a $600 watch, a $400 diamond wedding ring, and other jewelry valued at $85. From Heman they took a $1200 diamond ring and $50 in cash.

The Hemans walked to the Police Station from Forest Park.

WASHINGTON, D. C., BOY WINS WORLD ORATORICAL CONTEST

French-Speaking Canadian Second, Chilean Third; Hoover Greets Champions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The fifth international oratorical contest was won tonight by Edmund A. Gullion of Washington, D. C., 17-year-old American youth, who was judged best among youthful orators of eight nations who were greeted by President Hoover.

Paul Leduc, 17-year-old French-speaking Canadian, won second place and Clemente Perez-Zanartu of Santiago, Chile, was third.

"These debates have proved a great inspiration not only to the millions of high school students but to millions of our fellow citizens. They have advanced the knowledge and understanding of government, of history, of social and political questions. The representation here tonight of contestants from eight important nations bears still another high implication. That is the building of mutual understanding of these questions between the youth of our different nations."

BRUNK ATTACKS VALIDITY OF LAW IN OUSTER CASE

Question of Constitutionality Raised Because of Statute's Departure From Provision of Impeachment

SUPREME COURT RULING SOUGHT

If Law Is Upheld, Suspended State Treasurer Asks for Right to File Answer and Go on With Hearing.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 25. — Constitutionality of the law under which ouster proceedings were filed in the Missouri Supreme Court against Larry Brunk, suspended State Treasurer, by Attorney-General Shartel, was attacked in a motion filed in the court late today by Brunk's attorney.

The court was asked in the motion to first pass on validity of the law, and, if the constitutional point was decided against Brunk, to permit him then to file an answer to the ouster suit and to proceed with hearing of that suit on its merits.

Brunk previously had stated that he did not desire to rely on legal technicalities in his defense against charges, but that he desired the case to be heard on its merits.

Basis of Ouster Proceedings.

Gov. Caulfield suspended Brunk as State Treasurer, Oct. 14, as has been told, after his investigators discovered irregularities in payments of interest on State deposits by the defunct Bank of Aurora in Brunk's home town. The investigators reported the bank had withheld $4903 from interest due the State. Of this amount, $2950 was deposited in a special account in the bank known as the "Brunk Rent Account," against which were charged payments on notes Brunk owed the bank and payments of other personal obligations of Brunk, it was charged. Brunk has denied knowledge of the account, or the withholding of funds due the State, or the payments credited against his obligations.

In suspending Brunk, the Governor directed the Attorney-General to institute quo warranto proceedings in the Supreme Court to oust Brunk from office.

The Governor acted under section 13,337 of the revised statutes of Missouri, 1919. This section provides that if the State Auditor or State Treasurer fail to make reports to the Governor, as required by law, or make false reports, or if the State Treasurer fails to deposit State funds as required by law, or withdraws such funds in a manner contrary to law, the Governor shall immediately suspend the offending official, take charge of his office, and direct the Attorney-General to bring ouster proceedings in Supreme Court to remove the suspended official from office.

Based on the transactions in the Bank of Aurora, reported by the investigators, the Governor suspended Brunk on charges of making false reports, with failure to deposit State funds as required by law, and with withdrawing State funds in a manner not provided by law. The ouster proceedings, filed Oct. 20, contained the same charges.

Attacks Court's Jurisdiction.

Brunk's motion, filed by his attorney, John G. Madden of Kansas City, states Brunk denies that the court has jurisdiction and denies that the venue of the proceeding lies here. Leave was asked to submit these questions to the Supreme Court, by demurrer or motion, on or before the expiration of the 30 days granted by the court for the filing of Brunk's return to the writ of quo warranto issued the day after the suit was filed. The court was asked to rule upon these points, and, in the event it ruled on them against Brunk, to grant him leave to file his return to the suit and to contest it upon the merits of the charges.

Should the court hold the law is constitutional, the ouster suit will proceed. If the court holds the law is invalid, the ouster suit against Brunk, as well as the suspension order, would be invalidated and he apparently would be reinstated in office. Such a ruling, however, would not prevent the Attorney-General from instituting action under other sections of the law covering the alleged offenses.

Question of Constitutionality.

Section 13,337 relates only to the State Auditor and State Treasurer. They are the only two elective State officials who may be re-

HURLEY ASSAILS "PAID LIARS WHO VILLIFY HOOVER"

Secretary of War Says Nation Has Turned to His Chief in Every Crisis for Last 16 Years.

RECALLS RIOTING IN WAKE OF 1896 PANIC

Asserts President Has Averted Similar Disaster in 1930 — Urges Tuttle's Election in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, assailed the "muckrakers and paid liars hired for the sole purpose of vilifying the President" in an address tonight in which he urged the election of Charles H. Tuttle as Governor of New York.

"Able strategists, nationally known obstructionists, are devoting their entire time to defeating the President's program," he said. "Kept muckrakers, would-be character assassins are hired for the sole purpose of vilifying the President. By these means they try to destroy his leadership and prevent the success of his economic program."

The Secretary of War declared the United States owes to President Hoover's leadership the tranquility which he said exists in this country in the face of the world-wide economic depression.

Recalls Riots of 1896.

"National business leaders called into conference after the stock market collapse have said that it is due to Hervert Hoover alone that we have not witnessed such rioting and bloodshed as followed in the wake of the panic of 1896." Hurley continued, adding that "half of the world was either in open or incipient revolution."

"In all the great crises of the past 16 years the nation has turned to Mr. Hoover," he said, outlining briefly the President's services since 1914 when he was called on to organize relief for the starving women and children of warring Europe, to the Mississippi flood relief program and the present economic crises.

"Our President, our government, our business, labor, and agricultural leaders are meeting the problems forced upon us with intelligence and courage." Secretary Hurley continued, "by agreements brought about by our President our scale of wages is being maintained throughout the country. In every other depression they have been reduced. In every other country they are being reduced now.

"Steady Pressure of Policies."

"The steady pressure of the President's policies has averted disaster."

"The vast majority of the people are supporting his economic program," Hurley concluded. "His splendid leadership cannot be destroyed by false propaganda of hirelings."

The Secretary made a strong appeal for the election of Tuttle and the rest of the state Republican ticket, particularly for the reelection of Ruth Pratt to Congress from the Seventeenth District. He praised her for "intelligence and loyalty to the leadership of her party."

JEWEL ROBBERY ON LEVIATHAN

$5000 Theft from American Women Reported to Scotland Yard.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 25.—Scotland Yard has been asked to investigate a $5000 jewel robbery on the liner Leviathan which arrived yesterday. The jewels were the property of Miss Helen Bolton of New York.

Miss Bolton, who was a first-class passenger, left a case containing the jewels in a drawer in her cabin two days out from Southampton. While she was on deck they disappeared. The ship was searched but the jewels were still missing when it arrived here. The Leviathan sails for home Tuesday.

4:30 Mass for Duck Hunters.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 25.—And now the duck hunters will have a special mass, so they can attend church and then get out at sunrise for hunting. San Felipe Church today announced that upon special request during the hunting season for ducks there will be a special mass on Sundays and All Saints' day at 4:30 a. m. The announcement invited duck hunters to come to mass in their hunting togs.

New Wave Lengths in Spectra Of Sun's Corona Discovered

Further Information on Movements of Moon Announced as Results of Observations of Recent Eclipse.

By the Associated Press.

NIUFOU ISLAND, Oct. 25.—Discovery of a new wave length in the spectra of the sun's corona and further information on the movements of the moon were announced today by American scientists as the fruits of their observation of the solar eclipse here Wednesday.

Spectrographs obtained by Dr. S. A. Mitchell, scientific head of the American Naval Observatory expedition, caught manifestations of the heretofore unknown wave length, which showed itself at 6770 angstrom units. An angstrom unit is one one-hundred-millionth of a centimeter.

The data is expected to be useful in computing movements of the moon and in forecasting future eclipses.

Coronal disturbances on both the east and west edges of the sun were recorded. These appeared to have had their origin in eruptive prominences. The detail shown in the spectrographic lines of the coronium (chief constituent gas of the Corona) did not resemble that exhibited by the prominences.

Changes in coronal forms shown by the successive spectra indicated violent motion in the inner Corona. These disturbances could be traced to as far as 100,000 miles beyond the sun's surface and, as far as is known, never have been observed before.

Development of photographic plates indicated the expedition had been successful beyond expectations. A shortage of fresh water delayed developing. This became a difficult job when fresh water had to be brought ashore from the U. S. S. Tanager and protected from lava dust blown in by the trade winds.

Photographs of exceptional beauty and detail were obtained, especially nine planes from the 63-foot tower camera and three from the 65-foot horizontal camera, constructed as an afterthought from scrap material and a spare lens.

Beautiful coronal streamers with especially interesting strawberry-shaped domes were conspicuous on all photographs taken by all the cameras.

The data indicates the totality took place two seconds earlier than computed and was of 93.9 seconds duration.

Photographs obtained by Dr. Mitchell showed exquisite definition through a large range in wave length from 3200 angstrom units in the violent classification to 7800 in the red. Successful photographs of the flash spectrum were obtained both at the beginning and end of totality.

SNOW STORM SWEEPS NEW ENGLAND STATES

Fall of 20 Inches in Some Sections—Much Damage to Wires.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—High winds, snow, rain and sleet swept over New England today, broke communication and power lines in the north, felled trees and poles, blocker roads, drove a freight steamer aground in Vineyard Sound and tore craft from their moorings in the harbor at Portland, Me.

Driving conditions were made dangerous on the highways by the precipitation, which took the form of snow and sleet at various times in all the New England States. A half inch of snow fell in parts of Connecticut. Flurries and squalls were recorded in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. In Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine the snow was much heavier. In parts of Northern New England the storm, which began Friday, left a blanket of snow from 3 to 20 inches deep.

A heavy, wet snow that changed to rain in Northern Vermont, carried down electric power and telephone poles near St. Johnsbury, and put 1000 telephone poles out of commission in the town. The fire alarm system was disabled. Broken trees filled the streets. The storm in that vicinity was the worst for October since 1925. Montpelier and other cities reported damage to wires.

In Northern New Hampshire the heaviest October snowfall on record was reported, ranging from five inches at Berlin to 15 and 17 at Twin Mountain and Bretton Woods and 20 inches in the Lost River region. Hundreds of trees were blown down, blocking highways. Power lines were broken. In Southern New Hampshire, 40 automobiles were marooned between Temple and Peterborough, where the snow was 14 inches deep.

EIGHT HELD IN RAILROAD PASS SWINDLE IN EAST

Jersey City Official Said to Be Behind Plot to Issue Fake Free Tickets.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 25.—With the arrest of eight men charged with using fictitious railroad passes, the State police and railroad detectives have broken up a new method of faking railroad passes. It is said the spurious passes have defrauded the railroads of thousands of dollars. Each is held under bail ranging from $500 to $1000.

Numerous free rides to the seashore were enjoyed, according to the State police, until the passes were picked up. Some of the users had been summering at the shore and commuting to Jersey City daily. It is said the spurious passes were sold for $10 to $15.

The State police refused to give the name of a Jersey City official who, they say, was behind the plot. The passes gave the official positions of the possessors as attaches of the Legislature.

BRAZIL PRESIDENT-ELECT IS VIRTUALLY PRISONER IN OFFICIAL SAO PAULO HOME

By the Associated Press.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 25.

PRESIDENT-ELECT JULIO PRESTES of Brazil, who made a pre-inaugural visit to President Hoover last summer, tonight was virtually a prisoner in the Compos Eliseos Palace, official residence of the President of the State of Sao Paulo. Prestes resigned this office to become Conservative candidate for the presidency.

The President-elect has been asked by the commander of the revolutionary forces controlling Sao Paulo to surrender the State Government to any person whom the military junta at Rio de Janeiro may indicate.

He was to have been inaugurated as President of the United States of Brazil on Nov. 15. To prevent this was one of the acowed objects of the revolution that broke out three weeks ago.

LAWYER SENTENCED WITH CLIENT WHO STOLE TO PAY FEE

Robber Says Mississippi Attorney Sent Him Out to Rob a Jewelry Store.

By the Associated Press.

MACOMB, Miss., Oct. 25.—A robber and his lawyer were sentenced today to serve seven years in the penitentiary. W. V. Willoughby says that he lawyer, J. Sam McGuire, sent him to rob the L. W. Alford jewelry store here so that he could pay McGuire's fee for defending him in a previous robbery.

Willoughby turned State's evidence. The Court permitted Willoughby to serve the seven-year sentence simultaneously with a 10-year sentence for robbing a bank at Madison, Miss.

The men were tried separately but were sentenced together.

McGuire, who resigned from the Mississippi bar just before his conviction, is expected to appeal.

WEALTHY WIDOW'S JEWELS HELD FOR CUSTOMS APPRAISAL

Luggage of Mrs. Joseph B. Long Kept for Further Examination.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Jewelry valued at $50,000 and several pieces of luggage brought in on the liner Berengaria by Mrs. Joseph B. Long, wealthy Chicago widow, were held by customs authorities today for appraisal and settlement of penalties.

Customs men said they had examined Mrs. Long's baggage thoroughly on information that she had made extensive purchases abroad, but only $5000 worth of the jewelry actually is challenged, for Mrs. Long said she had owned the rest of it for years.

The luggage was held when Mrs. Long's appraisal of its contents differed materially from tentative appraisal by customs inspectors. It was said that Mrs. Long would appear at the customs house with an attorney on Monday.

100 REPORTED TO BE DEAD IN EXPLOSION IN GERMAN MINE

Blast Traps 90 Deep Underground in Maybach Colliery at Quierschiete and All, Management Fears, Have Perished.

BODIES OF 38 FOUND, 25 INJURED RESCUED

Gas Chokes Shafts, Hampering Relief Workers — Disaster in Saar Region Follows Death of 262 at Alsdorf.

By the Associated Press.

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, Oct 25.—Germany's second coal mine disaster within a week is thought to have resulted in the loss of 100 miners' lives today in the workings of the Maybach mine at Quierschiete, heart of the Saar Valley coal region.

An explosion trapped the miners deep in a shaft. The management of the mine announced at 10 p. m. that 90 men still were underground and that probably all had perished.

Late in the night the bodies of 38 dead had been recovered. Twenty-five injured had been brought to the surface.

The explosion was ascribed to fire damp, but a thorough investigation is planned.

Gas Hampers Rescue Work.

An accurate check of the casualties was impossible early this evening, though the company made every effort in this direction while rescue workers attempted to reach from two sides the men entombed in the shaft. The mine shafts were choked with gas which hampered the rescue work.

The disaster followed close upon that at the Alsdorf mine, in which 262 miners were killed. The bodies of the miners at Alsdorf were buried this morning.

Rumors in the nearby town of Friedrichstal put the missing as high as 140, while the company in the evening admitted there were 50 and later that there were 90.

Smoke Pours From Pit.

Clouds of smoke poured from the pit-mouth, and with gas still in the shafts below, doubt was expressed whether many of the missing would be recovered alive.

Some engineers said they thought a benzol engine on the fourth level had exploded, igniting gases from the coal seams, but nothing was certain.

The Maybach mine was formerly state-owned and had been surrendered to France for 15 years under the terms of the Versailles treaty.

POLICE IN HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT WITH BUFFALO COMMUNISTS

Woman Said to Have Been Felled With Billy After Slapping Officer—Office Wrecked.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 25.—After breaking up a Communist mass meeting in a public square and making three arrests tonight, police stormed the headquarters of the party and took 21 more prisoners. In the melee, which included hand-to-hand combats with the police, the headquarters was wrecked.

Among the prisoners is Ruth White, 22 years old, who is charged with assault, third degree, and resisting a police officer. She was felled with a police billy after, it is alleged, she slapped a policeman's face.

The trouble started when police stopped distribution of handbills in Lafayette Square. These handbills advertised meetings to be addressed by William Z. Foster, Communists' candidate for Governor, who has just been released following upon a jail sentence resulting from an unemployment parade in which he participated in New York.

Soviet Reprisal Against Belgium.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—As reprisal against Belgium's new anti-dumping regulations, the Soviet Government has changed the destination of 22 grain ships from Antwerp to Rotterdam. Russia was said to have taken storage at Rotterdam for 300,000 tons of grain. Belgian shippers were said to have asked the Government to reconsider its prohibition degree.

CITY CELEBRATES OPENING OF AIR MAIL ACROSS U. S.

Twenty-Four-Hour Trans-Continental Service Is Government's Plan for Near Future.

NEW ORLEANS LINE TO BE RECOMMENDED

Assistant Postmaster-General Glover to Urge New St. Louis Route on Return to Capital.

Amid roaring engines and speeches the new transcontinental air mail planes were greeted and sent on their way at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday, the first day of a service, which in a few months will be developed to make New York just 24 hours distant from Los Angeles by air.

A direct air mail route both east and west from St. Louis is the achievement for which the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce waged a two-year campaign. Delegations were sent to Washington to present the plea of the financial and business interests of St. Louis and the Southwest to postoffice authorities for a more direct mail service. Yesterday Chamber of Commerce executives and others who had worked to put St. Louis on the air mail map celebrated the realization of their efforts with a ceremony and luncheon at the airport. Second Assistant Postmaster-General W. Irving Glover, in charge of air mail, was the guest of honor and principal speaker. George Logan, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Chamber's Air Board, chaffed Glover over the Government's delay in establishing the line. The guest of honor responded that it was the Government's policy to move vcarefully in matters of importance.

Full Government Support.

"Congress and the Postoffice Department had in mind to give full Government support to the air mail after careful selection of the carriers," Glover said. "We feel that the service is in the hands of two of the greatest air lines in the United States, and I know it will be successful. In linking air mail with passenger service, the Postoffice Department is giving its support to the national movement to make Americans air-minded. We want them to ride 'upstairs,' and feel safe in doing it.

"The Postoffice officials never lost faith in aviation. It has our full support, and we will not stop until all our citizens appreciate this modern method of transportation. St. Louis has had to wait, but now it is in the hub of one of the greatest mail and passenger system in the world.

"The citizens who helped bring this about can be justly proud, and I congratulate them. They are also to be congratulated on their wonderful municipal airport, which has all the necessary facilities for successful operation and the advantage of being far enough distant from the city smoke area for all year round visibility."

In appreciation for his efforts on behalf of the new line Glover was presented with a silver replica of the Lindbergh medal designed in commemoratton of the trans-Atlantic flight. The medal is the last of five made after the trans-Atlantic flight and was kept for the person who would assist St. Louis in an aeronautical way, Col. Albert T. Perkins, who made the presentation, said.

St. Louis-New Orleans Line.

Glover announced last night he would recommend establishment of an air mail route between St. Louis and New Orleans, La., after his return to Washington next week.

The suggested line, he thinks, would be in operation by next summer, and in five years would be the center of a network of feeder lines. It will connect, he pointed out, with the St. Louis-Fort Worth line ,the Midcontinental, which was established yesterday and the northern lines which center about Chicago.

The assistant Postmaster General also said it was planned to develop St. Louis as the gateway to the Southwest in the air just as it now is over the railroads. He announced further that St. Louis air mail activities would be concentrated at Lambert-St. Louis Field and that the last 100-mile stretch of the east-west air mail line, over the Allegheny mountains, would be lighted by beacons within six months.

Special Guests Invited.

Congressmen L. C. Dyer and John J. Cochran, and Postmaster A. J. Michener, who were active in promotion of the new service, were among the especially invited guests at the luncheon. The program was completed with a flying exhibition by army planes from Scott Field, and the Missouri National Guard air unit.

Assistant Postmaster General Glover helped transfer mail from a Postoffice truck to one of the inaugural planes. A crowd of several thousand persons visited the airport during the afternoon, and those who had tickets to the luncheon received free rides in planes of commercial concerns operating at the field.

Full benefit from the new service will not be realized until after Jan. 1, when the airways will be lighted for night flying and 24-hour schedules between New York and Los Angeles established. When this is done mail leaving St. Louis at 5:30 p. m. will be delivered at the New York Postoffice at 8 a. m. the following morning.

The present schedule calls for two transcontinental flights daily over the T. A. T.-Maddox and Western Air Express lines. Tri-motored ships with special mail compartments are to be used. Westbound mail planes leave Newark Airport at 8 a. m., arriving at Columbus, O., at noon, where the mail is transferred to a combination mail and passenger ship due here at 4:35 o'clock. After an over-night stop at Kansas City, passengers and mail resume the journey the following morning and reach Los Angeles that evening.

T. A. T.-Maddux Schedule.

The second service is the T. A. T.-Maddux schedule that has been in operation more than a year. Instead of continuing from St. Louis to Kansas City and Waynoka, Ok., as formerly, planes follow a route to Tulsa, Oklahoma City, and Amarillo, Tex., where an overnight stop is made. Arrival at Los Angeles on this schedule will be at 3:50 p. m. the following day.

Eastbound planes will leave Los Angeles at 5 a. m. and 10:40 a. m., the first going to Kansas City and the second to Amarillo, where passengers spend the night and continue through St. Louis the following day. The schedule from coast to coast under the present arrangement is approximately 36 hours.

Large consignments of mail were assembled here for the opening flights. A special cachet was placed on envelopes, making appropriate souvenirs.

Five Cross-Country Planes Land in Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25.—Three planes from the East and two from the West, laden with mail and passengers, dropped out of the darkness here to pause midway in their journeys of 3000 miles on the new transcontinental air mail route opened today.

In New York this morning, in Kansas City tonight, in Los Angeles tomorrow evening—that was to be the story for the passengers who came down at Kansas City Airport at 8:03 p. m., 13 hours and three minutes after they had left the East coast.

Thirty-seven minutes later came another plane from New York, its passengers to spend the night here and take off early tomorrow for Los Angeles. Earlier in the evening, at 6:57, the first of the three planes, carrying mail specially marked for the inaugural journeys of the new service, had reached the airport.

The two planes from Los Angeles, due at 8 p. m., landed at 7:50 and 7:55, making their time from the Pacific Coast a few minutes less than 13 hours. Their passengers, after a night here, were to head into the morning sun on the last leg of a journey that will place them on Broadway tomorrow night.

GERMAN PRESS CALLS ON BRAZIL TO EXPLAIN SHELLING OF SHIP

said that complete order would be restored in a few hours.

So far five newspaper offices have been burned, as have two private homes. Other mobs wrecked the interiors of two clubs, burned the contents, and then wrecked and burned various gambling houses and lotteries.

The casualties of yesterday followed the first outburst of enthusiasm when the fall of the Federal Government became known. After some shots were exchanged by opponents and partisans of the regime, a white flag went up on the Government house and the firing ceased.

Enthusiastic crowds continued to surge through the city, however, wreaking their vengeance by burning places known to have been particularly friendly to the former Government.

CHIEFTAINS FLYING TO RIO CONFERENCE

RIO de JANEIRO, Oct. 25.—With temporary success established, leaders of the coup which yesterday unseated President Washington Luis, are waiting for a conference tomorrow that will decide the future administration of Brazil.

From the north and from the south, chieftains of the revolutionary movement in the field are flyin to Rio de Janeiro for a conference with the military junta. Getulio Vargas, Generalissimo of the rebel forces, which fought the Federals for three weeks on the Sao Paulo-Parana front, is on the way by air, as is Capt. Juarez Tavora from the north.

Others expected are Lindolfo Collor, insurgent representative at Buenos Aires, and Dr. Osvaldo Aranaha, acting president of Rio Grande do Sul.

Reports from Parana state that Vargas, who was defeated for President in the elections this spring by Dr. Julio Prestes, will be named Provisional President of the new Government.

Tavora a Commanding Figure.

Capt. Juarez Tavora, who conquered the Northern states after the revolution began Oct. 3, and thereby accumulated a sizable army, is expected to figure strongly in the negotiations. He has a large personal following, and dispatches from Pernambuco today said that he did not yet recognize the junta, which overthrew Washington Luis.

"Military men who adhered to the revolution at the eleventh hour are not worthy to exercise such positions," was his comment.

In the meantime the military Government has chosen enough officials to maintain order pending the outcome of the negotiations for a stable Government. Gabriele Bernardes has been named Minister of Justice and Adolfo Bergamini, former Federal Deputy, as Prefect of the city of Rio de Janeiro.

Meanwhile the Federal and revolutionary forces which have been battling principally in Sao Paulo-Parana and the State of Minas Geraes are understood to have ceased firing.

In Rio de Paneiro today there was little evidence of the demonstrations which attended the overthrow of the Government yesterday. Transportation services were operating, with stores and shops open, but all persons have been warned not to leave the city without special passes and a strict censorship is in operation. The sale of alcoholic beverages also is barred.

Luis Is Still Prisoner.

The ousted President still is a prisoner in Fort Copacabana. It is understood that he never has actually signed a decree of resignation, but simply bowed to the military coup when he saw that his stand was hopeless.

On arising this morning he asked that his family be permitted to send him some personal belongings. This request was granted. Several prominent politicians and newspaper men connected with his administration have taken refuge in foreign legations. Dr. Irineo Machado is among those at the Austrian Legation, and Belizario Souza and Jose Gaudencio in the Uruguayan Legation.

While the Junta—composed principally of Gen. Menna Barreto, Gen. Leite Castro, Gen. Tasso Fragoso, Admiral Iraias Noronha, Dr. Pandia Calogeras and advised by Cardinal Sebastiao Leme, one of the intermediaries in the negotiations with Washington Luis—is awaiting the conference with revolt leaders from the field, it took steps today toward the re-establishment of normalcy.

Brazilian representatives abroad were ordered to inform foreign Governments that the overthrow of the Government was a bloodless affair, aimed to unite the Brazilian people, and was intended to establish stable Government in Brazil.

No Steps Toward Recognition of New Brazilian Regime by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Definite information from the American Embassy in Rio de Janeiro as to the status of the new regime in Brazil and the conditions under which it came to power is awaited by State Department officials as the problem of American recognition drew nearer.

The first statement on the question of recognition of the new regime was made by Secretary Stimson today when he said the same policy would be followed with regard to Brazil as was followed recently when new administrations were set up by revolts in Bolivia, Peru and Argentina.

The information which the State Department must have before a definite decision can be reached regarding the new regime is whether the new Government is in control of the situation and capable of protecting life, liberty and property, whether it is backed by public sentiment and can fulfill the obligations of a national government.

Recognition was accorded the other three countries by the State Department recently.

Until the full facts are known, however, Stimson said, discussions of recognition by the American Government were premature. He said the question had not been mentioned in communications between the Brazilian Embassy and the State Department.

M'DONALD DENIES SHIFT IN BRITAIN'S PALESTINE POLICY

Premier Cables Gen. Smuts 'Balfour Declaration' Has Not Been Disregarded as Reported.

By the Associated Press.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Oct. 25.—Denial that Britain's recent statement of policy in Palestine constituted a "retreat from the Balfour declaration" was cabled today by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, former Premier of South Africa.

Smuts, a member of the Wartime Imperial Cabinet that drafted the declaration, had previously sent a cablegram to Prime Minister MacDonald expressing perturbation over the terms of the statement. On receipt of MacDonald's reply today, explicitly saying the statement "cannot fairly be described as a retreat from the Balfour declaration," Smuts sent another message to London expressing appreciation of the Prime Minister's prompt and complete answer.

Disagrees With MacDonald.

He reaffirmed, however, his objections to the statement issued by the colonial office under Lord Passfield, and indicated his disagreement with MacDonald's views as to its effect on the spirit of the Balfour declaration. He said he hoped MacDonald's cable would "remove some of the misconception."

"I specially welcome your assurance," he said, "that recent statements do not definitely crystalize the Government's policy on the national home, as my impression remains that both as regards land purchase and immigration, the statement does not correspond to the active obligation for a Jewish national home undertaken in the Balfour declaration."

Smuts thought the declaration represented a debt of honor that must be discharged in full, at all costs. MacDonald said he believed the General's perturbation had been caused by the incompleteness of cabled reports of the statement.

The Balfour Declaration.

Taking up the cause of the Arab population of Palestine, he said, "The Balfour declaration explicitly provided that nothing should be done which might prejudice the civil and religious rights of the existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine.

"The British Government has affirmed the view indorsed by the permanent mandates commission of the council of the League, that the obligations laid down under the mandate as regard two sections of the population are of equal weight.

"You also recall that the permanent mandates commission expressed the view that, had the mandatory Government concerned itself more closely with the social and economic adaptations of the Arab population to the new conditions due to Jewish immigration, it would have served the interest of both sections of the population."

He reaffirmed the principle that Jewish immigration should not exceed the economic capacity of the country to absorb new workers, but denied the statement involved stoppage or suspension of colonization on the large amount of land still undeveloped and already in Jewish ownership.

Zionist Organization Calls McDonald's Message Hypocritical.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald's defense of the new Palestine policy of the British Government, conveyed by cable to Gen. Jan Smuts, former Premier of South Africa, was described today as the "Chicanery of Hypocritical Diplomacy" in a statement given out by the Zionist organization of America.

"Premier MacDonald uses phrases and expresses views," the statement said, "which are totally at variance with opinions he held before he became an office holder.

"In attempting to justify the latest policy in Palestine, MacDonald not only flouts the best traditions of the British people, smirches his own career, which had won him fame as a liberal and humanitarian until he began to indulge in the chicanery of hypocritical diplomacy."

$25,000 REPORTED OFFERED FOR JUDGESHIP NOMINATION

Inquiry to Be Urged by Grand Jury Into Reported Bid of New York Democrat.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Special Deputy Attorney-General Marshall Snyder said today that he would recommend to Attorney-General Ward a grand jury investigation of a reported offer of $25,000 for a Democratic nomination for Justice of the Municipal Court in Brooklyn.

The report so far obtained, corroborated by the minutes of a civic association and by the statements of witnesses is that a member of the Legislature at a meeting of the organization last March charged a lawyer, a former Democratic aspirant for the position, with having offered $25,000 for the judicial nomination, which he did not obtain. The attorney, who was present, denied having made any such offer.

Next week six witnesses will be examined who are alleged to have heard the bidder for the office tell friends that he had offered $25,000 for the nomination to a Brooklyn Democratic district leader, and had been told that was the price of the nomination, but that another man, who was subsequently nominated and elected to the office, had a prior claim to it.

British Legion Demands Honors for Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The National Council of the British Legion today took issue with the Foreign Office suggestion that the practice of placing wreaths on war memorials, including the Cenotaph and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, be discontinued. The council adopted a resolution which said: "The National Council of the British Legion adheres to the policy which has inspired the Legion since its inception that no diminution of respect for the memory of our fallen comrades shall be tolerated."

CUBA PUTS EMBARGO ON EXPORT OF SUGAR

Executive Decree Issued to Aid Chadbourne Plan to Limit Supply.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Oct. 25.—Successful execution of the Chadbourne plan for aiding the sugar industry was virtually assured today by a presidential decree. The executive order placed a temporary embargo on exportation of the commodity until segregation of the carry-over of 1,500,000 tons as stipulated in the plan is realized.

Signed by President Machado after being officially sanctioned by the Secretary of Agriculture, Eugenio Molinet, the decree was rushed to the offices of the official Gazette so that it might be published today and thus become immediately effective.

However, five working days' grace will be allowed before the order is enforced, and existing contracts may be filled before this time has elapsed.

The move represents an extreme measure to insure the carrying out of the plan submitted by Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the Cuban-American Committee, which is seeking solution of sugar ills by re-application of the theory that limitation of supply means increased demand and higher prices.

The danger of possible frustration of the segregation plan, calling for the retirement of the entire estimated carry-over, while the market is swamped, is thought by sugar experts here to have been eliminated by the decree.

An Executive Committee of six was named to carry out the terms of the decree.

A total of 800,000 tons already has been contributed to the quota to be retired by producers. Due, however, to failure of an attempt to get a quorum in the Lower House in an extraordinary session to finance the $42,000,000 plan, some concern had been felt that delay might react unfavorably to the project. Hence the decree.

Move to Advance Prices, View of U. S. Government Officials.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Department of Commerce officials expressed the opinion today that Cuba's action temporarily stopping all exports of sugar could be regarded as a move to advance prices.

Until recently raw sugar had been selling at the lowest figure recorded during a century. The general plan for its price control, which the Cuban Government and planters have adopted under the leadership of New York banking interests, call, among other things, for the limitation of exports to the United States to 2,800,000 tons a year and for the purchase of 1,500,000 tons of the 1930 sugar crop by the Cuban Government for carry over.

At the Farm Board it was said the Cuban sugar plan had been brought up almost without reference to American beet sugar growers, and that these interests have not been asked to curtail production or take any part in the campaign. However, growers in Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands have been tentatively drawn into association with the Cuban producers and those in the East Indies, between which groups negotiations are understood to be under way.

HITLER AGAINST MILITARY ALLIANCE WITH THE FRENCH

German Fascist Answers in Newspaper the Academic Suggestion of Gustave Herve.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Oct. 25.—Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader, replied today in his newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, to proposals of Gustave Herve, French editor of La Victoire, for a Franco-German military alliance. The National Socialist leader expressed satisfaction at the conciliatory spirit shown, but asked: "Why have a military alliance? Against whom is it to be directed?"

Hitler said Germany had attempted for 12 years to arrive at a Franco-German understanding and the efforts had merely led to Geermany's becoming so poor that many of her people prefer bolshevism to her present condition. "Young Germany, as represented in the movement of which I am leader," he added, "earnestly desires an understanding with France, but wants no military alliance."

The Fascist leader expressed the opinion that to become a fit partner for France in a military sense Germany would have to increase its armaments greatly. He suggests that the better way would be for France to reduce hers, and thereby "relieve all Europe of a nightmare."

WOODS IN NEW YORK TO SOLICIT HELP

Industry to Be Urged to Relieve Unemployment — One City Opens Labor Agency of Its Own.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—With the Federal and State Governments, industry and the public responding to his appeal for aid in finding jobs for idle workmen, Col. Arthur Woods went to New York today to recruit assistants for his nationwide employment campaign.

Hundreds of letters offering assistance and asking for advice were received by the chairman of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment as he began his third day of study on the problem of distributing work, finding jobs and aiding in the care of destitute families.

Regional workers to urge industry to provide as many jobs as possible will be sought by Woods over the week-end in New York. Sunday night he will make a nationwide appeal for co-operation from all sources over a radio hookup.

In the meantime, the working organization is gathering information here on the location of the jobless and where possible employment may be found. Offers of welfare organization to lend assitance are being accepted, and the efforts of local communities to deal with their own problems are being studied in the hope that the best of these plans may be passed on to localities where conditions are less satisfactory.

"With co-ordination and stimulation," Col. Woods said, "these efforts should grow cumulative towards an eventual solution."

Veterans' Bureau to Push Projects.

The Veterans' Bureau announced today it had issued orders to push construction on projects totaling approximately $30,000,000 in an effort to relieve unemployment.

Director George E. Ijams of the bureau said the projects under way were providing employment for 2250 men and that new projects under the $16,000,000 hospitalization program authorized by Congress last spring would be begun as soon as possible. These would provide employment for 4500 men, he said.

The bureau, he said, was placing orders for hospital beds, surgical instruments, medical supplies, utensils, plumbing equipment and all other things necessary for the operation of the hospitals to help industry and thereby give employment to more individuals.

As a result of the recent enactment of a veterans' pension bill, Col. Ijams said, the Veterans' Bureau had employed 450 additional helpers in the clerical division.

1500 Get Construction Jobs.

As an index of one field, construction, Col. Woods said he had received word that 1500 men had just been employed for one year on a new 29-story apartment house in New York City. It was estimated this project also would provide employment for one year for another 1500.

Referring to the public works bond issues aggregating $450,000,000 to be voted on in about 20 states Nov. 4, Woods said figures indicated these states were in sound financial condition.

Woods said he understood conditions in New England were not as serious as in other densely populated areas.

What One City Is Doing.

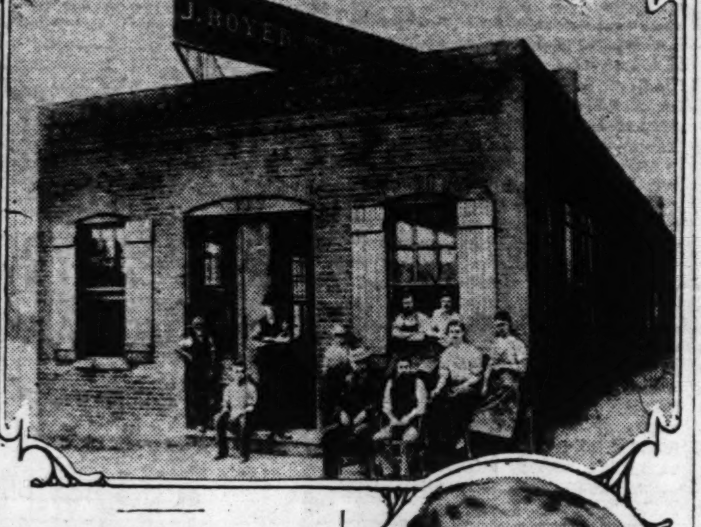
"The city of Irvington, N. J.," he said, "should be an object lesson to other cities similarly situated. A Municipal Employment Bureau has been organized and more than 1000 employers in that metropolitan area are furnishing them with opportunities for work. Schools, parents and teachers' leagues, chambers of commerce, fraternities, civic orders and the Salvation Army are working for the unemployed. Their daily broadcasting, movie appeals and advertising have been exceptionally helpful."

"As an index of what the Chamber of Commerce can do," he continued, "let me cite the example of the Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce, Brooklyn, which, to improve business and help to decrease unemployment, adopted and carried out the following plans:

"It made a complete housing survey of its entire section and then set up a District Planning Committee which succeeded in interesting a group of wealthy builders who pledged to invest over $5,000,000 to start the rehabilitation of Williamsburg. This chamber has also organized a Financial Advisory Committee to help finance builders in alterations and new construction work.

"It also organized a committee of merchandising experts to help the merchants in group buying, improved displays, improved retail sales and group advertising. The chamber also is helping to place unemployed through its merchant and manufacture members."

How Two Huge Corporations Started in Little Shop Here



JOSEPH A. BOYER and the humble shop, at 244 Dickson street, where he and W. S. BURROUGHS worked together and where the adding machine, the air hammer and the speed recording devices sprang from.

Death of Joseph A. Boyer Recalls Invention of Pneumatic Hammer and the Burroughs Adding Machine.

WORKING in a tiny machine shop at 244 Dickson street 45 years ago, Joseph A. Boyer invented the Boyer pneumatic hammer, popularly known as the "air hammer" and one of the most useful devices employed in modern steel construction. Shoulder to shoulder with him worked William Seward Burroughs on another invention—the Burroughs arithmometer, later to become the Burroughs adding machine. By a queer turn of fate, Boyer rose in time to directorship of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co., a $150,000,000 concern, while his own pneumatic hammer grew into a concern almost as great, but owned and operated by somebody else.

Boyer died in Detroit Friday at the age of 82 following a six days' illness from pneumonia. Since the death of Burroughs in 1898 he had been connected with the adding machine company and since 1920 had been chairman of the board of directors.

The little arithmometer company, which really started in the humble St. Louis machine shop, has grown into a mammoth manufacturing concern covering 11 acres in Detroit's industrial district and employing more than 7500 workmen, whole just across the street, in another great plant, the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. is prospering in the manufacture of the Boyer pneumatic hammer, the Boyer pneumatic drill and the Boyer railway speed recorder, all of which had their origin in that same St. Louis machine shop.

Started as Apprentice.

Boyer spent nearly 30 of his 82 years in St. Louis, moving to Detroit in 1898. How he came to St. Louis in the first place is an interesting story. Born in Pickering Township, Ontario, in 1848, he grew up on a farm, but didn't like farming and got a job in a neighboring town as a machinist's apprentice. Three years later he set out for California and, at San Francisco, got a job with a marine engine concern. California, however, was not to his liking and he decided to leave. So with but a few dollars in his pocket, he purchased a railway ticket for "as far east as he could get." That point happened to be St. Louis.

In St. Louis, Boyer first found employment with the Fulton Iron Works and later with a sewing machine company. When the sewing machine company failed, as it did soon after he started work for it, he determined to open a machine shop of his own. He did that in partnership with F. J. Swaine in 1876, the two renting the defunct company's plant. Several years later the partnership was dissolved and Boyer continued business alone in another little shop bearing the designation, "J. Boyer, machinist." This was the shop at 244 Dickson street, a site now occupied by a railroad building.

Partnership With Burroughs.

Two years ago, in Detroit, Boyer told a Post-Dispatch correspondent how he invented the pneumatic hammer and also how the partnership with Burroughs came about.

"Along about 1884," he said, "we were making a large number of bottle molds, that being our principal product at the time. But making them was a tough job with the tools we had then. I found that by applying air pressure to a hammer of my own design I could get in about 15 strokes to every one I could get in any other way. The design was very simple. The compressed air, released by means of a trigger operated by the thumb, in turn operated a cylinder built into the nozzle.

"One day while I was still working on the air hammer a young fellow walked in and said he wanted to rent some space in my shop. I let him have it. That man was William Seward Burroughs and he was working on an invention of his own—an adding machine.

"Like myself, Burroughs was a poor man. He had but $300 which had been advanced by Richard M. Scruggs, a wealthy St. Louis businessman. The $300 didn't last very long. Work on the adding machine progressed very slowly, chiefly because of the intricacies of the device. Later on, however, other investors were found with the result that more than $100,000 had been spent on the machine by the time the first one was built. Between 1891 and 1895 approximately 1000 of the machines were sold annually. Today our production averages 100,000 units annually. But that is ahead of the story.

Perfects Air Hammer.

"While Burroughs was struggling with his invention, I was perfecting my air hammer. I arranged a sales outlet for it through the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., which was then located in Chicago and was then strictly a sales organization.

"In the late '90s I had to seek larger quarters because of the growth of my business, and as it was just as easy to move to another city as to move to another plant in the same city we loaded the plant on flat cars and brought it to Detroit. I liked the Detroit climate. I opened a shop called the Boyer Machine Co. Burroughs kept his adding machine plant in St. Louis and, in 1898, died there. He never lived to see his invention develop into the huge thing it is today.

"Well, I was a stockholder in Burroughs' company by this time—it was then called the American Arithmometer Co.—and when several of Burroughs' associates came to Detroit in 1900 to investigate the advisability of moving the plant to Detroit, I encouraged them and pointed out a good site across the street from my air-hammer plant. They bought it and moved to Detroit in 1904. That is how the Burroughs adding machine and the Boyer air hammer again became neighbors."

Schwab Bought Tool Concern.

Mr. Boyer's change from owner of the Boyer Machine Co. to chairman of the Burroughs organization came about in this way:

After Burroughs' death, Boyer, who had acquired considerable stock in the adding machine concern, was elected vice president and director of the company. Then, in 1902, a group headed by Charles M. Schwab purchased the Boyer Machine Co., the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. and two other manufacturing agents and reorganized the four companies into what is now the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. of Detroit.

After the sale of his company, Mr. Boyer devoted all his time to the American Arithmometer Co., which was reorganized in 1905 as the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. with Boyer as president. He served as president for 15 years, retiring in 1920 to become chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. Boyer is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Henry E. Candler, Mrs. R. Boyer Miller and Mrs. Standish Backus, Detroit, and Mrs. Harold S. Chase, Santa Barbara, Cal., and a son, Frank H. Boyer of Los Angeles.

MOVE TO CUT JURY VENIRE FROM 1100 TO 350 EACH WEEK

Plan Submitted to Circuit Judges Expected to Save Time and Money and Curb Politics.

A new plan for summoning jurors to the Circuit Courts, which is expected to reduce the number of citizens called for service from about 1100 to 350 a week, will be submitted to the Circuit Judges in general term by a committee of Judges and lawyers appointed recently to consider changes in the jury system.

The committee has approved a tentative plan for summoning jurors centrally and distributing them to the various courts as needed instead of summoning a panel for each court.

A subcommittee, headed by Charles P. Williams, a lawyer member of the committee, will draft a rule which will be submitted in turn to the committee and the Judges.

Saves Time and Money.

The new rule, it is said, would save not only the time of citizens and court money, but would satisfy critics of the present system who have complained that the existing method of summoning jurors is a powerful weapon to political workers, who have been able to favor voters by persuading some Judges to excuse them from jury service after they have been summoned. It has been charged that some Judges have summoned more men than they needed in order to comply with the requests of ward and precinct workers.

Circuit Judge Rutledge, chairman of the committee of judges and lawyers, said the proposed plan was similar to one which had worked satisfactorily in Cleveland and Detroit. While details have not been worked out, members of the committee favor a plan under which one group of jurors would be summoned to the Civil Courts Building for service in civil courts and another group to the Municipal Courts Building for service in criminal courts.

Reduction of Two-thirds.

Judge Rutledge estimated that the centralized jury system would reduce the number of men summoned each week to approximately one-third of the present number. At present between 65 and 75 are summoned weekly to each of 10 civil divisions and about 150 to each of three criminal divisions. Under the proposed plan, Judge Rutledge estimated that about 150 men would be needed weekly for the civil divisions and about 200 for the criminal divisions.

Jurors are paid $3 a day whether they serve in cases or not, the rate having been increased from $1.50 a day last spring. However, jurors who are summoned and excused at their own request when they appear receive no compensation.

Questions that the committee is considering include whether the jurors should be summoned to one court or whether this duty should be rotated among the Judges, and whether they should be summoned for one week of service, as at present, or for two weeks.

moved by the Governor, in the manner specified in the section. Ouster of other elective State officials is possible only through impeachment by the Legislature, under the Constitution. Attorneys have raised a question of constitutionality of section 13.337, because of its departure from the constitutional provision of impeachment as the means of removing elective State officials from office.

Attorney-General Shartel tonight said his department had no objection to the constitutional question being tested, as proposed in the motion of Brunk's attorney, before proceeding with formal hearings on the charges against Brunk.

FATHER-IN-LAW OF MAYOR DIES OF HEART DISEASE

James Cooney, 71, Retired, Was 45 Years on Police Force; Funeral Probably on Tuesday.

James Cooney, former patrolman and father-in-law of Mayor Miller, died yesterday at his home, 6828 Wise avenue, of heart disease. He was 71 years old, having retired from the Police Department May 1 after 45 years of service.

Cooney joined the force in 1885 and served in the Mounted District until June, 1918, when he was reduced to the position of watchman at the Central District garage at his own request. In 1921 he was re-instated and appointed desk Sergeant at Newstead Avenue District, where he served until his retirement.

In 1902, when automobiles first became a hazard, the Police Department bought a red-painted one-cylinder automobile to enforce the 15-mile-an-hour speed limit. Cooney and Patrolman William R. Stinger, now field Captain of Police, took turns at the wheel.

Besides Mrs. Miller, Cooney is survived by a son, Terrence. Another son, Frank Cooney, an overseas veteran, died six months ago. Funeral services will be held probably Tuesday morning at St. James' Catholic Church.

CROWD STRAINS GLASS FROM LIQUOR LEFT BY DRY AGENTS

Sees Bottles Containing Drinks Worth $25,000 Smashed at Railroad Yards.

A thirsty crowd of 75 to 100 persons gathered in the Humboldt yards of the Wabash Railroad, 8200 North Broadway, yesterday afternoon, to watch agents under Deputy Prohibition Administrator Dillon break up $25,000 worth of Canadian whisky, beer, brandy and cordials which they had seized.

Men and women alike rummaged through piles of broken bottles looking for, and occasionally finding, unbroken pints of beer. Those who found unopened bottles promptly opened them and drank while the agents worked. Other spectators picked up bottoms of bottles, some of which contained small quantities of whisky and strained the glass-sprinkled fluid through handkerchiefs into their mouths.

The agents, from time to time, chased the crowd back, but as soon as they resumed work, the spectators again formed a close ring around the railroad car which had been billed to St. Louis as shingles, purported to have been for an East St. Louis lumber firm. The name on the bill of lading, it was developed, was fictitious.

ART MUSEUM BUYS 16TH CENTURY WORK

Acquires Annibale Carracci's "Three Marys at the Tomb" for $4420.

The acquisition of a large painting, "Three Marys at the Tomb," by the sixteenth century Italian artist, Annibale Carracci, was announced yesterday by City Art Museum in Forest Park.

The picture for many years was in the possession of a private family in Italy. It was purchased for $4420 through a firm of New York dealers.

The canvas, 58 by 86 inches, shows on the right the three Marys, the mother of Christ, Magdalene, and the mother of James, staring in astonishment at the empty tomb of Christ to which an angel points. On the left is a landscape scene, with trees in the foreground and middle distance and a stream meanders across the plain toward mountains at the horizon. Overhead are two groups of waterfowl, flying in formation through luminous clouds.

Annibale Carracci, with his brother, Agostino, and their uncle, Lodovico, were founders of the eclectic school of painting which flourished in Bologna during the last of the sixteenth century. His uncle persuaded him to abandon the trade of tailoring, in which his father had trained him, and sent him to Venice and Parma to copy the works of Titian, Tintoretto and Correggio. In 1600 Annibale and Agostino went to Rome to paint the gallery of the palace of Cardinal Farnese. Annibale died in Naples nine years later.

His picture at the museum is characterized by bold contrasts of light and shadow which lend dramatic interest to the landscape and sculpturesque modeling to the figures. Most observers will feel that the figures have been subordinated to the landscape, a fact which bears out Annibale's reputation as the first to practice landscape painting as a separate form of art. His landscapes are said to have influenced Nicholas Poussin, and Claude Lorrain.

"POLITICAL LOTS" IN CONDEMNATION SUIT

One-Foot-Wide Tracts Owned by Some Who Sat as Commissioners, It Develops.

Whether persons who own a few feet of ground in the city are qualified as freeholders to serve on condemnation commissions is an issue to be decided in a motion taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge Rutledge.

The motion affects the city project for the opening of Twenty-third street between Washington avenue and St. Charles street for which a commission assessed damages of approximately $70,000. Some property owners who were charged with benefits raised the technical objection that the full commission was not composed of qualified freeholders or title owners of realty as provided in the State constitution.

The members of the commission were: A. R. Schollmeyer, realty dealer; Otto G. Dietz, contractor, and George C. Foster, now Judge of No. 2 City Court. August Walz Jr. attorney for objectors, asserted Schollmeyer and Dietz owned "political lots" which enabled them to secure appointment as freeholders. He contended such ownership was not sufficient.

Records of the City Assessor's office show that at the time of his appointment as commissioner Schollmeyer was the owner of a lot one foot and one inch wide and 105 feet deep on Schirmer street. It was said other lots of similar size are held by different owners in the same tract, the price being $40 a lot.

Schollmeyer said he also owned a five-foot lot in what is known as "political row," on Tennessee avenue, but his title did not appear on the records. Since his appointment, he has acquired title to a lot 220 feet wide in the city. However, it is alleged this would not qualify him in the Twenty-third street case.

Dietz testified he owned a lot three feet wide and 163 feet deep in his own name and another lot one foot wide and 163 feet deep jointly with his wife in city block 3026. In addition, he owned a farm in the State, he said.

The commissioners were appointed Dec. 30, 1929. Judge Foster served until April, when he went on the police bench. He testified he had not taken part in the work of the commission since he had become judge and did not sign the report. Asked as to ownership of realty he said he and his wife had joint title to a lot 25 feet by 130 feet on Henner avenue. Walz contended even joint title was not sufficient to qualify one to be a commissioner.

In urging his objection to the report, Walz said, his clients were not opposed to the improvement but considered since the whole public would be benefited the cost should be spread over the entire city.

Assistant City Counselor F. G. Sebek argued that the commissioners were qualified within the meaning of the constitution. For that reason, he said, the motion should be overruled.

ATTEMPT MADE TO BOMB HOME OF ILLINOIS BANKER

Cashier of Closed Nauvoo Depository, Charged With Irregularities, Rakes Missile Into Bonfire.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 25.—An attempt was made to bomb the home of George Dachroth, cashier of the closed First Trust and Savings Bank at Nauvoo, Ill., this morning. The bomb, placed near the front porch of the home, was raked into a bonfire by Dachroth. It exploded, tearing a huge hole in the ground, but no one was injured. The detonation aroused the town. Dachroth has been arrested for alleged irregularities said to total $100,000, but is out on bond.

The bomb, a home-made affair, was wrapped in overalls and tied with wire. It apparently had been made up of dynamite.

SAYS CIVIC GROUPS BACK CITY-COUNTY MERGER PROPOSAL

F. W. A. Vesper Points to Indorsement of Proposition No. 5 by Organizations in Larger Cities.

FARM BUREAU HEAD OPPOSED TO PLAN

Position of Clayton Mayor in Joining Opposition Is Criticised by University City Mayor.

Civic organizations in larger cities of the State have indorsed Proposition No. 5, constitutional amendment permitting the consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis County, it was announced yesterday by F. W. A. Vesper, general chairman of the Citizens' Metropolitan Committee which is sponsoring the merger plan. Also, it was announced yesterday by the Save St. Louis County League, that R. W. Brown of Carrollton, president of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, had issued a statement opposing the amendment.

"Among the groups, many of which have co-operated with the Citizens' Committee in carrying on its campaign, are chambers of commerce of Kansas City, Joplin, Hannibal, Boonville, Union and Carrollton," Vesper said.

"The organizations which indorsed the amendment," he added, "did so after thorough consideration, understanding that it is merely an enabling act which would not effect any other part of the State. They also realized that they were not committing the people of the city and county to anything, but were merely giving them the necessary constitutional authority to express themselves later on a charter for a metropolitan plan."

Farm Bureau Head's Views.

Brown, in his statement which will be sent to local Farm Bureau organizations throughout the State, wrote that he opposed the "tendency in recent years to clutter up the constitution of Missouri with amendments legislative in character." He added: "The plan is so complicated that it is doubtful that anyone not having a legal knowledge of municipal government could vote upon it intelligently. Even among lawyers there is a difference of opinion as to what is involved.

"The position of the St. Louis County Farm Bureau in opposing the amendment is well founded and their appeal to the voters of the State is entitled to consideration."

A resolution opposing Proposition No. 5 recently was passed by the Missouri State Grange, another farmers' organization.

Criticises Stockho's Stand.

Mayor Ed Stockho of Clayton was criticised for his opposition to the amendment in a statement yesterday by Mayor Eugene T. Ruth of University City. Mayor Stockho, Ruth said, had signed a petition to put the amendment on the November ballot, had attended meetings the the Metropolitan Development Committee and had moved the adoption of the plan at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce.

"The reason for this complete reversal is shrouded in mystery," Mayor Ruth said. "Any credence that might be given his statements is questionable in the light of his striking change of heart. It is hardly surprising that his statements are misleading."

Joseph T. McAtee, Clayton attorney, yesterday expressed resentment at the appeal of the Citizens' Metropolitan Committee urging out-State voters to "give St. Louis and St. Louis County voters a right to pass upon a merger plan." McAtee asserted that a plan might be prepared and submitted under the 1924 amendment authorizing appointment of a Board of Freeholders.

Lawyers Invited to Discussion.

Former Circuit Judge A. J. Kisgaddon, president of the St. Louis County Bar Association, has asked St. Louis lawyers to attend a meeting of the county organization at the Clayton courthouse tomorrow night, at which Proposition No. 5, will be discussed.

The merits of the amendment will be debated Wednesday night before the Town Club by Robert A. Roessel, speaking for it, and Joseph C. McAtee, opposing the proposition.

Master Builders Indorse Excess Condemnation Proposal.

Proposition 6, the proposed amendment to the State Constitution to provide for excess, or marginal, condemnation, has been indorsed by the Master Builders' Association of St. Louis. Other organizations which have indorsed it are the Associated Retailers, St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Building Trades Council, Central Trades and Labor Union, Chouteau-Lindell Improvement Association, Federation of Improvement Associations, North St. Louis Business Men's Association and the St. Louis Council of Women.

Promises of support for Proposition 6 have been received by Luther Ely Smith, chairman of the St. Louis committee favoring it, from the Chambers of Commerce of Kansas City, Springfield, Boonville, Carrollton, Chillicothe, Hannibal, Hermann, Huntsville, Kirksville, Savannah, Union, Warrensburg and Washington, and from city officials and leading business men of these and other Missouri cities.

The proposed amendment will enable the city of St. Louis to take advantage of the provision for marginal condemnation made in the City Charter. This is desired as a means of expediting the widening and double-decking of Third street and the improvement of the river front.

140 BOTTLES OF LIQUOR ON TANKER; OWNERS FINED $1225

Customs Agent at New York Rejects Plea It Was Necessary to Protect Crew's Health.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Liquor may or may not be necessary to protect the health of seafaring men traveling from a warm climate to a cold one, but if it is the cure, it ought to be completed before reaching New York.

Customs men who searched the tanker Catatunba, which arrived from Las Piedras, Uruguay, found 140 bottles of liquor distributed among the quarters of officers and crew. The health notion was offered to Assistant Collector George Brewer today, but he was unimpressed. He imposed a fine of $1225 on the owners.

NEGRO DRIVER STOLE ENOUGH BRICKS TO BUILD A GARAGE

Police Say He Admits Theft of Many Thousand from Employer.

A brick garage is one of the monuments to the ability of a Negro wagon driver to steal bricks on a big scale from his employer, the Hydraulic Press Brick Co., 1337 South Kingshighway boulevard.

Arrested as he started to unload 800 bricks in the rear of 2229 Cooper avenue Friday, the driver, who said he was Charles Thomas, 3327 Laclede avenue, is quoted by police as admitting he had stolen them, and many other thousands of bricks. One of his customers, he said, had built a garage with the stolen building material, which was sold at 80 cents a 100.

Four men named by the driver as his customers, were arrested charged with receiving stolen property.

Municipal Utilities Group Hails Boonville's Defeat Of Natural Gas Franchise

Result a "Show of Strength' by Young Missouri Association, Delegates Say at Marshall Meeting.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MARSHALL, Mo., Oct. 25.—The vote of the citizens of Boonville, last Tuesday, withholding a natural gas franchise from the Missouri Power and Light Co., was widely commented upon here Wednesday by the delegates to the fall meeting of the Missouri Association of Municipal Utilities.

Among the city officials and others at the meeting the result was looked upon as having been due to the educational work of their young association and as so impressive a measure of its strength as to astonish them. It was a sort of heartening achievement bringing renewed enthusiasm into the discussions of a group concerned primarily with the ownership and management of public utilities by and for the people served.

By no means asserting that public ownership should be the rule in all cities, the asosciation plainly showed its faith in the general principle, backed up by evidences of savings and benefits brought to the communities represented. Benefits brought to the citizens of several communities by privately owned utilities were said to have resulted from the threats of municipal plants to extend their services beyond city limits, as it is now recognized they are legally entitled to do.

Interest in Natural Gas.

To natural gas, the young giant in the utility field, goes the credit for awakening among the cities of Missouri a more active interest in the problems of adequate public services at reasonable cost. Pipe line projects are bringing natural gas to the gates of many cities, some of which have never had gas, and other look hopefully for developments which will extend the zone in which the fuel may be economically supplied.

The address on "Natural Gas and How to Get It," by Daniel C. Rogers, City Attorney of Fayette, Mo., was an outstanding part of the program. It was a carefully prepared and studied exposition of the legal obligations and entanglements in which franchises for natural gas are likely to involve cities and advice on methods of safeguarding public rights in a great natural resource.

The significance of the convention is found largely in the rapid growth of the association. Organized less than two years ago by nine men, it now has 32 cities as members and the attendance here was about 100, more than half being officials and employes of 21 cities owning and operating one or more public utilitits.

Marshall Points With Pride.

Marshall, the host, owns and operates its light and water plants, and showed them with pride to the visitors, at the same time taking occasion to reply vigorously to an attack made on its light plant by the Kansas City Power and Light Co., in a full page newspaper advertisement.

In two addresses, one by Herman Henrici, the engineer who designed and supervised the plant, and another by Albert James, City Counselor, it was made plain that Marshall is satisfied with what it owns, is saving money for its citizens and looks with a good deal of sympathy upon the towns which still buy their light service from private corporations. The particular pride of Marshall is the extensiveness of its street lighting, not to mention the brilliantly illuminated Courthouse dome, consuming a quantity of electricity for which James said the cost, if purchased from a privately-owned corporation, would require a city tax of 99 cents on the $100 property valuation.

Indirect benefits to municipalities in which all the utilities are privately owned, through the influence of an active association of the cities having public ownership, was said to have been considerable by F. L. Thierfelder, Chillicothe, secretary and treasurer of the association. This has included better service, lower rates and extension of service to communities which otherwise might not have received it, he said.

State Officials Not Present.

The subject, "Rural Power Lines and the Power of Missouri Municipalities to Build Them," was to have been discussed by J. P. Painter and J. Fred Hull, members of the State Public Service Commission, but on account of a hearing at Jefferson City they were unable to attend. Thierfelder, however, said he had a letter from the commission saying it had no jurisdiction over the construction by municipalities of lines extending beyond their city limits, but that rates to be charged on such lines were subject to commission approval. Other cities had the same information.

Carthage is going right ahead building rural lines, according to C. Hoen, one of that city's representatives. The privately-owned power company tried to stop the work, but failed, he said.

The convention was told how Columbia's municipal light plant was responsible for electric service having been provided for Ashland, nearby. The Missouri Power and Light Co. had refused to build a line to Ashland unless the consumers would pay the cost. This they were unwilling to do and they petitioned Columbia to extend its service to them. Columbia made arangements to build the line. The private company sued to enjoin Columbia from building the line and then agreed itself to build it at its own expense. With service to Ashland assured, Columbia withdrew its plans.

"Can Make Quite a Stir."

Reviewing the progress of the association, Chairman Edgar C. M. Burkhart, Macon, said it is now strong enough to make "quite a stir at Jefferson City." Advancement of municipal ownership, he said, was indicated by recent developments, among them the employment of engineers by Moberly to submit plans for a municipal light plant, construction of which is contemplated when the present franchise expires next year, and the preparation by the Fulton City Council of estimates for a municipal distributing system for natural gas.

Some additional legislation in behalf of municipal ownership is needed, Secretary Thierfelder said. The sale of a municipal plant should be permitted only upon the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the voters, he said, instead of by a majority vote as now. A resolution favoring such a law was adopted. Another proposal favored was for legislation providing for municipalities to purchase existing privately owned utilities by condemnation.

In his address on natural gas, Attorney Rogers advised cities not to renew expiring utility franchises and later the convention adopted a resolution to that effect. Rogers said:

"There are quite a number of franchises for electricity and artificial gas which will expire in Central Missouri towns in the near future. The municipality which renews such a franchise puts itself at a disadvantage. During the period of the franchise the power to deal with the utility company concerning rates and other matters was entirely out of the hands of the local community. It was transferred to Jefferson City.

About Expired Franchises.

"The municipality which refuses to renew an expired franchise will find out that the power to deal with the utility company has been in reality transferred back home, although legally it still remains in Jefferson City. Any rate schedules or other matters which are not satisfactory to the municipality under such conditions could be quickly and effectively corrected by the municipality instituting ouster proceedings against the utility company."

Rogers told of the projects now under way to bring natural gas to Missouri and of the efforts of several interests to obtain franchises from the cities near the proposed pipe lines. He advised cities to take plenty of time to investigate before voting on any kind of franchise.

"My own recommendation would be," he said, "that absolutely no natural gas franchises should be voted by Central Missouri municipalities during the present uncertain conditions. We cannot be certain when gas will be available. We do not know with sufficient sureness who can and who cannot purchase gas from the pipe line companies. We are, indeed, in doubt as to whether or not 40 cents is an equitable price at the city gates. We have ample reason to believe that rate schedules proposed by franchise seekers are exorbitant to the point of profiteering in some instances. We do not know what competing pipe lines intend to do with reference to coming into this territory. We should not stake all on the Public Service Commission being able promptly to investigate thoroughly the ratemaking situation and protect the municipalities from exorbitant rate schedules."

Test in Central Missouri.

The vote at Boonville was one of the first tests of the attitude of Central Missouri cities on natural gas franchises. Up to a few days before the election there had been no organized opposition to the franchise, although some of the officials of Boonville had participated with other cities in publication of the bulletin on natural gas prepared by Attorney Rogers in which caution was urged and municipal ownership of the distributing system suggested. On the day before the franchise election some of the citizens arranged for a mass meeting and invited Rogers to address it. The meeting was well attended and was thought to have turned the election against the franchise which was defeated by a small majority.

Among the cities participating in the convention were Fayette, Moberly, Kahoka, Milan, Mexico, Higginsville, Marshall, Liberty, Independence, Slater, Fulton, Columbia, Memphis, Palmyra, Carthage, Lebanon, Marceline, Chillicothe, Centralia, Canton and Macon. Chairman Burkhart and Secretary Thierfelter were re-elected.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION BY ST. LOUIS ARTISTS

Ten Prizes Totaling $1500 Offered — Display From Dec. 1 to Jan. 10.

The eighteenth annual exhibition of the works of artists of St. Louis and vicinity will be held at the Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard, Dec. 1 to Jan. 10.

Artists of St. Louis, and within a radius of 50 miles, may submit an unlimited number of pictures, the only restriction being that none previously shown at a public exhibition in St. Louis will be accepted. A jury will pass on which pictures are to be hung, and no more than three oils or five water colors of any one artist will be accepted.

Ten prizes totaling $1500 are offered, the winners to be announced within a week after the opening of the exhibition. The capital prize is one of $500 offered by the Guild for the best work of art. The Chamber of Commerce offers a $350 prize for the best industrial painting made in St. Louis or vicinity, the winning picture to become the property of the Chamber. Other awards:

Halsey C. Ives prize for landscape, $100 offered by W. K. Bixby; Frederick Morgan Crunden prize for figure painting, $100 offered by Frank P. Crunden; George Warren Brown prize for figure painting, $50 offered by Mrs. George Warren Brown; Nellie Ferguson Parker prize for merit, $100 offered by Letitia Parker Williams; for the best decorative painting, $100 offered by Oscar Johnson Jr.; for the best portrait, $100, offered by L. W. Baldwin; Frederick Oaks Sylvester prize, for sculpture, $50 offered by W. K. Bixby, and for prints and etchings $500 offered by Hugo M. Koehler.

All work submitted by St. Louis artists will be called for Nov. 21 and 22, if notice to do so is received at the Guild before Nov. 17. Work from outside St. Louis must reach the Guild through a St. Louis agent not later than Nov. 18. Packing boxes will not be received.

The jury of selection for paintings will be: O. E. Berninghaus, G. F. Goetch, Fred Conway, C. K. Gleeson, J. J. Eppensteiner, Charles F. Galt and Agnes Lodwick. For sculpture the jury will be Sheila Burlingame, Caroline Risque and Adele Schulenburg. The selection will be hung by a committee of five selected by Guild contributors from among their number.

WIDOW OF POLICEMAN SUES WABASH RAILROAD AND OTHERS

Mrs. Glennie Schnittker Alleges Negligence of Defendants Caused Husband's Death.

Mrs. Glennie Schnittker, widow of Edward E. Schnittker, motorcycle policeman, who was killed in a grade crossing accident July 3 at Union and Lindell boulevards, filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday for $10,000. The suit is directed against the Wabash Railway Co., Melvin M. Butts, 4603A Westminster place, crossing watchman, and Ray Fletcher and Andrew F. Brayfield, engineer and fireman of the Wabash train that struck Schnittker, fatally injuring him.

Schnittker and another officer were riding in response to a call when the accident occurred. It is alleged that the crossing watchman was negligent in raising the gate to permit the officers to pass when he knew a train was due; further, that the engine crew was negligent in not keeping a safe lookout and in running the train at a high rate of speed.

...but who bought Studebaker Eights with free wheeling

(MANUFACTURED UNDER STUDEBAKER PATENTS)

"I have driven practically every car manufactured and I received the greatest thrill I have ever had when I first drove the new Studebaker and what's more, the thrill is still there. It is my opinion that you have the greatest automobile value on the market. Other manufacturers will certainly have to adopt many of your features, including Free Wheeling, if they expect to compete with you."

L. DEMERATH,
Chicago, Ill.

• • •

"So far ahead and so revolutionary that there can be no comparison."

LOUIS T. FRICKE, M. D.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Results are far beyond my expectations. Free Wheeling is more than is claimed for it. In fact the Free Wheeling car is easier to control in traffic, than the conventional shift car; producing greater speed and less strain on the engine, rear axle and chassis. One learns instinctively and with ease how to use the momentum of the car to the best advantage. To feel your car gliding along unfettered gives one a sensation of superiority on the road, equally shared by the passengers and driver."

JOHN B. CLERMONT,
Yonkers, N. Y.

"I believe Free Wheeling to be the most marvelous of present day motor inventions—I wouldn't sell it back for what I paid for it."

FRANK W. KING,
Denver, Colo.

• • •

"The satisfaction which is afforded by Free Wheeling cannot be compared with any other car that I have previously owned. The feeling is one of going through the air and certainly is a wonderful improvement. Free Wheeling second is an advantage in traffic and in general should, and no doubt will, be adopted through license, by other manufacturers."

A. C. GONZALEZ,
New York, N. Y.

"I have driven all makes of cars for the past 16 years, but none to compare with the President. I never had the slightest intention of buying one at the time but the trial convinced me, and I do recommend it as a marvel of the Auto Age."

RAY CASHEL,
East St. Louis, Ill.

• • •

"There is a restfulness in Free Wheeling not experienced when the engine is turning over at car speed."

WILLIAM H. MOORE,
Capt., Q. M. C., U. S. Army,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

• • •

"This Free Wheeling Studebaker is the easiest car to handle regardless of where it happens to be—in traffic or highway travel. I drive at least 25,000 miles every year and buy a new car every year. But I sure think I will hold this one for awhile and try and join the Hundred Thousand Mile Club."

HAROLD F. STORMHAFER,
Detroit, Mich.

• • •

"The Free Wheeler seems to float through the air, smooth and silent, under positive control. There seems to be an unseen force, taking you over the highways, which positively affords a new thrill, combined with effortless ease of driving and economical cost of operation."

S. H. INGRAM,
Chicago, Ill.

• • •

"Free Wheeling is a joy I never expected to experience in motoring."

H. E. COPELAND,
Scarsdale, N. Y.

"Quite a number of people have driven my car and after understanding the principle of Free Wheeling, they are very enthusiastic, especially the women folks who after driving have proclaimed it the greatest boon for women drivers and did not think it was possible that a car could be built which was so easy for a woman to handle."

C. A. STEVENS,
Carrollton, Ohio

• • •

"Free Wheeling is the greatest thing put on a car since the self-starter."

HOWARD C. COOLEY,
So. Somerset, Mass.

E. V. DICK,
Doylestown, Pa.

• • •

"If I actually told you how enthusiastic all of us are about it, I'm sure you wouldn't believe it possible. At present we have 3 cars and all of us—including my chauffeur who has driven all kinds of cars for the past 20 years—are actually crazy about the President. Now don't get all swelled up and raise your prices, as I'll want another one soon."

E. G. BITNER,
Mt. Vernon, New York

• • •

"Free Wheeling demonstration without a salesman sold the car when I had absolutely no intention of buying. Free Wheeling can't be described in connection with other cars I have driven nor is there any comparison. Am 1000% Studebaker Free Wheeler."

J. G. RUPLE,
Los Angeles, Calif.

• • •

"There is no comparison—the Free Wheeling Commander is head and shoulders above everything I know. Have been driving since 1917. Had four other makes, also a '23 Studebaker but this is a revelation."

DR. A. M. RAND,
New Rochelle, N. Y.

• • •

"I will never go back to the old style of wheeling."

REV. FELIX J. O'NEILL,
Stafford Springs, Conn.

• • •

"I purchased my Free Wheeling President on account of its ease of handling, its riding qualities and, being an engineer, because it impressed me as being a well engineered job."

EDWARD HERTMAN,
Detroit, Mich.

• • •

JAMES ROY WINGATE,
North Platte, Nebr.

"Have had five cars. My new Free Wheeling President Eight is a peach. The ease of driving certainly would appeal to any woman. The self-righting steering gear is a fine thing. No vibration, no matter how fast you drive. No road shock to the wheel. The rapid response you get from the ease of handling saved us a bad "jam up" on the highway. To say nothing of the ability to get through traffic ahead of all others."

MISS ANNE I. BAKER,
Paducah, Ky.

• • •

"I have been the owner of approximately 20 automobiles since 1910 and I have never yet had a car which I thought so much of as my new President."

J. A. GARDINER,
Buffalo, N. Y.

"I am more than pleased. The Free Wheeling Commander is infinitely better—noticeably less tiring on extra long drives of several hundred miles. It seems to be an event now to buy gas."

H. W. MOWERY,
Mahwah, N. J.

PHONE or call on any Studebaker dealer and he will put you behind the wheel of a seasoned eight with Free Wheeling. Then you will know for yourself why these purchasers (and hundreds of others) have written so enthusiastically about their cars.

Studebaker has conquered momentum and put it under control! If you pay more than a thousand dollars for an automobile, you can't afford to buy one without Free Wheeling. For Free Wheeling owns the future!

"Free Wheeling feature is very efficient in making driving in traffic as effortless as on the open highway."

H. SHAELER DOW,
Chicago, Ill.

• • •

"Free Wheeling is one of the greatest achievements in the auto industry. Quicker pick-up, make more miles per hour with less gas without any exertion on the part of the driver."

ALGER SWEIGERT,
Shillington, Pa.

• • •

H. J. SCOTT,
Bakersfield, Calif.

"To me it is the only worthwhile forward step in car mechanics for a decade or more. It is an entirely new thrill in motoring, as well as an unquestionable economy. I believe it out-performs any car in its class. There seems to be abundance of power and speed, without any indication of strain. At 70 miles per hour, without vibration or effort, it goes along as if it were happy and ready to do more when needed. I don't see how other car manufacturers can avoid using the Free Wheeling feature."

HARRY G. WEDLER,
St. Louis, Mo.

"Would not consider a return to conventional gear shift."

THOS. J. PARTAIN,
Knoxville, Tenn.

"Once a 'Free Wheeler' always a 'Free Wheeler'."

A. E. NAHM, JR.

"Free Wheeling is the greatest improvement since four-wheel brakes. A wonderful car. Have driven cars since October, 1899. Had second car in this State."

A. N. CLARK, M.D.,
So. Norwalk, Conn.

• • •

"The Free Wheeling Commander cannot be compared with any other car, because it stands in a class by itself, far superior in performance and motoring satisfaction. The Commander must be placed as the acme of the 20th Century achievement in motor building."

DANIEL BLANK,
Chicago, Ill.

• • •

"I consider Free Wheeling the greatest motor improvement since self-starters were installed. My pleasure is unbounded for I have had more satisfaction from my new President Eight State Sedan than from any or all cars previously owned.""

HARRY L. STONE,
Clifton, N. J.

• • •

"Free Wheeling is the best thing that has been put on the automobile lately, and believe they will all take it on, just as quick as they can."

BEN M. BOLTON,
Griffin, Ga.

"Your advertising claims for Free Wheeling are too modest. Compared with other cars, I would not exchange mine for any car on the market of any price, whatever, if it did not have Free Wheeling."

REV. R. F. HODNETT,
Winter Garden, Fla.

"Free Wheeling is the best motor car improvement since the electric starter. Was less tired after driving all day than ever before."

NELLSON N. TRACY,
University City, Mo.

• • •

"My Free Wheeling Commander is wonderful—just glides along."

MRS. ANNE E. FRANK,
Baltimore, Md.

• • •

"There isn't any car, no matter what price, that I would rather own than the one I have."

W. T. MCLAUGHLIN,
Ensley, Ala.

• • •

"Free Wheeling is fine. Would not have a car now without it."

D. C. OVERHUGH,
Evanston, Ill.

• • •

"Far superior in all respects. 81 miles on 5 gallons of gas in Blue Ridge Mountains. 1200 miles on 3 quarts of oil driving a great deal of the time 50 miles an hour or better."

R. B. MURRAY,
Hornell, N. Y.

• • •

"Free Wheeling takes Studebaker drivers out of the field of accustomed automobiling into the realm of flying. We have many of the thrills of flying without the hazards."

CARROLL F. GRAFF,
Duluth, Minn.

• • •

"I can't tell you how much joy the car has brought Mrs. Bartlett and me. I can drive long distances with far less fatigue than with the old style car. Now I feel I could never drive any car at any price, without the Free Wheeling device."

F. H. BARTLETT, M. D.,
New York, N. Y.

• • •

"I have owned three and four thousand dollar cars but really never knew what a pleasure motoring could be till now. Congratulations and thank you for building such an automobile as my President."

WALTER P. GOCKEL,
Cleveland, Ohio

• • •

"By driving my Free Wheeling President Eight Roadster, I have found out what motoring satisfaction is."

HAROLD Y. JOHNSON,
Parkersburg, W. Va.

• • •

"Any one who has not driven this car has missed the real thrill of motoring comfort."

T. J. JONES,
Mannington, W. Va.

• • •

"More thrilling because of the convenience of Free Wheeling. Steering ease is very noticeable on this car. Car has unusually fast getaway in traffic."

P. H. SULEWSKY,
Milwaukee, Wis.

• • •

"I have driven cars since 1907. My President is the 11th car. My last two cars cost over $2,500. They were good, but I never have enjoyed any more than my Studebaker President. I just want to keep on going. Never get tired or weary of driving. It rides better than a Pullman car, smoother; Free Wheeling is the outstanding feature; that alone adds two-thirds of the joy of driving."

REV. LEON M. LINDEN,
Aurora, Ill.

• • •

"Most remarkable car I ever owned."

W. L. MOORE,
Easton, Pa.

"I have never ridden in a smoother riding car or one with a better pick-up. It does everything you ask it to whether in traffic or on a hill. The only time I use conventional gears is on hills that are steep."

HARRY T. CRUM,
Cincinnati, Ohio

• • •

"I like it 1,000,000 percent. Anyone who knows Free Wheeling will never go back to conventional driving."

JAMES A. WINNEN,
Fairfield, Maine

• • •

"Everything I have wished for in the past eighteen years of driving."

A. E. SPENCE,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"One excellent feature—can shift from Free Wheeling to conventional without declutching at 50-60-70."

B. F. PERKINS,
Chicago, Ill.

• • •

"There is no comparison with four different makes of cars previously owned, and I can frankly state that I had my first real auto thrill in 10 years driving behind the wheel of the Commander."

LOUIS FINKEL,
Philadelphia, Pa.

• • •

"Free Wheeling is a wonderful sensation, that of floating through a calm air, and know your gears are engaged, ready for duty if needed, without moving or touching a lever."

ELMER N. FUNK,
Shreve, Ohio

• • •

"I had decided to pass up Studebaker in favor of ($4000 car). However, sons urged me to try new Studebaker which revealed an entirely new set-up. In fact, our new President Brougham is so delightful to drive that I get new pleasure in driving. It appears after trying (4 other cars) selling above $3000 to be the fleetest, pleasantest to drive I have ever sat in."

JOHN S. LAPP,
LeRoy, N. Y.

• • •

"I consider Free Wheeling one of the most satisfactory advances in automobile construction since the advent of the closed car."

FRED F. THOMPSON, M. D.,
The Dalles, Oregon

"Studebaker Free Wheeling is without question the greatest advance in automobile building up to the present date."

ARNOLD WESTMAN,
Fenton, Mich.

• • •

"Free Wheeling is nice in traffic and on a long trip. Anybody that has one will not change."

FRANCIS X. HERIE,
Pittsfield, Mass.

• • •

"I can truthfully say that sometimes I think I am operating a plane in place of an auto."

PETER F. MATTHEWS,
New York, N. Y.

• • •

"Free Wheeling saves motor wear and gas consumption. Also nerves as gears never clash, but slide smoothly. Can get as much mileage in city traffic as on country roads or long trips."

ARNOLD H. SCHNEIDER,
Chicago, Ill.

• • •

"Finest mechanical construction I ever drove. You certainly have made motoring easier with Free Wheeling. It's not only a saving on the car, it is easier on the driver as well."

CHAS. E. WAGNER,
McClure, Pa.

LAW ENFORCEMENT BODY SEEMS NEAR DRY LAW DECISION

To Meet Nov. 5, Day After Election to Discuss Voluminous Prohibition Record Now Before It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Members of President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission have a feeling they are going to get together on the impending report on prohibition.

It is just a feeling so far, but the facts will be known soon. On Nov. 5, the day after the election, the 10 men and one woman of the commission will speak their minds around the commission's conference table.

The decision will be reached from one of the most exhaustive reports compiled in any investigation. The index alone to the prohibition reports before the commission fills 146 typewritten pages.

The reports include data from special investigators, testimony of expert witnesses, surveys of conditions throughout the nation, figures on prohibition problems in foreign lands and several other phases.

Pending final study of this voluminous memoranda, commission members are reserving their views as well as their proposals.

The first decision confronting the commission is whether the dry law is being enforced and, if it is not, whether it can be enforced.

The prohibition controversy is the first order of business when the commission reconvenes and there is a determination to speed the work to conclusion in time to get the report before Congress when it reassembles in December.

Chairman Wickersham, Kenneth MacIntosh of Washington, and Dean Pound of the Harvard Law School are the members carrying on at headquarters here now. They insist there is a common desire in the commission to reach an early conclusion and a common understanding, if it is at all possible.

It is among these three that the feeling prevails that the commission can get together on the prohibition report but each insists that there have been no preliminary conferences among the membership or discussions on the wet and dry problem.

"We are too busy to talk," explained Dean Pound, "and you can depend upon it that all of the members have enough work at home to prompt them to the common desire to conclude our task here as early as possible."

ONTARIO'S PROFIT ON LIQUOR SALE WELL OVER $30,000,000

That Covers Total Period of Dominion Control; Receipts Drop 5 Pct. in Last Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 25.—By the end of this month, which concludes the fiscal year, Ontario and its guests will have spent about $175,000,000 for liquor since the inauguration of Premier G. H. Ferguson's Government sale system. For the fiscal year, which ends Oct. 31, it is estimated that the total receipts will reach $54,000,000. An interim report some time ago revealed a decline of about 5.5 per cent in receipts as compared with those of the previous year. The permits are said to be more numerous than ever before—probably about 520,000. That means more than $1,000,000 for the provincial treasurer.

The province has spent more than $50 per capita on liquor since Dominion control came in. With the permit fees included the profits would be well over $30,000,000.

The growth in the number of permits issued shows the increasing number to drinkers. Here are the figures: 1927, 274,336; 1927-28, 646,974; 1928-29, 523,172. About one-fourthg of the permits are for tourists. That means that about one person in every seven among Ontario residents is a permit holder.

There are now 122 liquor stores under control of the board; 102 warehouses, 52 wineries and more than 1200 employes.

ESPOUSES BAR ASSOCIATION'S SLATE OF JUDICIAL CANDIDATES

Wilton D. Chapman, attorney, addressed the Swedish National Society at a meeting at 1157 South Kingshighway last night, in support of the St. Louis Bar Association's slate of judicial candidates at the November election.

Chapman pointed out that members of the association voted upon judicial candidates without regard to political affiliations "and for the sole purpose of indicating to the voters the candidates best fitted, in the minds of the members of the legal profession for the high position to be filled at the election.

Barnidge Personalty $82,470.

Augustine Joseph Barnidge, 4321 Virginia avenue, vice president of the Prunty Seed & Grain Co., who died Sept 16, left personal property valued at $82,470. In addition, he owned either in whole or in part 10 parcels of realty in the city, most of which is in the levee district and on Main street. He bequeathed his estate to a brother, Francis J. Barnidge. An inventory was filed yesterday by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

Argentine Vice President Out.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 25. — The Argentine Council of Ministers today accepted the resignation of Vice President Enrique Santa Marina of the provisional Government of Argentina. No successor was appointed. The Minister of the Interior would succeed the President in case of a vacancy.

Robber Slain by Newspaper Man.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 25.—Benjamin Knistoff, 18 years old, who attempted to hold up two Chicago newspaper men, on a highway near here, died today at St. Joseph's Hospital. Knistoff was shot by Fred Houck, a copy reader for Chicago Herald and Examiner. Knistoff's companion, Frank Vacchiano, 17, Chicago, who made no effort to escape when his friend was wounded, is in jail. Houck was driving to St. Louis.

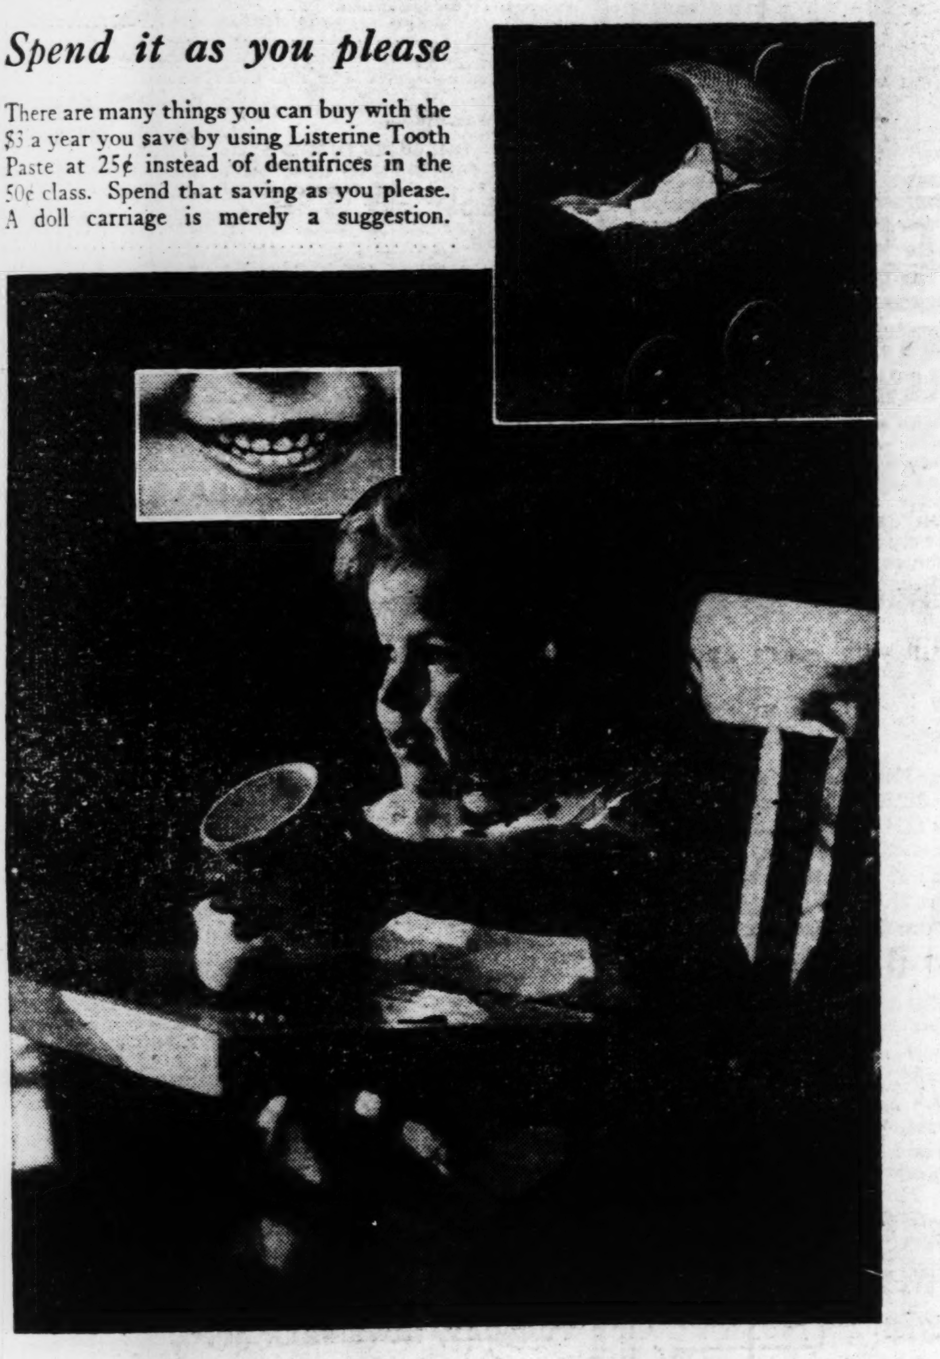
Yes, it saves you $3

Spend it as you please

There are many things you can buy with the $3 a year you save by using Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢ instead of dentifrices in the 50¢ class. Spend that saving as you please. A doll carriage is merely a suggestion.



25¢ is enough to pay for tooth paste

You may think that for the good of your teeth it is necessary to pay in the neighborhood of 50¢ for a tooth paste. If this is your opinion, there are any number to choose from—all good.

Approximately 5,000,000 people, however, say that 25¢ is enough to pay. They have reached this conclusion after long and critical use of Listerine Tooth Paste, the quality dentifrice at 25¢. They have put it to every test. Subjected it to every comparison with other dentifrices. Their enthusiasm for its swift, thorough, and safe cleansing and its delightful after effect is boundless.

You be the judge

We ask you to try Listerine Tooth Paste for a month. Test it any way you please. Compare it with any dentifrice you wish regardless of the price. If others disclose greater quality or better results for the money—by all means stick to them.

We believe, however, that you will find, as others have found, that Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢ is the outstanding value in the tooth paste field.

We have given it the quality that characterizes all Lambert products. And we offer it at a price that is made possible only by large scale (and therefore economic) buying and ultra-modern methods of manufacture that eliminate costly operations. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

3 NEGRO SLAYERS OF WOMAN TRACED BY FOOTPRINT

Trio, Removed From Clinton, Mo., Jail When Mob Formed, Confess Killing Victim, 63, for $38.50.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25.—Three Negroes, removed from the Henry County (Mo.) jail while a mob formed last night at Clinton, confessed to police here early today that they robbed and killed Mrs. Elizabeth Neiman, 63-year-old widow, last Saturday in her isolated farm home near Windsor, Mo.

The Negroes, placed in the county jail here, are Buster Shockley, 13 years old Eul Richardson, 27, and Emmett Gallie, 30.

Gallie said he struck Mrs. Neiman over the head with a wagon end-gate rod after she told them she had no money. As she lay on the floor, they searched the small dwelling and found $38.50, hidden in a tin can. The three divided the money and left the woman injured fatally, according to Gallie's confession.

Neighbors noticed the chicken house door at the Neiman farm was left open since Saturday. Lawrence Leonard and Fred James, neighbors, investigated and Wednesday discovered the body and evidence of a struggle in the house.

Found Footprint in Cornfield.

L. A. Woodley of a private detective agency at Kansas City, called to investigate, found a footprint in a cornfield near the dwelling and made a cast of it.

The trail led to the home of Wiley Shockley, where boots of the same size as the footprint were found.

Buster Shockley made a statement implicating himself and the other two and they were arrested and placed in jail at Clinton. They were brought here secretly when the mob threatened violence.

Mrs. Neiman had lived alone at the 40-acre farm, three miles from Windsor, since the death of her husband, 10 years ago. She raised corn and a small flock of chickens.

Saw Negroes in Wagon.

A Coroner's jury found that Mrs. Neiman had come to her death by blows struck by an unknown hand. Later Mrs. Alfred Rinard, a neighbor, reported to officers she had seen three Negroes drive away from Mrs. Neiman's home Oct. 18 in a one-horse wagon. The three Negroes held here were arrested, but released for lack of evidence.

When the blood-stained boots were found in the home of Wiley Schockley, grandfather of Buster, in Windsor, the three were rearrested.

Buster Shockley received $5 of the loot and Gallie $10, the remainder going to Richardson, who found the money which Mrs. Neiman had received in payment for corn.

One Convicted of Murder.

Richardson was on $6000 bond in connection with the murder of Noel Thornton, a farm hand, in January, 1928. Thornton was beaten to death with a club on the highway between Bowen and Leeton, Mo. Richardson was tried three times at Warrensburg for the murder, two of the trials ending in hung juries. The third jury sentenced him to 10 years' imprisonment, and his appeal is pending.

Mrs. Neiman's body was found with deep cuts in both temples beside a stand on which her Bible lay open. A stove was upset and a traveling bag stood open.

CORNERSTONE LAID AT PEORIA FOR RAIL-WATER TERMINAL

Gen. Ashburn Says Congress Is Trying to Preserve Vigor of Both Systems.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 25—Major-General Thomas Q Ashburn, chairman of the board of the Inland Waterways Corporation, speaking today at the laying of the cornerstone of Peoria's new rail-water interchange terminal, said the ceremony forged "a wonderful link in the great arterial system conceived by President Hoover"

"Almost," he continued, "we connect the Great Lakes to the Gulf. Almost all of our river towns of this system have become seaports, and soon they will become both lake and seaports, and the lake ports will become seaports and you shall not have long to wait until you will see the day that great fleets ply daily from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico."

Gen. Ashburn said the scheme of co-ordinated transportation was in no wise inimical to the prosperity of the railroads, but that Congress' policy was to preserve in full vigor both rail and water transportation.

Dental Board Appointments.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 25.—Gov. Caulfield today made three appointments to the State Dental Board. Dr. George E. Haigh, Republican, of Jefferson City, who has been a member of the board for nearly 20 years, was reappointed, Dr. Frank E. Shelden, Republican, of Kansas City, was reappointed, and Dr. M. C. Amyx, Republican, of West Plains, was appointed to succeed Dr. J. A. Shoemake, Republican, of Clayton. All of the appointments are for five-year terms. The terms of the five members of the board expired last Oct. 16, but the remaining two appointments will be made later, the Governor said.

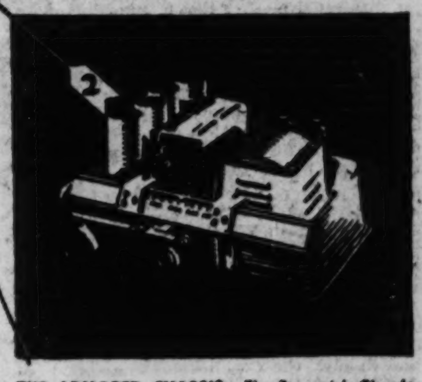
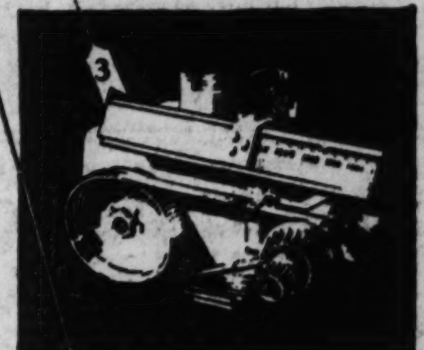
THE UNI-SELECTOR. Only Brunswick has the UNI-SELECTOR—one control to perform every operation of the set. This device takes the place of the usual series of unsightly, unhandy knobs.



THE ARMORED CHASSIS. The Brunswick Chassis is solidly constructed and efficiently designed. Heavy sheet-steel shields all working parts from dust and damage and electrical interference.



THE RIGID TUNING SCALE. Automatic tension on a broad, firm-gripping copper belt does away forever with dial slipping. Stations MUST always come in at exactly the same point!

THE TONE CONTROL. You can now modify reception by shifting emphasis through a thousand even gradations of tone from the deepest bass notes to the silvery clearness of the treble.

Only BRUNSWICK has all these features . . .

The four devices described here are not mere gadgets intended to attract the fancy of a fickle public. They are serious, definite improvements in radio design of such importance that the new Brunswick has justly been termed, "The Radio of the Future."

Only Brunswick has all these features. Others may some day seek to incorporate these devices in their, as yet, unbuilt models, but when you buy a Brunswick you get them now! And of course you get the full rich tone for which Brunswick, as a builder of fine musical instruments, has always been justly celebrated.

Ask your nearest Brunswick dealer to show you what these features contribute towards the operation of an instrument which will be in daily use in your home. Ask him to let you get the "feel" of the Uni-Selector; the new experience of controlling tone in radio reception. Only in this way can you appreciate what Brunswick has brought to radio.

STORY BOOK PARADE HELD BY CHILDREN

Pied Piper, Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary, and Other Fables Personified.

Pirates do exist. And Treasure Island, the book parade bucaneers say is in the Mississippi River somewhere between the mouth of the Meramec and the Gulf of Mexico. A birch-bark canoe, if you can build one, will get you there.

Another way is through storybooks at the Soulard Branch Library. But yesterday the storybooks turned tables, and out of the doors of the Soulard Library, into Seventh street, walked 125 creatures that must have left half the pages in libary books blank of names.

Leading the parade were policemen, of course, real ones, who hovered about in no spirit-like guardianship to hold back vehicles along the 10-block march. Next came the Pied Piper in scarlet and gold (Miss Alice Scobel, the children's librarian, if you must know secrets) and Boy Scout drummers.

Then came a pilgrim sister guarding a Little Boy Blue brother. Mary-Mary-Quite-Contrary with a tiny watering pot. A half dozen Little Red Riding Hoods, but not a wolf in sight. Cinderella in cinders and satins. The reason for that, they said, was that "lots of things happened to Cinderella."

There was Little Tommy Tucker who did not sing for his supper, and indeed, didn't care whether he (she, in this case) got home for supper or not. Raggedy Ann was supremely happy in the gypsy glory of tatterdemalion. Penrod and Pocahontas. Little Peter Rabbit, authentic to cotton-tail and a bright yellow carrot which he carried.

The Old Woman of the Shoe, who was with so many children yesterday afternoon that she was more than a little confused. Indians with bright feathers and painted faces. Wendy, whose placard was spelled "Windy." Or it may have been Windy, for those who watched the parade realized the fable is born daily. Pinocchio, who was either a very bad or a very good boy. Overall boys, the Old-Fashioned Girl, sunbonnet babies, the Ukranian cousin, the Spanish girl, the Czecho-Slovakian cousin, the Italian cousin, the Little Tin Soldier.

Stringing out for more than a block, and swarmed about by other children who raced along with them, as they marched around Soulard Market, down to Broadway and back by way of Lafayette avenue, they were a world of fancy come to life. Childish fancy it may be, or it may be adult fancy, too. A calliope shared the street with them on Broadway, but passed almost unnoticed.

WALTER L. BUSCH DIES

War Veteran and Post-Dispatch Employe Ill a Week.

Walter L. Busch, World War veteran and member of the advertising department of the Post-Dispatch, died of septic poisoning yesterday at his home, 6848 Vermont street. He was 30 years old and had been ill a week.

Mr. Busch will be buried with military honors in the National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks. Funeral services will be held from an undertaking establishment, 6323 South Grand boulevard, to SS. Mary and Joseph Catholic Church, 6310 Minnesota avenue, Tuesday morning. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ida Mae Busch; a daughter, Betty Jean; his mother, Mrs. Louise Busch; three sisters, Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. Robert Austin and Miss Thelma Busch, and a brother, George Busch.

MRS. PAULINE EPSTEIN ESTATE

Property, Save Two Small Bequests, Left to Charity.

The inventory of the estate of Mrs. Pauline Epstein, 5401 Cabanne avenue, widow of Samuel Epstein, filed yesterday by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. as executor, shows property value at $105,752.

The entire estate, except two small bequests, is left in trust to pay for the erection of a wing to any orthodox Jewish hospital, orphan asylum or old folks' home that may be erected or contemplated within a year from her death in either the city or St. Louis County. If this plan is not carried out the estate is to be used for a similar charitable purpose, to be selected by the trustees. The bequest is a memorial to her first husband, the late Benjamin Burenstein.

Synchronized Broadcasts Successful, NCB Finds

President of Chain Company Says One Channel Can Be Used to Carry Program to Entire Country—No Revolution in Radio Methods Likely for Some Years, However.

By MARTIN CODEL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—Chain broadcasting has reached the point where one wave length is sufficient to carry a network program to the entire country.

The first flat avowal that such synchronization has been achieved came this week from M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., in a conference here with the Federal Radio Commission. Aylesworth made it clear, however, that various factors, technical, economic and political, negative any suggestion that a revolution will be wrought in broadcasting immediately or within the next few years.

"I am gratified to inform you," Aylesworth told the commission, "that synchronization in broadcasting is now out of the laboratory. Experiments and tests which we have been conducting have definitely demonstrated that, from a technical standpoint at least, it is now possible to operate two or more stations on the same radio frequency without distortion."

The tests consisted of linking high-powered transmitters at Schenectady and Pittsburg by telephone and control wires and operating them simultaneously with WEAF, New York key of the N. B. C., on the wave length of WEAF. All broadcast the same program originating at WEAF. These tests, carried out under C. W. Horn, general engineer of the N. B. C., have been entirely successful, Aylesworth reported.

Such synchronization has been the goal of radio engineers almost since the beginning of congestion on broadcast wave lengths. At present the occupation of one channel by two or more stations almost inevitably means interference somewhere between them if they operate with substantial powers or if they are geographically near one another.

With synchronizotaion accomplished, the next logical step is the establishment of chains of stations, probably owned and operated by the chain organizations themselves, to carry the same program on the same wave length. These stations may be a few high-powered ones strategically placed throughout the country, or they may be a multitude of booster stations so placed that their "signals" will cover the country. Most likely they will be owned by the chain organizations themselves, giving the latter complete 24-hour outlet for their national programs.

Far from spelling the end of chain programs from the independently owned stations which now dominate the spectrum, the scheme will probably mean the establishment of additional chain services to the independently owned stations. They would have all the time they wanted for their programs of local origin and according to Mr. Aylesworth, they could then supplement their local offerings with such chain programs as they chose. Particularly would all national news event broadcasts be made available to them, for the chain has no intention of dropping its affiliations with independent stations, he declared.

There are distinct limitations upon the immediate possibilities of synchronized network broadcasting. First, the cost of erecting the booster stations and linking them by telephone wires to keep them in phase and to carry the programs would amount, it is conservatively estimated, to well over $35,000,000. Secondly, a sweeping reorganization of broadcasting, involving a considerable reallocation of present wave length asignments, would be necessitated.

Since the wave length selected for synchronized operation of the numerous stations would become a "local channel" in every part of the country, and since the commission requires a 50-kilocycle separation between stations operating in the immediate vicinity of one another, the actual channel width required for synchronization in the present state of the radio art would be 100 kilocycles.

In other words, if the WEAF channel of 660 kilocycles were immediately impressed into use for a nation-wide chain of stations, no other stations could operate between 610 and 710 kilocycles. On the other hand, receiver design is improving so rapidly, particularly with superheterodynes coming into Important Rebroadcasts From Europe Planned—KDKA Prepared to Use 1,200,000 Watts If Opportunity Arises—10,000-Watt Mexican Station to Go on Air Nov. 8.

Report that NBC Will Not Broadcast Its Own Grand Opera Performances This Winter—Court Fight Over 'Arabesque' Feature—Machine to Read to Blind Perfected.

A number of rebroadcasts of importance are to be attempted by both networks this month and in November. All depends on weather conditions. If they are good, listeners should hear addresses by the Premiers of England and Japan, George Bernard Shaw, Albert Einstein, the Prince of Wales and other foreign notables.

Premier Hamaguchi of Japan has been invited to join the radio celebration of the signing of the London Naval Treaty which the NBC has arranged for tomorrow morning. If reception conditions are favorable listeners to KSD and KWK should be able to hear addresses by statesmen of Japan, England and this country. Premier Hamaguchi is expected to speak first, at 8:50 a. m. He will talk in Japanese. President Hoover is scheduled to begin speaking at 9 o'clock and Premier Ramsay MacDonald at 9:10. An address by Tsuneo Matsudairo, Japanese Ambassador at London, is set to follow that of Premier MacDonald.

Speeches by George Bernard Shaw and Albert Einstein, author of the relativity theory, are to be rebroadcast from London by the CBS chain from 3:40 to 4:20 next Tuesday afternoon, if weather permits.

Weather permitting, the Prince of Wales will speak to the audience of the NBC and CBS chains from 3:45 to 4:15 Thursday afternoon, Oct. 30. The address will be delivered at a banquet given in London by the League of Nations Union in honor of the Premiers of Dominion Premiers attending the Imperial Conference.

A Reid orchestral concert at Edinburgh, Scotland, wtih Albert Coates conducting, is to be rebroadcast over an NBC chain, probably including KSD, between 2 and 3 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 6.

Earl Jellicoe, Admiral of the fleet, who commanded the British grand fleet during the World War from 1914 to 1916, is to deliver an address in London Sunday, Nov. 9, that the CBS chain will attempt to broadcast at 4:30 p. m.

The speech by Premier MacDonald at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London is to be put on the air in this country by the NBC for half an hour Monday afternoon, Nov. 10, beginning at 3 o'clock.

KDKA'S experimental license from the Federal Radio Commission authorizes the use of 400,000 watts in the series of experiments. This will require two of the 200,000 watt tubes, each of which stands six feet in height and requires the passage of five tons of cool water through its water jacket every hour.

It is learned on reliable authority, however, that the Wesinghouse engineers are arranging the plant of KDKA so that six of these tubes may ultimately be used, which would give the station an output of 1,200,000 watts, the highest power by far ever attempted on either the broadcasting or communications wave lengths.

It is worth nothing that Former Radio Commissioner Caldwell, who is one of the harshest critics of the commission's rule limiting stations to 50,000 watts, is advocating that stations willing to spend the money be encouraged to build transmitters of 100,000 and even a quarter of a million watts power, on the ground, chiefly, that only by use of such real super power broadcasting can listeners in the smaller towns and on the farms be assured of good programs and worth while reception.

The New York Supreme Court has been called on to decide a fight over the rights to the radio program called "Arabesque," which is broadcast over CBS stations, including KMOX. Yolande Langworthy, who is Frances M. Reade in real life, is suing for an injunction to prevent the CBS chain from broadcasting the feature, on the ground that it is an imitation of her "Arabesque" that was broadcast over the chain for months until she resigned from the chain's staff of continuity writers last August, at which time she served notice that she would take legal action against any station broadcasting under the title, "Arabesque." The Columbia System asserts that Miss Langworthy was merely one of its employes and, so, her pen work belonged to it.

A 10,000-watt transmitter installed for XED, at Reynosa, State of Tamaulipas, Mexico, is to go into action at 6 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 8. It will operate on 960 kilocycles, a channel supposed to be reserved for Canadian stations. XED will be by far the most powerful station in Latin-America. Its formal opening will be celebrated Nov. 8 with a continuous 100-hour program of Spanish music and entertainment. Announcements will be made in English as well as Spanish.

XEW, a station near Mexico City, uses 5000 to 7000 watts power and broadcasts on 780 kilocycles, a channel used also by the 5000-watt CKY, Winnipeg, Canada, and several United States stations, including WMC, Memphis, Tenn.

The Federal Radio Commission has set for hearing the application of WIL, St. Louis, for a full time license. But the hearing probably will be scheduled for late this winter, because of the crowded condition of the commissions docket.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is to play a series of radio concerts over the Columbia chain from 9 to 10 o'clock Wednesday nights, beginning Nov. 5. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, famous pianist, who is conductor of the orchestra, will lead the first three concerts.

Joe Weber and Lew Fields, the famous comedians, are to be featured at 9 o'clock next Friday night in a "Radio Follies" program on the CBS chain, including KMOX.

At 5:15 this evening, a new series of concerts of classical music will be inaugurated by the NBC over the WJZ chain. Cesare Sodero will direct the orchestra, and there will be solos, duets and quartet numbers by Elsie Baker, contralto; Charlotte Simmons, soprano; Theodore Webb, baritone, and Nicolas Vasilieff, tenor.

The weekly grand opera broadcasts which have been a feature on KSD and allied NBC stations scheduled for several winters are not to be given this season, it is reported in New York.

A machine which for hours will read recorded versions of newspaper articles, magazine stories and full-length books will soon go into production under the auspices of the "Seeing Eye" movement which has headquarters at Nashville, Tenn. Morris Frank, blind youth who heads t"Seeing Eye," an institution for training police dogs to guide blind people, says that Eastern manufacturers of radio and phonograph equipment are negotiating for patent and production rights. The device, he said, will be on the market early next year.

The machine will be known as the "reading eye." It is an adaptation of phonograph and talking film principles, and through a simple amplifying system speaks the recordings from a roll of cellophane about six inches in length and slightly thicker than the wrappers used around cigars or candy. The inventor is Allen Canton of New York City.

According to Frank, several leading book and periodical publishers have agreed to permit the use of their material for the recordings, which will be made available with the reading machine itself without charge to blind people unable to pay. Frank says that on one roll of cellophane it is possible to record the equivalent of 1500 pages of voice reading material or three full-length grand operas.

In a pre-census estimate of the number of radio sets in use in the United States, the electrical equipment division of the Department of Commerce places the total as of July 1, 1930, at 13,478,600, of which Missouri has 433,000 and Illinois 1,060,000. New York has 1,752,000 and California 1,470,000.

Removal of Tax Might Result in Car Export War

So Washington Interprets Hint Britain May Drop Its Horse-Power Import.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Opinions differ greatly as to the effect on the American industry if Great Britain removes the operating tax on automobiles, as it is reported is contemplated.

Official circles feel that such a step would make Great Britain a powerful competitor of the United States, as the present tax, which imposes a charge of $30 a year on passenger cars not exceeding six-horsepower and $5 additional per unit or part of unit in excess of six-horsepower, restricts manufacture, which is now primarily for the English markets, to the lower-priced cars. If the barrier is let down, Government circles here say, increased production of the higher powered cars demanded in this country would ensue, and England's export trade, particularly with the United States, would be greatly increased.

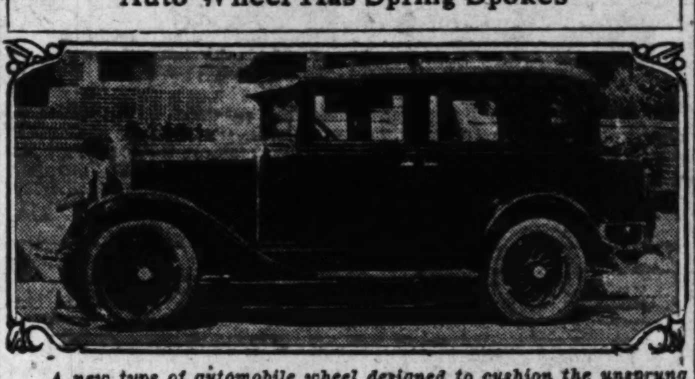
Private automobile interests at the capital, however, believe that such a move would result in a wider market in the United Kingdom for medium and higher priced American cars. These interests see in the proposed tax revision an effort to increase gasoline consumption throughout Britain rather than aid to British producers in their fight for markets.

A hint that the British Government was considering revision of its taxation methods, to enable the British car to compete more successfully with American in world markets, was given by Prime Minister MacDonald himself.

English makers long have complained that the present horse-power basis of taxation hampers their export trade because it makes unprofitable cars with large engines. The result is, they say, that American cars dominate the world markets, including the British dominions.

Serious accidents have resulted from opening the doors of the car while swinging around a corner. There is a strong temptation to do this if a door is only half caught, but the swerving will swing the door open forcibly. Passengers have been tossed into the street this way, and the hinges of the doors themselves always are damaged.

Auto Wheel Has Spring Spokes



A new type of automobile wheel designed to cushion the unsprung weight of a car. It has flat curved spring spokes, so arranged that each spoke's outer end is anchored at a point out of the radial alignment with respect to the hub connection.

New Detroit Traffic Code Now in Effect

Arrest of Driver for Speed Over 30 Miles An Hour Mandatory—Safety Zone Provisions Drastic—Garages Must Report Accident Repairs.

By CHRIS SINSABOUGH.

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—Detroit is now applying a new and, in many respects, unusual traffic ordinance. The new regulations permit a speed of 30 miles an hour. Over that speed, under any condition, arrest of an offender is mandatory. The courts must decide if the speed was dangerous to life or property. If the conditions indicate otherwise, the offender may be discharged without a fine.

The code provides that no motorist may drive through private property, such as a filling station, to evade the law which prescribes

Chevrolet Buys Plant for Making Commercial Bodies

Certain Types for Trucks and Delivery Service Will Be Made by New Division.

Purchase of the Martin-Parry Body Corporation's Indianapolis plant by the Chevrolet Motor Co. for production of certain types of commercial bodies used by Chevrolet is announced by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

While the plant operated this year on curtailed schedules, the Chevrolet organization expects to put it into immediate full-time operation.

Included in the purchase are 40 acres of land, 550,000 square feet of factory space, an additional 150,000 square feet of lumber storage space under roof, railway right-of-way, as well as 21 branches operated in various parts of the country.

J. A. Jamieson, now comptroller of Chevrolet, will go to Indianapolis as general manager of the new development, to be known as the Chevrolet commercial body division of the Chevrolet Motor Co., while ther emainder of the personnel in the organization will be taken over intact. Employment at capacity will total 600 men.

Despite the sale of its main production unit, the Martin-Parry Corporation wil maintain its identity and continue to operate at York, Pa., and South Kearney, N. J.

Franklin Dealers Report Increases In September Sales

Retail sales by 70 Franklin distributers and dealers at widely separated points in September exceeded their business volume in the same month last year, according to sales executives of the Franklin Automobile Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

Among the larger cities that have already exceeded their September, 1929, business are Chicago, Brooklyn, Pittsburg, Syracuse, St. Louis, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Kansas City, Omaha, Topeka, Seattle, St. Paul, Indianapolis, Rochester, Ottawa, Richmond, Louisville, Tacoma, Chattanooga, Nashville, Miami, Oklahoma City, Lancaster, Pa., Allentown, Pa., Wheeling, Wilkes-Barre, Lexington, K., Sioux Falls, Springfield, Ill., Charlotte, Youngstown, Raleigh.

"The business done by Franklin dealers and distributers throughout the country, not alone during recent months but since the first of the year, is definite evidence that regardless of general economic conditions, good business is to be had where the merchant puts on added sales effort," said H. H. Franklin in commenting on the company's business for the first nine months of the current year.

Advises Checking Non-Skid Value of Tires as Winter Nears

"It is a fact that few people have any idea of the strain winter driving puts on tires," says E. E. Dearth, general plant manager of the Fisk Tire Co.. "For that reason I urge every motorist and commercial car owner to check the condition of his tires, especially the non-skid value on behalf of safer winter driving. This is accomplished by simply running your hand over the tire tread. If it is worn smooth, the tire has no doubt outlived its usefulness. In all probability it cannot stand the strain of chains.

The new Fisk Air-Flight tires are constructed on a new principle which means you ride more on air and less on rubber. They have been especially designed to withstand the extreme hazards of winter driving and the strain of chains. Their heavy reinforced tread presents utmost resistance to skidding, and their all-cord carcass with no cross threads to overheat enables them to meet and conquer common, unavoidable mid-winter abuse."

Willys Six Climbs Mountain Grades in Two States, in High

On a trip from Toledo, O., a Willys six climbed every mountain grade of importance in the states of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, in high gear.

With a four-passenger load, the Willys six ran 1514 miles in four days, going from Toledo, O., to Columbus, to Charleston, W. Va., through White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to Hagerstown, Md., from Hagerstown through Martinsburg, W. Va., over the Tuscarora Mountain at Chambersburg, making the circle of the mountains and following the Lincoln highway back to Bedford, turning south over the mountains to Cumberland and following the National Trail back to Columbus.

During this mountainous trip, the Willys six climbed the steepest grades in high gear.

A short time ago, two stock Willys six roadsters won the annual Pikes Peak hill climb against the largest field ever entered in this annual classic.

Reo Sales Increase

Reo passenger car registrations in the United States during August increased 21.6 per cent over those in July, in the face of a 19.8 per cent decline by the automobile industry as a whole during that period.

Prest-O-Lite President Visits St. Louis to Inroduce New Battery

J. H. McDuffee, president of the Prest-O-Lite Battery Sales Corporation, arrived at Lambert-Municipal Airport Wednesday flying from factory headquarters at Indianapolis in the Prest-O-Lite Whirlwind Ryan four-place cabin monoplane. With McDuffee were L. E. Armstrong, of Hume, Ill., district representative for this territory, and R. F. "Dick" Knox, pilot, who used to fly the mail with Lindbergh and "Bud" Gurney in the early Lambert Field days.

McDuffee's visit was occasioned by the introduction of the new Prest-O-Lite Hi-Level battery, the first one of which was brought by McDuffee in the plane.

The local Prest-O-Lite dealer organization was represented by John J. Stochl and Irvin B. Johnston, Stochl Tire Co., 3850 Washington; E. J. Speth, Speth Electric Co., 2723 S. Jefferson, D. W. Davis, Owl Battery Co., 4617 Easton Ave., Charles J. Quint, Quint Auto Repair, 4468 Delmar; M. B. Van Houten, Van Houten Service Station, Seventh and Spruce; E. C. Outman, Outman Battery and Electric, 4722 S. Kingshighway; Charles Stein, Triple A Tire and Battery Service, 1828 Locust; A. Vollmar, Dodge & Vollmar, Webster Groves; W. E. (Pal) Williams, city Prest-O-Lite sales manager; E. W. Blanchard and David Hoffman, S. G. Hoffman Magneto Co.

Reuter Recalled As General Manager For Oakland-Pontiac

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, Corporation, has announced the following transfers within the operating staff of the corporation:

I. J. Reuter, vice president of General Motors and managing director of Adam Opel A. G., Russelsheim, Germany, becomes general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Division, Pontiac, Mich., succeeding A. R. Glancy, vice president, transferred to the general staff at Detroit.

The Oakland Motor Car Division has made important progress under the administration of Glancy. The Pontiac car was added to the Oakland line as a companion car to the Oakland in 1927. It has made for itself an important place among cars of its price class. Total cars produced have been increased from less than 50,000 in 1925 to more than 200,000 in 1929.

It is the intention of the Corporation to continue the present Pontiac and Oakland cars substantially as they now exist, injecting into their design and manufacture such improvements as may be possible from time to time in line with the policy of General Motors of constant progress with increase in the fundamental value of all its products.

New International Harvester Salesroom Opened on Ninth St.

The International Harvester Co. has opened a new salesroom at 2500 North Ninth street. This building, previously used as a service station only, has been remodeled and will be operated as a motor truck factory branch. A full line of International trucks will be on display and factory branch service will be available.

This makes three International factory branches in St. Louis and East St. Louis, the other two being at 4010 West Pine, St. Louis, and 101 South Main street, East St. Louis.

Hup Distributer Here To Take Part in Big 'Sky-Road Parade'

Plans for Hupmobile's second "Sky-Road Parade" indicate that more than 250 buyers of straight eight Hupmobiles will participate in the combined aerial event and million dollar driveaway on Oct. 29 and 30 at Detroit.

Hupmobile distributers throughout the country will send airplanes and special trains to meet the various sectional flights.

A reception committee will include officers of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, city and county officials and executives of the Ford Motor Co., National Air Transport, and many of other firms and organizations.

Some groups of new car buyers, headed by their distributers, will fly to Detroit. Others will go to Detroit by special trains, arriving in time to combine with the reception committee to meet the flyers at the Ford Airport Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 29. All flying delegations from other parts of the country will take off from their home airports in time to combine for a landing at the Ford Airport with the main group of transport planes coming from the Middle West.

The Shell Petroleum Co. is to lend one of its Lockheed planes to the Weber Implement and Automobile Co., Hup distributor in St. Louis, and the latter firm will send six of its men to Detroit to take part in the ceremonies and drive cars back.

Many Willys-Overland Dealers From City in Big Drive-Away Party

One hundred and five dealers went to the Willys-Overland factory in Toledo, O., to drive away cars they had purchased. Some took customers to whom they had sold cars.

The party went on the Wabash in six Pullman cars and two diners as guests of E. J. Johnson, Inc., Willys-Overland distributer in St. Louis, and the Hemphill Motor Co. of Kansas City.

The Kansas City dealers joined the dealers of E. J. Johnson, Inc., in St. Louis and the train was run as a special section to Detroit. From Detroit the party was taken to Toledo by bus as guests of the Willys-Overland Co. A stop was made in Pontiac, Mich., where the company manufactures its motors. The Willys-Overland plant was visited Tuesday and the dealers and their guests drove home a total of 155 cars.

Chrysler Imperial 8 Production Schedule Increased 100 Per Cent

Demand by the public for prompt delivery of the new line of Chrysler Imperial Eights has been so great since the announcement in July that production schedules have been increased 100 per cent over the original estimate.

This information was given out by officials of the Chrysler Sales Corporation, who at the same time said that unfilled orders for the Chrysler Imperial Eights now totaled 208 per cent over the original production schedule.

The demand for the Imperial Eight is in line with reports of improvements in conditions generally throughout the country, officials of the corporation point out. Orders for the imperial line are coming in from all parts of the country, signifying that the shortage is not confined to any one section, they say.

Production lines on the Imperial Eight are working night and day, Sundays and holidays, to take care of the increased demand for every model. Despite this increase in manufacturing schedule, a sizeable bank of orders will be carried over into November, officials reported.

Goodrich Develops New Rubber-Covered Running Board Type

Rubber running board covers for automobiles, for which a new process of making them adhere to the metal boards, has been developed by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. in Akron, O., are being produced in large quantities for several leading automobile manufacturers.

Rubber is cured to the metal running board frame by a heating process instead of the usual cementing process, giving permanent adhesion. In addition to making the rubber and metal almost a unit, the new method gives added attractiveness and more durability.

Loose covering, often causing a motorist to catch his heel when entering or alighting, is eliminated.

Hamilton to Run Used Car Business Of Riefling Auto Co.

O. I. Hamilton, who for years has been identified with the automobile industry, has taken over the management of the used car department of the Riefling Automobile Co., 2315-41 South Jefferson avenue.

Hamilton has served as parts man, service man, salesman and general utility man for the Riefling Automobile Co., and has also spent some time in Detroit investigating the used car situation. He left the automobile field about a year ago for the dyeing and cleaning business, but decided that he was best suited for the automotive industry.

Hamilton has been active in the affairs of the Thirty-ninth Street Business Men's Association.

Abbott Promoted By Hudson-Essex

Chester G. Abbott has been appointed assistant general manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co.

The promotion is in line with the policy of Hudson-Essex in promoting men long associated with the company.

Abbott has been associated with Hudson for 15 years, rising from salesman to vice president of the Henley-Kimball Co., Boston, one of Hudson-Essex's most successful distributers. Last year he was appointed general sales manager of the Hudson company.

Studebaker Reports Notable Economies From 'Free Wheeling'

Proving ground and road tests are reported to show that in long distance driving the new "free wheeling" Studebaker cars "free wheel" one mile in five, on the average. This means that in 10,000 miles a Studebaker runs 2000 miles on its own momentum with the engine idling, according to the Arthur R. Lindbergh, Inc., distributer.

"In effect, free wheeling permits the full utilization of car momentum as a propelling force," the Studebaker Corporation says. The instant the foot is lifted off the accelerator the engine drops to idling speed but the car continues to glide forward. It is in gear and fully controlled, yet free and unfettered as if there were no gears.

"Car momentum never forces the engine. As a result, material economies are effected in gas and oil. Under ordinary driving conditions free wheeling saves 12 per cent in gas and 20 per cent in oil, increasing as the heaviness of the traffic increases.

"Because car momentum never 'forces' the engine, the objectionable 'piling up' sensation during acceleration is banished."

Packard's Sewing Machine Sews Half Way Through Cloth

Women visitors at the factories of the Packard Motor Car Co. marvel at a sewing machine in the tailoring departments of the body shops. This machine takes stitches exactly halfway through the thickness of a piece of cloth.

It is used for sewing cloth strips on the head lining which forms the ceilings of inclosed cars. The head lining is fastened to the wooden cross beams of the top by tacking the cloth strips to them.

If sewed with an ordinary sewing machine, the stitches would be visible to passengers in a car and would make a break in the otherwise smooth contours of the cloth "ceiling."

The machine used by Packard has a curved needle which hooks the sewing thread into the cloth at any depth desired. Adjustments of the distance the stitch will extend into the cloth can be made in thousandths of an inch. After the needle has hooked the thread into the cloth and out again, a tiny finger seizes the thread and stretches it into a loop which is laid over the point of the needle, thus making the necessary hitch or knot for each stitch.

Bantam Austin Coupe Price Is Increased

Effective Oct. 15, the price of bantam Austin coupes has been advanced $20, the American Austin Car Co. announces. The list price will be increased from $445 to $465, f. o. b. Butler, Pa.

Within the first few months after the bantam Austin appeared at the principal automobile shows and in dealers' exhibition rooms, 200,000 cars were contracted for. The production capacity of the Butler plant is approximately 60,000 cars a year under normal schedules.

Analyses Traffic Advantages of New Series of Nash Cars

"Students of highway transportation who have studied the engineering features of the four new Nash groups of cars—the twin-ignition eight-90, twin-ignition eight-80, the eight-70, and the new Nash six—point to three primary attainments which particularly fit them for the rigors of present-day traffic," says C. H. Bliss, sales manager for Nash. "First they consider the power and smoothness of all four of the new Nash engines more than sufficient to meet the hardest driving tests. Second, they point to the new ease of control which brings instant response to the driver's touch and minimizes driving fatigue even in the longest tours. Third, and most significant, they declare that the brake power throughout the new Nash series has contributed largely to the practical utilization of the power and speed developed by the advanced design motors.

"This power to stop quickly, smoothly and positively is the result of long engineering effort and refinement of the big, self-energizing and cable-operated brakes on all four wheels to the point where an exceptionally large braking area is supplied to the new cars."

States That Cadillac Will Not Drop Its '8' Or the La Salle Line

Denial of the truth of reports that Cadillac has in mind eventually dropping the Cadillac eight or the La Salle eight is made in Detroit by L. P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Co. The reports developed when it was announced that Cadillac would bring out a 12-cylinder car in addition to the 16-cylinder line.

"The La Salle will remain the companion car to Cadillac," he said. "Our experience has been in building fine cars. The Cadillac organization could not adhere to its fine car ideals and successfully produce a low priced car, but, through a more complete coverage of the fine car field, it was apparent that we could could give greater value and appreciably lower prices. For the broader market, therefore, we created La Salle out of our Cadillac experience, and developed it as a quality car.

"Were it not for La Salle, all Cadillacs would be higher in price; and were it not for the Cadillacs, La Salle prices would necessarily be so high as to defeat the purpose for which the La Salle was designed.

"Each of these lines is dependent one upon the other—the Cadillac V-16, the Cadillac V-12, the Cadillac V-8 and their companion car, the La Salle."

Pierce-Arrow Will Show Special Custom Styles at the Salons

Pierce-Arrow, long recognized as an outstanding producer of fine cars and said to have built and sold more chauffeur-driven cars than any other manufacturer, will be represented in the Chicago and New York auto salons by the work of some of America's foremost producers of custom coach work, according to the Western Automobile Co., local distributer.

Five cars, typically Pierce-Arrow in character and customized by as many builders, will be displayed in Chicago. Six will be exhibited in the New York salon. The Chicago exhibition group will be comprised of three closed body types and two convertibles.

There will be an all-weather town landaulet by Brunn, a Judkins inclosed drive limousine, the all-weather town car by Willoughby, a five-passenger convertible sedan designed for Pierce-Arrow by Dietrich, and a convertible victoria created by Le Baron. In addition, a special custom creation by Waterhouse will be exhibited at the New York salon.

At St. Louis Airfields

A PRIVATE airline between St. Louis and Bagnell, Mo., has been operated since Oct. 1 by the Union Electric Light & Power Co. for the convenience of persons connected with the new Osage River dam and power plant being built by the Union Electric.

The equipment for the line is a tri-motored Ford transport, which is operated on schedule three days a week over the 140-mile route between St. Louis and Bagnell. The plane leaves Curtiss-Steinberg Airport at 8 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. On Mondays and Fridays the return trip begins at 3 p. m. On Wednesday the ship starts back immediately after discharging passengers. The flying time is about an hour and a half.

The airline is proving successful in the saving of time and money in the transportation of engineers and others connected with the dam construction, Union Electric officials say. Use of the plane is not compulsory, and there are still those who prefer traveling by train or automobile. The ship usually has a good load and, because of the demand for rides, passengers are limited with few exceptions to only those persons having business at the dam.

At Bagnell the ship lands at the private airport established by the Union Electric Co. under the supervision of Phil R. Love, and Pilot E. G. Bahl. The field has two runways, each approximately half a mile long, forming an L. There is also a concrete loading platform and a fuel pump. A road leads from the landing field to the dam a short distance away.

Before the scheduled operations were started the plane made intermittent trips to and from Bagnell, and was also used in mapping the high line right-of-way from the dam to St. Louis. The cost of the ship has been charged off to the mapping job. It is planned to continue the airline until the dam is completed next fall.

To Name New Flying Club.

Horace D. Pyle, assistant cashier of Scruggs Bank, was elected secretary-treasurer of the new flying club which is being organized by local flying enthusiasts under National Aeronautic Association rules. A name for the club will be selected at a meeting at Curtiss-Steinberg Airport Tuesday evening. Among the suggestions for a name are: St. Louis Flying Club and Valley Birdmen. A president will also be elected at the meeting. Plane owners who joined the club at a meeting last Tuesday are Sydnor Hall, Mrs. Ruth Stewart, Miss Edna Rudolph and Thornton Wagner.

Praise for Lambert Field.

Lambert-St. Louis Field, with its runways, taxi strips, 2000-foot concrete apron, lighting equipment, modern buildings and level landing area, is an imposing spectacle from the air. Postmaster-General Brown, a recent visitor, was quoted as saying the field is one of the best he has ever seen.

Air School Students.

James S. Campbell, Rolla, Mo., and Thomas Crowell, Summerville, Mass., enrolled for the limited commercial flying course at Parks Air College during the week. Students enrolling for the mechanical course were: George Peterman, Muncy, Pa.; Herbert Rehmert, Troy, O.; Witt Penland, Hayesville, N. C.; Harold Spitz, Detroit, Mich., and C. F. Kenupfer, Belleville, N. J.

"Red" Jackson Returns.

"Red" Jackson, endurance flyer, returned to St. Louis Wednesday following a barnstorming tour in the Southwest. "Red" reports that his tour was financially successful, and he will spend the winter planning a refueling endurance flight touching every State in the Union to take place next summer.

Parachute Jumps Today.

The program at Parks Airport this afternoon will include two parachute jumps by "Lucky" Jack Merrell, who has entertained the crowds at Parks Airport all summer. Other events will include glider demonstrations and an altitude guessing contest with free rides to winners.

New Recreation Room.

A new recreation room has been established for students of the Universal Flying School. Furnishings and equipment include radio, billiard tables, lounging chairs and writing tables.

Phil Ball's New Plane.

Phil DeC. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, has bought a Lockheed-Vega monoplane for his personal use and demonstration purposes. Frank Dunn, Ball's pilot, expects to ferry the ship to Lambert Field this week. Ball will keep his Ryan plane, it is understood.

Seniors Visit Airport.

Seventy-five members of the senior class of the School of Engineering, University of Illinois, inspected Lambert-St. Louis Field last Thursday. The aeronautical class of Roosevelt High School visited the field on Wednesday.

5179 Passengers in Month.

During September a total of 5179 passengers and 110,446 pounds of mail were carried on planes of American Airways, Inc., of which Universal Airlines are a part. The September business brought the totals for the first nine months of the year to 52,627 passengers, and 884,971 pounds of mail. Planes flew a total of 4,320,970 miles. Daily operations now include 22,499 miles of scheduled flying.

Bennie Howard's Duck Story.

Bennie Howard, Universal Air-lines pilot, who won national honors with his small racing plane at the recent Chicago air races, tells the best duck hunting story of the season. Last Tuesday Ben and a companion strained their backs rowing against the Missouri River current, sat shivering in a blind and at the end of the day were a duck in the hole. They shot one wild duck, and lost two live decoys, one of which drowned, according to Howard.

KWK Now Using Old Transmitter Of Station KMOX

Programs Come From Kirkwood Instead of Roof of the Hotel Chase.

Programs broadcast by KWK the past few days have come from the former transmitter of KMOX at Kirkwood instead of the station on the roof of Hotel Chase. Technically, the broadcasting has been experimental under a special permit from the Federal Radio Commission, and under supervision of an engineer of the Bell Laboratories. The test broadcasting, if and when approved by Radio Supervisor Hayes, is expected to result in KWK exercising the option to buy the 5000-watt transmitter that it has held for several weeks.

The tests, begun last Tuesday between 1 a. m. and 4 a. m., were confined to that period until Thursday at 3:30 p. m., when KWK went on regular schedule from Kirkwood, still experimentally, however. So for the present, KWK expects to broadcast all its studio programs from Kirkwood.

Indications are that, should the deal between KMOX and KWK be closed and the Kirkwood transmitter change hands permanently, KWK will be able to cover its regional territory. Reports from the Greater St. Louis area, from rural Missouri, outlying districts in Illinois, various portions of Arkansas and Kentucky are that the tests from Kirkwood have revealed excellent signal strength and fine tone quality.

Radio fans in Texas and other parts of the South, from Denver in the West, and New Jersey in the East, have reported good early morning reception and quality.

Use of the Kirkwood transmitter is a decided improvement, according to Thomas Patrick Convey, president of the company operating KWK.

What's New in Radio Industry

Six of New Battery Tubes Draw Less Current Than Two Flashlight Bulbs—Sparton Dealers to See New Sets — RCA Adds Small Receiver—Tabouret Set Introduced — Local Westinghouse Co. to Distribute Mantel Model.

Distribute Musette Mantel Set.

The Westinghouse Electric Supply Co. is to distribute Musette mantel type sets in addition to the line of Westinghouse superheterodyne receivers. The Musette is a six-tube receiver, using three AC screen grid tubes, including one as a power detector; a 27-type tube, a 45-power tube and a 280 rectifier. It is made by the Associated Cabinet companies of Ann Arbor, Mich. It is housed in an attractive small cabinet, has a dynamic speaker, and is said to be selective as well as a good distance getter.

Dealers to See New Spartons.

Three new models added to the Sparton line are to be displayed to dealers at a meeting at 6 p. m. Tuesday in the Melbourne Hotel, at which the E. J. Straus Radio Co. will be host. The added models include a Sparton Junior mantel type receiver; a set at a price between that of the Junior and the present low-priced Sparton, and a radio-phonograph combination with a record changer.

Small Radiola Added to Line.

A complete Radiola set standing less than three feet high, for convenient arm chair operation and for apartments where space is limited, has just been introduced by the R. C. A. It has a tuned radio frequency circuit using screen grid tubes and improved dynamic speaker; the horizontal tuning dial and a new compound volume control by which one knob operates two controls.

In Renaissance Design.

An example of the Italian Renaissence style is the Raphael model in the Stewart-Warner line of receivers. This has a front of solid walnut intricately carved and side panels of contrasting redwood burl, as well as artistically carved legs and apron. A steel-welded chassis carries an eight-tube screen grid circut with a new audio system developed by Stewart-Warner.

Sentinel Has Tabouret Set.

A new Sentinel receiver is of the tabouret type, with all tuning controls and station indicator in the top. It is called the Portrola and has an eight-tube screen grid circuit and a dynamic speaker. It can be placed anywhere as all four sides are equally attractive and there is no front or back.

Use Little Current.

So small is the amount of "A" current drawn by the new RCA battery tube, that six of them use less than do two ordinary flashlight bulbs. Five of the 230 or 232 tubes can be operated with no more current draw than a single flashlight bulb. Two of the 231 power tubes draw less than one flashlight bulb. Yet, in a battery set, these tubes do everything needed in sensitivity, volume and tone.

general director. Emil Mlynarski will conduct the orchestra.

Lotte Lehman, a noted European soprano, will sing Elizabeth in the performance of "Tannhauser" at the Chicago Civic Opera, the second act of which will be broadcast by an NBC chain, including KWK, from 9 to 10 o'clock next Saturday night. Paul Althouse, tenor, will have the title role; Cyrena van Gordon that of Venus and Hans Nissen that of Wolfram.

Synchronized Broadcasts Successful more widespread use, that it may be possible to maintain a closer separation and thus not require such a wide path for the synchronized broadcasting.

At any rate, the N. B. C. president and his chief engineer did not promise the millenium in national broadcasting. They simply pointed out that an ideal was within grasp, and told the commission that they would not be surprised to see it take 10 years or more for the accomplishment of that ideal. Nor will they, they asserted, keep their technical advance to themselves. If and when Congress and the commission decide that the system should be placed in operation, it will be made available also to others in the chain broadcasting field.

turning at certain points. Further, it prohibits stopping to discharge passengers between safety zones and curbs or within 20 feet of a safety zone. As compared with the conventional regulation prohibiting coasting in neutral at any time, the new Detroit ordinance merely provides that it shall not be done on downgrades.

To check accidents, the law requires that garage owners must report cars brought to them for mishap repairs. The garage or service station must give the name of the owner and the license plate number of the car.

Here is something new—an idea that will be endorsed by those millions of motorists who have had trouble reading house numbers from the street.

In the Highland Park section of Detroit, high school students have painted the house numbers on the curb directly in front of the residence. The number is stenciled in black on a yellow background giving it high visibility. A charge of 25 cents was made for each stencil, the money going into the school fund to finance the students' trip to Washington, D. C., later during the school year.

Nearly every street in the section has been numbered. The names of the streets are painted on the curbs at all intersections.

Of interest to truck buyers is the recent purchase of the Martin-Parry body building in Indianapolis by Chevrolet. It marks an important change in policy on the part of that General Motors unit. Chevrolet heretofore has sold only the truck chassis, the bodies being bought separately from outside concerns. Inasmuch as one of Chevrolet's chief competitors in the light delivery truck field has been making its own bodies for several years, it is felt that Chevrolet took this step in order to be better prepared for this sort of competition.

Naturally the change of policy will greatly affect the independent body builders but they will not lose all of thiss business for Chevrolet, it is said, will build not more than 60 per cent of its bodies at present.

Among the refinements noted on the new Reo eight-cylinder model just introduced to the public are two lamps mounted on the two rear fenders which have four purposes. They not only illuminate the rear license plates but the left lamp also flashes the usual red warning light at night. It also serves as a stoplight. When the gearshift lever is thrown into reverse the lamp on the right fender turns on to illuminate the road behind the car with a broad flare of white light which facilitates backing.

A St. Louis Bank Is Owned Entirely by Its Borrowers

Head of Federal Bank in St. Louis Tells How It Is Operated to the Advantage of Agricultural Industry.

An outline of the operations of the Federal Land Bank by its president, Wood Netherland, will probably interest manufacturers and wholesalers, in Greater St. Louis, who supply equipment and merchandise to the vast agricultural areas of the Mississippi Valley and the Southwest.

President Netherland, in a contributed article in the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce News said in part:

"The Federal Land Bank is of interest alike to farmers who depend on it for aid and city business men whose prosperity is dependent on the well-being of the farmer. The United States is divided into 12 districts, each district assigned to one of the 12 Federal land banks which were organized in 1917 under authority of the Farm Loan act.

"The Federal Land Bank of St. Louis serves the Sixth District, which comprises the states of Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas. Its loans are all negotiated through local organizations known as national farm loan associations. There are 417 of these associations in the Sixth District, covering every county of the three states. Every borrower becomes a stockholder in the association from which he obtains his loan, to the extent of five per cent of his loan, and the association, in turn, becomes a stockholder in the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis to the extent of stock held in it by the farmer-borrowers. As the farmer-owned capital stock has increased, the Government-owned capital stock has been retired, until at the present time the stock of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis is owned entirely by the borrowers.

"Loans are made up to 50 per cent of the appraised valuation of the land for agricultural purposes, with 20 per cent of the value of the permanent insured improvements added, and with a maximum of $25,000 to an individual. They are made on the gradual payment of principal plan, and for periods of 34½, 33 and 20 years. By borrowing the long term way, the farmer has ample time in which to pay off his indebtedness from the returns on his farming operations.

"Contrary to a quite widespread belief, the Federal land banks are not Government institutions, but are under strict Government supervision. The Government does not furnish any of the funds used in the operation of the system. It is entirely self-supporting. The credit of the borrowers is pooled and sold as Federal Land Bank bonds, with the loans as the principal security. The bonds are sold to investors, and the proceeds loaned by the bank at a rate not more than one per cent in excess of the rate payable on the bonds.

"Since its organization the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis has loaned to 40,294 farmers in its district, with a total amount of loans outstanding as of Aug. 31, 1930, of $107,703,408, and as a result of the operation of this and the other 11 banks, interest rates all over the country have been stabilized and farmers, whether borrowers of the bank or not, have profited by reduction in rate."

ST. LOUIS AREA HAS VARIED INDUSTRIES

Also the Home of Many Plants Which Specialize Along Unusual Lines.

The St. Louis Industrial District contains what is probably more widely varied groups of industries than will be found in any other similar area in the United States. Many of the individual plants are credited with being the largest of their kind in the country.

The largest plant in America specializing in the making and regrinding of machine knives, according to A. Floyd Chapman, is located in Greater St. Louis.

"These sharp blades of polished steel," he says, "play a very important part in the work of nearly every large industry." It is important that these knives, which perform an important part of the nation's production, should be sharpened on the machines especially designed for that purpose, and by operators who have been trained not only in the operation of the machine but in the construction of tool steels and their reaction to the grinding operations.

"St. Louis stands foremost in America in this line of work because science, skill and salesmanship have made this city the national center for the manufacture and regrinding of these knives.

"Fifty years ago most of this work was done on a natural stone commonly known as a sand stone, but the large manufacturers of grinding wheels have perfected er chance of injury to the knife, so that the sand stone is no longer found in the more modern plants specializing in machine knife grinding.

"Chief among the reasons for the passing of the sand stone is the fact it will not wear uniformly and consequently cannot be used on automatic machinery," he explained.

"Thus it is," he said, "that many out-of-town firms depend upon St. Louis because here are the largest machine knife grinders in the country and consequently it is to this city that many manufacturers send their knives to be put in shape for continued further use."

Classes in Spanish.

The Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce is conducting a special Spanish language class. The bureau believes that a better and more general knowledge of the Spanish language will enable local business institutions to carry on, more effectively, their relations with Latin-American countries.

SCIENTISTS TO KEEP QUININE ANNIVERSARY

Shaw's Garden Session to Observe 300th Year of Its Use to Treat Malaria.

Quinine—bitter boon to fever-ridden mankind in every part of the globe reached by the mosquito—will be the center of an international celebration of world-famous scientists Friday and Saturday at Shaw's Garden.

The occasion is the three-hundredth anniversary of its first recognized use for the treatment of malaria, which it is estimated killed 2,000,000 persons a year before treatment with quinine became universal. Laymen in this part of the world are inclined, perhaps, to dismiss quinint as merely a drug with an egregiously bad taste. Its importance to science may be indicated by the fact that the exclusive organization of pharmacists in St. Louis is called the Cinchona Club, and by the tradition of the tropics that anyone who hasn't the taste of quinine in his mouth is going to have the fever.

Popular history gives the date of the first use of quinine as 1638. Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden, found in old volumes of the garden's great botanical library that the first recognized use actually occurred eight years earlier, and 1630 has been generally accepted by others who investigated the matter this summer.

How Cinchona Got Its Name.

In that year, it now appears, cinchona bark cured the malaria of Juan Lopez Canizares, Spanish corregidor of Loxa. The tradition is that it was the Corregidor who recommended the treatment to the Countess of Chincon, wife of the Governor of Peru, whose cure at Lima in 1638 gave the cinchona tree its name.

Outstanding figures in growing the cinchona tree and in its preparation and use in chemistry, pharmacy and medicine will take part in the celebration of the tercentenary. They include men of international distinction from Java, Germany, Holland and Scotland.

Dr. M. Kerbosch, director of the Government cinchona estate and cinchona experimental station in Java—where virtually the world production of cinchona bark is centered—will describe the industry. Dr. A. R. Van Linge, president of the Nederlandsche Kininefabriek of Holland, will describe the manufacture of the finished preparation. The sessions will be attended by Karl Merck, head of Merck & Co. of Darmstadt, Germany.

Notables From Abroad.

Dr. Van Linge will speak at the Henry Shaw dinner, the main feature of the celebration, at 7:30 p. m. Friday at Hotel Jefferson. Dean Caspari of St. Louis College of Pharmacy will discuss the pharmaceutical phase, Director Besant of Glasgow Botanic Garden, Scotland, the botanical phase, and Dr. George D. Rosengarten, former president of the American Chemical Association, the chemical.

Friday's sessions will be held at the garden in the old museum and library of Henry Shaw, its first public use in 30 years. Saturday will be devoted to a visit to the 1600-acre extension garden at Gray Summit and the celebration will close with a reception Saturday evening at the home of Dr. Moore at the garden.

THREE ALLEGED REDS FINED $550 EACH IN POLICE COURT

Charged With Peace Disturbance Folliwing Demonstration at Home of Evicted Negro.

Three alleged Communists, Allen Brooks of 307 Rutger street, Boris Stevens, 1421 Glasgow avenue, and Herman Schwartz, 1531 Franklin avenue, were fined $550 each by Provisional Police Judge Stein yesterday on joint charges of resisting an officer and general disturbance of the peace.

They were arrested Oct. 9, when Deputy Constables seeking to evict a Negro tenant at 2317 Walnut street, on an order by Justice of Peace Van Camp, found them in a group of persons, including Negroes, who had organized a protest meeting at the house.

Police testified that the trio was carrying banners reading "Down With the Terror of the Boss" and with other slogans. Schwartz told the Court that he and his two companions belonged to an anti-capitalistic organization formed in New York and Chicago. Counsel for the three appealed.

TWO MARINE BAND CONCERTS

To Be Held at The Arena Next Saturday.

Ticket sales for two concerts to be given by the United States Marine Band next Saturday afternoon and evening at The Arena, will be in charge of a citizens' committee headed by City Collector Koeln and Mrs. Harry Hoffman.

Proceeds will go to the welfare fund of the St. Louis Marine Corps League, a reserve organization, of which Rodowe H. Abeken is commander. The committee is composed of city officials and men and women prominent in civic affairs.

CITY'S WATERWORKS HAS $424,351 SURPLUS

Amount Distributed Last Year Increased 3.93 Pct.—Decrease in Typhoid Death Rate.

The St. Louis waterworks in the year ending April 30 last, distributed 44,903,935,980 gallons of water at an operating cost of 5.7 cents per 1000 gallons. The total cost, including interest and sinking fund, was 8.3 cents per 1000 gallons. The figures are given in the annual report of Water Commissioner Leonard A. Day, dated Aug. 1 and made public yesterday.

The amount of water distributed was an increase of 1,696,686,140 gallons, or 3.93 per cent, over the preceding year.

Total revenue of the department was $4,153,540.74, an increase of $277,614.96 over the preceding year. After paying all operating expenses and interest on bonds, and providing for sinking fund to retire bonds, the surplus for the year was $424,351.46. Interest and sinking fund requirements for the year amounted to $1,167,634.50, the largest amount in the department's history. This was brought up by sale of the last of the bonds for the new Missouri River plant at Howard Bend.

The Howard Bend plant is now in continuous operation and the report states that its pumping cost is lower than that of the Chain of Rocks plant. The cost of pumping 1,000,000 gallons at Howard Bend is given as $11.82 and at Chain of Rocks it is $13.39.

A point commented on in the report is the decrease in the typhoid death rate in the city from 4.07 for each 100,000 population in 1921, to 1.50 in 1929, resulting in St. Louis being placed on the honor roll by the American Medical Association.

Concrete covers were constructed over storage reservoirs at Baden and Bissell's Point, resulting in improved quality of water. This year the Compton Hill reservoir will be covered, it is stated, which will complete the covering of all filtered water basins.

It will be necessary this year, the report states, to build a new boiler room at the Chain of Rocks plant, as the boilers there have been in service 35 years and can no longer be depended upon. It also is planned to build four more coagulating basins at the Howard Bend plant.

The year's deficit from the Chain of Rocks electric railway was $23,057.63. The revenue was $9507.38 and operating expenses $32,565.01. The number of passengers carried on this railway has been decreasing each year due to bus competition, it is stated. The number for the year was 294,161 compared with 328,560 the preceding year.

The largest day's consumption of water was 168,614,100 gallons on July 27, 1929. The maximum pumping period extended from June 17 to Sept. 11, with a daily average of 136,900,000 gallons. The daily average for the year was 123,024,500 gallons.

Germany Again the Cause of Disquiet; New Generation Fermenting With Revolt

Lloyd George Points Out That Patriotism and Idleness Are an Explosive Mixture and Sees Possibility of Germany and Russia, With Common Enemies, Helping Each Other—Finds One Justification for Fascist Complaint.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

(Copyright. 1930.)

LONDON, Oct. 25.

CENTRAL EUROPE is distinctly on the boil. Germany, especially young Germany, is fermenting with revolt against the existing order of things, and prophets would hesitate to risk their reputation on a prediction as to whether democracy or dictatorship will win amid this ferment. Poland is fighting out that issue, with odds for the moment heavily on dictatorship.

The German situation presents features which are disquieting for the peace of Europe. There is a disposition in some quarters to exaggerate the immediate perils of the political crisis in that country. France is certainly apprehensive of trouble from that quarter and the news I have from Germany is that the man in the street there feels very depressed about the situation.

As one very sane and intelligent German not addicted to panic put it the other day to a friend of mine, "our country now is a powder barrel which may be exploded any time by an electric spark and storms charged with electricity are approaching from every side."

At the last election thirteen and a half millions of Germans (divided between two parties) voted for upsetting the existing order. The way German Fascism leapt from insignificance into a formidable menace, is, to say the least, sensational. The phenomenal success of the Hitler party startled even Hitler's supporters. Everyone anticipated a large measure of success for the new party but nothing approaching the triumph they actually won. The remarkable growth of Communists adds another disturbing factor to the situation.

The significance of the Hitler vote will be realized by a perusal of their avowed aims: first, Germany for the Germans; second, expropriation of "the entire property of the Bank and Bourse Princes, of Oriental Jews and of other equally obnoxious profiteers," transforming all big banks into State property; third, repudiation of the Treaty of Versailles; fourth, training of German youth for self defense.

Here is a curious medley of aggressive nationalism and pillage. It is a portent not to be ignored that six and a half million Germans committed themselves to this program and that in the same election four and one-half millions voted for Communists whose program as to plunder is still more comprehensive, and in so far as the Treaty of Versailles is concerned, is identical with that of the Fascists.

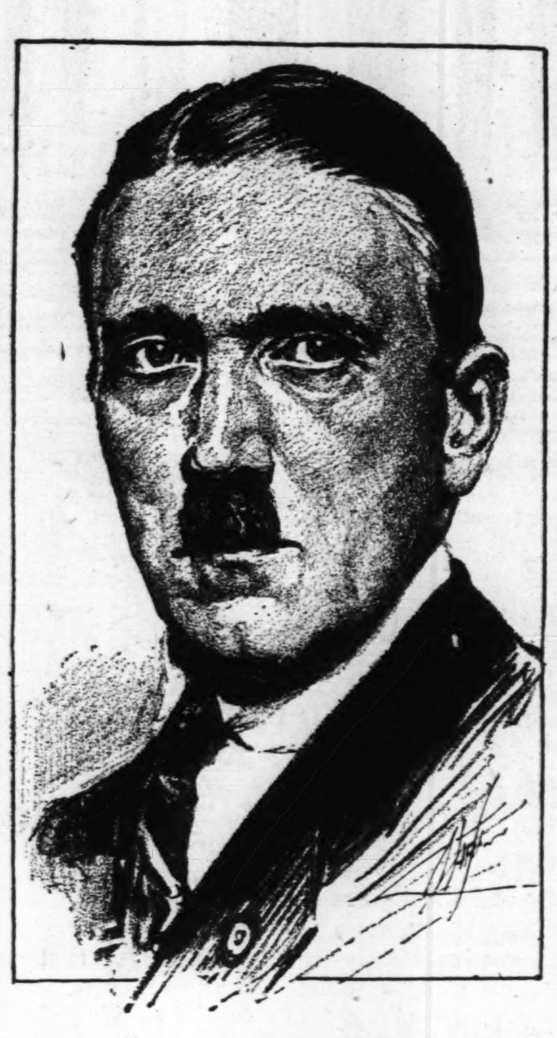
The spectacular march of 140,000 Stahlhelmers at Coblenz before Gen. von Seeckt and the former Crown Prince has given point to the character of the danger. The Stahlhelm was originally an organization of ex-service men formed to protect the country against violence and Communism. It has now developed into a militant and militarist political organization with definitely nationalist aims.

It has a million enrolled members. It contains ex-generals, ex-officers and ex-soldiers of the Great War. The youth of Germany are flocking to the standard. It has a uniform of its own, not easily distinguished from that of the German Army of 1918. It has been organized on a military plan and its members are imbued with a military spirit and purpose. Thousands of them tramped on foot hundreds of miles to attend the Coblenz review.

One Justification for Germany.

There can be not doubt that Europe is thoroughly frightened by these exhibitions of the resurgence of German Nationalism, or, as the Fascists themselves put it, by "the rebirth of the German soul." Britain is not yet much perturbed. However, when you have a wide deep moat around your house you may fear rats but you are not worried about burglars. Continental Europe, however, to quote the words of a distinguished publicist —Prof. Gerothwohl—"is already envisaging a fresh Armageddon within the next year or two." The hot heads and weak heads can hear the rumble of cannon at hand. The cool heads think it further off but they do not doubt its ultimate arrival.

France, Poland, Belgium and Czecho-Slovakia are not worrying about the confiscatory proposals embodied in the lurid confession of faith made by German Fascism, but they are genuinely alarmed by the blunt attack on the Peace Treaty and by the announcement of the resolve to arm Germany again.



ADOLF HITLER.

On the question of rearmament, the flagrant disavowal by the Allies of the honorable pledges they gave in the Peace Treaty to disarm as soon as Germany set an example has given German Nationalists a moral position which is unassailable. They cannot be accused of treaty breaking when the Powers that dictated the treaty have themselves set a precedent of tearing up a vital provision of their own covenants. The German Chancellor in his declaration of policy called emphatic attention to this situation. He said:

"The promise that Germany's enforced disarmament would be followed by voluntary disarmament of the rest has so far been brought no nearer realization. Many countries are proceeding with armaments in disregard of treaties and endangering security and the peace of the world. That is an intolerable state of affairs."

I have no doubt at all this argument had much to do with Hindenburg's refusal to acquiesce in the suppression of the Stahlhelmers by the Prussian Government. And when a man of his unchallengeable honor and his imperturbable calm adopts that attitude towards a redoubtable military movement which is an infraction of the treaty of peace it ought to be a warning to the Powers of what is in store for Europe if they continue in disreputable defiance of their own treaties.

Much Idleness Increases Danger.

Poincare, in his articles about treaty breaking, steadily ignores this aspect of the matter. His ideas about keeping a bargain are always very onesided where Germany is one of the parties and France the other. That is why the youth of Germany are rallying in such numbers to Hitlerism. The more contemptuously one speaks of the methods and rhetorical appeals of the movement, the more formidable becomes the fact that it has captured six and a half millions of full-grown Germans. It represents genuine revolt against a real grievance.

I do not believe these millions are attracted by the crudities of the Hitler program. The violence of Fascism seems to provide them with the most emphatic method of registering their protest against the way in which the Allies have cheated Germany and the failure of the older parties hitherto to protest on behalf of the Fatherland against foreign deception.

The situation would not be as dangerous were it not for the economic troubles of Germany. A tidal wave of trade depression has swept Germany. There are now three million unemployed. These numbers consist of workmen who are saved from starvation by insurance. Over and above these, however, are the clerical class for whom no provision has been made by the State. Amongst them there is considerable suffering.

The financial position of the country causes anxiety. There is a deficit in the budget and there are heavy gold payments to be made across the frontier in respect to reparations and loans. Gold, selfish and unpatriotic as ever, is fleeing the country. The Bruening Government is acting with decision. The Government is balancing the budget by cutting down expenses and raising contributions of workmen and employers to meet heavy burdens of unemployment benefit.

The Socialists, without whose support the Government cannot exist as a parliamentary ministry, are still uncertain. The price they expect for their support adds somewhat to industrial difficulties. The Government has so far survived, but if it ultimately is defeated, then what is to follow? Will the Weimar Constitution survive?

Revolutions are precipitated by economic causes. Had Germany been prosperous "Hitlerism" and Communism would not have rallied such an immense following. But the revolutionary parties are able with some show of reason to contend that the difficulties of the Fatherland are attributable to the harshness and unfairness with which the Treaty of Versailles has been enforced. The domestic crisis thus becomes an international menace.

Patriotism and privation are an explosive mixture. Europe had reason to realize that in the days of the French Revolution. That explosion shattered the peace of Europe for over 20 years. If the Allies and America drive Germany too hard, especially in the present condition, there may be a detonation with devastating results. It is pre-eminently time for a display of sympathy and forbearance. Briand is wise enough to understand that. Much depends on whether he is strong enough to control French policy. His speech to the women's deputation at Geneva showed qualities of restrained and farseeing statesmanship which will save Europe if it prevails.

I am told that speech has lost him the presidency of the French Republic. If it has, then it will gain for him immortality.

Is there enough wisdom and courage left amongst the rulers of the nations to reconsider these crushing international war debts? In 1922 Britain proposed they should be wiped out. The British Government was prepared to forego all debts and reparations due to their country provided the United States and France followed the same example. It was suggested that Germany might make a further limited contribution towards the cost of repairing the devastated area. In proportion to population and assets Britain would have been called upon to make a greater sacrifice if this proposition had been accepted than any other country—not excepting the United States. The American Treasury and Poincare combined to reject that note. What have they gained by it?

Russia "on the Horizon."

America is stuffed with European gold and suffering from a bad attack of indigestion. France is confronted with the specter of fierce uprising anger amongst the youth of Germany. She may not fear these unarmed juveniles—not just yet. But Russia is on the horizon. It is building up economic and military strength with ruthless purpose. The old Russian alliance saved France from further humiliation at the hands of Germany in the last war. Might not a Russo-German understanding save Germany?

Not just yet.

Germany is helping re-equip Russia economically. Russia may return the compliment militarily. They have common grievances and common enemies. Germany is not Bolshevik. Nor did the French Republic believe in Czarism. France is strong enough today alone to enforce the treaty she has broken. A few years hence she cannot do so unless the conscience of the world is behind her. By their attitude on disarmament the French statesmen are alienating that conscience.

The generation that knew war and its horrors is still in command everywhere. As long as it constitutes the majority at the polls, peace will prevail. But it is rapidly passing away. The last general election in Germany shows only too clearly that those who base their hopes for peace on the idealism of the younger generation are doomed to disappointment.

Strangest Topsy-Turvy Political Fight Of the Year Raging in Pennsylvania

MANY BOLTS IN BOTH PARTIES IN BATTLE OVER UTILITIES

Gifford Pinchot, Republican Dry and Champion of Power Trust Control, Fought by Vare Machine and Big Party Leaders While Getting Support of Prominent Democrats and Avowed Wets in Race for Governor.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.

THESE are strange political days in the supposedly rock-ribbed Republican State of Vare, Mellon and Grundy—strange days and exciting. For Pennsylvania is the scene of a desperate contest which has sent many lifelong Republicans, stalwart Republicans of the Union League variety, into the Democratic ranks; which has caused an impressive number of congenital Democrats, including all the outstanding leaders of the party in the State to flop shouting to the Republican side; which has induced ardent wets to line up with drys, and which has led some political observers to utter the serious prophecy that Pennsylvania on Nov. 4 will elect its first Democratic Governor in 40 years.

Not even in the "backward" State of Nebraska, as Senator Grundy would call it, are political affairs so chaotic.

The cause of all the shooting and the bolting can be put in a word—Pinchot. Gifford Pinchot has again gone to the wars. Or, to state the case more accurately, he has started a new campaign in the war he has been waging for many years.

The real contest is between Pinchot and the public utilities of Pennsylvania. It is not primarily a wet-and-dry fight. True, Pinchot is a sincere dry, one of the most influential drys of the country, and his opponent is a wet, running with the support of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. If Pinchot wins, the drys will claim a great moral victory; if his opponent wins, the result will be hailed by the wets as striking evidence of a national revolt against prohibition.

Prohibition Views Immaterial.

Prohibition, of course, enters into the battle, but whoever says that it is the dominant issue is either ignorant of conditions in Pennsylvania, is blinded by fanaticism for either the wet or the dry cause, or is deliberately throwing up a smoke screen to hide the truth.

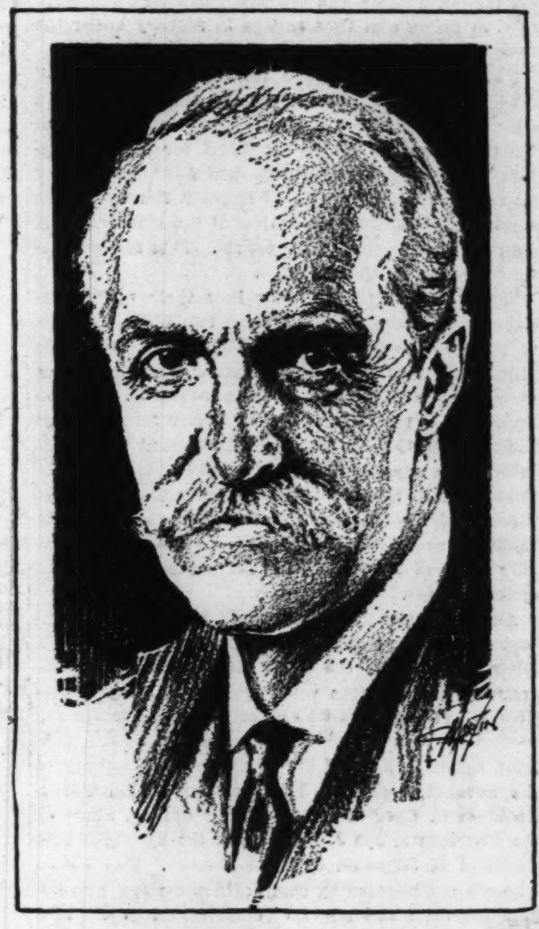
Pinchot is running for the governorship against John M. Hemphill, Democrat. There is also a senatorial fight for the seat now held by Old Joe Grundy, with Secretary of Labor James J. Davis ("Puddler Jim") running on the Republican ticket and Sedgwick Kistler on the Democratic. But nobody is paying any attention to the senatorial contest. Davis will win in a walk—by what is called in Pennsylvania "an old-fashioned Republican majority."

Now Jim Davis is a dry and Kistler is a wet. If the real issue in the campaign were prohibition, those Republicans who formed the "Liberal Party" as a vehicle for their opposition to Pinchot would have made Kistler their candidate as well as Hemphill. There is, indeed, more reason why a wet should support Kistler than Hemphill, for Kistler is running for an office which carries a legislative vote on prohibition. But for this office, the "Liberals" are supporting the regular Republican nominee, Davis. Hemphill's is the only name on the "Liberal" ticket. The fact that the "Liberals" are able to swallow "Puddler Jim" is proof enough that they are moved by something other than a desire to get rid of the eighteenth amendment.

Pinchot's Early Public Record.

A word about the protagonists in the battle for the governorship. Gifford Pinchot has long been nationally known for his work as a conservationist. He began it under Roosevelt, who made him Chief Forester of the United States, and carried it on under Taft until his famous controversy with Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, after Taft had turned his back on the Roosevelt conservation policies, brought about his dismissal.

Roosevelt in his autobiography said of him: "Gifford Pinchot is the man to whom the nation owes most for what has been accomplished as regards the preservation of the natural resources of our country. Among the many public officials who under my administration rendered literally invaluable service to the people of the United States, he, on the whole, stood first."



GIFFORD PINCHOT.

Pinchot's fight with Ballinger, which led to a congressional investigation and ultimately to the retirement of Ballinger, was one of the incidents contributing to the downfall of the Taft administration.

Pinchot subsequently was State Forester of Pennsylvania, by appointment of Gov. Sproul, and in 1922 he was elected Governor. Naturally, as a conservationist, he had become interested in water power. He brought about an elaborate survey of the hydro-electric possibilities of the State, under the direction of Morris L. Cooke, now a consulting engineer of Philadelphia. The result was the presentation to the State Legislature of the famous "giant power" scheme with which Pinchot's name has been identified in recent years.

Not to go too greatly into details, the giant power project contemplated a great pool of power into which power from all sources would be poured; it proposed strict regulation of the power companies, with respect both to rates and the issuance of securities; it called for rural electrification on a huge scale, and, while it provided that private power properties already in existence might be valued for rate-making purposes at the cost of reproduction, it stipulated that additions to plant must be valued on the "prudent investment" basis.

His Views on Power Companies.

"The giant power plan," Pinchot explained in a message to the Legislature, "takes no account of public ownership. It proposes to deal with facts as it finds them, and does not even raise the question. It must and does however, take most careful account of the form of regulation best fitted to cope with the gigantic electric monopoly which is plainly in sight."

And again: "There is already advancing with immense rapidity, a consolidation of companies engaged in supplying this universal source of power which has already far transcended State lines, and has in many respects reached national proportions. In the face of such a concentration of capital and power, the states and the nation can maintain their industrial freedom and ability to govern themselves only through the medium of effective public regulation.

"I venture to say that if the people of the United States ever turn to the nation-wide public ownership of electric utilities, it will be because the companies have driven them to it. It will be directly and only because the utility companies have so opposed and prevented reasonable and effective regulation by the states and by the nation that the only choice left was between servitude to a gigantic and unendurable monopoly and the ownership and operation of that monopoly by the people."

Democratic Opponent Making His Campaign on Slogan of "Smash Prohibition," but Has Active Backing of Huge Republican Machine Because He Is "Safe" on Regulation of Public Utilities—Many Democratic Papers for Pinchot.

The public utilities of the State flew to arms. Pinchot, they said, was a dangerous revolutionary, a menace to the best interests of the State. Notwithstanding his protest that the scheme did not contemplate Government ownership, they branded it as a step in that dread direction. Marshaling their forces at Harrisburg, they defeated the bills which sought to give effect to the plan.

In still another notable contest with the Governor the utilities came out on top. In an effort to reorganize the State Public Service Commission so as to bring it from under the control of the utilities, Pinchot removed three commissioners. They did not stay ousted. This time it was the State Supreme Court that intervened. The court held that although the Governor held the appointive power, he could not remove members of the board without the consent of the Legislature. The ousted members were restored to their posts and the Public Service Commission continued to pursue its policy of granting the utilities about all that they asked for. It is still doing precisely that.

It has been necessary to sketch this background to show the genesis of the fight on Pinchot which is being waged today. Since the drafting of the giant power plan that fight has been unremitting. Pinchot has fought back, and he has not lacked the sinews of war which are so necessary in this State. In 1926 came the "golden primary" in which Pinchot ran for the Republican Senatorial nomination against Bill Vare, boss of Philadelphia, and the pious Pepper, the candidate of the Mellon interests. Pinchot in that campaign, as the Reed investigating committee disclosed, spent close to $200,000. nearly all of which came from his own or the family purse, while the campaign for the Pepper ticket cost close to $2,000,000 and the Vare campaign nearly $800,000.

Opponent Wet and "Safe."

Pinchot, as will have been gathered, is not able to match dollars, even had he the desire to do so, against the resources of the Mellons or of the Vare machine. He is, however, a rich man, one of that type of rich men, like Dwight Morrow, who have made public service a career. He is a reformer by inheritance, his paternal grandfather, a soldier under Napoleon having been compelled to emigrate from France under Bourbon rule because of his Republican tendencies. This ancestor settled in 1818 at Milford, in Northeastern Pennsylvania, which is still the Pinchot family home. Gifford Pinchot's wealth is inherited and is mainly in New York real estate. He is 65 years old.

Pinchot's opponent in the present fight, John M. Hemphill of West Chester, is a man of better caliber than the average candidate nominated by a minority party as a "pushover"—for that is what he was generally supposed to be when the nomination was made. At the age of 39, he has turned the corner toward a lucrative corporation law practice. He was a captain in the World War, saw service in France and came out with the notation "excellent combat record" on his papers. He is a man of pleasant personality. His wife is a sister of Joseph Hergesheimer, the novelist. This is his first venture in politics.

As the candidate of the Liberal and the Democratic parties, the main plank in his platform is "Smash prohibition," and he is making a hard-hitting campaign on that issue. He is, beyond a doubt, a sincere wet. What makes him a formidable candidate, as has been explained, is not his wetness, but the fact that the public utility interests regard him as "safe and sane."

Opposition of Vare Machine.

Pinchot won the nomination for the Governorship over Francis S. Brown who was a candidate of the utilities and of the Vare

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mr. Denman and the Farmer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your issue Oct. 16, you publish a speech delivered by C. B. Denman of the Federal Farm Board before the annual meeting of the Missouri Farmers' Union at Grant City, Mo. Among other things he is quoted as saying:

> We must so organize our agricultural marketing as to be able effectively to penalize inefficiency, which may be only another way of saying "overproduction."

Heading an organization whose members represent and serve many thousand farmers and stockmen of Missouri and Illinois, I would like to be better informed as to what this Government official actually means in this threat to "penalize" farmers for inefficiency which he defines as "overproduction," that great bug-bear of politicians these days.

Are we to infer that the Federal Farm Board, apparently thoroughly satisfied with the drop in farm products prices of the past 15 months exceeding over a billion dollars, is soon to give birth to great plans to cause further anguish to the grower of crops? We rather opine that for the space of little over a year this billion-dollar loss is sufficient penalty, especially so when the guilt of the farmer is so slight—for there is comparatively little overproduction. Personally I feel that there is actually no overproduction. It is mainly under-consumption that is worrying both business and agriculture.

But let's get back to our subject. If overproduction is inefficiency in farming then the man in the country has been taught wrongly these many years past by the United States Government Department of Agriculture and the various agricultural colleges which have been conscientiously showing him how to drain his land, prevent soil erosion, use better seed, fertilize, rotate crops, plow deep, grow legumes and do many other things to increase the acreage in crops and grass and the output per acre. Having followed this service (and it has been sound) the farmer now finds, according to Mr. Denman, that he is inefficient and the Federal Farm Board, after seeing that he is organized to control the marketing of his crops, will also see, according to its spokesman, that the farmer will be properly penalized for his inefficiency, i. e., overproduction.

This line of reasoning by the Farm Board would go to show that the real honest-to-goodness efficient farmer is the one who under-produces. The unfortunate fellow on poor thin soil, afflicted with grasshoppers, chinch bugs, and other calamities and who averages 10 bushels wheat per acre is to be rated 100 per cent efficient in this new bureaucratic scoring.

The favored chap who farms in the best black soil region of Illinois, but who spends his days basking in the sun, touring or at the town movies, letting the weeds take his crops and the hired man do all the work, getting a 20-bushel average for his corn, is also entitled to Uncle Sam's merit badge of efficiency Such as these will have no penalty applied, but rather will be ranked with the "saviors of their country" entitled to medals and encomiums from the Farm Board.

But the master farmers, those who year in and year out make good, who turn off carloads of blooded fat stock, whose soil is maintained in a high state of fertility, whose cribs each fall are bursting with gleaming yellow ears of corn—these are the enemies of the human race who must be punished in the golden age when the Farm Board has all the farmers signed up in their "big collective" and it controls the "marketing machinery" for all farm produce.

Then watch out, you industrious farmers who work hard to achieve and make good! You will get the ax and get it good and plenty, for when dear old Uncle Samuel decides to deal out penalties he is in a class by himself. We have no idea what the penalties will be, whether poisoning or Atlanta or Fort Leavenworth (those are the favored methods at present). Flogging and burning at the stake may be added. Perchance the Farm Board, which has fallen down miserably in everything else it has undertaken, will make a great and glorious success at this penalty business.

ST. LOUIS LIVESTOCK EXCHANGE,
W. A. MOODY, President.

A Defense of Safety Platforms.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SO J. K. would have the safety standards at Union boulevard at Cabanne avenue removed? And would offer in their place a traffic policeman!

Well, if motorists with the bright headlights now used in driving cannot see the amber lights which flicker constantly, and the standards which are large and white, how would anyone expect them to see a traffic cop or pedestrian?

Yes, these standards have been there over quite a period of years and have proved their value in saving lives and giving protection to persons boarding street cars or crossing streets at this point, not to mention the importance of safety offered to our school children.

Instead of taking them away, let these guardians of public welfare remain, and any motorist who drives so fast or carelessly that he plunges headlong into them, himself is the menace. K. L. H.

RECORDS OF CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES

In the Seventy-first Congress two bills tested the courage and fidelity to popular interests of members. These were the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill and the Reece bill providing for the private operation of Muscle Shoals.

The tariff bill, which was enacted into law, is the worst of its kind. It was concocted by Grundy and the tariff barons. Its sole beneficiaries were the favored manufacturers, and it exemplified privilege in the highest degree. At a time when agriculture and industries of all kinds needed above all foreign markets to dispose of surplus products, it closed these markets. It aroused bitter hostility among foreign peoples and induced them to make reprisal in their own tariffs which would in turn keep out American goods. There was not a line in it tending to open new markets or keep open any markets that were available to the American people. Business protested against it. All the evidence available with regard to popular opinion showed that the people who understood its effects were against it. Subservient party Congressmen, however, voted for it at the dictation of the high tariff leaders.

At a time when the farmers and the people generally needed above all reasonable prices for commodities, it put in the hands of favored manufacturers the opportunity and the power to create artificially high prices and thus engage in robbery under the form of law.

The Reece bill provided for private operation of Muscle Shoals. It was designed as a measure to turn over the great Government hydro-electric plant at Muscle Shoals to the Power Trust for the exploitation of the people. A battle had been fought and won under the leadership of Senator Norris for the retention of Government control of the Muscle Shoals plant in the interest of the people. This bill was designed to defeat that purpose.

The people ought to know how their representatives in Congress voted on these two bills. In view of the approaching election of Representatives, the people ought to know in particular how candidates seeking re-election voted on these measures. This information is the only means by which they can test the attitude of their Congressmen toward the public interest, as opposed to greedy private interests. The Post-Dispatch feels that it is its duty to publish the records of Representatives seeking re-election from Missouri and Southern Illinois, so that the voters may judge of their fitness to serve the people in the next Congress.

All Republican Representatives from Missouri except one, Thomas J. Halsey of Holden, in the Sixth District, voted for the tariff bill and all the Democratic Representatives voted against it. The Republican Representatives who voted for it, nominated for re-election, are: David Hopkins of the Fourth District, Edgar C. Ellis of the Fifth, John W. Palmer of the Seventh, Henry F. Niedringhaus of the Tenth, Leonidas C. Dyer of the Twelfth, Dewey J. Short of the Fourteenth, Joe J. Manlove of the Fifteenth and Rowland L. Johnston of the Sixteenth. The voters who are not hog-tied by party affiliation and who oppose privilege and popular exploitation will vote against these candidates. All should vote for the popular interest.

The Missouri Democratic Representatives voted against the Reece bill. The Republican Representatives from Missouri divided. David Hopkins, Edgar C. Ellis, Thomas J. Halsey and John W. Palmer voted for it. Two Republicans, Charles E. Kiefner of the Thirteenth District and Rowland Johnston of the Sixteenth, joined the Democrats in voting against it. Henry F. Niedringhaus and Joseph Manlove were recorded as not voting. L. C. Dyer and Dewey Short were paired and did not indicate how each would vote.

Of the Southern Illinois Republicans, Charles Adkins of the Nineteenth District, F. M. Ramey of the Twenty-first, Ed M. Irwin of the Twenty-second and E. E. Denison of the Twenty-fifth voted for the Reece bill. Henry T. Rainey of the Twentieth District and William W. Arnold of the Twenty-third, both Democrats, voted against it.

The votes of all these Southern Illinois Republicans on the tariff bill were identical with their votes on the Reece bill.

It is only by the records of public servants that the people can judge of their fitness to represent them in office. We have given the records on these two important measures of the Representatives from Missouri and Southern Illinois in order that the people may know from their records what these Representatives have done and will do when the issue between popular and special interests comes before them.

The result of the elections rests with the people.

A CONTEMPORARY OF THE CONSTITUTION.

A career almost as old as that of the Republic stretches back of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Times-Star, which will observe its 140th anniversary next month. Founded as a weekly, the Farmer's Journal, at Danbury, it was transferred to Bridgeport in 1810, becoming the Republican Farmer. The year Commodore Perry opened up Japan it began daily publication. Within recent years the name was changed to the Times and in 1925 it took over the Evening Star. During all that time the publication, under some one of its names, has been issued regularly. Thus the line of the Times-Star is older than incorporated Bridgeport, for although it was settled in 1639 on land bought from the Paugusset Indians, incorporation did not come until 1800. Center of Revolutionary War privateering, the home of the Times-Star is now one of the important industrial centers of the country. Once of the Jeffersonian Democracy, the Times-Star is now independent in politics. We congratulate it on its venerable career.

PARKING TAGS FOR BABY BUGGIES.

Critics who have noted the decay of personal rights in this Republic have a new text for their carpings, now that even infants slumbering in perambulators are no longer immune from police regulation, at least in New York City. A campaign of tagging baby buggies parked on the grass in Central Park has been waged vigorously for some weeks, and several hundred nursemaids have been frightened nearly into hysterics by having summonses handed to them by police. Mothers of the law-breaking infants have their choice of a $1 fine or jail, and all have paid. One woman, whose 2-year-old son had criminally played on the grass, patiently explained that he could not read the sign, and the Judge freed the miscreant with a warning. While Judge Crater, Promoter Bob, Rothstein's slayer and Diamond's assailant remain, like prosperity, somewhere around the corner, the police are all efficiency in dealing with law violators up to 3 years old. This reminds us what a blessing it is to live in a great liberal metropolis like St. Louis, where some rights still remain to the citizenry. There hasn't been a "Keep Off the Grass" sign in our parks for years and years.

AFTER TEN YEARS.

Time reduces all things to their essence, and the people of the United States could not possibly have punished the corrupt Harding regime as time has done it.

There has been for some time a deluge of publicity upon the refusal of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover to dedicate the $700,000 Harding Memorial at Marion, O. More is being printed about it than has been printed about some of the corollaries of the Ohio Gang's raid on Washington, for instance the Continental Trading scandal. The press finds itself much freer in the present instance.

The dramatic sequel illustrates a situation in the United States that demanded correction whether the voters of the country were willing to correct it or not. The United States could not continue a republic and the fine inspiration it has for so long been to the rest of the world unless the Government were honest. Nothing devised by genius for the great American experiment could prove out if political parties were to put their own fortunes above the fortunes of the country and protect rogues as the price of party solidarity. This is just what the Republican leaders did in the case of the Harding regime. The following from the current Nation is bitter, but only acid can remove from the national scroll the deep stain of what happened under the Harding regime and the way the party tried to cover it up:

> The dedication of the Harding Memorial at Marion, O., has been indefinitely postponed. The memorial was built in 1926; since that time attempts have been made from time to time to persuade first President Coolidge and then President Hoover to take part in a dedication ceremony. Both gentlemen are alleged to have refused. Can it be that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge have at last heard some of the rumors that have been current about the doings in Washington during the Harding administration? As Vice President and as Secretary of Commerce respectively, during the palmy days of the Ohio Gang, they were, of course, in a cloistered position which did not provide them with opportunity to hear and digest the local scandal or read about it in the newspaper accounts of senatorial investigations. Now that they are out in the world, the one as a newspaper man, the other as President of the United States, they are more in touch with things. It might be thought, however, that having kept silent all these years about one of the most scandalous administrations in the history of American politics, they would have been a little more gracious to see the comedy through to the end, to assume, as perhaps the large majority of their fellow citizens assume, that President Harding was the dupe of his ambitious friends, and to make the final ironic act of the play the dedication of his tomb.

In truth, it is not merely Harding who is disgraced. They are all disgraced for their recreancy to a country to which they profess loyalty and for which they avow affection. They all share the obloquy of having prostituted the ethics of their party to the ethics of a gang. Why try to put a better face upon it? The moral is too terrific. It is devastating. It is destroying. It will visit its wrath upon the name of every public man who was associated with it, albeit some of them played only the ignoble part of silence.

What a lesson!

MEETING THE JAM CRISIS.

There is something decidedly heartening about the news that Baltimore high school boys are being taught to make jam. It means the business of the world is going on, the recent crop of newlywed wives notwithstanding. Jam simply must be made and these boys will make it. Girls may sign up for machine shop, business administration and lamp designing, but their brothers know a real opportunity to be of service when they see it. No girlish play in the wood-working lab for them when mankind cries out for cooks who will put strawberries back in strawberry jam. They know how much the country needs conscientious jam makers and they have gone to the rescue. Their movement is bound to spread, both geographically and in the realm of the kitchen. Jelly, preserves, marmalade and conserves of all kinds need attention just as much as jam. Let women executives and lady managers clutter up civilization if they will. They are no good around boiling fruit juice, so they had better be watching office clocks. Look to the boys who can tell when apricot jam has reached the right thickness, who have brought yellow tomato preserves and grape conserve through without sticking, the boys who can get apple jelly to set the first time. It is they who will have solutions for the tariff, prohibition and unemployment problems of the future.

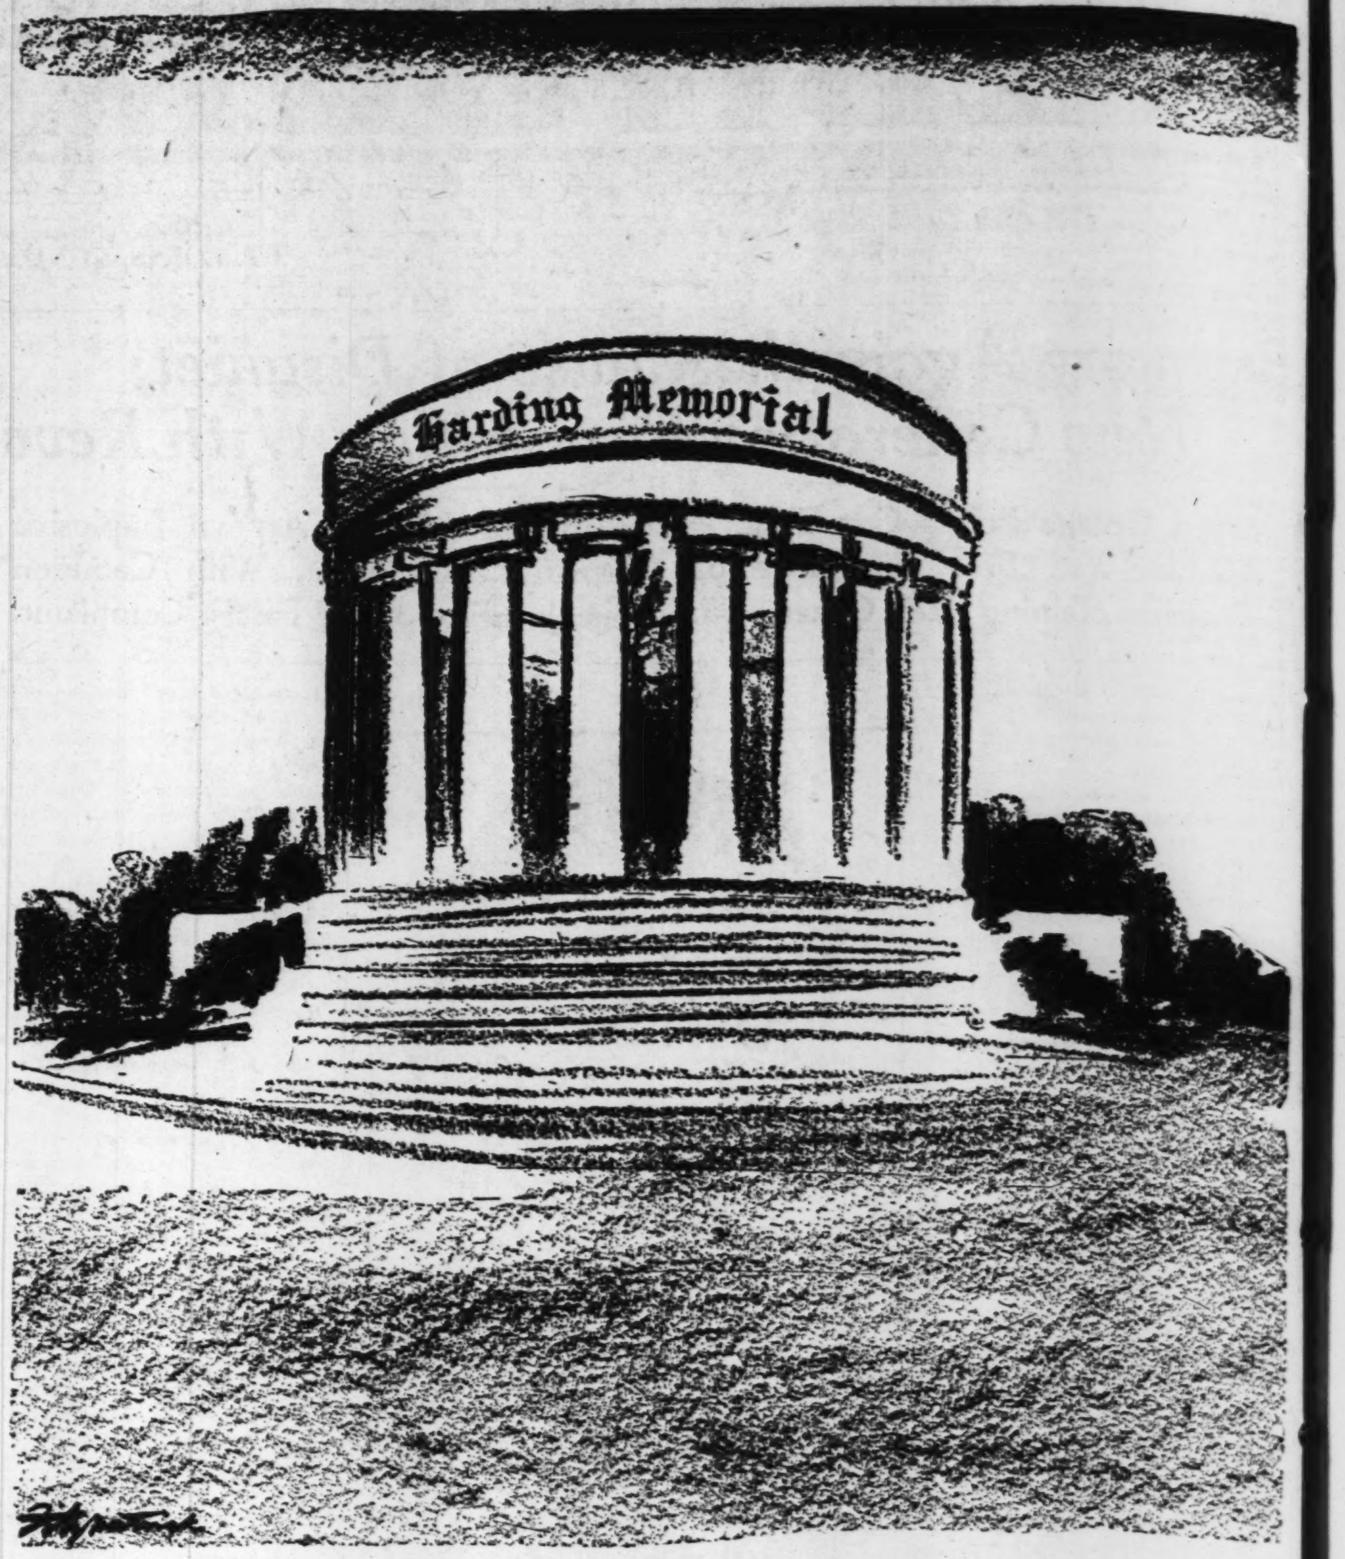
THE TARIFF DRUGS ITS ADDICTS.

The Federal Farm Board's Advisory Committee of sugar beet and sugar cane growers has requested the board to intercede with the Tariff Commission to obtain still higher sugar duties.

Inability of the domestic industry to compete with Cuban and Philippine producers is given as the reason for the request. It may be expected that Dr. Brossard, the representative of the sugar interests whom Mr. Hoover has placed upon his reorganized Tariff Commission, will lend a sympathetic ear to their plea.

The request again makes clear the fact that the tariff is futile, not only as a protector of the interests of labor, but also as a means of benefiting those employers in whose interests it is passed. Again and again our Congress has extended artificial tariff aid to the sugar industry. In 1922 it boosted the duty to 2.21 cents per pound, in 1930 to 2.5 cents. Still sugar growers profess to find themselves in sore straits. Their trouble, of course, is caused by the fact that the exclusion of foreign supplies and the consequent increase in the price of sugar has encouraged them to over-expand domestic production. Further increases in duty could serve only to intensify their difficulty. Prices would be driven still higher and farmers would be still further encouraged to divert their energies to the uneconomical production of beets and cane. The $200,000,000 which Americans must pay each year to enable the sugar industry to waste the resources and the labor of the country would rise to a figure even more fantastic and producers would again cry out for duties even higher.

The tariff habit, like the drug habit, calls for ever increasing doses of the harmful stimulant. Its effect upon the economic organism is much the same as is the effect of narcotics upon the human body.



Few and short were the prayers we said,
And we spoke not a word of sorrow:
But we steadfastly gazed on the face that was dead,
And we bitterly thought of the morrow.
—From "The Burial of Sir John Moore."

Hoover, the Medicine Man

Hoover's troubles come from implied promises which he should have known no one could fulfill without a lot of luck; even guaranteed to prevent stock market break, though he knew better; views problems not as first-rate engineer but as third-rate politician; voters' blind faith in prophets of prosperity seems still alive.

Elmer Davis in the Forum.

WELL, well. Mr. Hoover's term is one-third over, and the cynicism industry is about the only one in which business is really brisk. There, and there alone, the Hoover administration has promoted a vast increase in output and a notable gain in employment. No wonder our unhappy President wrote to a friend last winter about the hair shirts of penitence which certain individuals, organizations and newspapers insisted on draping over his thin-skinned torso.

Mr. Hoover has let himself in for an unnecessary amount of trouble by implied promises which he must have known, in his saner moments, neither he nor anyone else could perform without a lot of luck (piously termed "the help of God"). But he made those promises because he knew the people expected them; he was elected because the people believed them; and if what must up to this date be called "his failure" has hurt the people more than it has hurt him, we have got exactly what we deserved.

We haven't heard much about the abolition of poverty since the stock market collapse of last fall. It is true that Mr. Hoover himself never promised (as some of his supporters did) that poverty would be abolished in his administration. He said that we shall soon, with the help of God, be in sight of the day. If that day now seems more remote, the blame might be thrown on God—but not by Republican politicians; they are committed to the doctrine that God is a Republican, too.

The stock market panic, and the business slump that followed it, would have happened under any President. But few presidential candidates have ever so positively guaranteed to prevent anything of the sort as did Mr. Hoover. And he knew better. Six months after the stock panic he gave, before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a dispassionate and thoroughly sound analysis of the causes of the disaster. They were "certain forces inherent in human minds." Slumps follow crazy booms; and crazy booms are due to various factors of which the chief is what Mr. Hoover politely called "the natural optimism of our people"—in other words, the faith that you can get more out of a thing than there is in it.

Hoover must have known that in 1928 and in the early months of 1929. Why didn't he say it? Because it was not what people wanted to hear. No President, it has been argued, would have dared to say it. Well, Washington would have dared to say it; but Washington was Washington. The two Adamses would have said it; and they were both one-term Presidents. Grover Cleveland would have said it; and he achieved the unique distinction of being a one-term President twice. No President would have said it unless he had guts; unless he dared to tell the people something they did not want to hear, for their own good, and at the possible expense of his own future.

Hoover has got us a naval limitation treaty which is the best that could be got, things being as they are—a good deal better than nothing. If taxpayers who feel poor since the stock market collapse groan at the thought of building a billion dollars' worth of warships, it is chiefly Hoover's fault that the advance publicity led them to expect parity and reduction too.

Foreign trade, said Mr. Hoover at Boston during the campaign, is vital to the welfare of the nation; but it is a silly fallacy to suppose that a high tariff which prevents foreigners from selling to us is going to impoverish the foreigners so that they cannot buy from us. American manufacturers who sold goods abroad thought otherwise when the tariff rates were jacked up to the highest points in history; but not a word against the high rates came from Mr. Hoover.

As to his prohibition policy, nothing need be said; except to remark that aside from appointing the famous Wickersham Commission he offered another remedy, in his inaugural address, for the evils that attend prohibition enforcement. If citizens would stop drinking, he said, the trouble would soon be over. Nobody can give him an argument on that.

So many people are beginning to look for a Moses—Dwight Morrow or somebody else—to lead us out of the morass in which we flounder that a discussion of the Hoover administration may seem ancient history. But even ancient history teaches lessons, to those who care to learn them; and we ought to learn this one.

Hoover has got in trouble not because he knew too much, but because he did not know enough; not because he was an expert, but because he ventured into a field where he was not an expert and, venturing there, left his intelligence, and the resolution he has shown in other jobs, behind him as excess and unnecessary baggage. Hoover, the first-rate engineer, might have done a good deal to cushion the shock of the inevitable business slump, both before and after; but he turned the job over to Hoover, the third-rate politician, because he believed that was the way to hold the favor of the people.

What becomes of Hoover is less important than the state of mind that elected Hoover—the confidence that a man who promises the impossible can accomplish it, if the impossible is what we want; the choice of a man who promises agreeable impossibilities rather than a man who knows, and says, that two and two make no more than four. Has the collapse of Coolidge prosperity killed that native faith? I am afraid not.

If the end of Hoover's term is no better than its beginning, our next President may be a Democrat. And where is there a Democrat (except Al Smith, whose candor and Catholicism alike disqualify him) who would dare tell the voters unpleasant truths when his opponent offers them palatable nonsense?

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.

ACROSS the Potomac River from Washington, in that historic little city of Alexandria, Va., the drug store on the corner where George Washington traded is still doing business. Leadbeater's it is called now. It stands on the corner of King and Fairfax streets—the same site as in those days when folks from Mount Vernon either sent a slave or came in person up the river to purchase medicinal supplies.

The files of this small town pharmacy are a veritable treasure. Included in them are requests and canceled prescriptions of Washington and succeeding masters of Mount Vernon.

The drug store—at present an unpretentious, small brick affair not unlike the one in your neighborhood—was opened first in 1792. Edward Stabler borrowed £500 for the venture, and made a tidy sum out of it.

STABLER'S descendants, and those of John Leadbeater, who married one of Stabler's daughters in 1853, have clung to the store. Seven generations of the Washington and the Lee families have traded there. Two Washingtons—Augustine and Lawrence—learned the drug business at Leadbeater's and later established themselves in West Virginia.

To anyone interested, a peek at the store's prescription files may be had. They afford an insight into the lives of Washington and his family that perhaps is impossible to get elsewhere.

For example, there is a note from Martha Washington, dated from Mount Vernon in 1802, which reads: "Mrs. Washington desires Mr. Stabler to send by bearer a quart bottle of his best castor oil and the bill for it."

THERE is another from George Washington Parke Custis, one of Martha Washington's grandchildren, who had been adopted by George Washington, dated 1818:

"My Dear Sir: Not being able to command cash at this time from the heavy expense of my building, I enclose my note agreeable to promise. I am duly sensible of the politeness and liberality I have always received from you and I have to express my acknowledgement, also, for the very excellent articles always received from your house, and with perfect esteem for your personal character, I am, your humble servant, George W. P. Custis."

A third, from Judge Bushrod Washington who inherited Mount Vernon, wrote in 1820: "Respected friend: Above is a check for 77.9, amount of your account, which ought much sooner to have been attended to. In future I will thank you to send it to me at least once a year. Respectfully—"

Topsy-Turvy Political Fight Is Raging in Pennsylvania

machine in Philadelphia. It needs to be explained that this machine, built up by William S. Vare and his brothers, works hand in glove with the Pennsylvania Railroad and the other utilities which hold Pennsylvania in their grip. From the point of view of the results that it gets for its bosses, the Vare machine is the most efficient in the United States. It gets more spoils and gives less in return to the city than Tammany in New York.

Vare started in life as a city garbage collector. He is now a millionaire many times over, the head of the Vare Construction Co. Dozens of his political lieutenants have also become rich out of the Philadelphia alliance between the machine and big business. There is, for shining example, Charlie Hall, city councilman, the head of the "War Board" which has been in active charge of the machine since Vare suffered his paralytic stroke. Hall is now backed by W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad—more of Atterbury later—for the headship of the machine when Vare definitely retires. Though his salary from the city has never exceeded $5000, Hall has become wealthy.

Another of the conspicuous beneficiaries of the Philadelphia system, and also a member of the "War Board," is Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, who is still in trouble with the Senate of the United States, in a case of interminable legal ramifications, because of his refusal to tell the Reed committee the source of a large contribution he made to the Vare campaign of '26.

Very Profitable Contracts.

It has been repeatedly charged and never denied—Grundy, for one, charged it before a Senate investigating committee — that the Pennsylvania Railroad and the other powerful public utilities of the State have bought the favor of the Vare machine through a system of cost-plus contracts. Vare and his lieutenants all seem to go in for contracting. The system is simplicity itself. A utility lets a contract to the Vare company or some other company controlled by a machine leader, at cost plus 10 per cent. The cost itself is adjusted to give the contractor a fair profit; the 10 per cent is the political gravy — the protection money.

The Vare Construction Co. for years did all the conduit work for the Bell Telephone Co. and it did the electrification of the Pennsylvania lines between Wilmington and Trenton. The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., the Philadelphia Electric Co., the United Gas Improvement have all let contracts on the familiar cost plus basis, often without competitive bidding. Utility contracts, such as a recent one for hauling earth from the Broad street subway diggings, have also gone to the group of contractors forming a part of or standing in with the all-powerful machine. The arrangement through a long term of years has proved highly satisfactory to the machine and the utilities, and neither want it disturbed. Gifford Pinchot in the governorship would be most decidedly a disturber.

Bolt of Big Republicans.

To get back to the campaign: Pinchot, exponent of the giant power system, foe of the Vare gang and Atterbury, was nominated over the safe and sane Brown, who had been an attorney for Vare in his unsuccessful effort to break into the Senate. Incidentally, it was the governorship that the utilities wanted; they didn't give a hang for the senatorship. Their main fight had been to put Brown over. In this they had failed, and their grief was assuaged very slightly by the fact that "Puddler Jim" Davis, who ran on the same ticket with Brown, came through handsomely.

Led by Atterbury, the Republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania, they set out to "get" Pinchot. Failing to upset his nomination in the courts, they put up a third ticket, the so-called Liberal, with a dripping wet platform, and nominated on it, as the sole candidate, the Democrat, Hemphill.

Pinchot calls Gen. Atterbury his "arch enemy," and he is. Atterbury is the man back of all the Union League bolting that has been going on. In more than a figurative sense, he is the god from the machine. In terms of personalities, the war that is splitting the parties in Pennsylvania is the war of Pinchot versus Atterbury. That is a fact which no amount of camouflage about the wet and dry issue can conceal. The basic issue is whether Pennsylvania is going to control its public utilities or whether the utilities, through their partnership with the Vare gang, are going to continue to control Pennsylvania.

Bankers Flock to Hemphill.

Atterbury bolted Pinchot, and in so doing resigned his national committeemanship. There are many Republicans, Senator Borah among them, who have thought for a long time that the holding of a national committeemanship in the Republican party simultaneously with the holding of a railroad presidency was an indecent thing. That, however, is another story. Atterbury bolted, and with him went a distinguished company of other public utility magnates, of bankers and brokers and others to whom the name of Pinchot was anathema. (Remember that Pinchot would regulate not only rates, but the issuance of securities).

The newspapers began to be filled with items about the bolters —a fresh crop every day—and their doings. Forty officials of Philadelphia banking and brokerage companies met a few days ago "to plan the raising of a $500,000 fund for the up-state Hemphill campaign." There was a big "Liberal" rally at which Samuel M. Vauclain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, denounced Pinchot as "the arch demagogue of the State."

Vauclain made no bones about what was the real issue of the campaign. Hear his speech: "Hemphill is the candidate of the Liberal party on account of his attitude toward the present prohibition laws of the country, and also as a man who will not interfere with the industries of Pennsylvania if elected Governor."

Democrats for Pinchot.

The expression of another bolter, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, publisher of the two Philadelphia Ledgers, the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Saturday Evening Post, may be singled out as typical. "My objection to Pinchot," said Curtis, "is that he has always been a trouble maker. He created trouble between Roosevelt and Taft. He created trouble in 1926 when he issued the certificate of doubt to Senator Vare."

Among those at the dinner where the publisher announced his bolt was Charles B. Hall, the Vare leader. It was "in the nature of a Hemphill rally for industrial and financial leaders."

At about the same time that Atterbury went off the Republican reservation, 47 out of the 48 ward leaders of Philadelphia announced their support of Hemphill.

While Atterbury and those who share his views have been going over to Hemphill, numerous Democrats have been rallying to Pinchot. They include all the party leaders of statewide prominence.

Vance McCormick, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has come out for Pinchot and thrown both his Harrisburg newspapers to his support. Judge E. C. Bonniwell, who ran as a wet for the Governorship on the Democratic ticket four years ago, has declared for Pinchot. William B. Wilson, who was Secretary of Labor in the Wilson Cabinet and the Democratic candidate for Senator in 1926, is out for Pinchot with the declaration that the politicians and business interests backing Hemphill "are using prohibition as a smokescreen behind which they are fleecing the people."

Democratic Papers Bolt, Too.

"There is no plunderbund," says Wilson, "whose leaders know what they want and how to get it better than the leaders of the Philadelphia machine." He ought to know, for in his race for the Senate he came into Philadelphia with a 50,000 majority, thanks partly to the support given him by Senator George Norris, and was counted out by the Vare machine.

Other important Democrats who have enlisted for Pinchot are Bruce Sterling, former Sate chairman of the party, and John McSparran, farm leader, who ran against Pinchot for the Governorship in 1922.

Pinchot is without newspaper aid in Philadelphia, but is being given strong press support in Pittsburg and elsewhere throughout the State. Practically all the important up-State Democratic papers are for him.

Strange political matings have come about. Pinchot repeatedly has attacked Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for failure to enforce the prohibition laws, and heretofore the Mellon influence has been strongly against him. Yet in this campaign, W. L. Mellon, spokesman of the family, is supporting him. The Mellon influence centers in Pittsburg, which Pinchot is expected to carry. It is not that the Mellons have come to love Pinchot, but that they love the Vare-Atterbury combination less.

Philadelphia Against the State.

Old Joe Grundy has made a $10,000 contribution to the Pinchot warchest, and the opposition is saying that if Pinchot is elected Old Joe will control the labor policy of the administration. Pinchot and Grundy, it will be recalled, were linked in the primary campaign against Brown and Davis, though there is no evidence that Pinchot was under any obligations to Old Joe. Pinchot is, however, with all his idealism, a practical politician, and he takes his support where he finds it.

Pinchot and Grundy have at least one tie—a common dislike of Herbert Hoover, though for very different reasons.

Finally, to cite one more of the alliances that make Pennsylvania politics bewildering to the onlooker, Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia, who was roundly denounced by Pinchot in 1927, is defying the Vare machine and supporting Pinchot.

The main plank in the Pinchot platform is the promise that if he is elected he will 'break the stranglehold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus and other public utilities on the cost of living and margin of happiness; free the Government of Pennsylvania from combined machine and public utility control, and abolish the Public Service Commission and replace it with a Fair Rate Board elected by the people." He declares that the Public Service Commission is "the catspaw of the corporations, unfaithful to the people and worse than useless."

What of his chances to be elected? The Hemphill people profess great confidence, but not so much as they did a couple of weeks ago. Since then, the chairmen of all the Republican county organizations outside of Philadelphia have met and indorsed the regular Republican nominee, Pinchot. So far as Republican organization support goes, the fight is Philadelphia against the field.

Labor, generally speaking, is for Pinchot. So also, to a large extent, are the farmers. He has vigorous support among the dry organizations. Pennsylvania is normally Republican by nearly a million votes—a tremendous handicap for any Democrat, no matter what his extraneous support, to overcome.

With the Vare organization knifing him in Philadelphia, Pinchot will lose this city by a majority of anywhere from 100,000 to 175,000. But the best guess is that he will come to the city with a margin considerably in excess of his deficit here, and will be elected.

"RUBBER STAMPS" IN CONGRESS CONDEMNED

Igoe Criticises "Stand by the President" Policy—Other Political Meetings.

The election to legislative bodies of candidates who will "stand by the President or the Governor, as advocated by Republican speakers," is a "vicious doctrine," former Congressman William L. Igoe said last night in addressing Fifteenth Ward Democrats at 2239 South Grand boulevard.

"Our legislative representatives must be something more than rubber stamps," he said. "Members of Congress should be governed by principle and should be guided, to some extent at least, by the wishes of the people who have elected them. If we are going to elect 'yes men' we may as well save mileage and allow them to turn proxies over to the executive departments.

"The House of Representatives has ceased to be the representative body, and, strange to say, the Senate has been the salvation of the people by supplying the forum for public discussion and debate. A few courageous men like former Senator James A. Reed and Senator Norris have been the real tribunes of the people.

"If the President is right," Igoe concluded, "he should be supported by Representatives, regardless of party. If he is wrong, he should not be supported by Representatives of any party."

The Democratic campaign for the final week before the election Nov. 4 will be featured by two addresses by former Senator Reed Thursday night. He will speak at Polish-American Hall, 1938 Cass avenue, at 7:45 o'clock, with Congressman John J. Cochran as chairman. A second speech to be made at Concordia Turner Hall, 1301 Arsenal street, at 9 o'clock, will be broadcast by Radio Station KWK. George T. Priest also will speak in advance of Reed, who will be introduced by Dr. John H. Simon.

Joseph A. Broderick, Democratic candidate for State Senator in the Thirty-fourth District, and J. L. McLemore, Negro attorney, will speak in behalf of the Democratic ticket at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Burning Bush Negro Church, 4370 North Market street.

The Fifteenth Ward Democratic Women's Club will meet at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at 4 Shaw place. The Seventh Ward organization will meet at 1731 Chouteau avenue, and Fifth Ward Negro voters at 1515 Morgan street tomorrow night.

Four meetings will be held Tuesday night. They are: Tenth Ward, 3317 Salina street; Eighth Ward, Soulard Library, Seventh boulevard and Soulard street; Fourteenth Ward, Mission Inn, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue; Twenty-second Ward, 4906 Natural Bridge avenue.

A Fifth Ward meeting, arranged by State Senator Michael Kinney, will be held Wednesday night at Fraternal Hall, Seventeenth street and Franklin avenue. Speakers will include former Circuit Attorney Lawrence W. McDaniel, former Circuit Judge Thomas L. Anderson and Assistant Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings. Other Democratic speakers will address a meeting of the Twenty-sixth Ward organization at the Forest Park Hotel, and a Ninth Ward mass meeting at Debrecht Hall, McNair avenue and Lynch street.

Second Ward Democratic workers will hold a mass meeting Friday night at North Side Hall, 2154 Bremen avenue.

Fred W. Emig, 4255 Westminster place, has been selected as Twenty-third Ward Democratic Committeeman to fill the unexpired term of Clarence Hammond, who resigned because of ill health after serving 10 years.

The last major South St. Louis mass meeting of the Republican campaign will be held Tuesday night at the South End Masonic Temple, Loughborough and Michigan avenues, where United States Senator Roscoe C. Patterson and John B. Edwards, former chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners, will speak. No meetings were held last night.

Louis J. Reidel, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney and Republican Committeeman in the Thirteenth Ward, will make a radio address over station KWK at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night. A talk over the same station at 10 o'clock in behalf of Circuit Judge Hartman, candidate for re-election, will be made by Robert J. Callahan, an attorney. The North Side Republican Women's Club will give a dinner dance at the Fairgrounds Hotel at 6:30 tomorrow night.

A mass meeting arranged by Republican workers in downtown wards will be held Thursday night at the People's Finance Building, 11 North Jefferson avenue.

Each ward organization will meet Friday night when precinct and block workers will receive instructions for election day.

Official Christian Science Answer to Recent Critics Given In New Life of Mrs. Eddy

Author, an Episcopal Rector, Meets Many Attacks With Private Records Never Heretofore Available.

AN official retort courteous to the critics of the founder of the Christian Science Church is contained in "Mary Baker Eddy, a Life-Size Portrait" (The MacMillan Co., New York), by the Rev. Lyman P. Powell. It is obviously in reply to such works as "Mrs. Eddy" (Charles Scribner's Sons), by E. F. Dakin, whose publishers charge in a foreword that "an organized minority" has attempted by threats of boycott to suppress the sale of that volume.

Dr. Powell's book is probably the most authoritative expression on behalf of the church since Sibyl Wilbur's "Life of Mary Baker Eddy," issued by the Christian Science Publishing Co. in 1907, with the important difference that the author is not a member of the Christian Science church. He is rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church in the Bronx, New York. In 1907 he wrote "Christian Science, the Faith and the Founder," and for 25 years has been collecting material and writing on that subject.

In a prologue Dr. Powell explains the genesis of the present work. At a luncheon at which a former editor of Christian Science periodicals was present the author said: "You ought to write a book on the hitherto unused materials which your church must have, and for all time lay some of the small bothers and misrepresentations which every little while reappear. The public is weary of controversy. Christian Scientists have done too many fine things to be disturbed so often by vexatious disputation. Bring it to an end the only way you can".

Authorized by Directors.

Later the Christian Science Board of Directors discussed his plan with Dr. Powell and gave him access to records and material which have been at the command of no previous biographer. More than 8000 letters by Mrs. Eddy, a large proportion of them in her own hand, beside numerous private documents and the general correspondence of the movement were placed at his disposal.

No salient point of Mrs. Eddy's life is omitted but there is no tedious detail. Her girlhood in Bow, N. H., where she was born in 1821 is described at length as are her three marriages, first in 1843 to G. W. Glover, by whom she had her only child named for his father who died before the boy's birth; in 1853 to Daniel Patterson whom she divorced; and in 1877 to Asa Gilbert Eddy who died in 1882. Her greatest work was done at an age when most of mankind counts its tasks ended. The book on which her fame rests was not published until she was 64 years old. She died in 1910.

While stress is frequently laid on the point that the volume is noncontroversial, Dr. Powell's biography takes up most of the incidents dwelt on by Dakin in his book, issued in 1929, and by Georgine Milmine a quarter of a century earlier in the McClure series, which provoked at the time a direct reply by Mrs. Eddy herself. There is one noteworthy omission. Not a word is said about the Augusta Stetson controversy. Both Dakin and Miss Milmine are mentioned by name, but only in the notes, the 44 pages of which contain hundreds of references to source material.

Praise From Mark Twain.

In quoting a long list of commendations of Mrs. Eddy and her work, Dr. Powell says: "Mark Twain's final reversal of his previous judgment may come as news to many: 'Christian Science is humanity's boon. Mother Eddy deserves a place in the Trinity as much as any other member of it. She has organized and made available a healing principle that for 2000 years has never been employed except as the merest kind of guesswork. She is the benefactor of the age.'"

Concerning the assertion that Lindley Murray's readers were the source of many of Mrs. Eddy's quotations from famous authors, Dr. Powell says: "She read and reread them until they were so deeply embedded in her memory that sometimes they reappeared automatically in her own later speech and writing."

In another place he says: "If already, as she tells us in her writings, Mrs. Eddy took to verse more readily than to prose and thus laid herself open to the criticism that her verse was stilted and bathetic it may not be amiss to remind ourselves that the same things are still said of Dryden and Pope."

Concerning her contact with Phineas P. Quimby, the healer under whose treatment she recovered at least temporarily from a distressing illness of many years' standing, and the subsequent charges that she borrowed much of her system from him, Dr. Powell says: "She studied his method. He was impressed by her as by no other patient. As weeks went by Mrs. Patterson grew greater in his estimation which once led him to remark to another patient: 'This is a very wonderful woman and in comparison I am the man, but Mary is the Christ.' Generous as usual Mrs. Patterson overrated his method and underrated the efficacy of her own abounding faith. Mrs. Patterson went away from Quimby with the same faith in God she had when she came to him and which she was in a few years to make so effective in the healing of the sick that in retrospect Quimby became to her scarcely more than an interesting episode. Quimby never rose to the spiritual heights scaled by Mrs. Eddy."

Wiggin Merely an Editor.

Her struggles in poverty to write "Science and Health" following her discovery of Christian Science in 1866 and the final completion of the work in 1875 are given in detail. In this connection notice is taken of the statement in Dakin's book (which, however, is not specifically mentioned) in which a written statement left by the Rev. J. H. Wiggin is quoted as asserting that Mrs. Eddy's manuscript was in such shape that he told her he would have to rewrite it and that she agreed. Dr. Powell writes: "When she inquired where she could obtain the services of a trained editor, the Rev. James Henry Wiggin, staff reader for the University Press, was 'detailed to the work (punctuation, capitalization and general smoothing out as to construction of sentences,' says Mr. Reid (William B. Reid of the Cambridge University Press, which for many years published Mrs. Eddy's works). This was well known to those in our office as well as in our proofreading department and caused many a smile among us when we read from time to time the repeated assertion that Mr. Wiggin had written the book and it tickled him more than perhaps anyone else to hear that he was the author instead of the corrector.

"In later years Mr. Wiggin once remarked to John Wilson (another member of the firm): 'Wouldn't it have been fine if I had?' Now and then some writer unacquainted with such convincing documentary evidence as this in the files of the Mother Church circulates again the overestimates of the very helpful service which Mr. Wiggin rendered Mrs. Eddy.

"Both as to substance and style Mrs. Eddy is thoroughly at home in the good company of those who write as freely as they talk and with the same effectiveness.

Mrs. Eddy's Frequent Revisions.

"All the way through the 35 years which elapsed between the first edition (of Science and Health) and the last, Mrs. Eddy was consumed with a desire to make her book more accurately express her meaning, more closely disclose the revelation she never doubted God had given her." Even in 1907 when she was 86 years old and the "Next Friends" suit was pressed against her, "in a burst of righteous wrath supremely justified, she cut out from page 430 of the 1907 edition the expression 'next friends.'"

The biographer gives a vivid account of Mrs. Eddy's rise to fame in Boston in the face of difficulties, the building of her church and its prosperous growth. With that solidly established she left Boston for New Hampshire.

While she was living in Pleasant View, her home in Concord, N. H., "a new flock of rumors was let loose—that she had fallen into unfriendly hands and was no longer capable of caring for herself and her friends. George W. Glover (Mrs. Eddy's son) together with his wife required but little coaxing to become a flying wedge in the 'next friends' game, the success of which would give him, he hoped, some opportunity to share in the handling of his mother's fortune, including obviously valuable copyrights.

The "Next Friends" Suit.

"With an array of notable lawyers, led by United States Senator William E. Chandler, the petition of Mary Baker Glover Eddy who sues by her next friends George W. Glover" and others, was presented on March 1, 1907, to the Superior Court at Concord for the appointment of a receiver for Mrs. Eddy's business interests.

"The petition alleged that Mrs. Eddy was incompetent to care for her property. The distinguished chief counsel appeared to expect very little difficulty in winning the suit. Nevertheless, in his very opening statement in which he endeavored to draw a distinction between medical and legal insanity he fell promptly into the old pitfall of trying to prove too much; for if, in following his line of argument, he established the insanity of Mrs. Eddy, he would inferentially establish the insanity of countless thousands sharing her views."

The "Next Friends" suit was withdrawn.

In the final chaper, "Twenty Years After," Dr. Powell gives a word to the assertion that the growth of the Christian Science Church has slackened perceptibly since the founder's death. He says: "Christian Science, which has more than doubled its churches, societies and membership in 20 years, is still far from being on its last legs and is now going stronger than ever.

Only One Peril Remains—Prosperity.

"With persecution passing, one peril still remains. It is the peril of prosperity. But even out of that peril which has proved too much for many a worthy cause there is a way for Christian Science. It is—as the incoming president of the Mother Church in 1894 clearly indicated—the way of gratitude 'to the God of our fathers who has carried us through the desert to the promised land; to Christ Jesus "the author and finisher of our faith"; to our beloved leader Mary Baker Eddy whose teachings have sustained our faith and whose church manual has kept us in the right path; and to our board of directors who through stress and storm have held our standard aloft without wavering.'"

Much of the material in Dr. Powell's volume never heretofore available to a biographer of Mrs. Eddy is kept in Boston in a moisture-proof vault, the temperature of which is maintained at 66 to 68 degrees, winter and summer. Mrs. Eddy's original letters are bound in 57 volumes. They are mounted on heavy paper and prepared with the most elaborate precautions to preserve them intact indefinitely.

AUGSBURG CONFESSION 400TH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Lutherans to Celebrate at Arena With Pageant in Which 3000 Will Take Part.

Many visitors from outside St. Louis are expected to attend the Lutheran celebration of the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg Confession, to be held this afternoon and tonight in The Arena. Members of all St. Louis and congregations of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will attend the afternoon religious service and the presentation of the pageant, "Truth Triumphant" at night.

At the afternoon service, beginning at 2:30, the most familiar hymns of the church, including Luther's "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," will be sung, and the Concordia Seminary students' chorus will sing two numbers. The Rev. G. Schuessler of Chicago will be the chief speaker. The historical pageant, at night, has a cast of more than 3000 persons, representing the local churches. The history of the Christian church will be shown in four acts, of which the last will contain a scene depicting the settlement of Lutheran pilgrims in Missouri.

133 OF 2400 GRAVOIS OWNERS OF PROPERTY PAY SPECIAL TAX

Receipts Are Turned Over to Firm Which Bought Bills at 95 Cents on Dollar.

The City Comptroller's office announced yesterday that 133 of the 2400 property owners who have been assessed in the Gravois avenue widening project have paid their special tax bills, totaling $10,122, since Thursday, when the city paid $1,767,827 into Circuit Court for distribution among owners whose property has been condemned.

Receipts from tax bills will be turned over to the investment firm of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., which bought the tax bills at 95 cents on the dollar. Interest accumulates against the property owners so long as the bills are unpaid. The work of widening the street from 60 to 100 feet between Twelfth street and Grand boulevard will begin in the spring.

MAYOR THOMPSON BEATS TRIBUNE SUIT

Chicago Executive's Appeal From $2,245,604 Award Upheld by Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 25.—Finding that Mayor William Hale Thompson and George Harding were not guilty of wrong conduct in connection with the employment of experts in Chicago's city beautiful plan, the Supreme Court today reversed the verdict against them which was brought by the Chicago Tribune to force the Mayor and City Treasurer to refund $2,245,604.52 to the city.

The Tribune charged that Thompson and Harding were a part of a conspiracy to retain fees paid to real estate experts. Judge Hugo Friend found them guilty.

Declaring that all the circumstances relied upon as proof that Thompson and Harding were members of an alleged conspiracy and were guilty of intentional, deliberate and wrongful conduct fell "short of their mark." The court held that it was not enough to contend that the acts of Thompson and Harding "dovetailed" with certain acts of the alleged conspirators in diverting public funds.

"Truth Crushed to Earth Will Rise Again" Says Chicago Mayor.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. — Mayor Thompson, informed that the Supreme Court had reversed the Chicago Tribune's suit against him in which he had been ordered to refund $2,245,604 to the city, today issued the following statement: "Truth crushed to earth will rise again. I sincerely hope that this is the beginning of the end of the Chicago Tribune, our city's and the people's most disgraceful enemy."

OREGON LOSES $1,500,000 TAX

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 25.—Oregon State finances were thrown into confusion today by an opinion of the State Supreme Court holding unconstitutional the new State intangibles tax law. About $1,500,000 collected under the act must be returned. The basis upon which the court held the act unconstitutional was that it affects individuals fout not corporations.

The law imposed a tax of 2 per cent on interest money, dividends from stocks, bonds and mortgages, when such returns amounted to more than $200 annually.

New York City Budget $623,833,822

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—New York City's 1931 budget will total $623,833,822, it was announced today. The final figure was reached after elimination of $275,000 voted for increased salaries. Disclosure of this item resulted in such criticism that the Board of Estimate slashed it from the total.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES REPORTED AT CAPITAL

Democrats $21,515, G. O. P. $163,000 in About Same Congressional Districts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Expenditures of $21,515 in the campaign for Democratic members of the House was reported today by the Democratic Congressional Committee to the clerk of the House.

The report covered the period from Sept. 10 to Oct. 22 and indicated that the Democrats are spending their funds in about the same territory as that to which the Republican campaign money was sent. Ohi ois the chief beneficiary from both Congressional committees.

The Republican Congressional Committee reported expenditures of $163,200 for the period beetween Sept. 1 and Oct. 22.

The contributors to the Democratic campaign chest included Pierre S. duPont, of Delaware, $5000; Herbert Lehman, of New York, $2000; Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, $6000; Joseph P. Tumulty, of Washington, $1000; W. T. Kemper, of Missouri, $1000; Percy S. Straus, of New York, $1000; Jesse H. Jones, of Texas, $1000; South Trimble, of Washington, $1000, and Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, of Wyoming, $200.

Reports of the Anti-Saloon League and of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment also were submitted. The Campaign Committee of the Anti-Saloon League reported expenditures of $3915 from Jan. 1 to Oct. 22 and receipts of $5705. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment listed expenditures of $604,738 for the same period and receipts of $647,564.

Expense accounts of senatorial candidates received at the capital also showed Ohio to be the most expensive in this field. Robert J. Bulkley, the Democratic nominee, listed total contributions to his campaign at $16,040 and expenditures at $9617. Senator McCulloch, the Republican candidate, reported contributions totaling $10,000 in behalf of his candidacy and expenditures of $1594 so far.

The money of the Democratic Congressional Committee was distributed as follows: Missouri, First and Fourth Districts, $500 each; Sixth, Seventh, Thirteenth and Sixteenth Districts, $250 each; Illinois, Twenty-first and Twenty-second Districts, $250 each.

MANUFACTURED EXPORTS DROP MORE RAPIDLY THAN RAWS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Foreign trade recession in September, as presented in figures today from the Commerce Department, showed that American exports of manufacturers and partly manufactured goods declined more rapidly than did exports of raw materials.

About 55 per cent of exports included manufactured products, as compared with 58 per cent in September, 1929.

Exports of raw materials made up about 40 per cent of the total, as compared with 26 per cent last year.

Exports and imports for September, as compared with those of the same month last year by commodity groups, follow:

Exports — Manufactured goods, $130,782,000, against $190,945,000; partly manufactured goods $37,165,000 against $57,690,000; foods ready for consumption, $27,815,000, against $40,963,000; raw foods, $18,183,000, against $20,943,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing, $93,669,000, against $112,260,000.

Imports — Manufactured goods, $61,767,000, against $85,606,000; partly manufactured goods, $40,970,000, against $70,609,000; foods ready for consumption, $20,588,000, against $32,328,000; raw foods, $27,582,000, against $40,701,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing, $75,405,000, against $122,062,000.

STATE U. WAR DEAD HONORED

Three Memorials Dedicated, With 100 War Mothers Present.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 25.—Missouri's war mothers today paid solemn tribute here to the memory of their sons who gave their lives in the World War in ceremonies in which three memorials to the University of Missouri war dead were dedicated. More than 100 war mothers, a score of them in the gold star class, took part.

This morning a memorial tree-planting ceremony was held just north of the new Missouri University Brewer field house and at the same time a bronze plaque was dedicated. This afternoon, at the Missouri-Drake football game, the University of Missouri athletic department was presented with a large silver trophy football, on which are inscribed the names of Missouri University men who gave their lives in the World War. The cup was accepted by C. L. Brewer, athletic director.

KALBITZ RUNS 45 YARDS FOR SCORE TO BEAT WEST END TEAM

By Harold Tuthill

There may be a renaissance in the affairs of the City High School League football history, if the results of the opening double-header yesterday afternoon may be considered as milestones on the road to the championship. Beaumont, which has never held the title, began its season auspiciously by defeating Soldan, 6 to 0, and Central surprised by holding Roosevelt to a 12 to 0 score. The games were played at the Public Schools Stadium before 10,000 spectators.

Although Soldan was not eliminated from the race, the adherents of Beaumont before the game felt that if they could subdue the Soldan jinx, some of the ruts and detours of "Via Championship" would be rolled out.

The West Enders did everything in their power to block Beaumont's path and frightened the loyal North Siders by threatening to score several times. Beaumont gained a six-point margin in the second quarter when Bob Kalbitz snared Lee Handley's fumble in mid-air and ran 45 yards for the lone score, and thereafter the Soldan attack was so fierce that Beaumont was constantly on the defensive.

Soldan Stopped Near Goal.

Soldan's best chance to score was in the second quarter, shortly after Kalbitz made his run. The West Enders started at the Beaumont 41-yard line ad slashed their way to the four-yard line only to be set back by an offside penalty. The ball was lost on downs, with Soldan needing one yard for first down and goal to gain.

Lee Handley caught the Beaumont defense napping near the close of the first half and shot a pass to Howard Butts, three feet from the goal line, but Butts lost the ball in the sun and dropped it. The break disheartened the Soldan backs, although they kept stabbing at the Beaumont line, until in the third quarter, Kimble Moore broke through and ran 45 yards with a clear field ahead of him. Tom Wright, the Beaumont safety man, nailed Moore when he had reached Beaumont's 30-yard line. The attack was momentarily halted as Handley passed over the goal line at the beginning of the last period.

Soldan recovered Tom Wright's fumble on the 27-yard line and again the Soldan attack was repulsed by the aid of an offside penalty and the intercepting of a pass by Herb Bohringer. The West Enders lost the ball on downs on the six-yard line, just before the game ended.

Roosevelt Shows Power.

Beaumont is not the only team in the running, because Roosevelt showed that it is a powerful eleven, despite its failure to score more often against Central.

The Rough Riders committed some stupid blunders and nullified the work of individual players. These occurred at the beginning of the game, once when Gus Beiser ran 30 yards to the goal line, only to have the ball called back because of an offside penalty and again when Nathan Tutinsky passed to Maupin Patton who, thinking he was over the goal line, touched the ball down on the four-yard line.

For a while it looked as if Roosevelt's mistakes would cost it a score as Tutinsky's fumble was recovered by Central. Patton atoned for his misdeed by blocking Clem Wright's punt, Stewart recovering and falling over the goal line for the first touchdown.

The Rough Riders carried the ball to the Central 11-yard line at the start of the second period, but suffered penalties totaling 40 yards and a 10-yard loss by Tutinsky.

Beiser's Run a Factor.

Gus Beiser put Roosevelt in position to score its second and final touchdown by tearing around right

Central's defense was unable to check the rushes of the Roosevelt ball carriers and the Rough Riders scored a 12—0 victory. Gus Beiser, right half back, is shown ripping through the Red and Black in the third quarter.

Her Grace, out run first mile, moved up stoutly when straightened out in home stretch and managed to wear down the tiring leaders, but just lasted long enough to stall off Valenciennes. Latter far back in early stages, was taken to the outside when Steffen made his move, closed with a game effort and was gradually wearing the winner down. Conclave saved ground entering the stretch, weakened after stalling off challenge from Ned O. Latter was close up in the early stages. Questionnaire met with no mishaps.

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 25.—Two outstanding races were run off here this afternoon. They were the mile test for juvenile fillies styled the Selima Stakes, and the Maryland Handicap, at a mile and one-quarter, which brought out the best array of 3-year-old racers at the track.

The first of the stakes resulted in a rather easy triumph for Tambour racing for Preston M. Burch. Risque, a member of the Mrs. J. D. Hertz stable, and one of two Western representatives, raced into second place while third was taken by J. E. Widener's Buckup.

The Selima had a purse of $10,000 added, of which the winner's share was $26,070.

There was a Maryland victory in the Maryland Handicap, when Ral Parr's good filly, Her Grace, raced to a head victory over Mrs. J. D. Hertz's Valenciennes, while W. R. Coe's Conclave finished third, with G. W. Foreman's Ned O., fourth. There were 12 running and J. Butler's Questionnaire received the bulk of support, but after racing well placed for a half mile, he fell back steadily to finish ninth.

The Maryland Handicap had a net value of $16,550 and was covered in the fast time of 2:03 3-5.

HELEN HICKS SETS COURSE RECORD AND WINS COAST TOURNEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Miss Helen Hicks, youthful New York State champion, won the Stanford women's invitational golf tourney today and established a course record of 83. Women's par for the course is 81, and the record was 84.

GEORGIA ADDS AUBURN TO LIST OF VICTIMS

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 25.—A driving University of Georgia football team that humbled Oglethorpe, Yale and North Carolina, added Auburn to its list of victims today, 39 to 7. Auburn's lone touchdown came in the first period when Georgia had a mivture of shock troops and regulars on the field.

TROJANS CRUSH GLENN WARNER'S CARDINALS, 41-12

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Oct. 25.—The Southern California grid machine today dealt the Stanford varsity a 41-12 trouncing, the worst defeat suffered by a Cardinal team since Glenn Warner took over the coaching.

In a bone crushing attack, headed by Marshall Duffield, Orv Mohler and Ernie Pinckert, the Trojans rolled up six touchdowns. Stanford scored twice via the aerial route.

U. of Washington Is Victor Over Bears.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 25.—Scoring two touchdowns, one in the second period and the other in the last, the University of Washington defeated the University of California, 13 to 0, here today, in their annual football game. Hufford scored on a 10-yard run around left end and Westweller, when he intercepted a Bear pass, raced 70 yards for the California goal line.

Washington State Whips Montana, 61-0.

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 25.—Washington State regulars ran through Montana almost at will today, then Coach Hollingbery sent in the reserves to mop up, the final score being 61 to 0.

Starting the fourth period on their own 15-yard line, Washington State cannonaded to Montana's 19-yard line on power plays with third-string backfield men carrying the ball. The Cougars lost the ball by passing over the goal line.

Nokomis Loses 32-0.

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 25.—Georgetown High School smothered Nokomis here today, 32 to 0. The home club scored in each period and closed the half with a 13 to 0 lead.

Kansas, Ousted by Big Six, Wants "Outside Agency" To Investigate Its Athletics

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kans., Oct. 25.—Facing ostracism from Big Six conference athletics for alleged recruiting and subsidization of athletes, the University of Kansas today asked for an investigation of conditions at the other conference schools.

The order terminated athletic relations between Kansas and the five other conference schools at the end of the current scholastic year and prohibiting member schools from scheduling additional games with Kansas this year stunned the faculty and student body today.

To be reinstated Kansas must initiate correction of the conditions declared illegal by the conference faculty council at the conclusion early today of its meeting in Columbia, Mo.

University of Iowa accused of similar offenses by the Big Ten, was restored to membership after wholesale expulsion of athletes.

Kansas Asks for Inquiry.

Chancellor E. H. Lindley of the university here conferred with Dean George Shand, Kansas faculty representative, who attended the meeting in Columbia. Then the Chancellor issued a statement asking for an impartial investigation by "outside agencies.."

"The action of the faculty conference," Chancellor Lindley said, "in the case of Kansas, was unexpected and drastic. It is certain the public will demand explicit evidence in justice to the situation.

"In view of reports concerning conditions elsewhere in the conference, it also is assumed the faculty representatives with equal promptness voted to provide for a thorough investigation of the Big Six by impartial outside agencies. Unfortunately the Big Six as yet has no machinery such as the Big Ten has found necessary, (namely, a Commissioner), for the securing

Princeton Meets Its Most Crushing Defeat in 40 Years

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.

SHOWING marked superiority in every department of play, Navy defeated Princeton today, 31 to 0. The Tigers were no match for the Midshipmen at any stage, the Navy scoring in all four periods, while Princeton did not threaten.

It was the most crushing defeat Princeton had suffered in 40 years.

Although Princeton has been playing football since 1869, today marked the first time it had lost three games in a row. Defeats were suffered in previous games at the hands of Brown and Cornell.

DARTMOUTH HELD TO 7-2 SCORE IN HARVARD GAME

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 25.—Dartmouth reached the half way mark of its journey to national football honors here today when as a wild northeast rainstorm raged, it outbattled a stubborn Harvard eleven for a 7—2 victory before some 40,000 suffering and bedraggled spectators who filled but three-quarters of the sold out stadium.

The Green's Indians continued undefeated mainly through the offensive work of their sure-footed ball carriers, Bill Morton and Olin Porter, and the defensive play of Paul Crehan, the Green's able right tackle. Crehan smashed every Harvard interference that came anywhere near him during the drizzly afternoon, besides making tackles too humerous to mention.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 25.—Another great Notre Dame eleven, flying high along the road to the national championship, shattered the Panthers of Pittsburg with five touchdowns in one half today, sat back to watch the substitutes toy with the wreckage in the second half, and wound up scurrying back into action to halt the flaming rally of a vengeful, despairing foe.

Only the Panthers themselves of all the 73,000 persons who jammed Pitt's huge cement oval to capacity for the first time, could not seem to understand that there was no hope for Pittsburg when the fourth quarter opened. Yet in 20 minutes of play, the Panthers ripped Knute Rockne's substitutes apart in one wild, hopeless splurge, pounded over three touchdowns, and subsided under a 35 to 19 beating only when the finest of the Rough Riders of the Middle West came storming back with but 70 seconds of the game to go and anything likely to happen.

Five Touchdowns in Half.

But aside from the score itself the disastrous half where substitutes crumpled in the crises, powerful youngsters of Notre Dame served final warning on the football world that one of the greatest of all Knute Rockne's elevens is on the way to the lasting fame. Five times in that riotous demoralizing first half Notre Dame got its hands on the ball and five times, with scarcely a temporary halt, brilliant Frank Carideo, the pilot, drove Marty Brill, 'Mortie Schwartz, "Moon" Mullins and then Joe Savoldi, down the field in marches that ended in touchdowns against a team not even scored upon up to today. The charge of the galloping backs and the swarming linesmen was irresistible, devastating in its power, and the great crowd, sitting in the crisp sunshine of a perfect fall afternoon, looked on the display in awe and shocked silence.

First Score in One Minute.

Pittsburg, despite its undefeated record and mighty line, was conceded little chance to beat Notre Dame, but not even the most rabid of the Rockne rooters was prepared for what happened. The first time Notre Dame handled the pigskin, Schwartz blasted through Pitt's left tackle, sprang into the clear after dodging 20 yards, and raced a total of 60 yards for the first touchdown with the game less than a minute old.

Again after Pitt had surrendered the ball after a few hopeless charges, Marty Brilly flitted through one tackle for 27 yards, Schwartz ripped the other for 18, Brill circled an end for 14, and Mullins alternated with the pair to take the ball over from three yards away, seven plays after the start of a 70-yard drive. Later a fumble gave Notre Dame the ball on Pitt's 33-yard line and gave Jump-

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 25.—The University of Missouri's pre-conference football season ended today in a blaze of glory as the Tigers beat the Drake Bulldogs into submission, 14 to 13.

The Tigers won after they had failed to score in their first three non-conference struggles, as Chuck Van Koten, blonde speedster from Des Moines, failed to add the extra point after he made a colorful dash around Missouri's left end for 48 yards and Drake's second touchdown.

Van Koten, however, was the principal factor in the scoring of Drake's two touchdowns, and he left the field, their star of the Bulldogs.

Asbury Stars for Tigers.

The spotlight, nevertheless, was shared with Wilbert Asbury, 166-pound sophomore from Maryville, Mo., who scored both the touchdowns the Tigers made. Asbury's 55 yard run, taking the ball to the Drake 5-yard line, and Van Koten's sensational dash for a counter were the high spots of the game.

With the Tigers triumphing, they remained the jinx eleven to the Bulldogs, having left the grid with 13 victories in their last 14 struggles.

From a statistical standpoint, it looked like it belonged to Ossie Solems eleven, the Bulldogs having outgained the Tigers, 269 yards to 204 yards, and making 16 first downs to seven for the Tigers. Also they outdistanced the Missourians through the air, advancing the ball 86 yards on 16 completed passes, to the Tigers' 49 yards on six successful attempts. Six Drake fumbles were costly, the Tigers recovering four times and on occasions when it appeared as if the Bullodgs were in a position to score.

Drake Scores First.

The Iowans, playing their first afternoon game of the season, appeared as if they were going to give Missouri the licking Colorado, St. Louis and New York University administered to them, and after the Tigers were kept in the running by the punting of Hubert Campbell in the first quarter, they sent Lloyd Lansrud, substitute halfback, across for the first touchdown in the second period. Captain Lynn King drop-kicked for the extra point. The Missourians then, for the first time this season looked like the Tigers of yesteryear and led by the tall, thin Asbury, tied the count and then shot into the lead before the half ended.

Captain King, it was announced from the field, sustained a fractured hand in the game, but remained in the play, and with Van Koten, who carried the ball a majority of the time for the Bulldogs, had the Tigers guessing. Van Koten put Drake in position to score in the second period when he snatched King's pass and ran 48 yards to the Missouri 12-yard line before Asbury ran him out of bounds. Lansrud then replaced him, and aided by a run by Drake's midget captain, went a yard through the center of the line for a touchdown.

Aerial Attack Aids Tigers.

An aerial attack put on by the Tigers, with Campbell and Edminston on the throwing end, interspersed by line plays by Asbury and a long end around play by Campbell, placed the ball on the Drake 23-yard line, from where Asbury, on a spinner, shot through a broken field for a touchdown for Missouri's first touchdown of the season. Van Dyne made his placement kick good.

Within a few minutes Campbell recovered a Drake fumble in the middle of the field and carrying the ball down the field on straight football, the Tigers sent Asbury across again, having taken advantage of a Drake penalty which placed the ball on Drake's one-yard line. Van Dyne again added the point which ultimately meant victory.

A crowd of 7000 witnessed the game, played under ideal weather conditions.

The University of Missouri was host to the Missouri chapter of American War Mothers and several hundred Boy Scouts throughout the state.

Fisk Defeats Lincoln, 26 to 6, At Star's Park

A crowd estimated at 4000 saw the Fisk University Bulldogs of Nashville, Tenn., defeat the Lincoln University Blue Tigers of Jefferson City 26 to 6 yesterday at the Star's Park. In the first two periods the Tigers outplayed their opponents but were unable to hold them in check during the last two.

Lincoln's only score came in the second period when Decker threw a forward pass to Baker who crossed the Fisk goal line. Wiggins, easily the star of the contest, made a 45-yard run around right end to score the first touchdown for the Bulldogs. In the third quarter Comer Cox, a St. Louis boy, crossed the Lincoln goal line for the second touchdown which was followed by another by Wiggins who kicked a perfect goal to score the extra point.

The Nashville team rolled up two more touchdowns in the final period and Yost kicked an extra point. Lincoln completed nine forward passes.

VANDERBILT IS DEFEATED BY ALABAMA, 12-7

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 25.—Alabama's powerful Crimson tide moved closer to the Southern Conference championship today by eliminating Vanderbilt, 12 to 7. More than 20,000 saw the game.

A fast running attack and a quick charging defensive line, smothered Vanderbilt's offense and but for a brief period kept pass receivers so well covered that Parker's rifle-like shots were grounded.

As the second period opened Parker punted to midfield and the Tide set sail for the first touchdown. Campbell smashed through the line for consistent gains, with Suther stabbing off tackle for gains of 17 and 11 yards that put the ball on Vandy's two-yard line from where Campbell went over center for the touchdown.

Just before the third period ended Alabama blocked a kick on Vandy's 15-yard line.

Campbell made two at the line. Suther flashed around right end for a touchdown behind perfect interference. Singlon's kick from placement after both touchdowns were wide.

Vanderbilt's score came when Parker shot a perfect 25-yard pass to Schwartz behind the goal line. Schwartz place-kicked the extra point.

Score by periods:

KANSAS WANTS "AN OUTSIDE AGENCY" TO INVESTIGATE ATHLETICS

"Meanwhile, whether Kansas is in a given conference or not every effort will be made to preserve the amateur status of our athletes as in the past."

The student body here generally was defiant of the conference ultimatum as the Jayhawker "Powerhouse" football squad scored a conference triumph over Iowa State College this afternoon.

Bausch Out With Injury.

James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch, Jayhawker backfield ace, who is paid $75 a month as a salesman for a Topeka insurance company, rode the bench in uniform.

Coach Bill Hargiss announced the star, whose questioned eligibility directly led to today's drastic action, was recovering from a knee injury and was being saved for a game next week with the University of Pennsylvania. Hargiss said Bausch remained a member of the team.

A different view of the eligibility situation was taken at Kansas State Agricultural College.

Officials of the school promptly suspended from athletic competition W. H. Meissinger, football star and captain-elect of the Aggie baseball team, upon learning that he was receiving $75 a month from E. H. Lupton Jr., president of the insurance company which employs Bausch.

The salary was a retainer for a position as farm manager for Lupton after he graduates, Meissinger said.

In Columbia the faculty representatives left the impression Kansas would be restored to good standing by removal of the alleged conditions such as maintenance of an athletic loan fund, financial support of players through private sources and recruiting by members of the athletic staff.

Phil Borello, former Kansas City High School athletic star, who attended Notre Dame University part of last year and now is a Kansas freshman, was allegedly recruited by Coach Hargiss. Other cases were considered by the faculty men but they were not made public.

Lupton today explained Bausch's employment informally, by stating that Bausch, in selling insurance, was no more guilty of professionalism than a student who earned his way through university by washing motor cars.

Bausch Sells $225,000 Insurance.

"If Bausch were working his way by washing motor cars," Lupton said, "there would be no guilt because these investigators could see just what he was doing. They could tell, I suppose, by looking at a car whether Bausch had washed it.

"That is something tangible. But with Bausch they are dealing with intangibles. You can't show in concrete form just what Bausch is doing for me in selling life insurance. Selling isn't the same as digging a ditch."

Reports here were that Bausch had sold between $225,000 and $250,000 in life insurance for Lupton's company in two years.

Chancellor Lindley's desire for a general investigation is an outgrowth of charges unofficially made by the Kansas athletic department against the University of Missouri when it became known that Prof. W. A. Tarr, Missouri faculty representative in the conference, had filed charges with the conference against Kansas on evidence Tarr gathered in Kansas.

Kansas Accuses Missouri.

Tarr investigated the transfer of Bausch from the University of Wichita to the State University and gathered other evidence that was laid before the faculty group.

The Kansas athletic office issued statements tending to show Dr. H. J. Huff, track coach at the University of Missouri who was coaching at Kansas during Bausch's freshman year, had attempted to proselyte Bausch through a letter to a mutual friend and that C. L. Brewer, director of Missouri athletics, had attempted to recruit a high school athlete now attending Washburn College, Topeka.

Kansas First Valley Team to Be Suspended.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 25.—Since the Missouri Valley Conference, the parent organization of the Big Six group, was organized in 1907, the action against Kansas is the first time, as far as can be recalled here, that one of its members has been eliminated from scheduling games with its member institutions.

Missouri and Kansas were members of the Missouri Valley conference until the Big Six circle was organized in the winter of 1927, with athletic competition starting the following fall.

COOPER AHEAD BY 6 STROKES IN SALT LAKE GOLF

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 25.—Harry Cooper, Los Angeles professional, fought his way though a driving rain and hail storm today to gain a six-stroke lead at the end of the first 36 holes of the first $5000 Salt Lake City open golf tournament.

Cooper added a par-smashing 69 to his 70 of yesterday for a total of 139, five under par.

Al Espinosa of Chicago shot par 72 on the first 18 holes, but could do no better than 73 today and took second place with 145.

One stroke behind Espinosa came his brother, Abe, and Olin Dutra of Del Monte, Cal., with 146's for the first two rounds. Dutra equaled par today, being the only player except Cooper to equal or better perfect figures. Dutra had 74 yesterday. Abe Espinosa carded 72 and 74 for the two days' play.

Cooper went out in par 35, but reeled off two birdies and an eagle coming home. He went one over par on the final hole, getting a six when his second shot rested near a post and he was forced to play the shot lefthanded. His home nine score was three under par.

C. E. Foley, Utah State amateur champion, who carded par 72 yesterday, was slightly off form today, getting 75 for a total of 147, three strokes better than George von Elm, former national amateur champion, who is playing his first "money golf." Von Elm scored another 75 for a total of 150.

Craig Wood of Bloomfield, N. J., continued his good play, although hampered by the rain. He shot 76 today, which, with his par 72 of yesterday, gave him a total of 148.

Other scores included: Lew Waldron, Chicago, 78-81—159; Harold McSpadden, Kansas City, 75-78—153; James D. Fogertey, St. Louis, 76-77—153.

The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow. Cooper's commanding lead has made him a prime favorite for first prize of $1500.

ROLLA HAS SPECIAL PLAYS FOR ST. LOUIS U. GAME NEXT FRIDAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., Oct. 25.—After a much-needed rest during the past week, the Rolla Miners will swing into hard scrimmages and intensive training Monday, preparatory to its game with St. Louis U. next Friday.

Coach Grant has been drilling the varsity men on several new plays which were developed primarily for the St. Louis game.

The reserve material will be called into use this week because several varsity men are injured. The wing positions probably will be filled by new men. Malik, a regular end for the last two years, has been out for a week. Runder has been on crutches, while Londrigen, still another end, is just recovering from a wrenched shoulder. Sutherland, a 200-pound guard, suffered a twisted knee in scrimmage but should be in the game Friday.

WORLD POCKET BILLIARD TITLE MEET IN NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The 1930 world's championship pocket billiard tournament will be played at Dwyer's Broadway Academy, New York, during the first or second weeks of December.

Eight contenders, including the champion, will compete over a schedule of 28 games. The eligible players are Ralph Greenleaf, defending title-holder; Frank Taberski and Erwin Rudolph, former champions; Onofrio Lauri of Brooklyn, holder of the 1929 Eastern championship, and the winners of the approaching four sectional championships.

M'LARNIN TO OPPOSE PETROLLE ON NOV. 21

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., boxer, will meet Jimmy McLarnin in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 21, it was announced today. Petrolle will take the place of Justo Suarez, Argentine sensation, who is under suspension.

end for 34 yards and first down on the Central 17-yard line. After Central was penalized five yards for offsides, Tutinsky skirted left end for the touchdown. Neither of Phil Strugar's place kicks for the extra point was good.

Central fought bitterly in the second half, and while it never reached the point where scoring was imminent, its constant posession of the ball kept Roosevelt from doing any damage. Central began an attack in the third quarter which continued into the final period and resulted in three consecutive first downs. The Roosevelt defense tightened up on its own 30-yard line and Central failed to get in the scoring zone.

Cleveland, the fifth member of the league, which was idle yesterday, will open its season next Saturday, meeting Roosevelt.

St. Louis Varsity Beats Freshmen By 32-7 Score

The St. Louis University varsity and freshmen teams played a full time game yesterday afternoon behind the closed gates of the Billiken Stadium on Oakland boulevard. The day was an open date on the Blue and White football schedule and the freshmen filled in the gap. The yearlings led by their trio of burly backfield men Rapp, Ahrens and Bassett gave the varsity more than enough of work and the 32-7 victory of the older men was a hard earned one.

Coach Chile Walsh started a second string lineup to open the game but as the freshmen showed unexpected opposition, sending several varsity men to the sidelines on account of injuries, the Billiken coach used his regulars throughout most of the second half. The 26 points made by the varsity during the fourth quarter were made after Coach Eddie Brown had made many substitutions in his original freshmen lineup.

The lineups:

MONTANA STATE BADLY BEATEN BY NEBRASKA BEFORE 10,000 CROWD

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 25.—Nebraska's Cornhuskers today trounced the Montana State College Bobcats, 53 to 7, here this afternoon before a crowd of approximately 10,000 persons.

The visitors played the Cornhuskers on better than even terms in the first quarter, but wilted under a steady driving attack by Nebraska "shock troops."

Driving against tse sturdy Husker line, the Bobcats could gain nothing, but overhead their attack was deadly although in opening up they paved the way for at least two Nebraska touchdowns.

After Defrate's brilliant 88-yard dash with an intercepted Husker pass in the first quarter, it was a virtual parade of Nebraska touchdowns, the Huskers scoring twice in the second quarter, four times in the third and twice in the fourth.

CARNEGIE TECH WINS FROM WESTERN RESERVE ELEVEN BY 40-8 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 25.—A flood of touchdowns flowed over the Western Reserve goal line in the first half today, until a between-the-halves tongue-lashing by the coach fired the Red Cats to a furious stand that held the mighty Tartans of Carnegie Tech even and gave the Clevelanders considerable glory, even in a 40-to-8 defeat.

WISCONSIN HARRIERS WIN QUADRANGULAR MEET WITH 24 POINTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Although Howrey of Notre Dame, set a new course record to lead the way in, Wisconsin's cross-country team won a quadrangular meet today with 24 points. Illinois was second with 47; Notre Dame, third, with 82 and Northwestern last, with 112.. Howrey's time for the 3¾-mile course was 18:56, compared to the old mark of 20:25, held by Martin of Purdue.

Wray's COLUMN

Still at It.

BAT BATTALINO, featherweight ring champion, who has been batting .00065 in the Sportsmanship League, has still further attenuated this percentage in the minds of those who think fighters should take a chance, now and then.

According to reports, Battalino is going to "defend his title" in a no-decision bout. This is strictly in line with the previous record of this young fellow who has been hiding behind the pound-of-flesh barrier—a procedure designed to protect titles.

Bat, like Joe Dundee, Battalino resorts to safety-first tactics making his opponents weigh one pound more than the meximum weight for his class. Hiding behind the no-decision barrier is just another evasion of responsibility.

Commission rulings compel a fighter to defend his title once every six months. But a lenient board may construe liberally the quality of the challenger, and thus give the champion easy opposition.

The public is demanding that Battalino fight a real fight against an accredited challenger like Kid Chocolate, Roger Bernard, Fidel Labarba, Earl Mastro, Eddie Shea and others.

Instead of yielding to public clamor Bat Battalino is really dodging these opponents. He wants to pull off the next title show in St. Louis, where the no-decision rule will save his bacon.

Guess we can worry along without fights of that sort.

It All Depends.

A NO-DECISION fight need not be inocuous, however. It all depends on the fighters. Jack Dempsey has taken part in several no-decision bouts for the championship and the public was never disappointed. For example, in the early days of the Jersey City Bowl, "Boyle's Thirty Acres," fights were on a no-desion basis. But they never worried about no-decision fights with Dempsey in the ring. They usually ended before the limit because Dempsey made his opponent fight, if he could.

"No fight ought to last 10 rounds if the fighters are willing." Dempsey always maintained..

Dempsey failed to end four of his championship bouts within the time limit. It took him 12 rounds to reach Brennan for the knockout. Gene Tunney twice flouted Jack for 10 rounds and Tom Gibbons clinched and hung on for 15 rounds without being blasted.

It is significant that the three fights which went the limit were made by opponents who bicycled away from Dempsey and did not "want to fight"—at least, not Dempsey's way.

Our Boxing Law.

THE Missouri boxing law could be improved in many respects, although most followers of the game believe that any law is better than none. It is not improbable that recommendations suggesting changes will be presented at the next session of the Missouri Legislature, and one of the changes will likely ask for decisions by the referee or judges, and also an extension of the limit from 10 to 15 rounds, in case of title contests.

In all fairness, the law should be changed from its present form which limits promotion to charitable, military and benevolent organizations. This seems to be class legislation. Whether it is or not, this certainly is a remarkable situation in which organizations not even remotely connected with sports are made the only ones legally permitted to profit by boxing.

Brewer Can't Help Himself.

ANOTHER feature which should be remedied is that which makes the director of athletics at the Missouri State University chairman of the commission, whether he likes it or not.

Chester Brewer, the present incumbent, is an example of the unfortunate working out of this arrangement. Brewer is not in touch with boxing, is not in sympathy with the professional angle of it, and wishes that he could be relieved of his responsibility. He is out of touch with the game and has more than enough work on his hands in his own job at Columbia, Mo., where he has charge of the physical education of thousands of students. He neither is able nor willing to devote the time to the job that it requires.

The result has been that two commissioners each acting independently of one another and rarely together with the chairman, are czars in their respective districts.

It would seem that an improvement might be effected by removing the Missouri Director of Athletics from the picture and by naming as commissioners three men of experience, under a salary sufficient to enable them to devote their entire time to the task.

The commission should maintain offices in St. Louis and act as a body, not as individuals.

Some of these suggestions will be submitted at the next meeting of the Legislature.

KANSAS DEFEATS AMES, 20 TO 6; BAUSCH KEPT ON SIDE LINES

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 25.—Kansas showed expected power only in the opening and closing minutes of its Big Six struggle with Iowa State here today, eventually winning 20 to 6 after disappointing mid-game display. "Jarring Jim" Bausch, whose eligibility is questioned, did not play.

After Schaake scored the initial touchdown, the Jayhawkers appeared to let down and not until the Cyclones surprised them with touchdown on the second play of the fourth quarter, did Kansas come out of its lethargy.

Paden, substitute end, was responsible for the last two touchdowns. He smothered an attempted pass by Grefe, to place ball in position for one, and took a pass from Fisher amidst a swarm of goal defenders for the other.

Grefe, a little boy who was too light to play high school football but who led an Iowa State charge which nearly upset Nebraska, entered the game for Paul Trauger when the latter was injured in the third period. He caught Schaake's 60-yard punt from the goal line for the first play of the final quarter and ran behind good interference nearly to the goal line, where he was pushed outside. Tegland plunged in the next play for the foot needed for a touchdown, and while Kansas fans held their breath Stuck blocked Swoboda's attempted place kick.

This was Iowa State's only threat, although the Cyclones spasmodically gained great distances. One was a 37-yard pass from Wilcox to Moen. Another was Trauger's 25-yard run. Shortly after Trauger entered the game for Bowes in the second period, he began to sift through the Kansas line, but his driving soon was stopped.

Schaake played well, punting straight and far, running nicely. Beach, Kansas fullback, played good defensively, especially in tackling. Tegland was good in backing up the Iowa State line.

Kansas seemed to use poor judgment, discarding power plays which worked for more intricate formations which failed. Some observers however agreed the team might be experimenting.

The crowd totaled 7000. The day was clear, and cool. Bausch was held out to save his injured knee. Forrest Cox was acting Kansas captain.

Oklahoma Wins From Kansas Aggies, 7-0.

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Oct. 25.—The highly advertised free scoring contest between the Sooners and the Kansas Aggies today turned into an exceedingly frugal football game which the Sooners won, 7 to 0.

Oklahoma touched off the first rocket in a program of fireworks when Mills climaxed the first quarter with a 49-yard sprint through the Kansas Aggie left tackle for a touchdown and kicked his goal for the extra point, but with that performance the Sooners locked the door to the pyrotechnic storeroom and the frenzied grads had to content themselves with three quarters of orthodox football.

Three times during the afternoon the Kansas Aggies worked the ball past midfield, but one thrust fizzled at the Sooner 20-yard line, and the other two lost momentum along about the 35-yard line. Content to let the Aggies nibble off scant yards on short passes, the Sooners blocked every toss that threatened to advance the ball more than 15 yards. Six of 19 passes completed netted the Kansas Aggies 39 yards, but most of these were in midfield and once a completed short pass resulted in a three-yard loss for the visitors.

PRINCIPIA TAKES TWO "ABC" LEAGUE GAMES FROM WESTERN

Principia won two of three "ABC" League football games from Western Military Academy yesterday. The Principia "A" and "C" teams won by corresponding scores of 14 to 0. The Western "B" team defeated Principia, 20 to 0. All the games were played at Alton.

The Principia "A" team scored both its touchdowns on blocked punts in the fourth period. The "C" team scored once in each of the first and third quarters. Western never threatened to score.

The Western "B" team had an easy time of it, scoring twice in the first half and once in the second. Principia's defense tightened up in the second half and kept the game from being a rout.

By the Associated Press.
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 25.—A sophomore quarterback who received only passing attention in pre-season experting, but who arrived with a bang in his first game, forward passed and kicked Michigan to another Big Ten victory today. A crowd of 75,000 looked on.

The Wolverines, under the keen guidance of Harry Newman, trounced Illinois, 15 to 7, in their sixteenth annual battle, definitely eliminated the Illini from championship consideration and hitched themselves a couple of rungs higher in the title chase.

Newman, whose supple arm and accurate toe brought him instant recognition in the upset of Purdue by Michigan two weeks ago, heaved two passes today which were taken behind the goal line for Michigan touchdowns, and in addition zipped a clean place kick through the bars for the first Michigan score of its kind this season.

Displays Generalship.

With it all, the second-year man displayed great generalship in maneuvering his forces. He fumbled a few times, but these lapses were overshadowed by his other performances. Neither team was free from blame in fumbling.

Capt. Simrall of the Wolverines, was injured in tackling Robinson in the first period, and was carried off the field. It was announced later that he was not seriously injured.

The game was only well started when Simrall booted deep into Illinois territory and Berry, Illini quarterback, fumbled, starting from the 25-yard line, Wheeler, Michigan left halfback and new man, plugged the line for short gains. On the next play Newman tossed to Wheeler over the goal line. He missed the try for goal. A blocked punt in the second period gave Michigan its opportunity for the place-kick. Samuel blocked Bodman's boot and Hozer took the oval on the Illinois 11-yard stripe. On the fourth down, Newman stepped back to the 23-yard line and sent the pigskin sailing true between the uprights.

Michigan Line Holds.

The visitors bucked up during the remainder of the second period and advanced to the Michigan four-yard line on a series of plays starting at the Wolverine 46-yard line after Newman had fumbled. Robinson, Illinois fullbalk, passed to Russell, left half, for one gain of 24 yards. At the four-yard line, however, Michigan braced up and smothered the attack.

Berry came through with the only Illinois score in the third period, when he raced brilliantly 65 yards across the Michigan goal after receiving Wheeler's kick. Yanuskus kicked the goal.

Wheeler's throwing arm gave Michigan their last counter near the start of the final period, when a long pass to Williamson took the ball out of bounds on the Illinois 10-yard line and a few plays later Hudson gathered in another heave behind the goal line on the opposite side of the field. Newman's kick was blocked.

The Illini unleashed a furious aerial attack in the last period which Michigan kept well in hand, while Hudson tried a dropkick for an additional Wolverine score. His boot was far short of the standards.

RAZORBACKS RUN OVER TEXAS AGGIES TO WIN DECISION, 13 TO 9

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 25.—The University of Arkansas Razorbacks unleashed a running and plunging attack here today that upset Texas A. and M. and defeated them, 13 to 9. Twice more the Razorbacks carried the ball to the Texans' five-yard line with four downs to make the touchdown, only to be stopped by the end of the half and the end of the game.

The Razorbacks made 15 first downs, chiefly from scrimmage and running plays, while the Farmers made their six first downs solely by the air route. The Arkansas backs carried the ball 241 yards from the line of scrimmage, while holding their opponents to 24 yards. In the last half the Aggies threw passes to all corners of the field, netting 117 yards on nine completed passes out of 27 attempts. Only four times did Arkansas try passes, three of these being good for 41 yards.

Tendency of Young Goal Keepers Is to Fist Ball to Protect Their Goal, Says Wilson.

By Andy Wilson.
Of Scotland and Chelsea.
One of the Greatest of Modern Footballers.

IN MY first article I promised more details as to keeping goal. I never knew a young goalkeeper in England or Scotland who did not, in his early days, want to fist the ball, and, in fact, do so far too often. The great object of a goalkeeper is to get the ball away from his goal, and I contend that fisting does not, in the ordinary way, lend itself to this object.

In the whole of my career I have only known about three goalkeepers who could really clear their lines by the use of fisting. Nearly all can momentarily ease the position, but fisting leaves this possibility: The ball may drop at the feet of an opponent within easy shooting distance of your goal. If you have had to run out to fist the ball, he may get the ball back before you have regained your position.

Let me take you into a personal secret. Whenever I see a goalkeeper preparing to fist the ball, I run away from the goal. I know the strength of practically all the first-class goalkeepers. I can guess almost to within a yard how far they will punch the ball. I have got many a goal by doing this, and lobbing the ball back.

Tremelling, famous goal keeper of Birmingham, fisting the ball. Picture shows an ideal clearance by means of fisting.

WHEN NOT TO FIST BALL.

As a general rule, I should say never fist the ball when you can catch it in your two hands. If you must fist, because you are surrounded by opponents, then fist the ball with two clenched hands. If you cannot get two hands to the ball you must, of course, use but one. But always fist the ball up in the air. Whatever you do, do not punch the ball down to the ground. If the ball goes up in the air, you have time to get back to your goal line, or to get into position before the ball comes down. If you knock the ball down, the danger which I have mentioned before will certainly arise.

Do not be afraid to punch the ball over the cross-bar for a corner kick. Better a corner than a goal. If you cannot, with safety, either catch or punch clear a high ball, then push it over the bar. When the ground is wet, and the ball greasy, I think this method of saving is by far the best.

Which brings me to the best way of attending to corner kicks. The only thing that has to be decided is when to leave your goal and when to stay at home. You know, of course, that you must stand at the far end of your goal, so that you can run forward and cover the whole of it. The great danger is in running too quickly and too soon. If you get too far under the ball, you are in a woeful plight. There is no hope of turning and getting back.

There is no problem when the ball is likely to drop in the goal area. It should always be easy for the goalkeeper to get to the ball and clear. The advantage of being able to use one's hands, and reach over the other players, is here of great value. But when the ball drops outside the goal area, it is different. If the goalkeeper goes too far, he probably will find himself too late or barred by the other players. In my opinion it is dangerous for a goalkeeper to advance beyond eight yard from his goal.

Anything that drops outside that distance demands a goalkeeper staying on his line. For he can then easily watch the flight of the ball, and have no difficulty in saving should an opponent head towards the goal. Very few goals are scored from corner kicks, but the majority of these that are scored come because the goalkeeper has advanced too far.

A USEFUL TIP.

Let me give you a tip that is useful. When a corner kick is being taken, one of the fullbacks comes into goal, and stands behind the line, well into the back of the net. The moment the goalkeeper advances, the fullback comes forward and stands on the line. He is in position if anything goes wrong. This idea was invented by Forster, who played for Tottenham Hotspur, the London team. The first time he saved a certain goal from my head I was very surprised, but since then I have seen him save many goals. It is a great move—one of the best tactical inventions in modern football.

My illustration this week is of Tremelling, the famous goalkeeper of Birmingham. I have selected this picture because it shows an ideal clearance by means of fisting. I want you to notice the points I have made. You will see that the ball is sent up in the air, and that to have caught the ball would have been very dangerous.

Now for a few words about positional play. If the ball is on the opposing right, then you must move over to the left of your goal. The object of this move is to leave as little opening as possible, in case a shot comes in. This is essential if the man with the ball is closing in upon you. You must, of course, remember that, if he passes inside, then you will have to rearrange your position. But the first rule of goalkeeping is attention to the ball, and you must judge by where the ball is where it might go.

But when the ball is on the right or left, and the winger is in such a position that he can not shoot but must center or pass, then you must treat the incident as you would a corner. Take up a position so that you can run forward and go out if necessary. Never put yourself into a position that you have to try and go backwards. It is almost impossible to do this; keep your balance, and your eyes upon the ball.

KEEP LEGS TOGETHER.

You all know that shot that comes straight at you on the ground. It is so easy to save in the ordinary way, but how do you do it? You must keep your legs together, and gather the ball to your body as quickly as possible. I once saw an important English Cup tie lost because a famous goalkeeper had his legs wide apart as he tried to pick up the ball. The ball was greasy, it slipped through his hands, between his legs, and into the net.

If necessary go down on to your knees to make certain of the whole of your body between the ball and the net. I have mentioned this before, but so vastly important is it that I must repeat it. Never try to take a ball that is coming from the wing with your body square to the field; it must be square to the ball. Perhaps the greatest tragedy in English football was when a famous goalkeeper, playing in the English Cup Final at the Wembley Stadium before nearly 100,000 spectators, made this mistake, missed the ball and his team lost the game by the goal that came from that error.

You will make mistakes. You will miss shots that you should save. But if you will eschew risks keep your eye upon the ball, use your hands whenever possible, you will find mistakes fewer than before, and your job a good deal easier and more enjoyable.

In my next article I shall go to the full backs and help men in those positions.

Principia Defeats Jefferson City

Principia's Junior College football team easily defeated the Jefferson City Junior College eleven at Taylor Field yesterday afternoon, scoring in each period for a 47—0 victory. The Principia team tallied nine points in the first quarter, 12 in the second, 13 in the third and 13 in the fourth.

The light Jefferson City team, without any reserves to speak of, was unable to pierce the line of the big, strong Principia squad and failed to make a first down.

WEBSTER WINS, 9 TO 6, OVER UNIVERSITY CITY

Coach Muhl's University City Indians, defending champions, who head the County League football race this year with two other teams, have been defeated. The Webster High eleven, one of the strongest in the county, although not a member of the league, turned back the Redskins, 9 to 6, yesterday afternoon on the Webster field to gain revenge for its last year's 6 to 0 defeat by the Muhlmen. The attendance was 1200.

Webster has installed an amplifying system which kept the spectators informed on the technical side of the contest.

The game was quite an upset due to the fact that University City has an extraordinarily fast backfield which, with a dry field, usually runs rings around its opponents. However, in this game the team tired easily, under the resistance of the Webster eleven.

Bill Freschi, star Webster half, playing for the first time, scored the necessary points to win. Bill, out with an injured ankle all season, was not expected to do much, in spite of his fine past record, but his touchdown was made on a 30-yard run. Freschi made his placekick good for the winning point.

Webster scored two unnecessary points when it had made three first downs in approaching the goal, University City gained the ball on downs and Goodman passed the ball high to Feldman, who was standing behind the goal line. The ball grazed Feldman's fingers and fell to the ground for a safety.

A 25-yard penalty against Webster, a 19-yard run by Feldman, and a 15-yard pass from the latter to Meisel took University City from about its own 30 to the Webster 12-yard mark in the last five minutes of the final quarter. Vescovo then made a forward pass which was nearly lateral to Feldman, who skirted right end to score.

Savoldi Scores on Intercepted Pass.

As the first period ended, he blasted to Pitt's six-inch line and went over on the first play of the second quarter. Then Joe grabbed one of Capt. Eddie Baker's desperate tosses on Pitt's 40-yard line and scored standing up. Carideo place-kicked all four goals. The substitutes came in, but the rout, one of the worst in Pittsburg's history of powerful elevens, was still on.

Jim O'Connor, 180-pound halfback from East Orange, N. J., who'll be carrying the hod next season when the stars of this year have graduated, took Brill's place and tore things wide open again. They gave him the ball on Notre Dame's 29-yard line and he ran 61 yards around end and along the sideline to cross the Pitt goal line standing up. They brought him back to midfield because he stepped outside there and he promptly peeled off 46 yards to Pitt's five-yard stripe.

Mike Koken, Youngstown, O., subbing for Schwartz, went around right end for the touchdown and Charles K. Jaskwich, Kenosha, Wis., kicked goal. That was all for Knute's first team and it was all for Notre Dame.

Pitt, full of latent power, came back in the second half against the subs. Pitt scored three times and turned the stadium into a howling, roaring mass of frenzied humanity. Rockne decided things had gone far enough, sent the first team back and the game was over.

Pitt threatened in the third quarter, but not until the final period did the attack really develop. Baker picked up 25 yards to the Irish 30-yard line on a reverse and Williams and Clark smashed to the goal line, the latter going over. On the next kickoff Jashwich fumbled crossing his own goal and Pitt smothered the ball on Notre Dame's four-yard line. Paul Reider, sub half, plunged over. Baker kicked goal.

The Panthers started again when Jaskwich kicked poorly to his own 40-yard line after Notre Dame had been driven back. A short pass, line thrusts and an end run reached to Notre Dame's two-yard line. The first Rockne team came tearing in but it was too late to stop that rush. Clark smashed over center. The kick failed and 70 seconds later the game was over.

Yale Ties Army, 7-7; Booth Carried Off Field After Being in One Play

By the Associated Press.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 25.—They carried little Albie Booth off the field on a stretcher today and most of Yale's hopes along with him, but the Elis survived this stunning break with sufficient defensive courage to hold the high-powered Army team to 7-7 tie in a rain-soaked battle before close to 72,000 spectators.

Booth appeared in only one play, but it was the dramatic sensation of the entire game, otherwise confined largely to a kicking and defensive tussle in the mud. Entering the fray late in the second period, with Yale leading 7-0 by virtue of a first quarter "break" and as Army was counter-charging, Albie snared a long Cadet pass tossed by Ken Field almost to the Blue goal line.

In a flash, the outburst of cheers that had greeted Booth's entry and getaway was drowned in a chorus of groans, followed by the booes of more frenzied partisans, as the spectacular Eli quarterback lay stretched out on the turf, where he had been brought down hard by a trio of army tacklers. Albie was stopped on his own seven-yard line and it was quickly apparent he was through for the day. The booing grew in volume in the Yale stands as the favorite "Boy in Blue" was helped to his feet and then handed over to the stretcher-bearers.

Booth Not Seriously Hurt.

Examination of Booth revealed he was injured about the head as well as one leg by the effects of being tackled but the injuries, while sufficient to end his activities for the afternoon, were not serious.

Still somewhat in a daze as a result of this misfortune, the Elis, with Sandy Wiener in Booth's place, directing the play, were unable to stop the next Army charge to the goal line. The Cadets, from Yale's 40-yard line, with less than four minutes before the end of the half, rushed over a touchdown. Tom Kilday, of San Antonio, Tex., a second-year backfield star just restored to eligibility, carried the ball over on a short plunge.

With everything depending on the try for extra point, Maj. Ralph Sasse, Army's new head coach, took no chances. He sent in a specialist for this one play — Charles Broshous of Atchison, Kan.—who place-kicked the pigskin through the uprights for the point that tied the score.

Yale played for the kicking breaks all day, with rain falling throughout the first half and the ball slippery.

Army	0	7	0	0	— 7
Yale	7	0	0	0	— 7

Army scoring: Touchdown—Kilday (sub for Herb). Point after touchdown—Broshous (sub for Letzelter).

Yale scoring: Touchdown—Crowley. Points after touchdown—Sullivan (allowed on Army penalty).

An early "break" of this sort in the first period gave the Elis their touchdown. Ken Fields, Army fullback, punting from his own 10-yard line, had the kick blocked by big Truxton Hare Jr., Eli guard. The ball was recovered by Hans Flygare, Yale end, on Army's six-yard line. It took four plays for the Blue to put the ball over, Fullback Joe Crowley scoring the touchdown.

On the try for extra point, Pat Sullivan's kick was blocked, but Army was ruled offside and the point that later proved so necessary was awarded to the Elis.

Army outplayed, outrushed and outpassed Yale in every period. The Cadets rolled up nine first downs on the slippery field to Yale's three, all registered in the scoreless last half. Carver, Bowman and Letzelter of the crack Army backfield, got away for runs of 16 to 36 yards, but when it came to the pinches, Yale's brilliant line, featuring the work of Loeser, Linehan, Hare and Barres, a great end, was a match for the Cadet forwards.

Without Booth the Elis showed no scoring punch.

W. & J. DEFEATS LAFAYETTE ON INDOOR GRIDIRON

By the Associated Press
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 25.

THE Washington and Jefferson Presidents fought off a last minute rush of the Lafayette Leopards to win, 7 to 0, the first intercollegiate indoor football game, played here tonight in the Convention Hall. The attendance was 25,000.

The temperature of the large hall was equable and the players did not seem to suffer from the strange field, made up of six inches of tightly rolled soil laid on the concrete floor.

The Presidents' touchdown came within a minute after the opening of the second half when Socolow fumbled a punt on the one-yard line. It was recovered by Harris and on the third play Wilson carried it over. The fullback then kicked the goal from placement.

Colgate Hands Penn Staters A 40-0 Defeat

By the Associated Press.
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 25.—A homecoming crowd of 15,000 today saw the Nittany Lions of Penn State routed, 40 to 0, by a powerful Colgate eleven. The game marked the close of the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the college.

The Lions at no time seemed able to muster an offensive strong enough to threaten seriously to score. Even when confronted by the Colgate reserves in the final period they were unable to gain after a poor punt had given them a first down on Colgate's 18-yard line.

At this moment the homecoming throng enjoyed their only thrill as Miller heaved a long pass to Evans standing at the goal line. An alert Colgate defense man deflected the pass before Evans could snatch it in and State's one big chance had passed.

Colgate's attack matched in effectiveness its smothering defense. Reynolds, Macalusha, Hart and Abbrusinio all gained consistently on line and end plays, in practically every instance, aided brilliantly by an interference which mowed down the Lions' defense.

TUSKEGEE UNIVERSITY AND WILBERFORCE PLAY TO A SCORELESS TIE

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Wilberforce University and Tuskegee Institute battled to a scoreless tie at Soldier Field today in the third annual game played by the two Negro teams in Chicago. The game was largely a punting duel between John Johnson of Tuskegee and Bull Moore of Wilberforce in which Johnson, averaging 45 yards, had an advantage. Wilberforce threatened to score in the second quarter, but a 30-yard lateral pass from Thornhill to Tynes over the end zone went for naught when the play was called back.

TWO PLAYS NET TOUCHDOWN FOR CHAMPIONS IN THIRD PERIOD

By the Associated Press.
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 25.—Wisconsin's bid for Big Ten football honors today failed to match Purdue's desperate effort to remain in the title battle and the Golden-accoutered Boilermakers sent the Badgers home beaten, 7 to 6.

More than 25,000 old grads and other Purdue adherents finally got something to yell about in the third period of what had been an exceedingly dull exhibition of football, when Howard Kissell and Jimmy Risk touched off the dynamite of the Purdue attack, and in two plays scored a touchdown.

The same 25,000, less the 2000 Wisconsin followers, changed their cries from cheers to pleas in the middle of the fourth period when the Badgers made a brilliant effort, which produced a touchdown, but failed of the vital point.

Extra Point Is Margin.

The actual margin of difference was the difference between George Van Bibber's successful placement for an extra point, and Russ Rebholz's failure to connect, but it was sheer desperate battling that kept the Boilermakers from bowling.

The vaunted Wisconsin running attack, the one that shattered Chicago and Pennsylvania on successive weeks, was present, but not when the Badgers were within scoring distance of the Purdue goal line.

The Boilermaker line out-did itself on each of three occasions when Wisconsin threatened to score, and the Badgers finally took to the air to gain their points.

Purdue's Desperate Battle.

Statistics reveal how much of a battle Purdue staged in order to win. The Badgers amassed 1b first downs to nine for Purdue, and had a huge margin in yards gained by carrying the ball—219 to 92. Both elevens used the pass often and everywhere on the field with the following results: Wisconsin tried 16 of which five were completed for 58 yards, 10 were incomplete and one was intercepted; Purdue took to the air 18 times, completing five passes for 80 yards, with 10 incomplete and three intercepted.

Purdue's victory gave the Black and Old Gold two trumphs and one defeat against Big Ten opposition, while defeat gave Wisconsin an even break in its pair of games.

EASTER STOCKINGS BEATS SAXON AND NELLIE CUSTIS AT LATONIA

WINS HANDILY BUT PULLS UP LAME; SCHUTTE RIDES WINNER

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 25.—Racing back to her best form, Easter Stockings, the 5-year-old mare from the Audley Farm had an easy trip to win the Covington Handicap, the outstanding feature on the program today. Saxon, from M. J. Crennan's stable was next to cross under the wire, with Nellie Custis, coupled with the winner a close-up third.

The Covington Handicap, which carried a net value of $5480 to the winner, with $1000 to the second, $500 to the third, and $120 to the fourth stable was run over the mile and sixteenth journey. It was for 3-year-olds and upward. The time was 1:45 1-5 and the entry paid $9.86 for $2.

Easter Stockings, away well, was rated along under restraint close up to the leaders for six furlongs, where Jockey Schutte let her down and she drew rapidly away to win by four lengths, but pulled up lame. Saxon set the pace to the turn for home, then weakened and was doing his utmost to take the place money by a head from Nellie Custis. The latter was away slowly and slow to get into her racing stride. She came courageously in the stretch drive and was rapidly wearing down Saxon to take third money by a length and a half from Royal Julian. Twelve horses started.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Scoring his fourth victory of the present meeting, Tonto Rock, the 3-year-old Traprock colt from the stable of F. Almy, battled his way home to capture the Autumn Handicap at Hawthorne track here today. Cog Air, the consistent money winner from Mrs. R. Pollard's stable, was a close second, and Calome, a good colt from A. A. Baroni string, was third.

The handicap was for horses of all ages, over the mile and a sixteenth and was worth $1800 to the winner, which paid off at $8.26 for $2. The winner's time was clicked at 1:44 4-5.

My Dandy, carrying the high impost of 119 pounds, set the pace to the stretch turn, where Cog Air, Tonto Rock and Calome quickly passed him.

Cog Air was first to show in front in the stretch run and then came Tonto Rock and the race resolved itself into a battle between these two, with Tonto Rock finally sticking his nose out in front to win.

It was undoubtedly the most stirring contest of the meeting.

McCorgary and Bean to Headline Tippett's Show

Jimmy Bean and Babe McCorgary, Oklahoma fighters, yesterday completed their training by engaging in workouts in preparation for their 10-round matches with out-of-town light-heavyweights on the Walter Hatzifeld American Legion Post professional boxing card tomorrow night at Gayety Arena, under direction of Jack Tippett.

Bean will meet Jack Barry of Chicago, and McCorgary will face Tommy Murphy, from Youngstown, O. The two 10-rounders will top a program of six matches.

Bean is remembered by local fandom for his fights at the Coliseum several years ago. In his first match here he fought Tom Pivac on short notice and the South Sider took the decision by a shade. However, in a return meeting, Bean administered a severe lacing to Pivac.

In Barry, Bean will be facing a good light-heavyweight. Barry pleased local fans when he handed Shuffle Callahan a one-sided lacing at The Arena last winter. Despite an injured hand, Barry won over Callahan with apparent ease. In a recent match, Barry knocked out Pivac.

McCorgary has been working out in a diligent manner for his bout with Murphy for he is eager to prove to his followers that he has improved within the past few years. McCorgary, in matches at the Coliseum three years ago, defeated Jimmy Gorry, Henry Malcor and Jimmy Mahoney, and put up a great battle with K. O. Phil Kaplan, then one of the best welterweights in the country.

The supporting card promises some keenly fought matches. In the heavyweight battle, John Clatto of St. Louis meets Ray McCabe, another local boy. Clatto has won three of his recent scraps by knockouts. Paul Lang of the South Side faces Ray Palmer, of Bob Riley's stable, and Woodrow Williams, one of George Wilsman's proteges, opposes Peewee Terry, a member of Joe Herbst's mitt camp, in the two bantamweight clashes. A middleweight bout will be fought by George Daw of Pine Lawn and Kid Carter, hard punching local youth.

Mixed Doubles Tourney.

Men and women bowlers will open a mixed-doubles tournament at Schaefer's Delmar Recreation alleys at 7 o'clock tonight.

Burroughs B Team Wins, C Eleven Ties Country Day

In two "ABC" League contests yesterday at John Burroughs, the Blue and Gold "B" team defeated the Country Day eleven, 6-0, while the Burroughs "C" team was held to a scoreless tie by the Red and White "C" team. This is the second victory of the season for the Price Road "B" outfit. The result of the "C" game was rather unsatisfactory, as Burroughs and Country Day are leading the "C" division, and it was hoped that a decision would be arrived at in this game.

In the "B" game, Hamilton, Burroughs lineman, intercepted a forward pass behind the line of scrimmage and ran 55 yards for the only touchdown in the third period.

In the first half of the "C" team game, Country Day was on the offensive and made some good gains. However, Burroughs used only straight football and both teams fund it necessary to punt often. Towards the end of the first half the Red and White threatened the Burroughs goal, but could not push the ball over. In the last half, Thompson took the pigskin to the enemy five-yard mark, but Codasco could not score.

MRS. ROHLFING WINS FOREST PARK TOURNEY

Mrs. Charles Rohlfing won the women's handicap golf tourney at Forest Park by defeating Mrs. Jack Gromley, 4 and 3, in the final round yesterday. In the consolation final, Mrs. L. W. Cookson won from Mrs. Charles Sweeney, 3 and 2. Mrs. Cookson also turned in the low medal score, taking a 99.

A three-day handicap meet for the E. H. Duwe Trophy will be held over the Forest Park Golf Club course beginning Tuesday. The event is on a handicap basis.

Only 3000 See Day's Racing at Empire Track

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Real winter weather swept over the track here today with the result the attendance for Saturday was way below the average. It was estimated that less than 3000 racing fans made the journey to the Hill Top course.

The New Rochelle Handicap, mile and a sixteenth, was the stake attraction and was won by the Rancocas Stable's Mokatam, ridden by L. Fator. Peto was second and Martis third.

Martis, showing unusual speed, rushed to the front and it appeared as if they would never get him, as he was running very easily. However, Fator kept Mokatam close up, made his move in the stretch and the colt, closing gamely, stood a long, hard drive to win by a length. Peto beat Martis three lengths for the place. The race was worth $3605.

CARDINALS, PLANNING INFIELD REINFORCEMENTS, CONSIDER LINDSTROM

WHITNEY, PHILS' THIRD SACKER, LIKELY TO BE ON THE MARKET

By J. Roy Stockton.

Freddie Lindstrom of the Giants is now mentioned as the third baseman who may be in Cardinal uniform next season. President Sam Breadon, Vice President Branch Rickey and Manager Gabby Street naturally choose to be silent as to their trading plans. It would be bad business and unethical for them to say they would like to have Lindstrom, or Pinkey Whitney of the Phillies. But it is known that the Redbirds will make every effort to obtain the services of a high-class third sacker before spring, and it appears that Whitney and Lindstrom are the only men available.

Burt Shotton of the Phils already has disposed of Lefty O'Doul, but he still needs considerable help if he is to get out of the National League cellar, and the Cardinals will have an advantage in the trading market because of the many outstanding young players who can be called from the farm teams to make an attractive deal for the Phillies.

Lindstrom on Market.

Lindstrom was reported on the market last summer, though it is difficult to understand why McGraw would weaken his infield. He finally got Critz from the Reds to play second base, after he had traded Frisch to the Cardinals and Hornsby to the Braves, but he showed in those deals that he would trade a star, so perhaps something has happened to make him decide to swap Lindstrom.

Taylor Douthit has been mentioned as the player that McGraw would like to have. McGraw has been quoted as saying that Douthit is the best center fielder in the business, and that means that McGraw would like to see him in a New York uniform.

There would be many complaints from St. Louis fans if Breadon traded Douthit, but Sam Breadon has learned that squawks from the cash customers don't mean anything if the team can win, and if he decided that Lindstrom's presence would more than offset the loss of Douthit, he would not hesitate to make the trade.

Would Make the Infield.

Lindstrom would make the Cardinal infield a great one. Besides being the best fielding third sacker in the league, Lindstrom is a dangerous batter and a slugger. The St. Louis pitchers have tried for years to find his weakness, but they haven't been successful and finally have decided that the best way is to mix 'em up in the hope of catching him off watch.

While many persons would disapprove a trade involving Douthit, such a transaction might be excused in view of the abundance of outfield material in the Cardinal organization. Pepper Martin, long the club's property, is said to have arrived finally as a star sure to make good in the majors. In addition the training camp squad will include Hafey, Orsatti, Watkins, Blades, perhaps Fisher and several young fly chasers from the farms.

Delker an Uncertain Quantity.

Eddie Delker is the most promising of the young candidates for the third base job. He was a sensation at the 1929 spring camp, but lacked experience and was a failure when the flag race started. He was sent to Rochester last spring, but was out most of the year with a bad leg and therefore didn't get the experience he needed so badly. He has to make good before he can be considered a candidate for the job Sparky Adams held last year.

Paul Waner of the Pirates has been offered to the Cardinals, according to gossip, but the price tag was too high and the Redbirds are said to have replied "not interested." If Waner could be obtained the Cardinals could afford to give McGraw an outfielder in a deal for Lindstrom.

Sam Breadon departed for Florida Tuesday for a vacation, but he will be in touch with baseball and if there are any bargains on the market the Cardinals will not overlook them. And the Cardinals will be trying hard for a third baseman.

West Virginia Wins.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A superior aerial attack last night gave West Virginia University a 14 to 7 victory over Georgetown University in a stubbornly fought contest.

Bobby Jones Finds New Standard Golf Ball Is Responsive to All Shots

By Bobby Jones,

American Open, British Open, American Amateur and British Amateur Champion.

Continuing on the new standard ball—since returning from Merion I have played two complete rounds with it and have had opportunities to observe its behavior closely enough to have a true appreciation of what it means. Prior to that time I had only a passing acquaintance with it because I did not want to confuse my playing insincts during the competitive season.

Bobby Jones.

To me the outstanding delight of the new ball is its ready response to every kind of shot. Not only has it a pleasant feel on the club, but it makes possible shots which simply could not be played with the heavier ball. Everyone appreciates that the heavy ball offers considerable difficulty in the play to the green. If it lies in heavy grass or in a cuppy lie, it requires a sound blow with a lofted club to give it enough elevation to make it stop on the green, and the player who is not able to hit hard enough is left helpless. With the new ball, the difficulty of a situation of this kind is considerably lessened, first because the ball being larger and lighter sits up higher in the grass, and, second, because it does not need to be hit so hard in order to attain sufficient elevation.

I enjoy playing golf on a course and with a ball that does not require slugging. In this respect the new ball is ideal, for while I noted a small loss of distance off the tee, I noted quite definitely also that I could play all the shots with less physical effort. Playing the old ball, full shots, and very often forcing shots were necessary. The ball was heavy and it was a good roller. On any shot up to the green, unless it was played against a strong breeze, had to be hit hard and high to be certain of stopping. But with the new ball, I find that where I used to require a full shot with a number four iron, for example, I can now play a half-shot with a number two.

Better Control.

The new ball may require a little better control, but the comfort makes such control easy to apply. Modern golfers have been criticised by the old-timers because of their tendency to neglect the half-shot. The fact of the business has been that the half-shot was made impractical by the heavy ball.

These same considerations make it evident also that playing the new ball there will be fewer clubs necessary. The range of usefulness of every club will be materially increased. Shots will be played successfully and easily with a mashie which formerly demanded a mashie-niblick and with a four or three where a mashie was needed before. And certainly the short pitching and approaching game will be much easier with a ball that can be struck firmly without fear of its scampering over the green.

I have persuaded several people to begin playing with the new ball long before there was any need to do so. These men have been competing against their friends using the present standard. Without exception after a few rounds they have expressed themselves delighted with it. One friend in New York began using the large ball just before we sailed for Europe in April. He has taken strokes off his scores, which used to run between 95 and 100, and soon declared that he would never go back to the heavy ball.

The average golfer makes a great mistake when he tries to play with the expert's ball. He knows he can't swing as accurately nor with as much power, but he still thinks he can accept the same conditions of play. I am certain there is no man who plays in the 100 class who can swing with enough power to control the least bit the small, heavy ball. Indeed, if the truth were known, a player of that kind would do better with a floater. He would then have a ball that gave him a chance. Bay, California.

BROWN OUTPLAYS AND DEFEATS HOLY CROSS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 25. — Brown outplayed and outskidded an optimistic Holy Cross football team here today to win a 13 to 0 victory. The game was played in a driving rain, but the slippery ball affected only the Holy Cross offensive. The Brown forwards were alert for fumbles and more than once the covering of the ball by a Brown jersey pulled the Bruin out of danger.

Both teams played hard, rugged football and Holy Cross had numerous substitutions. Capt. Jack McEwan reported that several of his players had been seriously hurt as the result of falls on the slippery turf.

LAST AUTO RACE MEETING TODAY AT CREVE COEUR

Racing drivers of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Ohio have sent in entries and will qualify today to compete in the third series of the Greater St. Louis Sweepstakes Racing Derby at Creve Coeur Park.

Some of the fastest one-man racing creations in the country are here and waiting the timer's flag.

Eight of these mounts will enter in each event, and the final race will be made up of the winners of the eliminations that will preced the final event.

The starters will include Bryan Saulspaugh, Ray Meyer, "Red" Campbell, Verne McComb, Leon De Hart, Leslie Ford, Johnny Boyd, "Speed" Adams and "Red" Marley. The big event should be a very close finish between Saulspaugh, Adams, McComb, Campbell and De Hart.

Dual races are expected as the balance of the field will be close runners-up if their mounts can stand the severe strain that they will have to under go in these contests.

The management has arranged to handle the largest crowd of race fans to attend an auto race at Creve Coeur this year. Arrangements have been made to park 5000 cars in the grove at Creve Coeur and there is 15,000 seats to accommodate the fans. National Guardsmen will be on hand to direct traffic and look after the seating of the spectators. A detail of deputy sheriffs will police the enclosure.

Special safety zones have been installed surrounding the danger zones for the welfare of the public.

All events will be run under the same rules and regulations as the 500-mile race at Indianapolis on Decoration day.

The qualifying trials will start at 8 a. m. and close at noon. Thirty cars are expected to qualify. The first event is to start at 2 p. m.

Creve Coeur is out Olive street road 10 miles. From there arrows will mark the rest of the route to the track, one and a half miles further on. Street car passengers should go to the Olive-Delmar loop then take the blue bus to the track.

The final thriller of the day's program will be furnished by Jack Early of Hollywood who will ride his motorcycle through a wooden structure aflame with gasoline.

MICHIGAN ELEVEN TO OPPOSE SCOTT FIELD IN FOOTBALL GAME

The Scott Field football team will meet the First Pursuit Group team from Selfridge Field, Michigan, at Scott Field, in the first intersectional service game at the local air station, this afternoon.

The Scott Field team has suffered two defeats thus far at the hands of McKendree College and Southern Illinois Teachers. However, last Sunday Scott Field held the strong Mechanical School team at Chanute Field, Illinois, to a scoreless tie.

Scott Field has been strengthened considerably this week by the addition of Lieuts. Charles and Stokes, who are reporting to duty at Scott Field. Lieut. Charles held down one of the end positions a couple of seasons ago at the University of Tennessee, while Lieut. Stokes played fullback with Southwestern. Both will be with the team the rest of the season as playing coaches, but due to army regulations, only one officer is allowed to play at a time. This will work equally against the Selfridge Field teams, as their coaches are Lieut. "Chick" Meehan and Lieut. "Skippy" Harbold, two members of the 1927 West Point team. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock, with no admission.

St. Louis Field Hockey Team to Play Bloomington

Today's game between teams of the St. Louis Field Hockey Association and the Illinois Normal team of Bloomington, Ill., to be played at Heman Park, University City, will have an important bearing on the selection of players who will compose the team which represents St. Louis in the Midwest tournament at Chicago next month. St. Louis will also send a team to the national title meet at Philadelphia, Nov. 26-27-28.

Some of the outstanding local players are: M. G. Webb, a speedy wing player; H. Esserman, left halfback, who recently came here from Wisconsin; E. Long, an all-America goal tender, who made the All-West team two years in a row; U. Chaplin, V. Gordon, D. Boeckman and E. Long.

Today's game will start at 11 a. m.

LINCOLN HIGH BEATS COLUMBIA, MO., TEAM

Lincoln High School football team of East St. Louis handed Douglas High of Columbia, Mo., a 35-to-0 drubbing on the Lincoln campus yesterday afternoon. Lincoln scored two touchdowns in the opening period, but Douglas came back strong to hold the local lads scoreless in the second quarter. However, in the third period Lincoln again scored two touchdowns and finished up with their fifth score in the last quarter.

FLAVOR and FRESHNESS SEALED IN

CIGARS BY NEW "COLD-TREATMENT" PROCESS

BROTHER cigar-smokers, if you've ever been fortunate enough to smoke an absolutely fresh, new-made cigar, you know that there's no smoke thrill quite like it. The pleasure of it stands out like the memory of your first sweetheart!

How to give you, in each cigar you smoke, that incomparable new-made freshness and aroma has long been a problem to cigar manufacturers. But now Dutch Masters has succeeded! "Cold-Treatment" does it!

This tradition-shattering NEW process selects a Dutch Masters cigar just at the moment it is finished—when its fine, mellow tobaccos are at their fresh Peak of Perfection . . .

And then, by "cold-treating" each cigar—seals that new-made freshness within the cigar itself!

Stop at the next cigar counter and buy a Dutch Masters. You'll find it as fresh and fragrant as it is the day it is made, with all its aroma and flavor retained for you!

"Dutch Masters is a great cigar. It's fresh and fragrant."
J. ROSE, 628 E. 5th St., N.Y.C.

"The thing I like about it is its freshness—just like a new cigar."
SAM ASH, Malba, L. I.

"Dutch Masters are a fresh, full-of-flavor smoke!"

MUNICIPAL SOCCER TEAMS PLAY 16 GAMES IN OPENING SEASON TODAY

WITHDRAWAL OF 2 CLUBS CAUSES DIFFICULTY IN TWO DIVISIONS

Thirty-two teams will open the Municipal Soccer League season with 16 games in the public parks this afternoon. The original list of entries contained the names of 36 clubs but two of them, protesting against being squeezed out of the Sherman Park division, withdrew from the league. The other clubs will be idle today because of the necessity of "bye" rounds in three-club groups.

The Geraghty club, which played last season under the name Academys, and the Euclid Branconier team, which also played at Sherman Park last season, are the teams which withdrew. In addition to 30 senior teams, there are four junior teams in the league this year. The outlook for a good season is especially promising in spite of the depressing effect of the withdrawal of two of the best clubs in the list.

Several new clubs will be introduced to the public, including the Christian Brothers College Alumni, McBride High School, Christian Brothers College High School and the St. Louis Hurlers.

Cliff Brady, former professional star, a member of the famous Scullin team, will make his bow as a referee.

BOWLING NOTES

The St. Agatha Dramatic Club bowling five will meet the St. Agatha Pioneers in a three-game match on the Virginia Recreation alleys this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Dramatic Club team will line up as follows: B. Hornoecke, E. Kraus, A. Held, J. Biederman and F. Remmler. The Pioneers is composed of L. Hecht, A. Mocker, L. Held, Ted Obermeyer and O. Brader.

Ted Obermeyer, of the Virginia Recreation, announces that entries are coming in fast for the Judge Clyde C. Beck Sweepstakes scheduled for Nov. 1 and 2. Among the prominent bowlers already lined up are Otto Stein Jr., Roy Nelson, Frank Kastner, B. Pohlman, Fred Johnston, Jim Wilson and A. Garafola. Reservations for the sweepstakes can be made by calling RIverside 8798.

The Hogan Trucks took three games from the Ted Zoellers on the Beresford Drives, rolling 2772 to 2578. George Balben was high for the Hogans with a series of 599. Papparth shot 594 and J. Waser 587. F. Immken was best for the Zoellers with 567.

The league-leading Bensieks won the odd game from the Daceys in the Produce Handicap league on the St. Louis Fruit and Produce alleys with T. Caito shooting high three games. He scored a total of 586. T. Schuff paced the Daceys with 573 which included at 232 count which won weekly high single. In the other match the Sansones won three games from the Lincks. Oventrop, with 543, was high.

The Crabs and Lobsters scored two-game victories over the Shrimps and Crawfish in the Meletio Sea Food League. Hart, 547; McGary, 518, and A. Sansone, 515, were high.

The Helds went into a tie with the Universals for the lead in the Women's Handicap League on the Held alleys, by winning three games from the Berghaus five. The Universals dropped one game of their match with the Jones Commercials. The Brocks won two from the Hygrades and the Clover Leafs took the odd game from the County Hills team in the other matches. Miss Hull, 443, and Mrs. Berghaus, 444, were high in the Held-Universal match. Mrs. Smith shot 479 for the Brocks to win weekly high three.

The Silver Seals increased their lead in the Mound City League to six games by winning three games from the Golden Eagles in last week's round of play. The Tormentors went into a tie for third place by taking three from the Hauptmanns. In the other matches the Beckmans won two from the Gra-Hawks, the Dierls took two from the Scheskes, the Tydols won two from the Excellos and the Connellys won two from the Oak Hills. Weeman took high three with 628, while Brown of the Tydols scored high single, 232.

The Purchasing team took undisputed possession of first place in the Cotton Belt League on Peterson's drives, last week by taking three games from the Disbursements. Prior to last week's bowling, five teams were deadlocked for the lead. The Purchasing five has a lead of one game. The Publicity team won two games from the Traffics, the Accounts took two from the Engineers and the Lone Stars won two from the Rates in the other matches. Frank Mertens took individual high single honors with 262, which is high for the season. Schmidbauer scored high three, 641, with games of 185, 241 and 221. Al Hess holds season high three with a mark of 700.

Wilson "Bud" Ruff, youthful member of the Burghoffs in the West Florissant Business Men's League, appears to be a coming star in local bowling circles. Ruff, who is only 16 years of age, and rolling in his first league competition, has an average of 180. He recently shot a 599 series in a league match.

After the second series of games in the Red Cap League on the Railroad Y. M. C. A. alleys, the R and M team holds a one-game lead over the Juniors. The Dunnigans are third and Murrays fourth. Last week's results were: Juniors 2, Dunnigans 1; Murrays 2, R and M 1.

The Cohens won three games from the Kellys in the Happy Days Club League. Tom Dunn paced the winners with 521. Capt. Visel led the Murrays to a three-game victory over the Conleys, scoring a total of 595. Art Dunn was best for the Conleys with 462.

The Credits held on to their lead in the Nugents League by taking three grames from the Office Five. The second place Publicity team won three from the Uptowns. The Basements went into a tie for fourth place with the Uptowns by winning two from the Delivery team, while the Wellstons were dropping three to the Smartleighs. Fred Erbe took weekly high three, with 629, while Heisele scored high single, with 213.

The Krons failed to take advantage of a two-game defeat of the league-leading Heberts and took a three-game drubbing from the North St. Louis five in the All-America Handicap League on Dohrmann's alleys. The Papendicks won two games from the Angelicas, and the Heydts took three from the Metropolitans in the other matches. The high scorers were: Seim 562, Ludwig 515, Ebeling 519, Watkins 581, Wilbert 532, Jerman 599.

FOUR MAT BOUTS ON COLISEUM PROGRAM FOR WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The third of a series of elimination tryouts to determine who will meet Jimmy Londos here next month will bring Rudy Dusek against Paul Jones of Los Angeles, in the main event of four heavyweight bouts to be held Wednesday night on the Coliseum mat.

George Zaharias of Pueblo, Colo., returns to the Coliseum mat to meet George Balzer of San Francisco in the second preliminary of Wednesday night's show while Fred Grobmeier tackles Milo Steinborn in the semiwindup. The curtain raiser brings George Tragos, local Greek heavyweight, against Nazzarino Poggi, an Italian grappler, who lost to Grobmeier and to John Spellman in previous St. Louis bouts.

Time restrictions of 45 minutes will govern the semifinal, while each of the other preliminary events is limited to 30 minutes.

McAuliffe	O. L.	L. Hennessey
Moore	I. L.	Joe Hennessy
Flavin	C.	Phelan
Cronin	I. R.	Grenon
Brengle	O. R.	Sullivan

Officials: Robert (Ribby) Murphy, referee; James Nurke and Len Zarschel, linesmen. Starting time of first game, 2 o'clock. Length of halves, 35 minutes.

Three former members of the Tabler club will play against their old teammates in the second game of the St. Louis Soccer League double-header at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. Joe Phelan, who in two games at right halfback for Johnny Marre's team showed promise of becoming a star, will be at center forward for Phil Kavanaugh's Coca-Colas today. Joe Hennessy, one of three players traded by Marre for Fullback Joe Hand, will be at inside left, and Mike McGirl will be at left fullback.

The introduction of Phelan at center forward means that Manager Kavanaugh has benched Joe McCarthy, at least for the moment. Joe has not played up to his old standard, but he knows his football and if he does some serious training he will surely return as a regular. Joe Hennessy is the lad who played a sensational center forward for Billy Foley's Ben Millers several years ago.

Marre will have Charley Oster at halfback and Zenson at left fullback today. Joe Hand suffered an injury to his ribs two weeks ago and is not yet ready to play. Satisfied with the showing of Gene McAuliffe at outside left and Buddy Brengle at outside right, Marre will stick to this combination, which means that Al McHenry will not start.

Because of the improvement the team made last Sunday, when they beat the Coca Colas, it is generally expected the Ben Millers will come off with a victory over the Hellrungs in the first game of the day. Foley is still trying to find the most effective combination on the right side of his forward line and today he will ask Joe O'Mara to try the inside position. Jimmy Nolan is still nursing a sprained ankle and will not start at left fullback for the Hellrungs.

Polkinghorne to Meet Vollmer In Return Bout

Elmer Polkinghorne, Western A. A. U. welterweight champion; Joey Parks, holder of the district title in the featherweight division, and Johnny Miles, who wears the Mississippi Valley A. A. light-heavyweight crown, are among the boxers scheduled to compete in special matches featuring next Thursday night's tourney at the South Broadway A. C.

Polkinghorne has accepted a return engagement with Louis Vollmer, fast-stepping ring man of the Business Men's A. C. squad, according to an announcement last night from Matchmaker Willie Miller. This will be the third meeting of the welterweight rivals.

Parks will be pitted against a rugged, clever puncher in Fred Willen of the South Broadway club, in the featherweight special. Since he launched his fistic career two years ago Willen has dropped only one decision in a total of more than 20 bouts.

Miles steps out of his division to take on Pat "Red" Whalen of the Olympic A. C., in a heavyweight special. The Mississippi Valley titleholder suffered the first kayo defeat of his career when he went into the ring on a few minutes' notice to box Morris Sills, a southpaw heavyweight, at the Elks' tourney last Friday night. Apparently bewildered by Sills' unorthodox style, Miles ran into his opponent's first punch and went down for the full count.

Harold Hamilton, Olympic A. C. heavyweight, who is taller than Primo Carnera, and Cliff Doetzel, former Western A. A. U. champion, who now wears the Mississippi Valley bantam crown, are candidates for other special matches. The tourney has attracted 38 entries for the preliminary events, open to registered boxers of every weight division.

JEWISH ELEVENS PLAY DOUBLE-HEADER TODAY

The fourth double-header of the season in the Jewish Community Center Football League will get under way this morning at Beaumont High field, when the Victors and Thomas A. C. and the Ducs and Rough Riders renew hostilities. The Ducs with a record of three victories and no defeats are slated to oppose the Rough Riders, last year's champions, who have yet to break into the winning column. The game between the Victors and the second place Thomas A. C. is expected to furnish most of the thrills. Play starts at 9:30 a. m.

The standings:

TEAM.	Won	Lost	Pct.
Ducs	3	0	1.000
Thomas A. C.	2	1	.666
Victors	1	2	.333
Rough Riders	0	3	.000

CITY HANDICAP TOURNEY ONLY EVENT FLANNED BY ASSOCIATION

By Herman Wecke.

Officers of the Greater St. Louis Tenpin Bowling Association have instituted a drive which they hope will bring 3000 quintets, a new record, into the organization. A year ago 2400 teams in the city rolled under American Bowling Congress sanctions. This drive will bring considerable money in the local treasury, which already has a fund of $3600. After all expenses are paid, it is expected that there will be at least $1500 more to add to the present fund.

With this the case, the St. Louis association has a chance to do something for the bowlers, the men who make the organization one of the largest in the United States.

The bowlers have voted that they want a city handicap tournament and this will be rolled on the Mid-City Alleys, starting the last week in January. There will be no city scratch or class tournaments as has been the case for many years.

If there are any tournaments along these lines, they will have to be promoted by alley owners. The only event to be run by the City Association will be the handicap. Of course, efforts will be made to obtain a record entry.

Bowlers say the Greater St. Louis Association could help its case along greatly if it would announce that 75 per cent of the funds received from sanctions this season would be thrown into the prize fund. This not only would make the winning prizes worth while, but would give the bowlers back some of the money they had donated to make the local association a success.

Bowlers believe it would be worth trying and would without a doubt make the handicap tournament one of the greatest ever held in this city. And the association could well afford to give the tenpinners some return on their money.

BOSTON COLLEGE WINS SECOND IN ROW FROM DAYTON UNIVERSITY

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Boston College administered its second defeat to Dayton University in successive years by trouncing the Flyers, 15 to 6, in a driving rain at Fenway Park today.

The Eagles, smarting under losses at the hands of Fordham and Villanova, started a substitute line and held the visitors in check until the final period. Buckley, Vodoklys and Antos were the main factors in putting across B. C.'s 15 points in the second period, while Fitzsimmons made the Dayton touchdown on an end run at the start of the final quarter.

Buckley blocked Fitzsimmons' kick and recovered the ball behind the Dayton goal for the first score, a safety. Vodoklys led a sustained march from his team's 43-yard line to score the first touchdown. He was then replaced by Cheesy Antos, who performed a similar feat to score another.

Julia Wells and W. T. Terry Wed At Christ Church

Bishop Scarlett Performs the Ceremony Before Fashionable Assemblage That Fills the Cathedral.

AN important October wedding, and one of the notable events of the present social season, took place late yesterday afternoon at Christ Church Cathedral when Miss Julia Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells, 53 Kingsbury place, became the bride of Whitelaw T. Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Terry, 5231 Westminster place. A fashionable assemblage of smartly attired men and women filled the auditorium as Bishop Scarlett performed the ceremony before the candle-lighted altar simply decorated with Easter lilies.

The bride was preceded to the chancel by five bridesmaids—Miss Lucy Turner, Miss Martha Pettus, Mrs. James Douglas Streett, and Mrs. John Rutledge Shepley and Mrs. David Randolph Calhoun, sisters of the bridegroom. Miss Jane Wells, young sister of the bride, attended her as maid of honor.

The young women were gowned alike in satin, fashioned after the long flaring mode, and each with a scalloped train elaborately shirred on at the hip line. Miss Wells wore a sun tan shade like a fall dahlia, and the bridesmaids were in turquoise blue. The gowns were designed with fitted bodices, in the off-shoulder effect revived this season, and finished with a narrow satin bertha ending in a deep V in the back where they were fastened with large satin bows. Miss Wells wore a deep brown velvet hat, turned off the face and drooping at the side over a satin bow to match her dress. Her flowers were chrysanthemums in the autumn shades combined with yellow roses. Hats of black velvet with turquoise bows completed the costumes of the bridesmaids. They wore long deep ivory gloves, and slippers to match their frocks. They carried lighter chrysanthemums with Talisman roses.

The bride presented a silhouette popular in 1630 during the reign of Empress Eugenie. Her gown was fashioned of flesh-tinted ivory satin, the long skirt depending from a high waist line, and a three-petal train, simulating a lily, built into the folds of the gown. From elbow length satin sleeves depended narrow trains, their scallops joining the petal-like effect. The V neck of the bodice was filled in with rose point lace which her maternal grandmother wore on her wedding gown. Flesh-tinted tulle was used in the bridal veil, which was arranged from a unicorn cap of rose point lace. She carried lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Wells wore a black velvet afternoon gown with touches of rose point at the neck, and a black velvet hat.

Asa Brookings Wallace was best man for Mr. Terry, and the groomsmen were Henry M. Cook, Harrison Hoblitzelle, Samuel Dozier Conant, Harry Hall Knight, Sproule Love, Mr. Shepley and Mr. Calhoun.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Wells. There the decorations were in green and white. White chrysanthemums and roses were used about the lower floor of the house, and in a canvas marquee, built to accommodate the additional guests, the same flowers prevailed. The bridal party received before an English garden wall of closely cut cedar, and were surrounded by growing daisy chrysanthemums plants. Huckleberry foliage covered the walls, and cedar trees were arranged at the wrought iron stairway that led to the marquee.

A long table seating 28 guests was laid in the drawing room for the bridal dinner, and was decorated with roses and lilies of the valley. Ivory candles were reflected in a mirror centerpiece. The guests in addition to the wedding party were Mr. and Mrs. Lindell Gordon Jr., and the wives of the groomsmen. Miss Isabella Wells of Washington, an aunt of Mr. Wells, and Mrs. Samuel C. Fennell of Philadelphia comprised the out-of-town guests.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Terry will occupy an apartment in the Warwick Court, Clara avenue and Kingsbury place.

Studio Rummage Sale To Be Held Nov. 21-22

A STUDIO rummage sale, an innovation in methods of raising funds for philanthropic causes, will be held, Nov. 21 and 22, for the benefit of the scholarship fund maintained by the St. Louis Art Alliance. The place of the sale will be announced this week.

Owners of the large houses in and around St. Louis County will be canvassed for paintings and art objects of which their present owners are tired, and which they are willing to donate to the sale. Bric-a-brac, bronzes, ivories, embroideries and jewelry are among the articles to be solicited. Tea will be served during the afternoons, and much interest is being evinced in the project.

Mrs. Joseph L. Werner is chairman of the sale; Mrs. George Leighton Bridge is chairman of the committee on collecting and soliciting; Mrs. Harold Bixby of location, and Mrs. Mary B. Pollard is chairman of publicity. Mrs. Irr A. Stevens is president of the Art Alliance.

St. Louis Woman's Club To Have Opening Reception

THE St. Louis Woman's Club, 4600 Lindell boulevard, the largest social organization for women in St. Louis, will have its formal opening Thursday afternoon at a reception for members and their guests after having been closed all summer for the building of an addition and repairs.

The receiving line will comprise Mrs. George A. Bass, president of the club; Mrs. Charles White Scudder, Mrs. Henry S. Butler, Mrs. William S. McChesney, first, second and third vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Charles D. Ashcroft, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, president of the building board.

Members of the various committees and the board of governors will assist in entertaining the guests.

The clubhouse has been remodeled until little remains of the original Donaldson menage as it was originally built. The great stairway in the reception hall has been removed, leaving a view of the hallway back to the private dining rooms. The floors have been covered with deep pile rust carpeting which blends well with the golden gray walls. The old living room to the left of the entrance, the scene of many debutante receptions, has been made over into a Siam room. The effect of heavy carved woodwork has been enhanced by wicker furniture and Chinese chests. The room immediately to the rear of it has been converted into a lounge with soft blue walls and flesh-tinted silky curtains. Book cases have been installed and an air of modern comfort pervades. On the left of the building a sunroom has been added. Attractive green painted furniture will provide the setting for informal afternoon tea parties.

To the formal dining room of the club new wall decorations and mirrors have been arranged on the far wall and give an air of spaciousness. On the second floor of the building an assembly room furnished and donated by two of the members is equipped to house business meetings and small entertainments.

The stage in the large ballroom has been enlarged so that plays may be produced there, and a back drop of green on a white background has been painted and given to the club by Miss Antoinette Taylor. Pearl gray walls contrast well with the gold furnishings. A huge new kitchen has been added to the building and complete and modern equipment for cooking installed.

Mrs. McChesney conceived the idea of enlarging the building; Mrs. Henry Pflager is chairman of the Decorating Committee, with Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper, Mrs. Butler and Miss Taylor assisting. Mrs. Emil Mallinckrodt has been in charge of the kitchen committee, and Mrs. Thomas Teasdale of the equipment; Mrs. F. W. Langenberg of the china; Mrs. Samuel B. Ball of crystal and glassware; Mrs. Joseph C. Calfee of the tables; Mrs. Henry Cooper Whiteside of silver; Mrs. H. P. Fritsch of the lawn.

SECOND FLOOR

SIXTH and LOCUST—ST. LOUIS

Jefferson Barracks

Items of Social Interest From the Army Post.

MAJOR-GENERAL JOHNSON HAGOOD, Seventh Corps Area commander, who is stationed at corps area headquarters at Omaha, Neb., visited Jefferson Barracks informally for several hours Sunday while en route to Omaha from South Carolina.

Lieut. and Mrs. John H. Judd were host and hostess at a Halloween bridge supper at their quarters last evening. Their guests were Col. and Mrs. Pegram Whitworth, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Morse, Maj. and Mrs. William E. Hall, Maj. and Mrs. Arthur R. Underwood, Maj. and Mrs. William E. Brougher, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph L. Connolley, Capt. and Mrs. Richard M. Sandusky, Capt. and Mrs. Raymond I. Lovell, Capt. and Mrs. Aubrey J. Bassett, Lieut. and Mrs. Claude D. Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Allison of St. Louis.

Mrs. J. C. Beyars departed Tuesday for her home on Long Island, after several months' visit at the post as the guest of her parents, Maj. and Mrs. Henry S. Cole.

Lieut. and Mrs. Edwin M. Sutherland complimented Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ross Fillebrown, who were the guests of Maj. and Mrs. Arthur R. Underwood, at a dinner at their quarters last Sunday evening, followed by a theater party. Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Fillebrown, Maj. and Mrs. Arthur R. Underwood, Capt. and Mrs. Richard M. Sandusky and Mrs. Arthur G. Hutchinson.

Mrs. Raymond W. Odor and her small daughter, Helen Agnes, departed from Jefferson Barracks last week for Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where they will be the guests of Maj. and Mrs. Alexander P. Withers and Maj. and Mrs. Owen Rhoades. Later they will visit relatives in El Dorado, Kan., and Tulsa, Ok.

Mrs. Welborn B. Griffith Jr. was hostess Tuesday to the Weekly Bridge Club, which met at her quarters for luncheon and contract. Those playing were Mrs. Arthur G. Hutchinson, Mrs. Paolo H. Sperati, Mrs. Clifford D. Overfelt, Mrs. Edwin N. Sutherland, Mrs. Claude D. Collins, Mrs. Welborn B. Griffith Jr., Mrs. Sidney C. Carter of St. Louis and Mrs. Genevieve Parkhurst, who is the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. Arthur L. Moore.

Mrs. Arthur R. Underwood was hostess Tuesday at a bridge luncheon at her quarters, having as her guests a number of her St. Louis friends. Covers were laid for Mrs. Edmund L. Butts, Mrs. Oscar O. Bell, Mrs. John McKeon, Mrs. Frank Gilmer, Mrs. Charles F. Morse, Mrs. William E. Brougher and Mrs. Richard M. Sandusky.

Mrs. W. F. Brinkman of St. Louis is the week-end guest of Maj. and Mrs. William E. Hall.

Maj. and Mrs. Arthur R. Underwood had as their house guests last week Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ross Fillebrown, who were en route to Philadelphia. On Friday evening Maj. and Mrs. Underwood honored Mr. and Mrs. Fillebrown at an informal dinner at their quarters, having as their guests Lieut. and Mrs. Edwin M. Sutherland, Lieut. and Mrs. Claude D. Collins and Lieut. and Mrs. Welborn B. Griffith Jr.

Capt. and Mrs. Aubrey J. Bassett entertained at an informal dinner at their quarters last Saturday evening. Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weder and their three children; Mrs. Fannie Benedick of Topeka, Kan., and Mr. John Sutherland of St. Louis.

Of much interest to the officers and ladies of Jefferson Barracks is the announcement of the marriage of Capt. Glenn A. Ross and Miss Juanita Eggars of St. Louis. Capt. Ross, formerly stationed at this post, departed Sept. 1 for Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where he is a student at the Command and General Staff School.

Lieut. and Mrs. James O. Stephenson announce the birth of a daughter, Lois, on Oct. 13, at the post hospital. The child is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gregory of St. Louis.

Mrs. William W. Brier and her daughter, Anne, returned Sunday from a week's visit at the home of her sister in Springfield, Ill.

Lieut. and Mrs. Arthur L. Moore left Monday for Bloomfield, Ia., where they will visit Lieut. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moore of that city.

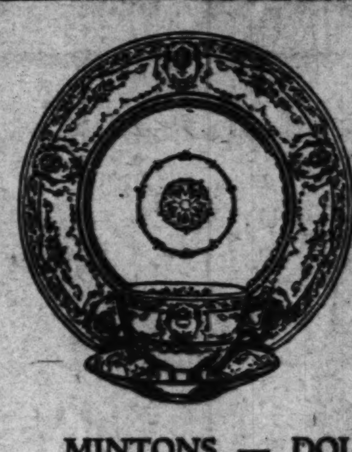
Capt. and Mrs. Richard M. Sandusky had as their dinner guests last Sunday evening Col. and Mrs. Pegram Whitworth and Maj. and Mrs. William E. Brougher.

Lieut. and Mrs. Wayne B. Brandstadt have reported to this station for duty from Champaign, Ill., and are occupying quarters 178-A in the hospital area. Lieut. Brandstadt received his commission as First Lieutenant, Medical Corps, on Sept. 15.

Mrs. John D. Eason and Capt. Raymond I. Lovell entered horses in the St. Louis Dairy Exposition Horse Show at The Arena a week ago last evening. Capt. Lovell's mount, Teardrop, took the blue ribbon in the "model polo pony class" and placed third in the "light-weight polo event."

Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph E. Canfield returned last week from a two months' leave of absence, during which they motored to Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and along the West Coast. While in San Francisco they spent several weeks visiting Lieut. Canfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Canfield.

The Second Battalion of the Sixth Infantry, commanded by Maj. Arthur R. Underwood, returned to Jefferson Barracks, Wednesday afternoon from a two weeks' combined practice march and maneuver, during which it camped at Fenton, House Springs, Morse Mill and near the junction of Highway No. 61 and the Meramec River. The following officers were with the battalion: Maj. Underwood, Capts. Arthur G. Hutchinson, Sherman P. Walker and Edwin T. Wheatley, First Lieut. Joseph Catte, Second Lieuts. Robert G. Crandell, John W. Hammond, John D. Cone and William W. Harris.



Why Not a New Dinner Service?

The dinner set is the very center of your family and friends. It is the barometer of culture and refinement manifest in a household. Meals are more appetizing, the recollection of them more pleasant, if served from proper and well selected china.

Soft, wavy hair!

The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day modes of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine helps dissolve dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps stop falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

At the first open day of the Women's Auxiliary, St. Louis Medical Society, Friday the luncheon at 12:30 p. m. will be followed by a varied program. Mrs. Walter Kirchner has arranged a series of six lessons in contract bridge and will preface the playing by a short talk on contract principles. Mrs. Kirschner will have a corps of teachers, including Mrs. G. E. Joseph, Mrs. C. R. Dudley, Mrs. William G. Patton, Mrs. Francis J. Sullivan, Mrs. A. G. Wichman, Mrs. Clinton Taylor and Mrs. Willis Young.

For those not interested in bridge Mrs. Ferdinand O. Sturhahn, chairman of the Program Committee, and her assistants have arranged a program. Mrs. Martin Kouri will review two books, "A Room of One's Own," by Virginia Wolf, and "The Edwardietes," by Sackville-West.

The meeting of the St. Louis Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jewish Consumptives Relief Society of Denver will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the auditorium of the Y. M. H. A., Union and Enright avenues. Mrs. Isador Nelson, accompanied by Isador Nelson, will give a group of vocal selections and Mrs. Frank J. Starr will give a reading. The board will meet at 11 a. m. the same day.

Sorority Circle will hold a Halloween party Friday evening for the club members and their friends at Rose Hill Hall, Hamilton and Maple avenues. Mrs. L. E. Persche has charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Donald MacDonald will discuss several recent books, criticising Americans at home and abroad, tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Monday Symposium at the home of Mrs. E. J. Rickman, 7615 Teasdale avenue. The first discussion will be, "A Mere Englishman in America."

The Spirit of St. Louis Delphian Chapter will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Kings-Way Hotel. The members have been asked to bring their new second year books.

The Twentieth Century Art Club will hold its meeting tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Jefferson Memorial. Mrs. Frank Coleman will be the leader.

The Fortnightly Club of Kirkwood met Thursday at the home of Mrs. P. J. Kinsella, University City. Mrs. W. A. Biesterfelt, Miss Ruth Pickel and Mrs. C. S. G. Boone talked on Russia.

Members of the Carondelet Women's Club are planning and rehearsing for the operetta, "The Maid of Tokio," that is to be given early in November at the Lutheran Hall, Vermont and Koeln avenues.

"National Missions as Seen on a Summer Tour" will be the subject of a talk by Miss Matilda F. Salter at the October meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of West Presbyterian Church tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock. The devotional will be given by Mrs. E. O. Pope and Miss Lorene Prange will sing, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Grace A. Newman.

Mrs. William H. Moulton and members of her Missionary Circle will have charge of the social hour following the meeting.

The Life of Bismarck will be presented in a paper before the Friday Club at its next meeting, by Miss Hazel Howe, and roll call will be responded to with short sketches of German rulers. The discussion will be led by Mrs. Joseph T. Davis and Mrs. Ernest L. Coffin. The musical program will consist of German lieder. The meeting will he held on Nov. 21, at the home of Mrs. H. P. Finigan, 6950 Columbia avenue, with Mrs. O. H. Bill as assistant hostess. The members will attend in a body the all-day meeting of the Eighth District, Nov. 7, the regular meeting day of the club.

The St. Louis Writers' Guild will meet Oct. 28, at the College Club, Mrs. W. M. Lawler and Miss Marjorie Doud being hostesses. Mrs. Samuel Scott of the Theater Guild will discuss the work of that organization and the plays it will bring to St. Louis during the winter.

The Beta Chapter of the Delphian Society met Tuesday morning at the Webster College. Under the leadership of Mrs. Herman F. Hoch, the subject, "Egypt of Bible Times," was discussed.

Mrs. G. A. Sprackling will lead the next meeting, Nov. 4, at which time the Chapter will continue its study of Egypt.

The Council of Jewish Women presents a course of lectures by Dr. Max Meyer on "Problems of Modern Psychology," to be given every second and fourth Tuesday. Meetings at the Y. M. H. A. at 9:45 a. m. The first lecture will be Tuesday and will be open to council members only.

Y. W. C. A. Series on Science.

The Young Women's Christian Association, 1411 Locust street, will open Nov. 7 a series of six talks on science in the following order: "Psychology," by Miss Marguerite Johnston, Board of Education psychologist; "Sociology," by Dr. Frank J. Bruno of Washington University; "Chemistry," by Armand R. Miller of Harris Teachers' College; "Zoology," by Dr. Charles H. Philpott of Harris Teachers' College; "Geology," by Dean Walter E. McCourt, assistant chancellor of Washington University, and "Geography," by Dr. Lewis F. Thomas of Washington University. The meetings, which will be open to the public, will be held on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock.

4,000,000 Women Have Paid $5,864,129 To Get Rid of Gray Hair

They darken hair this better way

If you are looking for a way to change gray, streaked or faded hair to a natural youth color . . . don't endanger the health of hair or take chances on its appearance by experimenting with a new and untried preparation. You don't have to. Here's a preparation that has been used successfully by more than 4 million women who refuse to be gray. They will all tell you it is the surest and very quickest way to give hair the exact shade you desire—without harming the hair or scalp in the lease. As a matter of fact it darkens the hair so evenly and naturally that no one will ever know. So don't take foolish chances with your hair. Just ask any druggist for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur.

EIGHT SENT TO PRISON ON PLEAS OF GUILTY

One Person Convicted, One Acquitted by Juries—21 Others Are Sentenced in Week.

Two jury trials in the criminal divisions of Circuit Court last week resulted in a conviction and an acquittal. Ralph Johnson, a Negro, was found guilty of burglary under the habitual criminal act. Assistant Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings Jr. offered a four-year penitentiary term as an inducement to him to forego trial. Johnson said he would take three years, but no more. A trial followed and the jury assessed 10 years.

Gus Bigalte, 2320 South Eleventh street, was charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, and was freed.

Eight persons received penitentiary sentences during the week on their pleas of guilty of major crimes. Among these were twin brothers, Thomas and Joseph Byrne, 23 years old, who were given 10 and 5 year terms, respectively, for robbery. Both admitted participation in the robbery of a saloon at 6725 Waldemar avenue, when $902 was taken. Thomas confessed to another robbery at a hardware store at 3181 Morganford road.

Others who took penitentiary sentences rather than stand trial, were: William Ahlert, burglary, second degree and prior conviction, four years; Edward Walicki, burglary second degree and prior conviction, five years; Jobe Evans, burglay second degree, two years; Edward Bradshaw, larceny of a motor vehicle, three years. Harry Hughlett and Tom Hobson, two men charged with grand larceny, were given two-year penitentiary sentences, but were paroled by the Court to report two years.

Eight persons were convicted of carrying concealed weapons. These were Robert Sharpe, Victor Dunn and Charles E. Jones, who received 60 days' imprisonment in the Workhouse; William James, Elias Bennett and Morris Hurwitz, who got 50 days' imprisonment, and John Gennarro and Herman Martin, who were fined $100 and $25, respectively.

Others charged with major crimes, but who were permitted to plead guilty of offenses of lesser degree and take less than penitentiary punishment, were: Willie Woods, assault to kill without malice, one year, Workhouse; John Lichiber, permitting gaming device on premises, $100 and costs; Gerald Joyce, larceny of motor vehicle, 30 days, Workhouse; George Herwig, petit larceny, one year, Workhouse; Charles Daniels, petit larceny, four months, Workhouse; Andrew Jackson, petit larceny, six months, Workhouse; Jesse Gau, larceny of motor vehicle, six months, Workhouse; George Wilson, Victor Marshall and Walter Douglas, concurrent terms of one year in Workhouse for malicious destruction of property and petit larceny.

Three boys who borrowed automobiles were sentenced to one year in the Workhouse. One of these, Robert Endicott, will have to serve his time because of trouble he has given police previously. The other two were paroled to report to court two years.

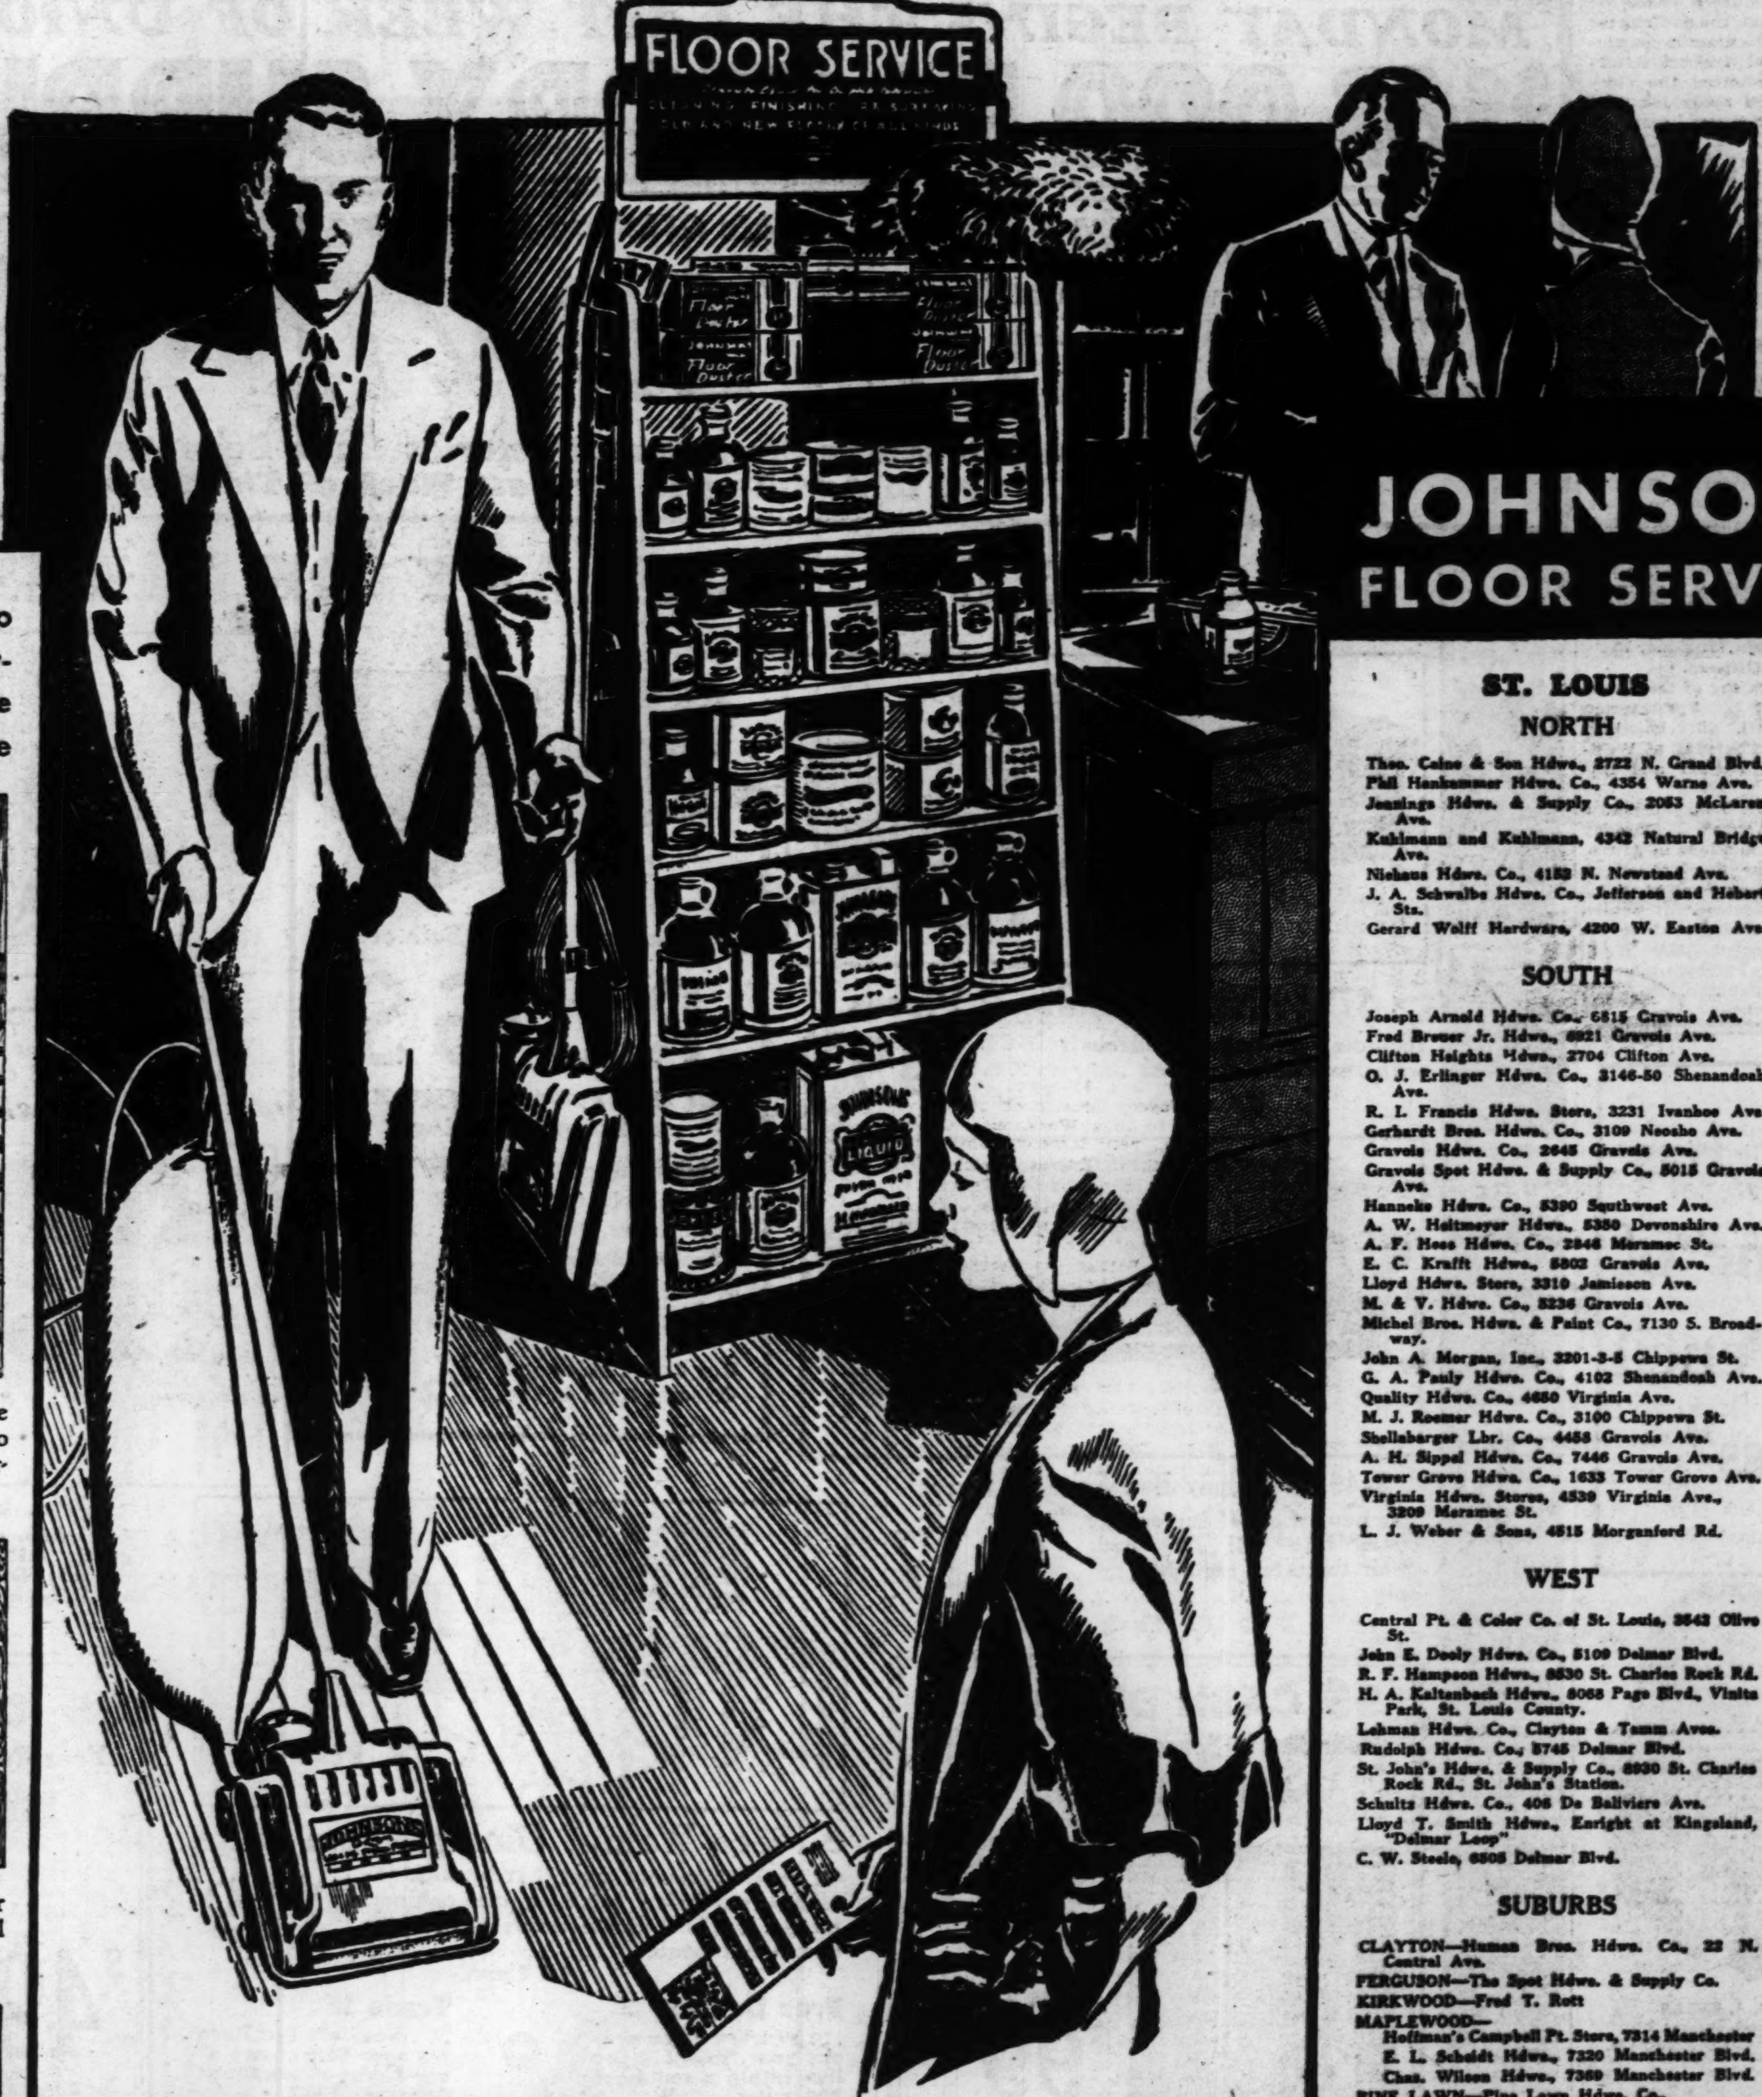
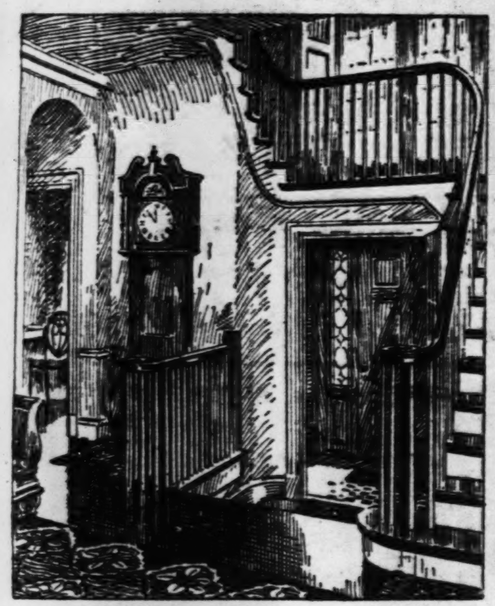
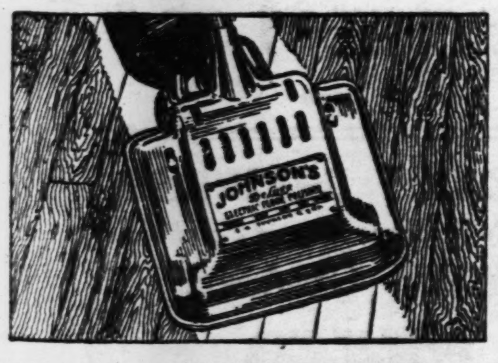
Let this man show you how to SAND and REFINISH your FLOORS yourself



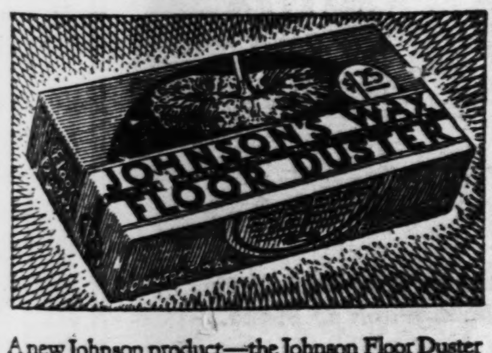
Expensive professional costs no longer prevent you from having these beautiful floors—the foundation of a beautiful home



Does a polished floor in your entrance hall—free from shabby worn spots—welcome you home? No longer a costly job, you can now make this transformation in any floor yourself.



Here is a close-up of the Johnson Sander-Polisher sanding a patch of clean new wood through a typical worn, scarred living-room floor.



A new Johnson product—the Johnson Floor Duster for maintenance of waxed floors. Simply run this mop over the smooth wax surface whenever dusting is necessary. Reversible, washable, removable head with finest long-wearing yarn. Price $1.25 at any Johnson dealer.

FREE

Here is a booklet that tells all about it—the simplified a-b-c-steps of sanding off the surface with the Johnson Sander-Polisher, applying the new Lacquer finish, and waxing your floor without effort—electrically. It is free on receipt of coupon.

S. C. Johnson & Son, Dept. N2, Racine, Wisconsin.
Gentlemen: Please send your new illustrated booklet—"Any floor made new for ⅓ of former costs."

Name________________________

Address________________________ and SAVE 70% of former costs!

- No need any more of spending a lot of money to have your floors beautifully refinished. No need of paying outsiders to do this important job—and having your house upset for days. You yourself can sand them, like an expert. Your dealer is nearby to answer questions and supply the machine and materials. The total cost—for machine, finishes, everything is less than ⅓ of what you imagine.
- S. C. Johnson & Son, makers of Johnson's Wax, have developed a Home Floor Sander for householders who want to make their floors beautiful now. It is perfectly practical for any householder. The dealer rents it to you for a nominal charge, and it runs from any light socket—without muss, fuss or effort.
- To go with it is the new simplified Johnson's Lacquer finishing method. Easier, quicker to apply (with an ordinary paint brush). Any color you want—walnut, mahogany, oak, light or dark. And much more durable. A booklet completely describing this simple new method is just off the press and a copy can be yours for the asking.
- Your floors will then be wax-polished, of course, with the polisher so they will never become battered or worn with those tell-tale marks in door-ways. Waxed so they will glow with a subdued satiny lustre.
- And that means, also, no more cracks and "pockets" to catch and hold dirt. No buckets to lift around. No more scrubbing. No heavy mopping! How is the floor kept clean? Simply by running a Johnson Dry Floor Duster over its hard smooth surface.
- A real work-saver—your new clean glistening waxed floor—quite apart from the beauty of it! See your dealer tomorrow and let him show you how easy it is to do, and just how to begin.

YOUNG BROTHERS' TRIAL IS SET FOR THURSDAY

Motion to Quash the Federal Court Indictment Overruled by Judge Faris.

The three Young brothers—William H., Fred C. and Harold A. Young—whose investment house of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc., collapsed last March with losses of more than $2,000,000 to investors, probably will go to trial Thursday in Federal Court on charges of using the mails to defraud.

An effort by defense counsel to quash the indictment failed yesterday when Federal Judge Faris over-ruled a demurrer based on the allegation that the indictment was vague and lacking in particularity. Assistant District Attorney Stattler announced the Government would be ready for trial on Thursday when the case is scheduled.

Fred Young's 12-room house and 22-acre place, "Country Life Acres," on Clayton road, west of Ballas road, has been purchased by Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team. Rickey dealt with Young's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Young, in whose name the property was placed shortly before bankruptcy proceedings were begun against the investment firm. The property is said to be worth $75,000.

The mail fraud charges are based on letters written to prospective customers in connection with the sale of preferred stock in the investment firm and in other companies the brothers organized.

AUXILIARY OF PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Rev. J. H. Longenecker to Talk on Foreign Missions; to Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Synod of Missouri, will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Westminster Church, Delmar and Union boulevards.

The Rev. J. H. Longenecker, a missionary, will speak Wednesday night on foreign missions in Africa.

Thursday, after a visit to the offices of the Department of Women's Work, delegates will return to Westminster Church, where officers will be elected. Mrs. W. S. Stinuson of the Presbyterian Orphanage at Farmington, Mo., will speak that afternoon.

How Autopoint has Earned the Name of "The Favorite Pencil of Big Business"

THOUSANDS upon thousands of Autopoint Pencils are purchased by big business firms to be used as gifts.

Isn't it convincing proof of Autopoint's superiority that it is used probably more than any other pencil in this way? What better proof that you, too, will like an Autopoint as your personal pencil!

Autopoint wins everyone who uses it because it is so sturdy and foolproof. There is only one moving part; hence nothing to get out of order. It is easy to refill an Autopoint.

The beauty of Autopoint's Bakelite barrel will appeal to you. This handsome, onyx-like material is light in weight but strong. Drop an Autopoint, knock it—it won't break.

See Autopoint at your stationer's. He has a wide range of styles and models, in color combinations to suit every fancy. If by any chance you have trouble finding Autopoints, write us. Prices range from 50c to $4.

Story & Clark Piano Company Buys Thousands

"We have purchased and given away thousands of Autopoint Pencils," says R. A. Burke, Sales Manager of the Story & Clark Piano Company. "There is something about the Autopoint Pencil that causes people to keep it, use it and appreciate it, preferring it to all others."

Miss Barrymore's New Play

The Star Comes to the Shubert Tomorrow Night in "Scarlet Sister Mary," in Which She and Her Daughter Both Appear as Negroes—Minna Gombell Heading Resident Players at the Orpheum in "Nancy's Private Affair"—Colleen Moore Next at American.

ONE of those rare occasions in a local theater, the showing of a widely discussed play, presented by a leading player of the American stage before New York has an opportunity of passing on the effort, occurs tomorrow night when Ethel Barrymore comes to the Shubert Theater in "Scarlet Sister Mary," Daniel Reed's dramatization of Julia Peterkin's Pulitzer Prize novel. Downtown, at the Orpheum, Mary Hart goes into her third production of the season with Minna Gombell heading the cast of resident players in "Nancy's Private Affair," a comedy in which Miss Gombell starred when it was first presented. That opening is scheduled for this evening. The American Theater in the meanwhile, will be dark, having nothing to offer this week.

The coming, at this time, of "Scarlet Sister Mary" is something of an event to the theater-minded. It is the usual procedure for St. Louis playgoers to have to wait from one to two years to see the imporant productions made in this country, as they practically never arrive here until after their New York engagements and sometimes not until they have been seen in Chicago. Miss Barrymore, who always has favored the road, making extended tours in every good drama she has acted, has not hesitated to proclaim, much to the annoyance of the Broadway reviewers, that she finds on tour audiences as inteligent, as sophisticated, as sympathetic and as discriminating as on the Gay White Way. She has her own theater in New York and would not need, if so she chose, ever to travel again, but the road is an integral part of her career and her life. She likes it and she would not give it up.

"SCARLET SISTER MARY" is another case to the point. In recent years no new production has had the preliminary discussion which has attended Mrs. Peterkin's story of the Gullah Negroes. Ethel Barrymore in coal-black make-up, smoking a pipe, dancing the Carolina jig, crooning a lullaby to an ebon-hued pickaninny presents a picture in sharp contrast to her many elegant ladies of the drawing-room, to her Shakspeare heroines and to her Sister Gracia of "The Kingdom of God" which she acted here last spring. Naturally public interest was aroused. Added to this was the first appearance in the theater of one of Mrs. Peterkin's novels, which have brought that writer an audience wherever English is read. And to make it a three-starred event, Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Miss Barrymore, and representative of the ninth generation of the Barrymore-Drew stage family, makes her debut playing the stage daughter to the star's own role. The premiere in Columbus a few weeks ago attracted playgoers from all parts of the country. Critical opinion has varied, but public interest has been intense. Packed houses in Cleveland, Pittsburg and Washington led the star to decide that since the road apparently was so keen to see this production and "to meet," as it were, her daughter, she would let New York wait while she visited several other cities.

Mrs. Peterkin, who was born in South Carolina, "raised" by a Gullah mammy, and for the last quarter of a century mistress of the Lang Syne plantation—called Blue Brook in her stories—knows the Gullah Negro well. The Gullahs are of pure African stock and have remained little influenced and almost entirely unmixed with other races. They are clannish, and cling to their old customs, speech and physical characteristics. Their dialect is crisp in contrast to the drawl and slur of other darkies in America. It was not until Mrs. Peterkin was nearing 50 years of age that she began to write and she did this with no ambition for fame, but to relieve her mind of many impressions and obsessions. Her husband is one of the largest plantation landlords in the South. There are 450 Negroes and only five white people on Lang Syne and conditions there remain much as they were before the Civil War, the main difference being that today wages instead of rations are given on Saturday night.

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

IN her short stories and novels, Mrs. Peterkin, unlike many writers about the colored people, is not sentimental. She has no "mission" to preach and she does not seek sympathy or enlightenment for the Gullahs. She does not romanticize the Negro. As she sees him, so she paints him. The picture may not always be agreeable, but it has breadth and depth and has done much to counteract the conception of the jazz and Harlem Negroes who are not the real blacks of this country, but the result of contact with a certain strata of American life. Daniel Reed, who dramatized "Scarlet Sister Mary," conducted

THE ROYAL FAMILY CARRIES ON

Ethel Barrymore Colt Who Lives Up To Her Traditions. She Represents Eight Generations Of Acting Ancestors

EIGHT generations of actor ancestors won when Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Ethel Barrymore, decided to become an actress. Four generations in England, four generations in America—that is the legacy of the newest claimant to the throne long held by the royal Barrymore-Drew stage family.

A century ago the packet ship Britannia brought the English actors, the Lanes, to New York. It took four weeks to reach America, but only a few days to arrange for the first debut of a future Drew in this country. They had come at the suggestion of John Hallam, agent for Price and Simpson of the old Park Theater in New York. On Sept. 26, 1827, Louisa Lane at the age of 7 appeared as the Duke of York to the Richard III of Junius Brutus Booth, in the Walnut Street Theater, still standing in Philadelphia. The child had an immediate success and soon she played in the Bowery Theater in New York, the Warren in Boston and the St. Charles in New Orleans with such stars as Edwin Forrest, E. L. Davenport and John Murdock. From the beginning she was a good trouper as has been each successive generation of the family. Later she settled down in Philadelphia and became the first woman ever to manage an American theater on an important scale. This was in 1861 in the Arch Street Theater in Philadelphia and there she reigned for 31 years.

Louisa Lane married John Drew Sr. in 1850. John Drew Jr. was born in 1853 and Georgiana Drew in 1856. In 1862 the father died at the age of 35. In her brief autobiography, which is uncommonly frank and concise, Mrs. Drew presented this estimate of her husband's talents: "I don't think there are many persons surviving him now who remember him well, and he was worth remembering; one of the best actors I ever saw. Had he lived to be 45 he would have been a great actor. But too early success was his ruin; it left him nothing to do. Why should he study when he was assured on all sides (except my own) that he was as near perfection as was possible for a man to be?"

IT is, apparently, a habit of the Drews and Barrymores to be candid. They speak bluntly, oftentimes wittily, and sometimes to their own disadvantage, but they have a fierce pride in their family.

Mrs. Drew was no less acrid on the occasion of the debut of John Drew Jr., her son, who made his mother's theater in Philadelphia in November, 1873, as Mr. Plumper, in a one-act farce, "Cool as a Cucumber." Evidently the confidence and conceit of the young man took color from the title of the piece, for his actress-mother was so infuriated with his manner that she interpolated a line into the comedy directed at him. As Mr. Drew in later years told it, it ran something like this:

"What a dreadful young man! I wonder what he will be like when he grows up." But Drew was unmoved by maternal reproof. The Philadelphia newspapers the next day harshly criticized him for laughing at his own jokes.

His sister, Georgiana, had appeared in Mrs. Drew's company the year previous in a small part in Scribe's "The Ladies' Battle" in Philadelphia, but her brother reached New York a year before she did to act in the Fifth Avenue Theater in "The Big Bonanza" in Mr. Daly's company. She made her New York debut in a play called "Pique" and the next year was playing in "The Princess Royal," in which there was an actor named Maurice Barrymore. A year later they were married.

MAURICE BARRYMORE, whose real name was Herbert Blyth, was later to head the glamorous romantic era of the American stage, though he never became a star. As leading man for many of the noted players of the day, he was seen in a round of Shakspeare and romantic drama. He was a great wit and a beloved actor and many are the stories told of his gift for repartee. Georgiana Drew Barrymore became one of the most popular stars of the era, and the mother of Lionel, Ethel and John. She died when Ethel was 11 years old.

All this time the elder Mrs. Drew was a fixture in the American theater. Her Mrs. Malaprop in "The Rivals" was the classic portrait of that bluff and blundering lady and it was under her wing that both Lionel and Ethel made their stage debuts, both in "The Rivals." Lionel preceded his sister by one year. Ethel first appeared as Lucy, the maid, with only a couple of lines to speak. So nervous was her aunt, who also was in the company, that the girl would forget her words that she herself could not remember her own part and had to be prompted by the gleeful Ethel. All this happened in Montreal and there is no record of the press or the public becoming unduly excited about a new Barrymore-Drew actor entering the theater. When she appeared, still with her grandmother and in "The Rivals," in New York a few months later, the New York newspapers were entirely indifferent and recorded its customary praise for the famous Mrs. Malaprop and failed to see in this brief glimpse of the future First Lady of the theater the torch-bearer of the stage.

John Barrymore, the third child of Georgiana and Maurice Barrymore, resisted the call of the blood Like Ethel with her music and Lionel with his painting, John had other ideas, but unlike them he did not have to abandon them to earn a living in the theater. He preferred to starve. And nearly this did he do before he succumbed to economic pressure and entered the theater. In Daniel Frohman's office there still hangs a poster John made for the appearance of E. H. Sothern in "If I Were King" and old files of the New York Journal reveal cartoons signed by John Blyth. He drew in the manner of Gustave Dore, the neurotic painter who was the idol of the young artists of the period. This manner was not calculated to ap-

Musical Comedy for The German Theater

A MUSICAL comedy, "Sweet Sixteen," with the leading members of the German Theater Stock company, in the principal roles and with a large chorus of St. Louis girls and men, will entertain the audience tonight in the German Theater, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues.

The title of this comedy, "Sweet Sixteen," indicates that the play deals with the doings and the life of young persons. German student songs and folk songs are to be sung. The play is a comedy.

Novelty Organ Recital.

This afternoon Arthur R. Gerecke, assisted by Miss Lillian Krueger, soprano, will begin the first of a series of novelty organ recitals at Ebenezer Evangelical Church, 2911 McNair avenue, at 3 o'clock, to which the public is invited.

Grand Central Plans Stock

First of the De Luxe Picture Houses, Putting Aside Films And Minnie Golf Ideas, Now Arranging for Dramatic Company to Open at Christmas Time—Music Strike Drags on With Plenty of Musical Pictures Promised by Hollywood—The Sudden Rise of Amos and Andy.

By NIE.

THE GRAND CENTRAL THEATER, the first of the so-called de luxe cinema palaces on Grand avenue, is to give up the ghost as a picture house and, about Christmas time, will become the home of a dramatic stock company. The theater, which could not compete with the greater Missouri, St. Louis and Fox show places surrounding it, has been closed for some time. Plans were on foot this summer to turn it into a premature golf course but interest in that game died down before anything definite was done and the Skouras boys have been trying to find something else to attract paying customers. The really phenomenal success of Mary Hart's stock company at the Orpheum Theater, down town, convinced Charlie Skouras that St. Louis would support two such organizations and he is now taking the preliminary steps to form his company. It is reported that he will bring Jack Hayden, a well known director, here to make the productions. Hayden is the husband of Alice Mackenzie, the former prima donna of the Municipal Opera Company.

The coming of a second stock company here hardly means a war between the two organizations. Miss Hart is strongly entrenched at the Orpheum, has her plays, visiting stars and plans made for the season. Also she has her surprisingly enormous following—the business the Orpheum is doing in these perilous times is one of the topics of conversation in the theatrical world—and the Grand Central would have to establish a clientele of its own with a different type of plays. Skouras and his advisers are now going over the ground to see what line to take in the new venture.

THE strike of the picture house musicians continues to drag along with everything about settled except the question as to whether or not the Missouri Theater will be allowed to operate without any music at all. The entire lack of desire on the part of the projection machine operators and stage hands to give up their weekly salaries during hard times and support the musicians with a sympathetic walkout has resulted in additional strikes being postponed from week to week but all hands are under the impression that the affair will be settled, some way, in the next few days. When it is the theaters are ready to jump right into the programs as outlined in these columns last Sunday.

But, with or without living musicians in the pits, the winter is likely to find a lot of tunes in the picture houses for an Associated Press story from Hollywood says that the ever swinging pendulum of film fashions seems to be bringing back, slowly but surely, the much-berated musical movie.

But it is coming back changed and chastened, humbled by the brief exile into which a groaning fan public and wary producers sent it, and not at all eager to usurp the entire screen scene as it threatened to do for a while.

Most of Tin Pan Alley, for months a mighty factor in Hollywood, has returned to New York, but one studio signed a pair of songwriters the other day and that was news.

It doesn't mean that the others left too soon; most, in fact, stayed too long; the two signed were of the first rank, and Hollywood's musicals, too many of them, were the work of second-raters. Quantity was often stressed rather than quality in the rush to get on the band wagon of the musical cycle.

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

AFTER the talkies exhausted back-stage themes which gave opportunity for songs on stages, stars began singing in homes, in forests, on deserts and on seas, usually with full orchestral accompaniment.

One talkie had Charles King, seated at a cafe table with Irene Delroy, suddenly burst into song, get up and dance, and after one chorus all the other patrons rose from their places and followed him in a dance out the door, all singing.

That was the sort of thing, repeated in bad pictures after worse pictures, that made theaters begin advertising musicals as "comedies with songs" or "dramas with music."

And it was that, too, which seemed to have killed the screen

A Pot Shot at Toscanini

'A Phenomenal Capacity for Maintaining a Persistent Tempo Is His Only Distinction,' Says Edward Robinson in The American Mercury.

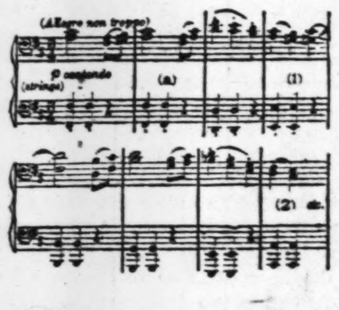
By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

EDWARD ROBINSON, an able young musical iconoclast who at one time edited the Fortnightly Musical Review, has put himself in a class with the man who bit the dog by attacking Arturo Toscanini. That, as you know, is news.

As a practicing editor Mr. Robinson undertook the deflation of several reputations, that, to him, seemed slightly overblown. Now he is at it again and his victim is none other than the distinguished conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

His current article appears in the November issue of the American Mercury and is called "Toscanini's Big Stick." In one way and another he charges Signor Toscanini with having extraordinary gifts for obtaining orchestral effects without in any way making those effects serve an artistic purpose. In other words, the famous Italian gives a literal and mathematically accurate reading of a score without ever expressing the intellectual idea which caused the music to be written.

By way of getting at the meaning behind the musical notation and, by exposing, at the same time Mr. Toscanini's allegedly innocent disregard of this meaning Mr. Robinson quotes the following excerpt from Brahms' Second Symphony:



"THE average musician," says Mr. Robinson, "would play this as an eight bar phrase with a metrical unit of three beats for each bar, maintaining a perfectly even tempo. But if we look at the meaning of this passage we see an entirely different content. First of all there are two main phrases, marked by the feminine cadences 1 and 2. Now, it is the nature of a feminine cadence, because of its resolution on the unaccented beat, to slow up the feeling of the music, and it must be played with a certain 'give,' a certain halting pressure. If, therefore, you were to play the measures at 1 and 2 with an absolutely even, inflexible speed, you would run the two phrases together, fail to gather attention for the ensuing phrase, and thereby confuse the whole significance of the passage.

"Pressing our technical examination even closer, we can divide each of these phrases in turn. The first phrase has two parts, the first of which, ending at (a) contains two repeated units, the second being a longer descending arc. The first half poses the idea—a bit cautiously as it were; the second, now confident of your attention, swings out more boldly into the subject matter. To play this first half correctly then, you would make the beats uneven; the first beat of each bar requiring a weightier emphasis, and the third beat hurrying a bit to catch up for the lost time. The second half of the phrase would spread out more, in a broader, regular tempo until reaching the cadence at 1, where it would pause a second, as already indicated, before going on. It is hardly necessary to add, of course, that these gradations of tempo must be effected so subtly as to be almost inperceptible. Such a procedure is called the rubato, and it is this which gives life and vitality to all musical performance.

FINALLY we must look at this passage as more than mere progression of cadences. This is a man speaking to us, speaking passionately, pleadingly with great and grave emotion. The first two measures have something rueful about them, they must be played a little bit subdued. The second two become more insistent, and must be played with larger tone. And in the next phrase, though the first idea is repeated, it is this time a tone higher, speaking now not so ruefully as tenaciously, and requiring, therefore, a more intense tonal exposition. Then, following this passage beyond my quotation, you can construct an entire alter ego around the actual music, a sort of psychic index to the meaning behind the printed notes, an index without which no intelligent performance would be feasible. It is in this way, by considering all music as we have this particular quotation, that the performers imagination and perception can snare the real content, which hangs like a shadow behind the outward technical surface.

"I chose this example from Brahms deliberately, because this symphony is one of the few pieces of genuine music which Signor Toscanini has condescended to give during his four-year stay. Such music is the true test of a performer—not the silly nonsense of Respighi, Martucci, De Sabata and the rest of the Italian fraternity; and before it, Signor Toscanini is as innocent as a lamb. Observation of his technique, indeed, forces the conclusion that the great conductor knows very little of those subtler, profounder aspects of music that I have just described. He has only one approach, which he employs indiscriminately toward all music, from a Mozart symphony to a Wagner prelude. He has—mark this closely—he has the single, phenomenal capacity for maintaining a persistent tempo with the mechanical rigidity of a metronome.

"That is the entire sum and substance of the man's secret. He cares for nothing else, sees nothing else, subordinates all other elements to this one. Setting out to secure an absolutely even beat from the beginning to the end of a composition, he makes no concessions to Heaven or earth when so engaged. The notes must be clear, in tune, and observant of any expression marks that happen to be present. Beyond that, he asks for nothing—and, I may add, gets it. He will tolerate no divergence from his view, but tyrannically casts his musicians into this rhythmic straitjacket, hammering them obstinately into submission. "But, sir, the music at this measure cannot be played so rigidly; the composer never meant it to go that way" . . . "It cannot? . . . It must!" And it is."

NEVER having heard Mr. Toscanini play the Brahms D Major symphony I cannot comment on his supposedly deficient realization of its significance. I think it is probable, however, that he did play the excerpt quoted above—the second main theme of the first movement—in a perfectly even tempo. By doing so he may have convicted himself of musical obtuseness, but he at least was doing nothing unique. Stokowski, Koussevitzky and every other conductor I ever heard conduct the work, played it the same way.

My own feeling about this particular passage is that it demands an even beat and that the introduction of rubato, however slight, would tend to detract from that very depth and gravity which Mr. Robinson rightly believes should be conserved at all costs. I agree that in the eight bars under consideration there are two phrases instead of one, but it seems to me that the separation of the phrases at (1) could be better accomplished by releasing the second note of the measure a little sooner than a strict reading would enjoin. A deliberate pause would, in my opinion, impair the strength of the melodic line.

As for the general charge that Mr. Toscanini's imposition of a strict, unyielding tempo is his sole gift I for one can only say that in common with many others I received no such impression. One can only guess at Mr. Toscanini's interior psychological processes. When he plays Haydn's thirteenth Symphony or the Scherzo from the Midsummer Night's Dream music he may be using guess work, mathematics or simple incantation for all I know but the results are approximately those of an artist who combines a disinterested approach with an amazingly delicate perception of musical values.

But even if one cannot agree with Mr. Robinson one should always welcome such a forthright expression of opinion about a popular idol. There is altogether too much uncritical praise of Toscanini being written—especially in the New York press. It's time somebody was getting down to cases. One who had never heard him would be hard put to determine what kind of conductor he was merely from reading the criticisms in the New York daily papers.

It would be a good thing for all concerned if some qualified person on the ground would answer Mr. Robinson in kind—that is, by explaining in detail and with reference to chapter and verse why he believes Mr. Toscanini to be a great conductor.

Catholic Guild Will Offer Comedy "Bab"

THE St. Louis Catholic Theater Guild will produce as its next play, Nov. 17 to 21 the comedy "Bab" by Edward Childs Carpenter based on the novel by Mary Roberts Rhinehart.

This will be the second of a series of seven plays to be produced by the Catholic Guild during the season of 1930 and 1931. These plays will be held at St. Louis University Auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard. Rehearsals for this play are now on and the cast is hard at work.

Opera Festival for Arena November 26

AS an experiment in a plan to establish regular grand opera seasons at the Arena, Guy Golterman announces that he will present an Operatic Festival for one night, Wednesday, Nov. 26.

An extensive program will be given, with an orchestra of 80 musicians, a locally trained chorus of 300 voices, and five well-known artists from the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies, whose names will be announced later. Ernest Knoch has been engaged as conductor.

Mr. Golterman announces that if the performance is a success it may pave the way for visits here in the spring of the Metropolitan Opera company.

MISS BARRYMORE TO COME IN NEW PLAY TOMORROW EVENING

an art theater in Columbia, S. C., where Mrs. Peterkin on occasion acted. There she met several noted literary and musical artists who went to Columbia under Mr. Reed's management. They urged her to set down the stories she told them. Reed, therefore, has had an intimate acquaintance with Mrs. Peterkin's work from its beginning. As she draws her characters and stories from life, he has had the opportunity of studying these originals on the Lang Syne plantation.

Though all the roles, save one minor, non-speaking part, are Negroid, the Barrymore company is composed of white players, except for the group of singers. Chief in the cast are Estelle Winwood, Beatrice Terry, Georgie Drew Mendum, Anita Rothe, Ethel Barrymore Colt, Walter Gilbert, Horace Braham, William B. Mack, John Roseleigh, Leo Kennedy, Burke Clarke, Malcolm Soltan, Marcel Dill, Alan Campbell, Daniel Bagnell and Wilbur Cox. Orry Kelly, remembered here for his costume-work with the Municipal Opera last summer, has followed more or less closely the clothes worn by the Negroes in South Carolina for the stage dresses.

"NANCY'S Private Affair," which bids fair to keep up the remarkable run of business at the Orpheum is the story of a young woman who can be described best as a "Mud Hen," who, after having caught her man and marched him up to the altar, does nothing to keep the home fires burning. For, to look at, Nancy is a fright. Her horn-rimmed spectacles are virtual windshields and the English would best describe her type as blowsy.

So the husband steps out and deserts the Mud Hen. He falls for a gold digging lady with a gold-digging mamma and wifey awards him a divorce. She does more than this. She visits a few beauty parlors and dressmakers, with astonishing results.

Myron C. Fagan, playwright and director, wrote and produced this piece which had an extended and successful run on Broadway, with Miss Gambell in the leading role. A lot has been seen of Miss Gombell the visiting star, in three of four plays the last few years. Born in Baltimore, she had early ambitions for a stage career and gained a name for herself in amateur porductions while at school in that city.

Later she entered stock in Baltimore. From there she played the leading feminine role in Zona Gale's "Mr. Pitt"; she was with Otis Skinner in "Captain Fury," on the road with "Cobra" and last year was seen in "The Great Power."

Favorites of the local company in support of Miss Gombell will be Pierre Watkin, Arthur Pierson, May B. Hurst, Marian Sterly, Willard Robertson and Allan Connors.

THE first attraction of the famous screen star series to appear in person in St. Louis, under the banner of Arch Selwyn, will be Colleen Moore, with her own company in "Cindy," a new comedy-drama written especially for her by Benjamin Glazer and Jack Lait, who have performed yeoman duty for the little star in connection with several of her scenarios in the past. Colleen comes to the American Theater next Sunday night.

Shaw's "Apple Cart" At American, Nov. 10

THE Theater Guild of New York will inaugurate its second St. Louis subscription season at the American Theater the week of November 10, offering George Bernard Shaw's play, "The Apple Cart," as the first of a series of five plays. In the cast will be Tom Powers, Violet Kemble Cooper, Ernest Cossart, Jane Wheatley and others.

The second Guild offering, now tentatively listed for December, will be "A Month in the Country," by Ivan Turgenev, with Alla Nazimova and the Theater Guild Acting Company.

Behind the Screens Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 25.

H. B. WARNER is reported to have stepped out of the cast of "The Southerner," when called upon to slap Esther Ralston's lovely face as part of the action of the picture. And I know a young and virile member of the studio set who, for no reason at all, socked his girl friend quite emphatically in the left eye the other evening—and she isn't even his wife!

THE difficulty of appearing to be younger than one's actual 18 years, says Frances McCoy, a hazel-blue eyed blonde, is that the Hollywood truant officers get after one for not attending school.

Frances came here several months ago to play the lead in "Soup to Nuts," and she did. She had been educated (graduated from high school in Fordham) and at home she has a diploma to prove it.

FRANCES McCOY

Every studio maintains a school for youngsters under 18 working in its pictures. After the Fox studio school ma'am had seen Frances on the lot for several weeks, without an appearance in her school, she requested the actress to drop in and get a load of books.

Then Frances explained and now credentials are being sought in Fordham.

MEANWHILE Frances is continuing to practice her singing and dancing in preparation for her next picture, but she hasn't any idea what it will be.

The diminutive Miss McCoy was singing in a night club in New York when she was "discovered." Previously she had toured the country with orchestras as the added attraction.

Her first stage experience came after she won a dancing contest sponsored by a Fordham theater. She had no idea of going on the stage before that.

She wanted to be a school teacher.

ASSISTANT directors are the busy fellows who do all the dirty work and never get any credit. Some are little more than messenger boys, but most of them actually assist in the direction.

Among assistant directors' other jobs are hiring minor players and extras, seeing that everyone reaches the set on time, checking properties and keeping expenses within the limits set by the budget.

But the duties of some are slight, indeed. The other day I heard of one who has been a chief assistant for years because he always has a match handy.

His boss never carries them.

MOVIE people, with their flair for originality, have slipped in one matter and that is first names. Few of the approximately 2000 "name players" have given names that stand alone.

Here are the distinctive ones that the average movie-goer should be able to identify:

Alberta, Bebe, Billie, Bodil, Beryl, Jetta, Edwina, Ilka, Fritzi and Fifi.

And there also are Yola, Zazu, Cissy, Carmelita, Raquel and Colleen.

BILLIE DOVE

The number of men with individual first names is even smaller:

Eric, Buzz, Brooks, Bela, Bull, Nils, Ricardo, Philo, Regsi, Hobart, Heinie, Hallam, Hoot, Gary, Gavin, Guinn, Snitz, Stepin, Shayle, Slim, Tully, Tib, Wheeler, De Witt, Creighton, Lupino, Lumsden, Lane, Craufurd and Ronald.

Among the 1000 or more men whose names get on the screen, there are 78 with the simplest of all given names—John. And 20 women, larger than any other name group, answer to Mary.

A FEW years ago Walter Huston was a member of a song and comedy team in vaudeville, often wondering where his next engagement would be, fearing costly layoffs, sleeping in day coaches and sometimes in none-too-clean hotels.

Today he probably is the movies' most versatile character player, turning down offers of choice roles because he can't do more than one thing at a time.

He went from the character of Abraham Lincoln, good man, to Pancho Lopez, bad man, giving each a personality that is distinct and different. Previously he had been an editor in "Gentlemen of the Press" and then the dangerous villain Trampas in "The Virginian."

WALTER HUSTON

Usually when movie actors play a part such as Trampas they become branded as "heavies." Men who have taken the role of Lincoln, both on stage and screen, continue to be Lincolns as a rule, typed in the minds of the public and the directors who hire them.

Ten years ago Huston returned to vaudeville because civil engineering didn't appeal to him. He previously had been on the stage, but left it because he was convinced by relatives that his prospects of great success were remote.

Huston made his New York debut in 1923. For almost six years he played only character leads in such as "Desire Under the Elms," "Kongo," "The Barker" and lastly "The Commodore Marries."

He has decided to give up the stage, for as long as the movies will have him, he says.

SOMETHING different and exceedingly interesting in talking pictures has been achieved by Joseph von Sternberg in his production of "Morocco," a Gary Cooper vehicle which introduces to the American screen Marlene Dietrich, whom the director brought to Hollywood from Germany.

While Cooper's name is there to draw American fans, actually "Morocco" is a Marlene Dietrich picture.

GARY COOPER

"Morocco" is different because while it is a talkie, there is in fact much less talk in it than there is pure silent pantomime. It is the first Hollywood-made talkie which is not, from beginning to end, a constant flow of dialog, yet the dialog is not missed.

Von Sternberg tells his story much in the manner of the silent screen, the sound innovation being used for necessary dialog, all of which reveals character or furthers the plot, and for background sounds, and for music, a vital part of the background, in that it stirs the imagination of audience and actors alike.

Miss Dietrich is an intriguing personality and fascinating. Cooper's performance is one of his best, and Menjou reminds of his first screen triumph in "A Woman of Paris."

"Morocco" is Hollywood's first step toward a definite talking screen technic.

Symphony Season Starts Friday

THE St. Louis Symphony's fifty-first season is to open next Friday afternoon at the Odeon with E. Fernandez Arbos as the first of conductors to lead the orchestra. As in past years the concert will be repeated on Saturday night. The feature of the opening program will be Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," a musical memorial to the artist, Victor Hartmann. Friday night will mark the first hearing in St. Louis of this piece.

Hartmann was a genius and Moussorgsky's friend. After the architect-painter had died there was an exhibition of his sketches as a memorial and Moussorgsky was moved to translate the artist's work into music. Ten pictures made up as many small pieces originally written for piano. These Moussorgsky loosely grouped together with a "Promenade" which he conceived as a humorous and at times witty portrait of himself wandering in the gallery, stopping before this picture with approbation; moving forward or back or yet to one side for a better light on that; or paused for a moment of sad thought before yet another of the pictures. The piano pieces which were left as such by the composer, have called forth no less than four attempts to orchestrate them. The last and best of these was that of Maurice Ravel, the brilliant French composer.

Ravel contributes, as well, a work of his own "Ma Mere l'Oye" (Mother Goose) to the program. The French Mother Goose is no rhymer and utters no jingles. Rather she gives the world fairy stories such as Charles Perrault's "Cinderella," which she sponsared as it were. "The Sleeping Beauty," "Hop o'My Thumb" and "Beauty and the Beast" are others. These three Countess d'Aulnoy's "Laideronette" inspired the different numbers in Ravel's "Mother Goose" which was written originally in compliment to two little girls who were friends of the composer. Later he orchestrated it with success as a concert piece.

The program will present the "Egmont" overture which Beethoven wrote for Goethe's drama, and Mozart's E flat Symphony (K 543) the lightest and most joyous of all of Mozart's symphonies, the first of that last sequence of three in which the composer completed his work in that form.

Schubert Memorial Concert Next Week

THE first of three Schubert Memorial concerts to be given in St. Louis will be held Sunday evening, Nov. 9, beginning at 8:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Edward Faust, No. 1 Portland place. The performing artist will be Isabelle Yalkowsky, pianiste, who will play—among other things—a series of Debussy preludes.

The Schubert Memorial, Inc., was organized two years ago in New York for the purpose of helping young musicians get started on their careers. Its organization now extends throughout the country. According to a recent announcement by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the Schubert Memorial is now associated with the National Broadcasting Corporation, which means that its chosen artists will have a further outlet for their talents.

The two other concerts to be given in St. Louis will be those by Muriel Kerr, pianiste, on Jan. 4, at the home of Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis, and by Schurhari, violinist, on Feb. 1, at the home of Mrs. Charles Rice.

University Players To Do "Craig's Wife"

THE St. Louis University Playhouse Club will produce George Kelly's Pulitzer prize winner of 1925 "Craig's Wife," in the St. Louis University Auditorium one night only, Monday, Nov. 10.

Although the club has already launched its activities for the season with a Circle Reading, and with social activities, this will be their first full stage production of the current year.

The play is under the direction of Milton McGovern and the cast chosen at the tryouts is as follows: Marie Kennedy, Ida May Crossen, Betty Kasper, Dorothy Krauskopf, Rosalind Madden, Virginia Fuehlan, Walter Rissing, Thomas Tyrrel, Garvey Bridgman, Sylvester Kuntz and Edward Walsh.

musical comedy and musical play.

Fewer musicals have been made recently, but the few have been in the hands of masters like Oscar Straus, Jerome Kern, Sigmund Romberg, Rudolph Friml; of the more "popular" type, DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, with never a failure behind them.

Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore, great voices and good actors, co-star in "The New Moon," a pretentious musical, and a few more of like quality are in store.

But only one smash hit, musical or otherwise, is needed to start or revive a film cycle. Music will come back.

THE most famous partners in the world today aren't the Smith Brothers. Even the past, with its David and Jonathan, can't produce a pair so widely and intimately known to the contemporary world as Amos 'n' Andy, radio kings of entertainment.

Now their fame has probed new field, however, for their initial talkie, which is at the St. Louis Theater this week, has begun its journey around the earth, and into the far corners where there are no radio sets and no folk who speak English — or "Amos 'n' Andyese!"

Despite their fame as Amos 'n' Andy, the two entertainers, named Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll, are little known. Some folk do not even know that these creators of the phenomenal radio characters are white folk!

Nor will the fact be revealed when you see them locally at the St. Louis in "Check and Double Check." But Amos, who is Freeman F. Gosden, was born in Richmond, Va., May 5, 1889, where his father is a banker. He is married and has two children. Andy is Charles J. Correll who was born in Peoria, Ill., Feb. 3, 1880. He also is married.

Negro dialect is an old story to "Amos," who was virtually reared by his Negro "mammy" in Virginia. He attended school in Richmond and finished at a private school in Atlanta, Ga.

He left school in 1916 to become a salesman for the American Tobacco Co. This was followed by a job as automobile salesman, which lasted until the outbreak of the war.

ANDY, meanwhile, began working while still in grammar school. He carried Peoria "Journals" and "Stars" and later worked in the mailing room of each paper. Taking a commercial course in high school, he obtained a job as secretary and stenographer to the State Superintendent of Instruction at Springfield, a position he held for one year.

Then he became "regusted" with white-collar work, and deliberately turned bricklayer for nine years! His energy wasn't absorbed by it, however, so between times and on various nights he did negro parts in small theatrical companies.

He quit laying bricks when a booking concern hired him for a tour of an amateur theatrical circuit.

On this tour, which was in 1921, he and Amos crossed paths. They "teamed" an act, shared rooms—stopped off in Chicago in 1923 to lay the foundation for their radio career.

They already had made one radio trial in New Orleans in 1922, and that had planted the idea. Now they tried a sketch over WEBH in Chicago, wrote a couple of sketches for Paul Ash, then announcer at that station, and in November, 1925, signed as staff artists with WGN in Chicago.

THEIR initial salary was $100 per week. They did forty songs a night as "Gosden and Correll." In January, 1926, they originated their negro dialect, and were signed by the Chicago Tribune. They went on the air as "Sam and Henry." In 1928 the Chicago News, Station WMAQ, signed them to broadcast the same sketch.

They were the first entertainers to use records for broadcasting. At the same time they went on the air for the News, in person, 38 of their records went on at as many other stations throughout the country.

They changed their names to "Amos 'n' Andy" and in August, 1929, the National Broadcasting Co. signed them. They now broadcast in person twice a day so that the best hours in each half of the United States are theirs.

Now their vaudeville salary is $6500 a week whenever they desire to play the New York Palace, the greatest vaudeville house. They are said to have made $100,000 each last year.

"Check and Double Check" condenses the adventures of Amos 'n' Andy into one motion picture, and ties up their intensely human comedy with a love story and drama enacted by "white" members of the cast.

Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet Will Open Civic League Bill

THE Civic Music League opens its seventh season at the Odeon Tuesday night with the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet, one of the leading organizations of its kind in the country, in a program of solo and interpretative numbers by the company and Mr. Pavley, who is the guiding genius of the organization. The program is divided into three groups, with special interest centering in group 3, which shows the Videballeton for the first time in St. Louis—a device which employs a cinematograph machine in projecting figures on a screen which synchronizes with the living dancers and thus links the concert with the moving picture world in the entertainment field.

The first number in this group is a Grecian Bacchanale, an orgy of the Acropolis in 300 B. C. As the dance ends, a revolving disc appears in the center of the opening, thus blinding public view long enough to change the small screen in back without lowering the curtain. The second setting is "The Snow Bird," showing a forest covered with snow, the third a futuristic metropolis, the fourth a Hindu Temple with girls dancing with the idols, and for the last number "A Gypsy Camp."

AMONG other things, he was set to illustrate a series of articles by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, perhaps only a name for the younger generation of readers today, but a goddess to mothers at the beginning of this century. His horrible sketches of grewsome skeletons and the like hardly fitted into the sweetness and light Mrs. Wilcox breathed into her messages to the palpitating world at the dawn of the century. At her protest, Arthur Brisbane, the editor of the newspaper, sent young Barrymore to see her.

When this slip of a lad entered her parlor, Mrs. Wilcox abruptly demanded:

"Why did your father send you? Where is he?"

The young man, somewhat abashed and very nervous because his livelihood depended upon appeasing this imposing woman, replied:

"I don't know. He's dead."

Mrs. Wilcox, says Mr. Barrymore, proved to be a "grand sport," but she knew that Wilcoxian uplift and Barrymorian nightmares in pen and ink could not remain in a state of unmarred bliss. A few more futile attempts to get Mrs. Wilcox's "spirit" into his drawings failed and Mr. Brisbane summarily fired him, which more or less catapulted him onto the stage.

ST. LOUIS first saw John Barrymore in October, 1903, in "Magda." A local critic looked him over and not being impressed by the fact that he was a Barrymore and a Drew, remarked that he seemed to have been all dressed up and then forgotten. John was more fortunate when he first acted in New York.

Thus 27 years have passed since there has been a debut of a member of the Barrymore-Drew family. John and Lionel have deserted the spoken drama for the movies and Ethel alone carries the banner up and down the country with a pride that grows more fierce with each coming year. Remembering her own ambition as a girl to become a concert pianist and how this was thwarted by the need for earning her own living, she determined that her children, Sam, Ethel and Jack Colt, should be permitted to decide the future for themselves and not have to make this decision until they had finished their education.

Ethel Barrymore Colt admits that all her life she has had no other idea than that of going on the stage. But she had to wait and so she now appears at an age six years older than that of her mother when she rushed off to Montreal to act with her grandmother. She has been bombarded with publicity, for such is the manner of the times. On Sept. 25 of this year she stepped onto the professional stage for the first time, acting Seraphine, daughter of Si May-e (the role played by her mother) in "Scarlet Sister Mary," the play made by Daniel Reed from the novel by Julia Peterkin, in the Hartman Theater in Columbus, O.

"My boys, Sam and Jack, are talking about it now. Sam's 20, Jack's 16. They're next!" says Miss Barrymore.

And so the royal family carries on.

TROOP CAMPING ADDED TO BOY SCOUT COURSES

Three of Classes to Be Hikes Where Setting Up Kitchens Will Be Practiced.

A new subject, Troop Camping, will be added next month to the training courses in scout leadership by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, according to William J. Puffer, educational director of the council. The new course will be the fourth of the present series.

Differing from its predecessors, the course will consist of only four classes, three of these being hikes on Saturday afternoons, and only one taking place indoors in the evening; this latter, at the Stix School Nov. 3, will open the course. On the hikes the class members will obtain practice in setting up troop camps and kitchens, and in preparing menus for troops.

The troop camping course will be open to any scoutmaster, assistant scoutmaster, or troop committeeman experienced in scouting. Further information regarding the course may be obtained from the camp department at Boy Scout headquarters.

The third meetings of the other training courses will be held in regular classrooms tomorrow evening. The elements of scout leadership course, meeting at the Michael School, will take up signaling as its major subject, while special work will be undertaken at the other two.

The principles of scout leadership course, meeting in the auditorium of the Stix School, will consider "Methods in Education," the discussion in this subject being led by J. L. McKay, principal of the Carondelet School, and assistant director of the course. Patrol and problem discussion will include the general methods of education with the specific methods of scouting.

The first aid class, under the direction of Dr. R. F. Barnes, will meet at Washington University Medical School. "Injuries in Which the Skin Is Not Pierced or Broken" will form the chief topic of discussion, but Dr. Barnes will also give a talk on fractures, dislocations, sprains and bruises.

Troop Notes

North District.

A Troop Court of Honor, a dinner and entertainment were held by Troop 122 of St. Teresa's Church, on the occasion of the troop's fifth reregistration last week. About 250 persons were served at the dinner. The high point of the entertainment was a minstrel show, given by the older scouts of the troop, led by Harry Siemer. Ten scouts received awards at the Court of Honor: John Schwartz, James Hennessy, John Costello, John Mayer, Cletus Spehr, Eugene Britt, Joseph Coffey. Anthony Mayer, Giles Strub and Roy McKee. Five scouts — Andrew Aylward, Bertram Black, Edward Marshall, Giles Strub and John Overman—were presented with pen and pencil sets and with lapel Eagle Scout pins for winning the Eagle Scout rank at the last Court of Honor. The pen and pencil sets were given by the Troop Mothers' Club, while the pins were presented by the scoutmaster. Judge Hartman gave a talk on "Net Results of Boy Scouting," while Field Executive Nusser, who presented the awards, spoke on "Eagle Scouts."

A troop Camparall is planned by Troop 148 of Hyde Park Congregational Church for today. The camparall will be held at the troop cabin near Chain of Rocks Park, starting at 3 o'clock this afternoon. A campfire will be held after dark. All parents and friends of the troop will be welcome at the rally.

Plans for a Troop Court of Honor to be held soon were made at a meeting of the Troop Committee of Troop 149 of St. Paul's M. E. Church last week. The committee also completed plans for the troop's participation in the Merit Badge Show.

South Ditsrict.

A bridge party for the benefit of Troop 98 of St. Roche's Church will be given by the Mothers' Club of that troop at the church the evening of Nov. 5, Scoutmaster Dr. F. H. Staley announces. The party, which is open to the public, will start at 7 o'clock, and continue until about 10. Prizes will be given. In connection with the party, the scouts of the troop will give a Parents' Night program, with each of the patrols presenting a demonstration of project work.

The eight patrols of the troop are working actively on the Agriculture merit badge exhibit the troop will display at the coming Merit Badge Show. Each patrol has been assigned one of the eight divisions of the badge as its particular responsibility, while the troop committee is assuming general supervision of the work as a whole. The badge is being sponsored by Fred C. Weber, a member of the Troop Committee, who has turned his florist shop over to the troop for a laboratory. The scouts already have sold more than 100 tickets to the Merit Badge Show.

Scout R. Schilling was elected junior assistant scoutmaster, and Scout R. Riedel senior patrol leader, of Troop 200 of the Fanning School, at an election at the troop meeting last week. Scouts R. Koch and H. Minges became patrol leaders, Scout H. Schnitzmeyer treasurer, Scout E. Koch scribe, and

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, OCT 25—

BACKWARD, turn backward, O, time in your flight and thrill us again with:—

A showboat calliope playing "In the Good Old Summer Time."

The smell of wood smoke.

Winter breakfasts of soupy hash and fried mush.

Sunday dinners on country side porches with "everything smack on the table."

Fishing for mud cats in muddy streams.

The evening postoffice crowd waiting for the 8:15 mail.

The new milliner and the new hotel clerk from the city.

The volunteer fire company and a midnight fire in the lumber yard.

The runaway steer leaping from a steamboat and swimming the river.

And columning, incidentally, is no picnic. Those of us who write in a personal vein received clipped columns with "I's" ringed in red and such hoots as "Who cares?" and "You hate yourself!" If we don't write intimately they complain we have gone high-brow. And so we sit on the fence not knowing which way to jump.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK TO BE CELEBRATED

Celebration of National Girl Scout Week, held in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Juliette Low, founder of the American organization, will be observed in St. Louis starting today. Mrs. Low brought the movement into the United States from England in 1912, when she organized a troop at Savannah, Ga.

The celebration will take the form of special observances each day, and by every Girl Scout wearing her uniform all week. Today is Girl Scout Sunday, and every girl is supposed to attend her church in uniform. Tomorrow Girl Scouts will take over all the housework, to give their mothers a vacation, while Tuesday is designated as "Clean-up Day."

Wednesday has been set aside as "Appreciation Day" when every girl will remember and thank those who have been helpful to them in any way. "Community Service Day" will be held Thursday, while Friday, Mrs. Low's birthday, will be "Founder's Day."

A reunion of all girls who have ever camped at the Girl Scout camp at Pevely, Mo., will be held at the Bishop Tuttle Memorial Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, while a "get acquainted" meeting at the Girl Scout Little House, 4253 Magnolia avenue, at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, will bring the week to a close.

Does He Play or Sulk?

Play boys are healthy boys with good digestion of everything they eat. Sulky boys may be good eaters or poor eaters, but their digestion is almost surely poor. Give your boy two teaspoonfuls of Thompson's in his milk with meals. It will build up his energy and aid the digestion of other foods. Thousands of sulkers have been made into play boys through improved digestion. All druggists and grocers.

Missouri Boy is Healthiest

"MY little son, Carl, suffered from constipation," says Mrs. Rose Radder, 1323 Blair Ave., St. Louis. "He was having a hard time of it until I learned about California Fig Syrup and got some. It regulated his bowels, brightened him up; seemed to help him a great deal.

"Since then I have used Fig Syrup with my son during colds or upsets. It has been a wonderful help to him; has assisted in making him the strong boy you see—perhaps the healthiest one in our neighborhood."

Keeping the bowels from becoming irregular during colds, or children's diseases is half the battle. Most any doctor will tell you that. And nine times out of ten he'll tell you there's no safer, more pleasant and effective way of doing this than by using pure vegetable California Fig Syrup.

Whenever a child shows by unpleasant breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, lack of energy and appetite that his bowels need cleansing, a little of this rich, fruity product will have him right in a jiffy. Weak stomach and bowels are strengthened by it. Appetite is increased. Digestion is assisted. The bowels become regular and remain that way.

A parent's task is lots easier when California Fig Syrup is used. Any child accepts it eagerly. It is safe for infants; effective for children and grown-ups too. The genuine endorsed by doctors for 50 years, bears the name California. So look for that when buying and avoid imitations which may not act the same.

TROOP 198 WINS STANDARD INSIGNIA

Feat of St. John's Episcopal Boys Accomplished by Only One Other Group.

For the second time in the history of St. Louis scouting, a Boy Scout troop has been awarded a Standard Troop Insignia two years in succession. This feat, previously accomplished only by Troop 98 of St. Roche's Church, was officially credited to Troop 198 of St. John's Episcopal Church, by presentation of the insignia at a dinner held at the church last Wednesday evening.

The Standard Troop Award, the highest honor obtainable by a troop as a whole, is given only to those organizations which have met the most rigid standards in scouting during the year preceding reregistration. The requirements include obtaining of high objectives in advancement of troop members, training of the scoutmaster and other troop officers, the holding of approved hikes and camps, and active participation in council activities. Only three other local troops, in addition to 98 and 198, have ever won one Standard award.

More than 150 parents and friends of the troop attended the dinner to witness the presentation, which was made by Col. H. D. McBride, Scout Commissioner for St. Louis. The main address of the evening was given by Nelson Cunliff, who spoke on "Living Scouting in Our Everyday Lives." Other speakers were Charles H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Council; H. P. Mueller, chairman of the South District; Field Executive Carl T. Laemmli, and S. C. Reaves, head of the Cubs, or junior scout organization, in St. Louis.

Applause followed the presentation of the troop's annual report by Scoutmaster L. John Lewis to the church and the council. The report brought out that Troop 198 was the only troop in the city to win both a Camparall and a Standard Troop Award; its membership is the largest in its history, while the turnover during the year was smaller than usual; troop funds amounting to more than $1000 were handled without error during the year; the troop owned one of the most complete sets of scouting equipment in the city; and that camping and hikes occupied a large place on the troop program. The climax was reached with a troop Roving tour covering more than 1000 miles. An exceptional list of individual and community good turns also was reported.

Several other awards also were presented at the dinner. Scout Elliot Reed received honors for being the outstanding individual scout of the troop while the Wolf patrol, under Scout Edwin Edmonson, received a prize for winning the year's contest in all-round patrol scouting. Activities Director Mills gave the troop its annual charter, and Chairman Louis Yates gave Scoutmaster Lewis his scoutmaster's certificate for the coming year. Dr. L. H. Renfrow was toastmaster.

A new troop orchestra made its first public appearance at the dinner, led by Scout Earl LaBoube.

Troop Notes

Scout V. Quinn quartermaster. Scoutmaster Hasenjayer will retain his position. The troop is planning an overnight hike for Halloween.

West District.

Scouts Wilburn Crigler, Charles Dee, Jack Michener, and Shelton Voges were presented with their Tenderfoot Badges at an Investiture Ceremony conducted by Troop 26 of Delmar Baptist Church, in connection with a Parents' Night a week ago Friday evening. Glen Mohler, an attorney, gave a talk on "Theodore Roosevelt." The Beaver patrol of the troop won a treasure hunt held in Forest Park last Sunday afternoon.

Scout Francis Klein's patrol won a contest in First Aid and Bandaging to start off an inter-patrol contest at the meeting of Troop 30, of the Y. M. H. A. last week. Gilbert Seidel's patrol took second place. The contest will be continued with points being awarded for attendance, test-passing, inspection, winning contests, obtaining merit badges, and advancement in rank. Points will be taken off for tardiness and misconduct. The scouts of the troop hiked to the Missouri River last Sunday, to gather material for their camping booth at the Merit Badge Show.

Central District.

The monthly meeting of the Deputy Commissioners of Central District will be held at Gibson Heights United Presbyterian Church, Taylor and Arco avenues, Tuesday evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock and the meeting will be concluded at 8 o'clock.

A novel inter-patrol contest is being conducted by Troop 74 of Sherman School. Each patrol has an automobile placed on a map "1600 miles from St. Louis." Instead of the awarding of points for achievement in the contest, the autos are moved so many miles closer to the city. Patrol Leader Cappy Regden's patrol is leading by 40 miles. The troop is planning to hold a Parents' night Nov. 7, with Charles H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Council, as speaker. A Troop Court of Honor will be conducted and tenderfoot investiture ceremonies will be held. Troop 74 will demonstrate the camping badge at the merit badge show.

MEXICAN RAIL OFFICE STAYS

Removal to Chicago Held Up, Temporarily at Least.

An order for removal of the offices of the National Railways of Mexico from St. Louis to Chicago has been temporarily rescinded following a protest to executives of the railway by the Chamber of Commerce Foreign Trade Bureau, representing St. Louis exporters and importers.

In a telgram received from J. Sanchez Mejorada, president of the railroad, the Chamber of Commerce bureau was informed that a reorganization of the offices of the company in the United States is being made, but that the St. Louis office will remain in its present state until a further decision.

4 MURDER SUSPECTS IN PEORIA RELEASED

East St. Louisans Held in Garrison and Phayer Killings Out on Habeas Corpus Writ.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 25.—Four men brought to Peoria last Tuesday from East St. Louis for questioning in the murder of Mrs. Clyde Garrison by a machine gunner on Oct. 17, were released today on a writ of habeas corpus.

They are Thomas Wilder, Jack Britt, Thomas O'Conner and John Moran, all of East St. Louis, arrested in East St. Louis shortly after the body of Charles J. Phayer, Madison County gambler, was found last Sunday night on a road near Edwardsville, where gangsters had left him after shooting him to death.

The prisoners denied knowledge either of the shooting of Phayer or of Mrs. Garrison, who was shot when gangsters made an apparent attempt to kidnap her husband, a gambler. Garrison, who drew machine gun fire when he fired his pistol at the gangsters, is still in a hospital suffering from leg wounds.

A taxicab driver had told Sheriff Grant Minor he saw the four prisoners and Phayer together in a Peoria hotel on the day of the Garrison shooting, but later he declared he was not certain enough to testify under oath.

In releasing the prisoners Judge Joseph Dailey indicated that it would not take much evidence for him to hold the four suspects without bail. No evidence, however, was submitted.

After being released by the court the quartet appealed to the Sheriff to take them back to the jail until train time. They apparently feared violence from the crowd that packed the courtroom.

URGES ELECTION OF MEN O K'D BY BAR ASSOCIATION

Wilton D. Chapman Makes Address Before Members of Swedish National Society.

Election of candidates for judicial positions and Prosecuting Attorney who have been indorsed by the St. Louis Bar Association was urged last night in an address by Wilton D. Chapman before members of the Swedish National Society at 1157 South Kingshighway.

R. Forder Buckley will speak at Soldan High School tomorrow evening in behalf of the bar association non-partisan ticket.

The candidates indorsed are: John T. Fitzsimmons, Arthur H. Bader, Robert W. Hall, Frank Landwehr, Granville Hogan and James E. King for Circuit Judges; Fred J. Hoffmeister, for an unexpired term as Circuit Judge; Charles W. Holtcamp, for Probate Judge; Edward E. Butler for Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 1; J. R. Weinbrenner, for an unexpired term as Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 2, and Eugene Sartorius, for Prosecuting Attorney.

WANTS NEW FEDERAL BUILDING IN HARMONY WITH CIVIC PLAZA

Chamber of Commerce Asks Treasury Department to Choose Architect With This in Mind.

A request of the Chamber of Commerce has been forwarded to the Treasury Department urging that, if possible, the Government employ in the construction of the new Federal building architects familiar with this area so that it will be in harmony with the civic plaza idea of which it will be a part.

"As we understand it, it is customary to associate the department's own supervising architectural agent from Washington with such architects," the communication says. "You no doubt have this in mind, but it cannot be amiss for us to call your attention to the even greater pride this community would feel in the structure and the additional friendliness engendered toward the administration providing the edifice, if the new Federal building were in full harmony with the civic plaza idea of which it will be a part and which represents purely a St. Louis architectural conception."

BAKER CHARGED WITH LIQUOR SALE AFTER FEDERAL RAID

Carl S. Mueller Said to Have Sold Dry Agents Four Pints of Brandy.

Warrants charging sale of liquor under the Jones act and illegal possession were issued yesterday against Carl S. Mueller, proprietor of a bakery at 2624 Chippewa street, who, according to prohibition agents, sold them four pints of brandy allowed him for cooking purposes, charging $3.50 a pint.

The bakery was raided Friday night and the agents reported they seized 12 gallons of brandy, 35 gallons of wine and 10 gallons of home brew. Proceedings for the revocation of Mueller's brandy permit will be instituted, Deputy Prohibition Administrator Dillon announced.

SUES AIRLINE FOR $3000 FOR SCARING HIS HORSE

Coal Dealer Claims Plane Was Flying at Height of 300 Feet.

Alleging that an airplane flying 300 feet off the ground frightened his horse so that the animal ran away, Benjamin Yaffe, coal and ice dealer, filed suit for $3000 against the Interstate Air Lines, in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday. Yaffe, who lives at 3856 Lee avenue, states that he was dragged under the wheels of a wagon, suffering a broken leg, bruises and shock.

The petition cites a Department of Commerce regulation providing that airplanes must remain 1000 feet above the ground over congested districts, except when making emergency landings.

IT'S "NAVY DAY" TOMORROW

Mayor Issues Proclamation in Nation-Wide Observance.

"Navy day" will be observed throughout the country tomorrow to call attention to the various activities of the Navy, both in war and peace.

The day is also the birthday anniversary of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, and was selected by the Navy for annual observance for that reason. Mayor Miller has called attention to Navy day in St. Louis through an official proclamation.

URGES LARGER STAFF OF VISITING NURSES

Superintendent Says Minimum Set for St. Louis Is 107 Instead of 85 at Work.

A staff of 107 nurses is required by the Municipal Visiting Nurses to meet the minimum requirement set for St. Louis by the American Public Health Association, instead of the 85 nurses employed now, Mrs. Bertha O. Yenicek, superintendent of city nurses, said in an address before the Nursing and Institutional Efficiency Committee of the Tuberculosis and Health Society yesterday.

A staff of 165 nurses should be provided for maximum efficiency, Mrs. Yenicek said. The Tuberculosis and Health Society provides eight members of the present staff. Tuberculosis and general illnesses increase during periods of unemployment, she said, and only a certain number of cases may be handled efficiently by each nurse.

Tuberculosis nursing, Mrs. Yanicek said, requires more time than any other, accounting for 31,155 of the 83,347 visits of the municipal nurses last year. The visiting nurse assists in tuberculosis control by constituting a link between the patient, physician, tuberculosis institution and the health department, she said.

I. C. C. HEARING ON CONTROL OF COTTON BELT ADJOURNED

To Be Resumed in Washington in About a Month, It Is Announced.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 25.—The Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on the application of the Southern Pacific Railroad to buy control of the St. Louis-Southwestern (Cotton Belt) was adjourned today to be resumed at Washington in about a month.

The date for the adjourned hearing was left for the commission to fix. Examiner Thomas F. Sullivan expressed the hope that at that time the only parties would be the Southern Pacific and Cotton Belt, and the Missouri Pacific, Texas & Pacific and Frisco, which are opposing the application on its merits.

The hearing here consumed a week, much of which time was taken up by short line roads desiring inclusion in the contemplated system, representatives of Chambers of Commerce, and witnesses for the Rock Island and Katy, which are insisting that present routes of traffic be maintained if the application is granted.

PLANS FOR LARGE NEW APARTMENTS BEING DRAFTED

20-Story Efficiency for Corner of Skinker and Southwood Practically Decided Upon.

TIME REGARDED AS GOOD FOR BUILDING

Labor Is Plentiful, Capital on Hand, and Rental Situation Is Said to Be Improved.

By Berry Moore.

Plans are being drafted for several large apartment and residential hotel projects, preparatory to construction co-incident with an improvement in business on a permanent basis, whenever the capital is available for them.

A number of sites have been acquired or placed under option, while deals are pending for others. Negotiations for building loans disclose that the largest buildings of these types are projected for Skinker, Lindell and South Grand boulevards. The number of small apartments planned is negligible, which means that construction will not be on an appreciable scale again before spring.

The present time is regarded as decidedly opportune for the resumption of building operations. Wages have not been reduced, but labor is in plentiful supply. While there is an unprecedented amount of capital on hand, it is to be had only for the more meritorious projects, with location a factor. Until recently, restrictions virtually excluded apartment building projects. As a result, construction of this character has been at the lowest ebb, to the material improvement of the rental situation.

20-Story Apartment Proposed.

A 20-story efficiency apartment building has been practically decided upon for the southwest corner of Skinker boulevard and Southwood avenue, just west of the City Limits, opposite Forest Park, it was stated yesterday. It is to be built by a syndicate whose identity has not been disclosed and which acquired the site early in the year from the Better Built Homes & Mortgage Co.

The proposed apartment will run the gamut of buildings of this type, rivaling the newest and most pretentious in the East. The suites, it is said, will be available, furnished or unfurnished, with complete hotel service, including a restaurant and a coffee shop. A garage in connection with the building is contemplated.

The site fronts 120 feet on Skinker and has a depth of 150 feet on Southwood, overlooking Forest Park from one of the highest points in the city. It is one of the few eligible sites within the city limits available for an apartment building of this magnitude. It is planned to start construction shortly after the first of the year. Cost, it is estimated, will run between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, including the site, said to be valued at $1000 a foot in Skinker.

18-Story Twin Apartments.

The northwest corner of Rosebury drive and Skinker boulevard and the southwest corner of Northwood avenue and Skinker boulevard have been under consideration for 18-story twin apartments. These sites comprise the entire Skinker boulevard frontage of this block. The ground is owned by the Better Built Homes and Mortgage Co., which laid out the De Mun Park subdivision, of which Skinker boulevard forms the east boundary.

The Skinker-Northwood Investment Co. has just completed a 17-story apartment building at the northwest corner of Skinker boulevard and Northwood avenue, known known as 625 Skinker boulevard. This building, containing 46 apartments of six rooms and two baths, seven rooms and three baths, eight rooms and four baths, and 10 rooms and six baths, is approximately 75 per cent rented. Many of the suites were leased while the building was in course of construction. The apartments on the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth floors have been specially arranged to conform with the ideas of the lessees, who have signed five-year leases.

With the exception of the Southwood and Rosebury northwest corners mentioned, the Skinker road frontage of De Mun Park has been practically absorbed with apartment projects, the 10-story Versailles apartment occupying the southwest corner of Skinker and Rosebury, and the Wiltshire the northwest corner of Skinker and Southwood.

3714-16 OLIVE STREET SOLD TO A. F. LEEK

$30,000 Paid for Two-Story Building With Frontage of 35 Feet.

The property at 3714-16 Olive street has been purchased by A. F. Leek for a consideration said to be in excess of $30,000. It comprises a two-story building with a frontage of 35 feet by a depth of 155 feet.

The Mildred Cleaners and Dyers, Inc., occupied the building under a lease at a rental which places the property on an attractive investment basis. The price represents a trifle less than $1000 a front foot, which establishes a new record for ground on Olive street west of Spring.

The purchase was made because of the possibilities of this section of Olive street.

FOUR COMMERCIAL LEASES BY MULLIN-WALTERS REALTY CO.

The Mullin-Walters Realty Co. reports having concluded negotiations for a long term lease on the building at 300-02 South First street, southeast corner of First and Clark avenue, to the Corn Products Refining Co., now occupying it as a warehouse. The lessee was the John Ramming Machine Co. Both parties to the transaction were represented by Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

Mullin-Walters Realty Co. also has concluded a lease on the south one-half of the ground floor in the building at the northeast corner of Third and Chestnut streets to the Detjen-Murphy Canvas & Supply Co., which will use same as a storeroom, stockroom, office and salesroom.

The company also reports having concluded a lease for a long term of years on the south one-half of the second floor in the building at the northeast corner of Third and Chestnut streets to the C. S. Severson Printing Co.

A lease also has been made on two rooms on the third floor in the building at the northeast corner of Third and Chestnut to the Covington-Silverstein Cigar Co..

All parties in the above transactions were represented by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

Dickmann Only Candidate For Realty Exchange Head

Election to Be Held Nov. 18—Alfred D. Ruth, Vice-President, Declines to Run for Presidency.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president and treasurer of Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., is the only candidate who has filed for the office of president of the Real Estate Exchange, to be filled at the annual election Nov. 18.

Dickmann was formerly corporation secretary of the exchange. He was a director of the exchange several years, his service on the board being interrupted during the World War when he was a Sergeant in the United States Marine Corps. He is a Past Exalted Ruler of St. Louis Lodge No. 9, B. P. O. Elks, and a past District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler of the same order.

Six directors, to serve for two years, are to be elected. Candidates who have filed are Eugene D. Ruth Jr. of Francis-Perry-Ruth Realty Co., Mayor of University City, and now a member of the board; Carl G. Stifel, president of J. H. Gundlach & Co., now a member of the board; Philip H. Zepp, real estate officer of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., and Charles Rippin, vice president of Hemmelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co.

The election will be in the exchange headquarters, room 100, Wainwright Building. The president-elect will serve one year, succeeding Charles J. Daly, president of Daly & McCabe Real Estate Co., who has served two terms.

Alfred D. Ruth, vice president of the exchange, and president of Julius Haller Real Estate Co., was considered the logical candidate for president this year, but he could not be prevailed upon to run.

HEATH COMPANY SELLS FLATS AND FILLING STATION PLOT

The Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. reports the sale of the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Lafayette avenue, having a front of 70 feet on the east line of Fourteenth street by a depth of 120 feet on Lafayette avenue.

This property consists of two flats, three stores and a filling station location, renting for $3600 a year. It was sold to Edgar C. Mueller, who was represented by the Heath company. The Wenzlick Realty Co. represented the seller.

This property will front on the new 80-foot boulevard after the widening of Fourteenth street.

FOUR PCT. BUILDING GAIN IN 577 PRINCIPAL CITIES

S. W. Straus & Co. Points Out Normal Decline Between August and September Is 9½ Pct.

Prospective building conditions throughout the United States showed improvement in September over the preceding month, according to official reports of building permits issued in 577 leading cities and towns as made to S. W. Straus & Co.

The volume of permits for September was $168,254,846 compared with $161,609,331 in August—a gain of 4 per cent. This gain is all the more significant in view of the fact that normal seasonal factors call for a decline of more than 9½ per cent between the two months.

The September figures were 23 per cent below those of September last year, when the volume was $218,009,891. However, this is a substantial improvement over the 37 per cent loss in August and indicates that building is continuing the steady climb toward normal.

General Revival Possible.

Records of past years show that building permits precede actual construction operations by three to five months. If this precedent continues in the present situation, a distinct increase in actual building activities would possibly be experienced throughout the country between December and March. Such a revival in construtcion might well be the basis of an improvement in business conditions generally.

An encouraging factor in the situation last month was that whatever declines in building permits have been registered appear to be spread over the smaller communities while the bigger cities are more than holding their own. For example, New York City fell only $2,000,000 behind September last year, while Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Jersey City, Albany, Portland, Ore., Dallas, Houston and other leading cities showed a pronounced gain over the same month last year.

The Straus index of building permits registered a 4 per cent increase in September over August, in spite of the fact that the seasonal factor based on the period from 1923 to 1929 called for a decline of 9.7 per cent between those months. September, 1930, furthermore, is the first month since July, 1929, that the Straus index has exceeded the calculated line of trend.

25 Leading Cities.

The 25 cities throughout the country which reported the largest volume of building permits for the month as a group registered a 20 per cent gain over August, 1930, and a 7 per cent loss from September, 1929. The volume of permits in the 25 cities in September was $101,132,905, compared with $78,628,443 in August, 1930, and $109,181,952 in September, 1929.

Unemployment in the building trades as reported by the American Federation of Labor was 38 per per cent for the month of September. This is an improvement of 1 per cent over August. Figures for unemployment from the same source for union members of all trades likewise improved 1 per cent.

BUILDING DECLINE IN ST. LOUIS AREA

Contracts let for new building and engineering work in the St. Louis territory (Southern Illinois, Eastern Missouri, Northwestern Arkansas, Western Tennessee and Northwestern Mississippi) during September, 1930, totaled $14,168,200, as against $17,933,200 for August and $17,429,500 for September of last year, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation.

The last month's record showed $5,965,500 for nonresidential structures, $5,178,700 for public works and utilities and $3,024,000 for residential buildings. Included in the nonresidential class were the following $2,263,200 for commercial buildings, $911,900 for educational projects, $398,000 for industrial plants and $2,392,400 for all other nonresidential buildings. During the last nine months there was $192,607,800 worth of new construction work started in this area as compared with $203,004,400 for new construction started during the first nine months of 1929.

September construction contracts awarded in East Missouri reached a total of $6,985,200, while the total for the preceding month was $10,513,700 and the total for September, 1929, was $16,521,400. Last month's total included $3,079,300 for nonresidential building, $2,106,400 for public works and utilities and $1,799,500 for residential buildings. New construction started in this area during the first nine months of this year has reached a total of $117,004,600 against a total of $112,235,200 for new construction started during the corresponding period of 1929.

The city of St. Louis had $3,148,400 in contracts for new building and engineering work during the last month. The above figure compares with $1,735,300 for August and $3,249,600 for September of last year. Analysis of the September contract total showed that $1,654,800 had been used for the construction of nonresidential projects, $857,500 had been invested in residential buildings and $636,100 had been spent for public works and utilities. New construction contracted for during the last nine months in this city reached a total of $27,157,700, being considerably less than the amount ($48,115,400) contracted for during the first nine months of 1929.

PROPOSITIONS 2, 4, 6 OPPOSED BY EXCHANGE

Board of Directors Votes Against These Constitutional Changes.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange it was resolved to go on record as opposing Proposition No. 2, a proposal to amend Article 10 of the Constitution by adding a new section exempting from taxation all evidences of debt for money loaned on real estate in Missouri where the aggregate cost to the borrower does not exceed 5 per cent a year.

The board of directors in opposing Proposition No. 2 based its action on the contention that the taxing of mortgages secured by real estate is double taxation and that if any exemption from taxation is brought about it should extend to all mortgages, regardless of the rate of interest; further that Proposition No. 2 will not produce the results desired, which is cheaper money for the borrower.

The directorate of the exchange at a previous meeting also resolved to oppose the passage of Proposition No. 6, commonly known as excess condemnation, and Proposition No. 4, proposing State operation of the compensation insurance business.

The Real Estate Board of Kansas City, Mo., also recently voted to oppose the passage of these three propositions.

SHAW & FRANCIS REPORTS RESUMPTION OF ACTIVITY

Shaw & Francis, Inc., expressing its viewpoint on general business conditions in St. Louis, virtually on the anniversary of the stock market crash last year reports a resumption of activity in its line caused by the steady liquidation of stock investments and return of the money into real estate channels and predicts that the fall and winter seasons will reflect stimulated interest and demand on the part of shrewd investors, leading to normal real estate conditions in St. Louis.

In keeping with the announcement made upon its removal to new ground floor offices at 1023 Locust street, Shaw & Francis, Inc., headed by Charles A. Shaw and E. W. Francis, who were formerly associated with the late W. J. Holbrook and Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co., has created separate departments in its business, which consist chiefly of the following: Marketing of wooded sites for residences having a minimum cost of $25,000 in "Lake Forest" at Clayton and Hanley roads; sale of the remaining residence lots in Claverach Park and Moorlands Addition; sale of apartment sites in "Blue Ridge Terrace," which adjoins Moorlands Addition; sale of high-class residences, apartments and investment property in the western section of the city and in the section of the county adjoining; promotions and downtown investments, and management of apartments and other properties.

TERRY & CO. SELLS FLATS AT 1217-19 SPRING AV.

Albert T. Terry & Co. reports having sold investment property, 1217-19 N. Spring avenue, including eight flats, all with bath and heating plant, renting for $2000 per annum, to the Rych Realty Co., who purchased for speculative investment.

SMYRNA FLOODED BY RAIN, AND MANY HOUSES COLLAPSE

By the Associated Press.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 25.—A terrific rainstorm today caused a flood in the City of Smyrna. The rain began last midnight and continued this evening. Thousands of houses and shops have been inundated. Hundreds of small wooden dwellings have collapsed.

Torrents are flowing through the streets, carrying furniture, bales and boxes seaward. Much of the population has taken to upper stories.

The police are devoting their efforts to clearing away the wreckage and succoring the injured.

The sea has turned an unusual chocolate color, causing Smyrna's population, upon whom rests a past full of calamities, to become superstitiously fearful. No deaths had been reported.

Boys Pay Tribute to Roosevelt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 25.—More than 4000 Boy Scouts, led by the American Legion band of the Quentin Roosevelt Post, today marched from the center of Oyster Bay to the grave of Theodore Roosevelt on their eleventh annual Roosevelt memorial pilgrimage. The boys, many of whom had come from as far away as Atlantic City and New London, made a colorful array. At the grave an invocation was read by Dr. S. Mackenzie of the Flushing Reformed Church. A wreath was put on the grave and "taps" was sounded.

Gen. Ireland Reappointed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—President Hoover has approved a recommendation of Secretary of War Hurley that Major-General Merrill W. Ireland be reappointed Surgeon-General of the army, effective Oct. 30. This is the fourth appointment of Gen. Ireland as Surgeon-General. In determining to permit Gen. Ireland to finish his active army service in his present office, the President made an exception to the general rule.

NORTHAMPTON PARK SALES

David P. Leahy & Stedelin Bros. report the following sales: In Tamm Manchester, lot 275x125 on Sproule avenue, to J. McEnroe; in Northampton Park, 350x120 on the south side of Winona, to Frank Hortleder; 70x120 on the south side of Tholozan to Leo Kozeny; 35x120 on north side of Winona to Henry Meyers; 40x122 on south side of Chippewa to Martin Roth; 35x120 on north side of Lindenwood to Louis Ruckenkampf.

The Phillips Petroleum Corporation has leased the southwest corner of Chippewa street and Brannon avenue and will erect a filling station.

SWITZERLAND CREAMERY, INC., LEASES STORE ON CHEROKEE

The Switzerland Creamery Stores, Inc., has acquired a lease of a store at the southeast corner of Cherokee street and Ohio avenue. The building adjoins the J. C. Penney store.

The concern contemplates a chain of St. Louis retail stores within the very near future. The Switzerland Creamery stores handle, besides creamery goods, a general line of groceries and kindred articles. The negotiations for the lease were handled by Harry Newman, Inc.

Valle Grossman Realty Co. Moves.

HAMILTON-BROWN STOCK ISSUE TO BE VOTED ON, DEC. 4

Proposal Made to Put Out 100,000 More Shares of No-Par Value Common.

Stockholders of Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., which has been operating under receivership since May 23, will meet Dec. 4 to vote on a proposal to issue 100,000 additional shares of no-par value common stock.

The proposed stock issue is part of a refinancing program being worked out by directors of the company in the hope of lifting the receivership. At present there are 200,000 shares outstanding, a majority of which is held by the heirs of A. D. Brown, co-founder of the company.

Business experts who have been surveying the company's prospects are expected to report to the receiver, William R. Gentry, within a few days. Gentry thinks the company can be operated profitably. Its assets, according to his report filed in Federal Court, are $6,633,867.

The receiver was appointed on petition of a Chicago bank which alleged that the company, although solvent, was unable to meet creditors' claims and notes approaching maturity which amounted to more than $3,000,000.

Army Major's Wife a Suicide.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 25.—Mrs. Selby H. Frank, wife of Maj. Frank of the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, came to her death through self-inflicted strangulation, according to a preliminary report today by the Army investigating board. Maj. Frank found his wife hanging in their home late yesterday when he returned from the school. Mental depression, due to continued illness, was assigned by the board as the cause of her act. Maj. Frank tonight departed with the body for New York.

Hindenburg Accepts 20 Pct. Cut.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—President von Hindenburg today notified the Finance Ministry he would accept a 20 per cent reduction in his salary, beginning Nov. 1. The reduction, part of Chancellor Bruening's economy program, has not yet been officially put into effect, but all the Cabinet Ministers have accepted cuts in a similar manner.

STOCK MARKET HAS VARIETY OF MOODS IN WEEK'S TRADE

Veers Abruptly From Optimism to Gloom, and Back Again, Ending the Week Mildly Cheerful.

PROFITS ARE TAKEN AT THE WEEK-END

Market Sags After Friday's Rally Has Been Extended One to Three Points—Selling Pressure Light.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The stock market was again temperamental and contrary this week, veering abruptly from optimism to gloom and back again, ending the week in a mildly cheerful mood.

The week began with an upward spurt of nearly five points in the averages, but a quick reversal carried the market down more than five to a new low level for the past three years. The list then bounded up nearly seven points, and slipped back nearly a point in the closing session.

Trading was only moderately active, but selling was at times heavy. It was said in brokerage circles that some of the liquidation was of a necessitous character, representing the cleaning out of weak marginal accounts, and the liquidating of bank loans.

Selling pressure lifted rather suddenly toward the end of the week, however, leading to the belief in several quarters that necessitous selling had been completed. The rally on Thursday and Friday was pronounced, and was in the face of such normally unsettling developments as a sharp decline in the Van Sweringen group of rails, and omission of the Montgomery Ward dividend. The rails later recovered substantially.

Optimistic statements as to the prospects of business recovery came from important sources, and helped to create a more confident feeling in financial circles, although what part these statements may have played in the late rally in the market was difficult to determine, for a technically oversold condition appeared to be developing on Wednesday, and the smart upswing of the next two days was of the proportions of a normal technical rebound.

Improved Tone to Bonds.

Genuinely encouraging to Wall street was an improved tone in the bond market late in the week. The impairment of the bond market by the protracted decline in stocks has caused some discouragement, although steady selling of stocks normally spreads to bonds. The improvement in bonds was helped by a sharp rally in the Brazilian issues, coincident to the apparent success of the Brazilian revolutionary party.

Brokers' loans again shrank substantially, the week's drop of $138,000,000 making a reduction of more than $600,000,000 in four weeks, and reducing the total to $2,613,000,000, the lowest in four years, and some $4,000,000,000 below the level of a year ago. Loans against security collateral, as reported by Federal Reserve member banks, however, were shown to have dropped only $10,000,000 in the previous week, against a drop of $215,000,000 in the week before that. Monetary conditions continued easy, with no signs of change.

Profit Taking Saturday.

Week-end profit taking was able to make only minor indentations of prices today.

The market sagged after yesterday's rally had been extended one to three points; but selling pressure was light and the net loss of 90 leading issues was less than a full point. Sales totaled 1,152,200 shares.

For the past few months Wall street has virtually ignored optimistic statements on the business outlook, for it learned with some chagrin just how premature prophecies can be. However, the fact that the depression has run for so long aligns the time element on the side of a turn and hence the views of the steel executives and others on the prospects for improvement found readier listeners.

Steel operations in the Youngstown district, it was estimated, will show a gain next week, the first advance in two months, but this change was not stressed as particularly important in view of the industry's general belief, expressed at yesterday's institute meeting, that little real gain was in sight for the remainder of the year.

TRADE IS LARGER ON LOCAL MARKET WITH PRICES DOWN

Declines Are Moderate but Wagner Electric and International Shoe Reach New Lows for 1929-30 Period.

There was a pickup in business on the St. Louis Stock Exchange during the last week, but mainly at the expense of prices. Wagner Electric sold into low ground for 1929-1930 on recession of a fraction, and International Shoe also declined to new 1929-30 low, selling off more than a point. Transactions in Wagner were almost 3000 shares between 17½ and 18½, while shoe sold as low as 51⅝, with transactions exceeding 2800 shares. Scullin Steel preference declined to 6 but recovered to 8¼ for ¼ point net gain. There was a 1500-share lot transaction at 6½ in which one house was both buyer and seller.

Consolidated Lead, Marathon Shoe, Scruggs, Skouras and Coca Cola Bottling recorded losses, the latter issue going down to 43 for loss of 7 points.

Moloney Electric sold at unchanged price of 55, one house being main buyer. Ely-Walker and National Candy closed unchanged.

Transactions were not large in the banking group, where First National closed 2 points off after being up. Franklin-American declined 15 points to 205 and closed at 206, but most of sales were made at 209.

In the bond section United Railways 4s were down ¼ to ¾, selling at 66. Scruggs 7s lost 2 points at 95.

STOCK MARKET HAS VARIETY OF MOODS IN WEEK'S TRADE

a cent in reflection of small September exports and a bearish estimate of South American shipments. Corn also dropped moderately, but cotton made another advance and all futures sold above 11 cents a pound. The net gains were 45 to 55 cents a bale.

Several Weak Spots.

Two or three weak spots developed in the stock list. J. I. Case broke 13 points to a new low and at the day's minimum of 115⅛ was selling at the lowest price in four years. The recovery was fractional. International Harvester dropped 3 points and Montgomery Ward lost a point to 19⅝, also a new low.

After an irregularly higher opening, the market ran along on a higher scale throughout the first hour. U. S. Steel touched 152⅝, up nearly 2 points, and there were rallies of a point in American Can, du Pont, Anaconda, Houston Oil, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, Atchison, Erie, New York Central and others. Diamond Match advanced 6, Detroit Edison 4, and Calumet & Arizona 3 on light buying.

It seemed too much to expect, however, that the market could close higher on two successive days, especially in view of Friday's broad advance, and profit-taking reduced or eliminated most of the gains, while many were converted into small losses. Westinghouse, which had opened 3 points higher on a 10,000-share block, dipped below the previous close but managed to finish ⅝ up. U. S. Steel held ⅝ of a point of its advance, but American Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Radio, General Electric and General Motors were off fractionally. American Telephone, Erie, International Telephone, Union Pacific, Johns-Manville and Gillette lost 1 to 2 net. Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak yielded 3 points.

Changes in foreign exchanges were small. Continental rates ruled steady. The Spanish peseta advanced.

Investment Trusts

WE believe that Investment Trusts, where a real trust relationship exists, are based on a fundamentally sound principle which gives a comparatively high degree of safety with a chance for appreciation. There are a number of attractive issues of this type which we recommend for investment and about which we shall be glad to furnish complete information on request.

COPPER FOR EXPORT CUT TO 9.80 CENTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Copper Exporters, Inc., today reduced the price of foreign copper one-half a cent a pound to 9.80 cents, C. I. F. European base ports.

The cut brought the foreign price to a parity with the domestic level of 9½ cents for the metal, established yesterday when all producers and custom smelters reduced their prices to that figure.

The reduction in the foreign price resulted in sales of 8,000,000 pounds of copper for export in the forenoon. Domestic buying was in fair volume but not nearly as active as the foreign market.

Crude Oil Price Cut.

WEEKLY COPPER REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Restricted demand and increased offerings of resale metal at concessions led copper producers to reduce quotations a half cent late in the week to the basis of 9½ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley, which was followed by the announcement of a corresponding reduction in the export price today. Reduction in the domestic price failed to stimulate demand as consumers are said to be well supplied. Fabricators have announced a reduction of ½ cent a pound in prices of copper products. The outcome of a conference on world curtailment in which African producers are expected to participate next week is being awaited with interest.

The tone of the tin market was easier at the close of the week. Market followed trend at London where weakness developed in sympathy with the decline in other metals, especially copper.

Lead displayed very little feature during the week. Prices were steady, while the demand was entire routine.

Toward the close of the week there were offerings of zinc at slightly below the holding prices of the producers. Consuming interest, despite this development, displayed little animation.

BRAZILIAN BONDS SHOW MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Domestic List of Liens Takes a Further Step Forward.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Brazilian obligations showed conspicuous improvement in a quiet session of the bond market today. The domestic list of lien issues took a further step toward a return to normalcy after backsliding most of the week, and were generally a little firmer, with price movement following a narrow groove.

The advance of Brazilian Government, State and municipal issues was a continuance of the rally which set in yesterday, coincident with the fall of the Government. Gains averaged more than 2 points.

Brazilian 8s and 6½s, Porto Alegre 8s and 7½s, Sao Paulo City 8s and State 6s, 7s and 8s, Pernambuco 7s, Rio de Janeiro 6½s were steadily bought. The advances have compared favorably with the declines that unsettled the list when the revolution broke out, several weeks ago. Other South Americans shared in the buying interest. Europeans were generally firm. German International 5½s were very active and gained ¾ of a point. Italian 7s were up a point and Polish bonds improved in light buying.

In the domestic section, convertible bonds were generally higher and there were some good recoveries among lien issues that have been sharply depressed. Van Sweringen railroad convertibles were again strong. Alleghany Co. issues advanced 2 and 3 points.

Better grade rails were firm. Chicago & Northwestern bonds, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Florida East Coast 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s H were up a point each.

Utilities were generally improved. Detroit Edison 6s, International Telephone 5s, New York Edison 6½s and Northern Ohio Traction and Light 6s were well bought.

While highly rated industrials firmed, some Grande and speculative issues were easy. U. S. Governments were dull.

COTTON PRICES IN NEW HIGH GROUND FOR THE MOVEMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A continuation of the recent buying movement which seemed to find additional encouragement in relatively steady Liverpool cables and unfavorable features in the weather news, carried prices into new high ground for the present movement in cotton here today.

New December contracts sold up to 11.14c, or 20 points net higher, and fully a cent a pound above the low level touched earlier in the month, but offerings increased somewhat at this figure and there were reactions of several points in the later trading. The December closed at 11.03c, with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 9 to 11 points. Spot steady, mids., 11.15c.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 8 points in response to the firmness of Liverpool. There was considerable Southern selling and realizing, but it appeared to be readily absorbed by continued covering, combined with further trade and commission house buying. Reports that cold weather was following the rains in the South and the firmness of the early stock market were probably contributing factors on the advance which extended to 11.24c for January and 11.70c for May contracts, or about 17 to 20 points above yesterday's closing quotations. The demand tapered off somewhat at these figures, which seemed to bring in a little more Southern hedging, and there were reactions in the late trading, with January closing at 11.18c and May at 11.61c.

The report of the Census Bureau showing 9,252,011 bales ginned prior to Oct. 18 was quiet closely in line with recent private forecasts and was not generally mentioned as a factor in this morning's market. The opinion was expressed in some quarters, however, that recent weather conditions in the South might have led to the abandonment of bearish expectations of a late season increase in crop estimates, and accounted for some of the current buying. Houses with Western connections were said to be among the buyers again today while there was further buying by Wall Street and local interests. Southern selling was a little more in evidence, being attributed partly to week-end hedging.

Liverpool cables reported Continental buying covering and trade calling in that market and said the demand for cotton cloth was broadening with fair sales to China and the Near East.

9,252,011 Bales Cotton Ginned.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Cotton ginned from the growth of 1930 prior to Oct. 18 was announced today by the Census Bureau to have totaled 9,252,011 running bales, including 275,286 round bales counted as half bales, and 7308 bales of American-Egyptian and excluding linters.

To that date last year, 9,094,704 running bales including 290,719 round bales and 7304 bales of American-Egyptian was ginned and in 1928 ginnings to that date totaled 8,151,271 running bales, including 294,743 round bales and 9948 bales of American-Egyptian.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Total sales amounted to $4,998,000, compared with $11,071,000 yesterday; $6,464,000 a week ago, and $7,068,-000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,294,351,000, compared with $2,450,512,000 a year ago and $2,495,269,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted:

OPERATIONS FOR RISE CONTINUED ON CURB

Profit-Taking Cuts Into the Gains Made Early by Some Utilities.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Encouraged by the rise in the two preceding sessions, operations for the advance were continued in the Curb market today with a fair degree of success.

The market closed irregularly higher after its absorptive powers had been tested by week-end realizing. The half-day session was fairly active, transactions involving 347,800 shares.

Profit-taking cut into the gains of some of the utilities made in the first hour. Electric Bond & Share rallied above 56 and then reacted to 54⅝, a ¾ net loss. Brazilian Traction was again a strong feature, as buying was apparently encouraged by the developments in the revolution in Brazil. The stock advanced 3¼.

American & Foreign Power, warrants, another company with South American interests, rallied a point and held half of its gain. Associated Gas & Electric, American Light and Traction, Eastern States Public Service, United Gas and Central States Electric were higher.

Standard Oil of Indiana declined into new low ground for the year at 40, on a net loss of ⅝, moving contrary to the rest of the petroleum group. Cities Service, Vacuum and Gulf were firm.

The advance in American Cyanamid B, Dresser Manufacturing A, Newmont Mining, Anglo Chilean Nitrate and Walgreen stood out in contrast with the generally narrow movement of industrials and specialties.

Investment company issues were well supported. Goldman Sachs was steady. Ungerleider financial and Insull Utility Investment gained a point and Shenandoah and United Founders were fractionally higher.

WHEAT AND CORN SELL LOWER IN WEEK-END TRADE

Bearish Comment on Outlook for Grain in Argentine and Australia Included in News.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 25. — Report of conditions favorable for crop progress in Argentina and Australia and apparent scant North American export situation were credited with sending wheat prices down today. Corn also closed lower. Germany has raised duty on wheat.

Liverpool market was down, prices closing ⅜d to ⅞d lower. Winnipeg opened unchanged and ranged lower.

December wheat opened at 79⅝, May wheat 84c, December corn 79⅜c and May corn 83⅜c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 50,400 bushels, compared with 53,200 last week and 60,200 last year, included 19 cars local and 17 through. Corn receipts, which were 42,000 bushels, compared with 74,200 last week and 77,000 last year, included 23 cars local and 7 through. Oats receipts, which were 22,000 bushels, compared with 24,200 last week and 26,400 last year, included 6 cars local and 4 through. Hay receipts included 5 cars local and 11 through.

In the cash grain market, soft wheat was 1c to 1½c lower. The market was slow and draggy for spot grain with but few orders on hand. Five of the eight cars of No. 1 on sale were carried over. Local elevators, however, reported fair business, with sales of 20,000 bushels of No. 1. Spot sales of No. 1 were on the basis of 9½c to 10¼c above the Chicago December figure and 9½c above was bid on all carried over. Hard wheat was down ½c. The demand was fair. There was no milling No. 1 or No. 2 on sale, but the light supply of mixing grades available was cleared readily. Country run No. 3 sold at the Chicago December figures and terminal markets at ½c below. Corn was 1c and 2c lower. About 25 per cent of the offerings were of the old crop. The demand was fair, with the bulk of the available supply going to elevators and industries. Oats were steady. Receipts were light and the demand was good locally.

RANGE OF PRICES.

Wheat. No. 1 red winter, 88½@89c. Heavy garlicky, 84c. No. 2 red winter, garlicky, 86@88½c. No. 1 hard winter, 81½c nom. No. 3 hard winter, 79c. No. 1 mixed, 75@77 per cent hard 82c. No. 2 mixed, weevily 80 per cent hard 80c.

Flour and Meal.

Flour market was quiet. Quotable prices were unchanged. The only sales reported were: 1 car soft 95 pct at $4.25 jute, 500 brls soft and 420 brls hard on private terms.

Nominally, in new jute: Soft patents, $4.50 to $5 (special brands in cotton from $5.40 to $5.65 up to $6.25; straights $3.60 to $3.75; 95 per cent, $3.85 to $4.10; clears and extra fancy, $3.25 to $3.60; low grades, $2.90 to $3.25; hard 95 per cent, $3.75 to $4.10; straights, $3.75 to $3.90; high patent $5.30 in cotton; first clears, $3.35 to $3.60; low grades, $2.85 to $3.10; spring patents, $4.85 to $5; No. 2 Seminola, 2¾c; special, 2⅝c and No. 3 2⅜c per pound.

RYE FLOUR—Quoted by mill in carlots in jute: White patent, $3.75; medium, $3.40; dark, $3.25.

Corn meal quoted at $2.22 and standard meal at $2.12 per 100 pounds.

St. Louis Hay Market.

No. 1 clover was quoted $20@22 per ton. No. 2 clover, $17@19; clover mixed No. 1, $20@21; No. 2, $17@19; alfalfa hay, No. 1 to choice, $28 to $30; standard, $24@26; No. 2, $18@20; oats and wheat, $9@10; No. 1 timothy, $22@23; No. 2 timothy $18 to $21; sample grade timothy, $10@13; No. 1 prairie, $18 to $19; No. 2 prairie, $14 to $16; No. 3 prairie, $11@12.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Wheat feed was lower, market dull. A mill here quoted pure bran at $20.50 and grey shorts $24 and quotations otherwise (immediate) were: Standard bran $20 to $20.25, pure bran $20.50, grey shorts $23 to $24, standard middlings $21. Oatfeed was quoted at $8.00 and white hominy feed $27. Sales reported were as follows: 100 tons standard bran (from the West, immediate and next week's shipment) $19.75; to go out, 1 car pure bran $22 and 1 car grey shorts $25.

Transactions in mill feed futures totaled 2400 tons.

WHEAT CLOSES AT VIRTUALLY THE LOW POINT OF DAY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Forecasts of a huge enlargement of wheat production this season in Argentina and Australia pulled grain values downward today regardless of Argentine reports of rust. Late dispatch from Rosario, Argentina, told of rust in the Province of Cordoba, but omitted any assertion of actual damage yet. On the other hand, tentative estimate current that Argentina and Australia together soon would have a combined exportable wheat surplus of 285,000,000 bushels, an increase of 145,000,000 bushels over the past season's shipments.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak at virtually the day's bottom level, ⅝@1⅜c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅜@1⅛c down, oats ⅛@⅜c off, and provisions varying from 10c setback to a rise of 5c.

A sharp rally in wheat values resulted from Argentine reports that rust had been discovered, but the market effect proved to be of short duration. It was in vain that friends of higher prices pointed out the heavy curtailment which rust damage had inflicted on the Argentine wheat crop last year. The present Argentine crop is already near to the commencement of harvest, and the majority of traders appeared skeptical that the rust now would at all rival last year's record.

On the other hand, export business in North American wheat today was again a disappointment, and was described as consisting of "just an occasional load." The bearish influence of this situation was little if any relieved by talk in some quarters that enlarged crop estimates from southern hemisphere countries were at best only provisional, and that November and December developments would be the real test south of the equator. Meanwhile, weather conditions today both in Argentina and Australia were reported as favorable for crop progress. Canadian advices, too, told of improved conditions for threshing.

Corn and oats prices went lower with wheat, notwithstanding that today's purchases of corn here available for immediate use were the largest in some time. The majority of corn traders appeared reluctant to buy future deliveries pending further evidence as to what to expect about the size of the coming movement of the corn crop.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to downturns in quotations on grain.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Rubber futures opened firm: Dec., 8.70c; March, 9c; May, 9.20c. New contracts: Dec., 8.80c; March, 9.10c; May, 9.30c.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Rubber futures closed steady: December, 8.80; March, 9.20; May 9.40; new contracts, December, 8.92; March 9.35; May, 9.50.

DRY GOODS MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—There was a fair inquiry for coarse yarn gray goods today, following good end-of-week sales of print cloth, broadcloth and sheetings. Fine goods were quiet. Burlaps were unchanged and quiet. Fine sales were made in 100 denier viscose yarns to silk mills. Raw silks advanced 10 cents in a quiet market. Spring piece goods sales were poor at discouraging prices.

COTTONSEED MEAL.

Cottonseed meal 41 per cent was quoted at $31.25 and 43 per cent at $32.75 per ton.

BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Activity in the nation's electrical equipment markets during the past week produced no major change from recent moderate buying, but sectional reports likewise reflected no slackening in the upward swing noted in the preceding seven-day period, Electrical World reports.

Eight basic ensemble colors for next spring have ben adopted by the Color Co-ordination Committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. The colors comprise guardsman and admiralty blue; sea sand, Burma tan and Singalee brown; pistachio and chukker green, and sky gray. Black also is accorded style importance.

Statement by E. R. Berry.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Edward R. Berry, president of Midland Management, Inc., the operating and management company for Twin States Natural Gas Co., Inland Utilities, Inc., and Midland Natural Gas Co., said today in commenting on the equity receivership for E. R. Diggs & Co., bankers for these companies, that the companies are financially sound.

"The companies and their securities continue to be fundamentally and intrinsically sound," he said. "Dividend and interest payments can be met through earnings which of course are not affected by the embarrassment of the bankers. The dividend on Midland Natural Gas Co. participating Class A stock, payable Nov. 1, will be paid. The only immediate apparent effect which I can see might be a temporary curtailment of expansion and development programs, the funds for which would have been supplied in normal course by the bankers."

Irving Trust Co. yesterday was named receiver for E. R. Diggs & Co.

"MR. A" PRESIDES AT INDIAN SESSION

Blackmailing of Maharajah of Kashmir Recalled by Conference.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Princes of India whose combined wealth almost defy calculation gathered today at St. James's Palace, to shape their policies in the forthcoming round table conference on India.

Among them are the Maharajas of Jummah and Kashmir, of Birkamer, of Alwar, or Nawanagar, of Rewa and of Dholpur.

In this group the best known figure was the Maharaja of Kashmir, who presided over today's session. London and most of the world would remember him in connection with the adventure of a fabulously rich young potentate, then Sir Hari Singh, heir to the Kashmir throne, give years ago. He was the famous "Mr. A" in the trial of an action brought by Charles Robinson against the Midland Bank for recovery of part of $750,000 "hush money" mulcted in a badger game at Paris.

Court witnesses testified that "Mr. A" was found in a Paris hotel room with Mrs. Robinson and that her husband was personated by Montague Noel Newton, extracting two checks of 150,000 pounds ($750,000) each, one of which was cash and all but $125,000 of it deposited in the Midland Bank. William C. Hobbs, it was testified, obtained the money from the Midland Bank by forging Robinson's signature, thus garnering most of the cash the Rajah thought he was paying to an injured husband. Robinson sued the bank for $600,000. A London jury established the fact that Robinson and Mrs. Robinson were not parties to the swindle. The jury was unable to agree on the liability of the bank. "Mr. A" then was in India, content to stand his loss and keep his name secret for reasons of state. There was fear for a time that he might lose his chance to succeed to the throne.

DEATH SENTENCES OF THREE ILLINOIS SLAYERS UPHELD

"Wee Willy" Doody, John Preston and William Lenhardt to Die for Murder.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. — The sentences of three murderers to die in the electric chair Dec. 12 were affirmed today by the State Supreme Court at Springfield, Ill. The murderers are:

"Wee Willie" Doody, who killed Charles Levy, Chief of Police of suburban Berwyn; John Preston, who beat and strangled to death Miss Agnes Johnston, 26-year-old stenographer, on a lonely Du Page County road a year ago; William Lenhardt, who shot to death Milton Valisopoulos, Greek restaurant owner, in the robbery of a cafe June 19, 1929.

Two alibi witnesses for Lenhardt received jail sentences for contempt of court after his conviction, and several weeks ago as a suspected plot to free him from the county jail here was frustrated when a revolver was found under Lenhardt's pillow.

UNCLE TOM AND LITTLE EVA IN THOMPSON'S FLOAT FOR LEWIS

Show on Wheels Depicting Emancipation to Tour Chicago's Negro Wards Every Night.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. — Rumors were current in the City Hall today and confirmed by several of Mayor Thompson's friends that he would take the stump next week for James Hamilton, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

"I'm for Jim Ham and I'm wet," he told Democratic National Committeeman Michael L. Igoe.

A large, specially constructed float depicting the emancipation of the Negro race and urging that votes be cast in the Senatorial election for Col. Lewis will tour the colored wards every night until election.

"The float will have figures representing Father Abraham (Abraham Lincoln) with a lamb in his bosom and Uncle Tom and Little Eva," declared the Mayor.

Bishop Griswold Gravely Ill.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The Episcopal News Bureau tonight issued a bulletin stating that Bishop Sheldon Munson Griswold of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago "appears to be fighting his last battle." The Bishop is suffering in the Evanston hospital from a complication of heart and kidney disorders. He is 69 years old and was recently made head of the Chicago diocese.

WHITMAN, WHISTLER, MAURY AND MONROE IN HALL OF FAME

William Penn Highest of the 101 Unsuccessful Candidates Voted on in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Robert Underwood Johnson announced today that a poet, a painter, a scientist and a statesman had been elected to the Hall of Fame on the campus of New York University.

They are Walt Whitman, James A. MacNeil Whistler, Matthew Fontaine Maury and James Monroe, and their busts will be placed with those of 65 other famous historical figures in the Hall of Fame.

All but four of the 106 electors voted at the quinquennial election just ended and 64 votes were needed for elections. There were 105 candiates.

Whistler, the artist best known for the painting popularly known as Whistler's mother, received 74 votes, more than any other candidate.

Monroe, fifth President of the United States during whose administration the Monroe Doctrine originated, and Maury, whose work made possible oceanic weather charts and transoceanic cable lines, each received 66 votes. Whitman got 64.

William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania, won 58 votes, more than any other unsuccessful candidate. Next to him was Cyrus H. McCormick, inventor of the harvester, with 53.

$2000 FEE FOR ATTORNEY IN PROVIDENT LOAN RECEIVERSHIP

Book Value of Assets of Concern $324,226; Claims Not Yet Reported to Court.

A fee of $2000 for service to date was granted to Ben Philipson yesterday by Circuit Judge Hogan for acting as attorney for the receivers for the Provident Loan & Investment Institution, 1009 Locust street.

The receivers are former Appellate Judge Charles H. Daues and John B. Edwards. They were appointed last March following the failure of the Union-Easton Trust Co., whose president, Arthur F. C. Blase, was also president of the Provident Loan & Investment Institution. Philipson was appointed attorney for the receivers April 23.

A report shows the company had assets of a book value of $324,226 as of April 1. The principal items included second deeds of trust valued at $172,302, real estate carried at $115,373, industrial loans amounting to $15,390 and accounts receivable totaling $6631.63. Furniture and fixtures were carried at $2373. The report also listed $908 in cash. The amount of claims has not yet been filed in court.

REAR ADMIRAL DYSON DIES

Engineering Officer Received Awards for Designs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Rear Admiral Charles W. Dyson, retired, outstanding engineering officer of the navy, died today at the naval hospital here. He was born in Cambridge, Md., Dec. 2, 1861 and appointed naval cadet engineer in 1879. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1883.

For many years he was chief of the design division of the Bureau of Engineering and inspector-general of that bureau. During his service in the bureau machinery plans for all of the vessels now in service in the navy were designed under the direction and supervision. Admiral Dyson received the Distinguished Service Medal for his propeller design work. He was recognized as one of the foremost authorities in the world in the field of propeller design. He also received the Navy Cross for his work during the World War.

COSTE AND BELLONTE ACCLAIMED IN PARIS

Hundreds of Thousands Line Streets in Homecoming for Atlantic Flyers.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The welcome of France was extended today to Maj. Dieudonne Coste and Lieut. Maurice Bellonte, returning trans-Atlantic flyers, in France's most hearty fashion.

President Gaston Doumergue and Premier Andre Tardieu spoke the greetings and praise of the nation for its beloved war ace and his companion. There were elaborate ceremonies at the Elysee Palace and a similar function at the City Hall. As a special mark of commemoration, the French Government also included in the honors of the day elevation of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to the rank of a commander in the Legion of Honor.

France made a national holiday of the homecoming, and Paris was brilliant in its enthusiasm, with hundreds of thousands of persons swarming the streets. The flyers were hailed everywhere along the route from Le Bourget to the Elysee Palace and City Hall as only heroes of the first rank could be acclaimed.

In conferring upon the flyers the promotions which the Government had granted them in their absence, President Doumergue said: "I want to felicitate you, how did you do it?"

"It was just like crossing the Rue du Faubourg St. Honore," Coste replied. "Twenty thousand miles, do you get the idea?" he suggested to the Associated Press representative.

Mary Coste and Diana Bellonte, the latter of whom had suffered a collapse at the flying field but had recovered in a few hours, said: "Are we happy? Yes."

STATE CAN REGULATE WEIGHT OF VEHICLES, COURT RULES

Illinois' Highest Tribunal Upholds Section of Motor Act Affecting the Highways.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 25.—Constitutionality of the section of the motor vehicle act regulating the maximum weight of vehicles using public highways was upheld by the Supreme Court today.

While admitting that the section of the act in question may result in a restriction of the liberty of contract or the use of private property, the State maintained that it has paramount authority and control of its highways and that it has the power to limit the use of its highways to save the highways from injury or provide for public safety.

FINED FOR HEAVY BUSSES

Pickwick Line and Five Drivers Arrested in Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25.—The Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., and five of its drivers were fined $5 by Justice Ira R. Allen at Raytown, near here, today for operating busses exceeding the maximum legal weight under the Missouri highway laws on United States Highway No. 40 east of Kansas City. The drivers fined were J. H. Hoffman, R. R. Turk, H. C. Brown, J. B. Finley and L. A. Stultz.

Hoffman stood trial, offering in defense a statement that he had a special permit from the State Public Service Commission to operate an overweight bus.

Justice Allen ruled that the commission in his opinion had no right to give a special permit violating a State law if it did issue such a permit and assessed the fine. The others then pleaded guilty.

The State Public Service Commission recently gave the Pickwick-Greyhound line a period of grace to change its equipment in Missouri to comply with the weight limit.

SLAIN IN DRY RAID ON HOME

Bystander Killed in Mississippi and Deputy Is Accused.

By the Associated Press.

MAGNOLIA, Miss., Oct. 25.—A warrant charging Albert M. Brent, Deputy Sheriff of Pike County, with killing Elwell Glenn Allen, 24 years old, a bystander, in a dry raid and fight in a dwelling here last night, was sworn out today by District Attorney F. D. Newitt. A mass meeting elected a committee to demand that the grand jury be called to investigate the shooting.

Brent is alleged to have fired the shot that killed Allen, a farmer, during a free-for-all fight at the time of the raid. Jess Kirkendall, at whose residence the raid was made, and Cullen Simmons, one of the four deputies wounded. Kirkendall was arrested. Officers said a small quantity of liquor was seized.

Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

BANNER—In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Christina Banner, who passed away Oct. 25, 1929:
There is a sad but sweet remembrance
There is a memory fond and true
There is a token of affection, mother,
And a heartache still for you.
M. BANNER AND CHILDREN.

BAUER—In memory of my dear wife and sister Jennie Bauer, who passed away three years ago, Oct. 24, 1927:
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But love for you who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND BEREAVED FAMILY.

BERBERICH—In loving memory of Clarence Berberich, who passed away Oct. 27, 1925:
Dear Clarence, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER.

CLOSTERMEYER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Sophie Clostermeyer, who departed this life Oct. 24, 1926.
We are thinking of you today, dear mother, thinking of the past;
Picturing you in memory, just as we saw you last.
You left behind some broken hearts that loved you so sincere;
That never did or never will forget you, mother dear.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

DAIBER—In loving memory of C. Hermann Daiber, who died Oct. 21, 1928.
Gone, but not forgotten,
From his loving

The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory, we shall always keep
SISTER EMMA. (c)

KOENIG—In memory of our dear husband and father, Andrew B. Koenig, who departed this life, Oct. 27, 1927:
You're not forgotten, father dear
Forever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

LATENBERGER (nee Hurzler)—In memory of my dear daughter, Edna, who died Oct. 25, 1928:
My heart seems withered in sorrow
The time is lonesome and blue
I dread the expected tomorrow
You don't know how I miss you
Sadly missed by
YOUR MOTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED YOU.

LAUX—In loving memory of my dear wife and mother, Mattie Laux, who died Oct. 23 1929:
What is home without a mother?
All things this world may send,
But when we lost our darling mother,
We lost our dearest friend.
Sadly missed by
THE LAUX FAMILY.

MARSH—In memory of our dear mother who died Oct. 23, 1921, Bertha C. Marsh
Nine years ago she passed away
We grieved when she departed.
Time was too short to say farewell
To those she knew and loved so well.
We miss her coming footsteps
We miss her everywhere.
Home is not what it used to be
Since our mother is not there.
Sadly missed by her
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

MEYER—In loving remembrance of our darling daughter and sister, Laura, who departed from this life, Nov. 5, 1926.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all;
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.
You are not forgotten by,
PARENTS AND BROTHERS.

IN MEMORIAM

MOORKANT—In loving memory of Mary Moorkant (nee Doebber), who departed this life 12 years ago, Oct. 25, 1918:
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.
Sadly missed by
ALL WHO LOVED HER.

RUDNICKI (Renneke)—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Anthony Rudnicki (Renneke), who departed this life one year ago today, Oct. 22, 1929:
You suffered hours, yes hours of pain
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
Your God alone knew best
And called you home to give you rest.
Days of sadness still come over us
Though you left one year ago.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

SCHWARTZ—In memory of Matie Schwartz who died Oct. 28, 1929:
Our lips cannot tell how we miss her.
Our hearts cannot tell what to say
God alone knows how we miss her
In a home that is lonesome today.
HUSBAND, DAUGHTER, RELATIVES AND FRIENDS. (c)

SHAD—In loving memory of John J. Shad, died Oct. 29, 1929:
He has gone from his dear ones,
His children and his wife
Whom he willing toiled for and loved as his life.
Oh God, how mysterious
And strange are Thy ways
To take from us this loved one
In the best of his days.
LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

STEINKAMP—In loving memory of William Steinkamp Sr., who died Oct. 29, 1929:
One year has passed; oh, how we miss him
Friends may think the wound is healed:
Little do they know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

WEBER—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Elizabeth Weber, passed away Oct. 26, 1929:
The sun shines upon our dear mother's grave.
One that we loved so dearly and tried so hard to save.
Her smiling ways and pleasant face are pleasures to recall.
Had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.
When we lost our dear mother we lost our dearest pal;
We loved and miss you and forever shall.
So rest in peace, dear mother, your place in heavenly bower;
The day when we shall meet grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

WOOD—In remembrance of my beloved husband, William A. Wood, who died Oct. 28, 1929:
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
LEONA WOOD.

HELP WTD.—WOMEN, GIRLS

WOMEN—POSITION AVAILABLE

Position carrying guaranteed income for at least the first month available to 6 clean, high type women of neat appearance and high ambitions who are between the ages of 26 and 40. With at least grammar school education.

If we must apologize for speaking of "Prosperity" and "expanding business" in these times, then forgive us, but it's true in our business—true to the extent that we are soon moving to much more spacious and beautiful quarters which are necessary to take care of our increasing business.

Radio Broadcasting every WEDNESDAY at 11:30 a. m. over Station KMOX, and our advertising in Post-Dispatch, Good Housekeeping, Ladies' Home Journal and other leading magazines is creating a tremendous demand among the women of St. Louis and all surrounding territory for our foundation garment, which contains patented features found in no other garment and which is now the largest selling single design garment in America.

We have an opening for 6 ladies at once to call on an outstandingly established clientele and to follow up inquiries resulting from our effective, sales-creating advertising.

Experience not necessary, as the St. Louis Charis School of Merchandising teaches the business at no expense to you and you also receive the help and guidance of a Senior Representative when assigned to an exclusive territory. Our hours are from 9 to 4. No work Saturdays, and our methods compel success.

If you are tired punching a clock and working for little or nothing—if being independent in a business that can provide the better things of life for you can prompt you to steady, faithful performance, then you may make personal application Monday, 9.30 to 12 a. m., Room 300 at 318 N. 8th St., Columbia Bldg. No further employment will be offered in our business this year. (c)

All Hallowe'en

A Holiday for Restless Witches but Not for Night Watchmen and Stout Policemen.

*By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

WITCHES who ride broomsticks, ghosts, souls released from Hades for the occasion, evil spirits masquerading as black cats and bats and all other alleged forms of supernatural mischief makers are due to hold their annual revel Friday night and, in accordance with ancient custom, will be privileged to roam about at will, harassing night watchmen, making life misearble for over-weight policemen and leading firemen off to remote precincts to answer false alarms. In view of such festivities, the watchmen, the police and the firemen are making ready for a busy evening. It is not that they expect trouble from witches, ghosts and the like. For not since the Macbeth* affair has a witch caused any real trouble to speak of. But experience has taught them that when witches are accorded the privilege of reveling, another form of evil spirit is likely to seize the opportunity and make off with the program while the witches are gibbering in the hollow. This evil spirit, authorities assert, is known as the small boy. It is peculiarly elusive, destructive to property and irritating to fat policemen. If it were only the witches who had to be kept in hand, Hallowe'en pinochle games might go on undisturbed in every fire station in town.

There are many who will tell you that Hallowe'en mischief isn't anything like it used to be in the golden long ago when the morning of November 1 would find a cow and calf stabled in the school house; that like hazing in colleges, buggy riding and family prayers, it is slipping and pretty soon will pass out altogether. But search of police records fails to show evidence that this is true. It is necessary to go back no farther than last year to find mention of 20 false fire alarms, of fences pulled down, windows broken, automobile tires deflated and innumerable telephone poles and trees decorated with porch chairs and garbage cans. So unless all signs fail, householders will have the same thing to contend with this year and the next and the next in spite of police warnings and school room appeals for a safe and sane Hallowe'en.

It seems probable that Hallowe'en revelry has been going on a bit too long to be seriously interrupted now by the expedient of putting the entire police force on duty at 8 p. m. on October 31. The small boy will still find a way to carry off a front gate now and then and light a bonfire. It's a practice much older than that of hanging up stockings on Christmas Eve.

Hallowe'en, in the early days of Christianity, was known to the Church as All Hallows Eve, or the Vigil of Hallowmas, this being the evening preceding All Saints' Day. But it is clearly a relic of Pagan times, much older than Christianity. Certainly there is nothing in the church observance of the ensuing day of All Saints to have started such extraordinary notions as are connected with the Hallowe'en festival, or such strange practices as those by which it is distinguished. The Druids are supposed to have originated it. Anyway, they celebrated it, and especially the spook and goblin feature of it, hundreds of years before it had any reputed connection with saints.

The Druids celebrated Hallowe'en as a sort of autumn thanksgiving. They lighted bonfires in thanksgiving to the Sun God for the harvest. And they believed that Saman, Lord of Death, summoned all the wicked souls that within the last 12 months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. On this night of all nights they were given a holiday, a sort of picnic. In parts of Ireland the Hallowe'en celebration is still known as the "Vigil of Saman." Saman, as will have been noted, bears some resemblance to the Devil. The black cats and bats of our present day celebrations symbolize, after a fashion, the lost souls summoned for the festival. Thus, in many respects, the business of celebrating Hallowe'en still partakes of raising Hell literally just as the Druids did.

Spooks and "hants," whether their mission be for good or evil, have always been acceptable visitors to inhabitants of the earth. Human imagination demands them and if they fail to come of their own accord, inducements are offered. In their absence we impersonate them with masks and jack-o-lanterns and, since they are supposed to be waggish on Hallowe'en, we take off the front gate and put the garbage can in a tree to show our hospitality. Of course, the visiting evil spirits may not relish this mockery. They may resent having their fun stolen. But if they don't like it they can go to—well, back where they came from. On this one night when pranks are taken for granted—sometimes—the front gate comes off anyway.

Killed Herself Rather Than Face the Shame of False Arrest

Sixteen-Year-Old Gertrude Schade, Handcuffed and Led Before Her Friends, Believed She Had Been Forever Disgraced.

Shackled, she was forced to walk across the main square of the town.

By HANS LORENZ

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BERLIN.

BECAUSE Policeman Ernst May, the City Marshal of Luebben, that quaint little Spreewald town, said he had forgotten one or two of the 32,000 service regulations which a German guardian of the peace is supposed to keep constantly in mind, 16-year-old Gertrude Schade, a housemaid in the employ of the local Judge, killed herself by jumping in front of a Berlin express train. She had been wrongly accused of stealing a hundred marks (about $25) from a relative of the Judge.

The girl's innocence came to light several weeks after her death, when an investigation started by the authorities on the complaint of the girl's father, brought out the fact that the money—a 100-mark bill—had been mislaid by its owner at the time and was afterwards discovered in a satchel. The policeman was suspended from duty, but reinstated later as a result of the investigation, while the Judge, Herr Werschkull, who had originally lodged the complaint against the girl on the instigation of his wife, stepped out of office voluntarily on October 1, after it had been explained that he had been suffering from a nervous breakdown for some time. The girl's father, meanwhile, has taken an appeal against the decision reinstating the policeman, and the Prussian Supreme Court will have to decide if the officer has committed an offense and is to be ousted from office.

The dramatic elements of the tragedy threw the little town into a frenzy or horrified indignation. It was not only the arrest on a false accusation reflecting on her honesty that had caused the unfortunate girl to end her life. The cruelty of the circumstance accompanying her arrest had caused her to commit suicide from shame. The policeman had handcuffed the girl when arresting her at the Judge's house, in spite of her protestations of innocence, and had led her through the narrow streets of the old-fashioned town, where she was known to almost everybody, to the police station. He even forced her to walk across the town's main square, where, at the time, a band was playing, and half of the townspeople had assembled to listen to the concert. Handcuffed, she was led right through the crowds, the people lining up on both sides, staring at her.

Sobbing with shame, the poor girl arrived at the police station. After a futile search had been made by the police matron the girl told the officers that she would not survive the mortification of her terrible march through the town. In spite of the fact that the search of her room and of her person produced no sign of the missing bank note, the girl was detained. The same night she attempted to hang herself in her cell, tying her stockings to her neck and fastening them to the window sill. This effort was not successful, and on the next day the wretched girl was taken by the police to the nearby village of Steinkirchen, where her parents lived. There she had to undergo the same ordeal. Handcuffed, she was led to the home of her parents, the villagers crowding around the house, and a thorough search was made in the absence of the parents of the girl. This search also proving futile, the girl was taken back to Luebben and given her freedom, the police now becoming convinced that they had no case against her.

THE locality of this drama was near the Spreewald, a district in the marshes of Brandenbourg, which is known as the Venice of Germany. It is about 17 miles long and from five to seven miles mide. Over 200 arms of the River Spree pass through it, and there, along the tree-grown banks, are nestled the vine-covered, picturesque cottages of the people. Though only a few hours from the city of Berlin, with its 4,000,000 souls, the inhabitants of the Spreewald live a life that is far removed from that of a great metropolis They are not German, but Wendish, a remnant of an ancient Slav colony, who have remained faithful to their mother tongue, traditions and customs, which have been handed down for centuries. The women still dress in curious, old-fashioned costumes, stiffly starched white headdresses, lace shawls and full, vari-colored skirts. They live according to a stern and Biblical tradition.

Townspeople of Luebben.

The girl strayed about the town in her plight. Mortified from her experiences she did not dare go back to the Judge's house, nor could she very well return to the little village where she had been brought up, and where her parents on getting home would have heard from the villagers that their daughter had been there, handcuffed and in the custody of policemen. She was in a dazed condition when she entered the home of a friend, protesting once more her innocence and crying out that she would not have the courage to live on and bear forever the shame which had branded her as a thief. After writing a farewell letter to her mother she went out in the dark of the night, walked along the railroad tracks and threw herself in front of an express train from Berlin. She was instantly killed. The matter might have been hushed up if the father and the brother of the girl had not started out to establish her innocence.

A scene in the Spreewald country.

The girl's father lodged a complaint with the State's Attorney against the Judge and the policeman, stating that if nobody could be held responsible for the cruel death of his daughter he wanted at least to have her innocence brought to light by clearing the matter up and showing that she had been accused wrongly. It was found, when the State's Attorney started his investigation, that the Judge, who had taken to his home some time before the event, having suffered a nervous collapse, had called in the police on the instigation of his wife, without going much into the case himself. His wife's story that the 100-mark bill had been left on a table in the hall of the house and had disappeared from there without anybody else but the girl having access to the place, had sufficed for him to have the girl arrested. Another story, according to which the girl had been accused of having committed a similar theft once before, was not corroborated by the facts. The first material result of the investigation came when it was discovered that the hall of the Judge's house, from where the bill had disappeared, might have been entered by anybody on the day the supposed theft had been committed, because a side entrance leading to it had been left unlocked.

IN THIS way the fact was established for sure that the main foundation on which the accusation had been based was erroneous. Then the house was gone over and a thorough search made, which obviously should have been done before the arrest. And the 100-mark bill came to light. It had simply been mislaid by the woman to whom it belonged. She had forgotten all about putting it into a satchel for safekeeping and had complained to her relative, the Judge's wife, who in turn cast suspicion upon the girl and caused her husband to take action.

There was strong feeling in the little town when these facts came to light. The Judge immediately left the place, going to some hospital, where he stayed till his retirement from office on October 1. It is said he may leave the town soon, and settle with his wife at some place far away, where nothing is known of his connection with the sad happenings at Luebben.

Fate quickly overtook the policeman. There had been a complaint for alleged ruthlessness against him before, and he was immediately suspended from duty when it was found that the charges against the girl had had little foundation from the beginning. He, more than anyone, was blamed for the unfortunate outcome.

The only excuse the policeman had was that there were some 32,000 statutes and service regulations governing his conduct, and that he was unable to keep them all in mind. So, if he had transgressed on his rights of office in handling the case, it was not so much his fault as that of the machinery of the law and of red tape in the service.

The excuse helped him, and he has been reinstated meanwhile, depending on the final decision of the Supreme Court in his case. It is put forth against him that the arrest was made on very flimsy grounds, and that the handcuffing of the 16-year-old girl was not called for in any case.

But the 32,000 ordinances, decrees and police regulations do exist, and it is not likely that any policeman in Germany can keep them constantly in his mind. Some of them date back as far as the year 1446.

In stenography the test is to rewrite an exercise like that above. Accuracy is the aim; with additional credit for finishing under 20 minutes.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Dr. L. J. O'Rourke.

DEAR SIR:

"I saw your advertisement in today's paper, and should like to apply for the position.

"I have taken the United States Standard Test for Typists, and have a certificate to show that I can type better than 60 per cent of the typists now employed in your industry. You can therefore trust me from the start on important work. May I have the privilege of an interview? Very truly yours,

"MARY MARTIN."

This is the kind of letter that will probably be written in applying for a job 10 years from now if the plans of the United States Civil Service Commission and several of the largest industrial organizations are carried to successful completion. The Civil Service Commission is now working on a series of vocational tests which will be made available to all students in public high schools. The scores made by any boy or girl on these examinations will indicate to the youngster and to the parents or vocational advisers, particular aptitude for a variety of jobs.

The first series is designed to show the student's fitness for a position as stenographer. Several other series are being planned for other occupations.

When the tests have been given widely, as is planned, in high schools all over the country, anyone taking them can know exactly how he compares with thousands of his fellow students. He can estimate his own comparative chances of success in a wide choice of occupations.

But the Government research workers who are developing the plan have devised another and better basis of comparison. The same tests prepared for use in the schools will also be given to great numbers of people who are already being paid dollars and cents for their skill in industry. Almost 50 industrial concerns, employing thousands of office workers, have offered to help the government officials by giving these tests to their employes.

When all these test papers are assembled and tabulated, a score of 70 will mean much more than just "passing." It will give the person attaining it a measure of his ability on a standard scale. The employer's question, "How well can you type?" can then be answered with a definite figure, as, "I can do better than three-fourths of your employes."

Employers will be able to set definite standards for employment, and employes will be able to know just what proficiency they must attain in order to give satisfaction.

It is planned to provide for each student in the public schools a vocational guidance card listing the requirements, in terms of test scores, for a great variety of positions. When the boy compares his own scores with those given on the card, he can see for himself what his abilities will be worth to industry and can even roughly estimate his chances for employment and making good in his chosen vocation. Thus the chances will be reduced that the round peg person will try to pound himself into the square hole, and the great problem of labor turnover may be somewhat alleviated.

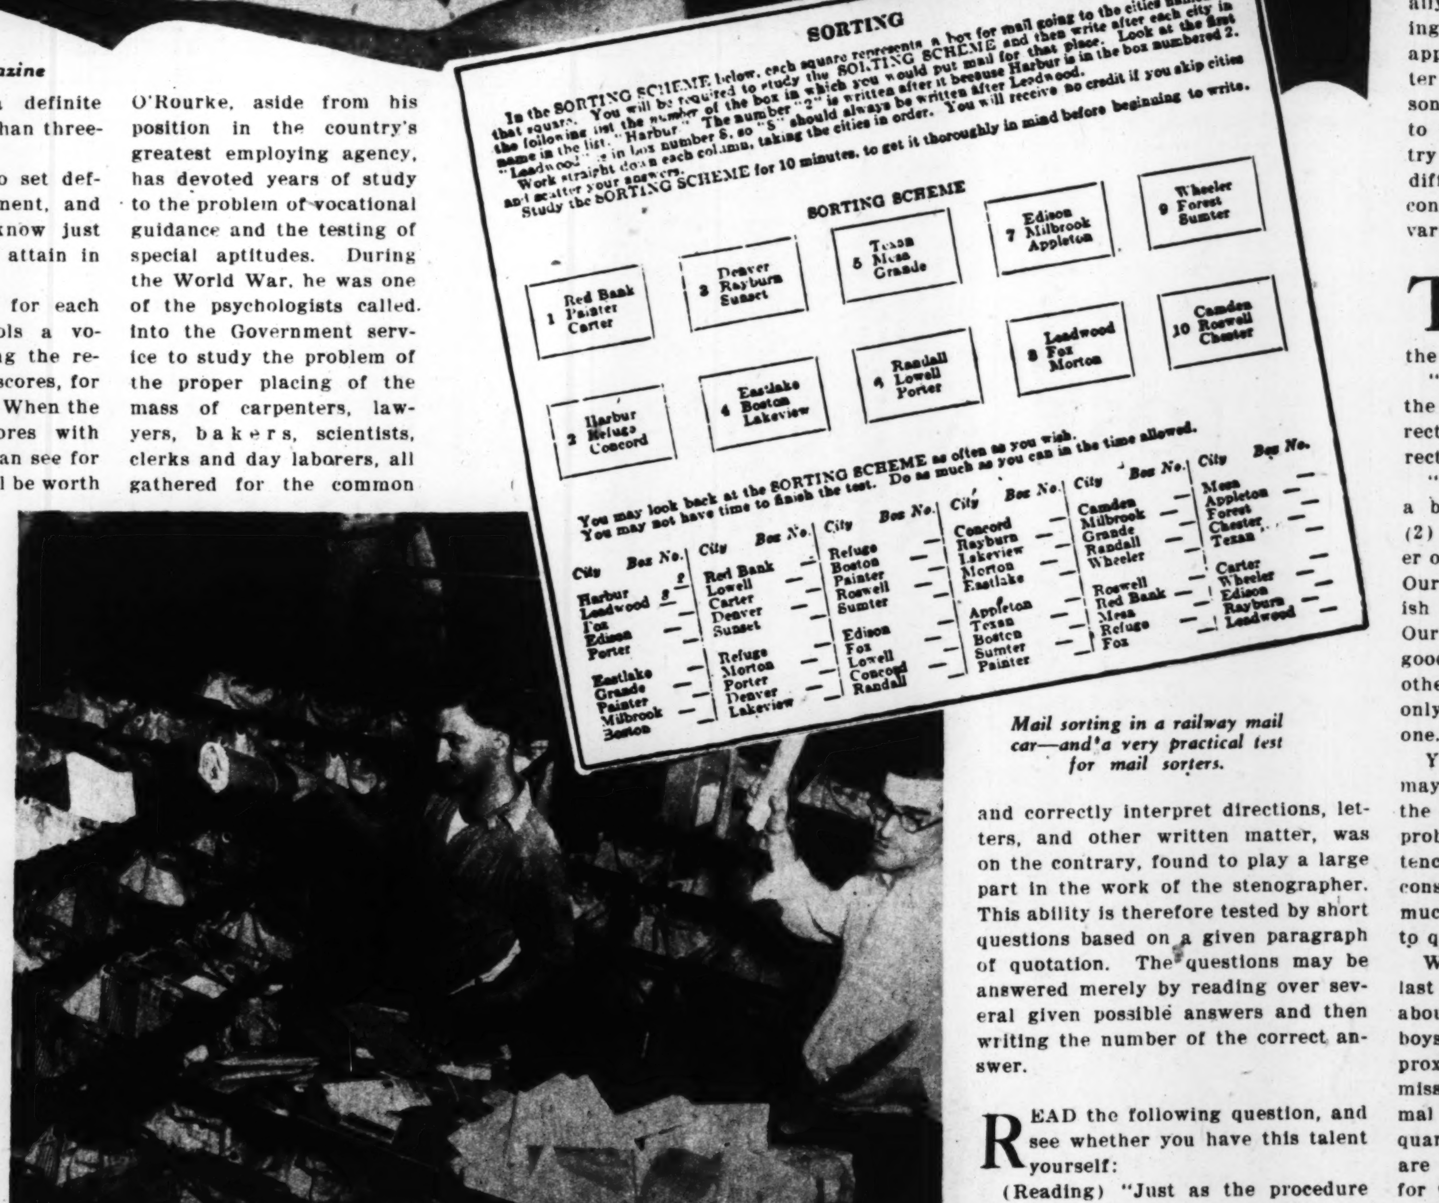
Problems in driving are worked out with small dummy autos.

This interesting approach to the unemployment problem has been worked out in the research division of the Civil Service Commission, of which Dr. L. J. O'Rourke is the director. Dr. O'Rourke, aside from his position in the country's greatest employing agency, has devoted years of study to the problem of vocational guidance and the testing of special aptitudes. During the World War, he was one of the psychologists called into the Government service to study the problem of the proper placing of the mass of carpenters, lawyers, bakers, scientists, clerks and day laborers, all gathered for the common purpose of winning the war. He is the author of a series of vocational guidance tests.



SORTING

In the SORTING SCHEME below, each square represents a box for mail going to the cities named in that square. You will be required to study the SORTING SCHEME and then write after each city in the following list the number of the box in which you would put mail for that place. Look at the first name in the list, "Harbur." The number "2" is written after it because Harbur is in the box numbered 2. "Leadwood" is in box number 8, so "8" should always be written after Leadwood.

Work straight down each column, taking the cities in order. You will receive no credit if you skip cities and scatter your answers.

Study the SORTING SCHEME for 10 minutes, to get it thoroughly in mind before beginning to write.

Mail sorting in a railway mail car—and a very practical test for mail sorters.

In the Civil Service Commission, he has been in charge of the gradual revision of the examinations given to men and women applying for positions in the Government service. The old types of examination, which tested the applicant in a stereotyped way on his knowledge of "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic" and penmanship, and inquired into his knowledge of the boundaries of the states, are giving way before the newly developed psychological examinations. These psychological examinations are designed to test not so much what the applicant has learned by rote, but more his native ability and his aptitude for the position applied for.

The new type of question to be used for the Government service, for example, represents a revolution in test procedure. It is this examination, or a modification of it, that will be given in the schools.

It is now possible for an applicant to complete the entire examination and make a good score without writing more than a half dozen words in longhand, besides those filled in on the preliminary sheets giving references, and other personal data.

If the stenographer has learned to use a shorthand writing machine for taking notes, she need only be able to write numbers and to write or print a few words in the spelling test.

Handwriting, once thought vitally important for anyone in a secretarial position, has in this machine age become so disused that it is not tested at all. The ability to read, understand, and correctly interpret directions, letters, and other written matter, was on the contrary, found to play a large part in the work of the stenographer. This ability is therefore tested by short questions based on a given paragraph of quotation. The questions may be answered merely by reading over several given possible answers and then writing the number of the correct answer.

READ the following question, and see whether you have this talent yourself:

(Reading) "Just as the procedure of a collection department must be clear-cut and definite, the steps being taken with the sureness of a skilled chess player, so the various paragraphs of a collection letter must show clear organization, giving evidence of a mind that, from the beginning, has had a specific end in view."

According to the statement, which of the following should be true of a collection letter? It should (1) show a spirit of sportsmanship; (2) always be divided into several paragraphs; (3) express confidence in the debtor; (4) be brief, but courteous; (5) be carefully planned.

The correct answer is "5."

That "most uncommon sense, common sense," is another quality demanded today of the stenographer. Yet the employer's admonition to "Use your head" is futile, unless he has had the forethought to select a girl or boy with a native supply of good judgment. The Civil Service Commission has developed questions which test judgment. Here is a sample:

"Which of the following is the chief value of a good mimeographing machine in an office? (1) It affords a quick way of getting out form letters. (2) It gives the 'personal touch' to each letter. (3) It is not so large as the multigraph. (4) It gives the office a businesslike appearance. (5) Mimeographed matter is more effective than typed or printed matter."

The correct answer is "1."

The stenographer's ability to use words correctly is indicated by her answers to questions of this type:

"FEASIBLE means most nearly (1) capable, (2) practicable, (3) justifiable, (4) beneficial, (5) reliable."

One of the most interesting additions to the new type of examination is the test of grammar. It used to be that ability in grammar was usually tested only through a letter-writing or composition test. In this the applicant was required to write a letter or composition. Since no two persons taking the examination would try to use the same construction or even try to express the same thought, the difficulty of the grammatical problems confronted by the different individuals varied extremely.

THE new examination for stenographer and typist gives the same problem to each person taking the test. Test yourself on this sample:

"Only one of the five sentences in the next item is grammatically correct. Write the number of the correct sentence on the line at the right.

"(1) Our process not only insures a better, but also a cheaper finish. (2) A better finish, as well as a cheaper one, are insured by our process. (3) Our process insures an inexpensive finish that can't hardly be marred. (4) Our process insures a finish that is as good, as well as cheaper than any other. (5) Our process insures not only a better finish, but also a cheaper one."

Your memory of grammatical rules may be rusty, but if you have formed the habit of correct speech you would probably select "5" as the best sentence. The Government experts now consider that knowing what is right is much more important than being able to quote rules.

When the public high schools closed last spring, diplomas were presented to about half a million young American boys and girls. Of this number, approximately 43 per cent applied for admission this fall to colleges and normal schools. The others—nearly a quarter of a million young people—are for the most part searching for their own niches in our great industrial system.

How to steer the course of this small army of would-be workers so that they may be of the greatest possible, economic usefulness to themselves and the community as a whole; so that they need not push older workers out of employment in the crowded vocations, and so that they can attain the maximum of happiness and success—this is a problem of rapidly increasing importance.

And the Government's interest in its young people's success in securing the right job is not content alone with this plan for vocational guidance. Although the fact is not very widely known, the Government operates an employment service, with a junior division, which has as its sole purpose the giving of aid to young people between the minimum legal working age and the age of 21 years who are looking for employment. The problem is being approached scientifically.

LIVED HIS LIFE IN AGONY TO AID SCIENCE

Dr. Leonard Portal Mark.

When Dr. Leonard Portal Mark Discovered That He Was Stricken With an Unusual Disease, He Turned His Body Into a Laboratory for Observation.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LONDON.

WHEN Dr. Leonard Portal Mark, a London physician learned that he had that strange and painful disease, acromegaly, for which no cure was known, he did not resign himself to invalidism or seek in suicide an escape from suffering. He resolved to live as long as possible, though life was agony; to learn as much about the disease as he could from study of his own case, and to put this information at the service of humanity.

Dr. Mark endured his suffering for 49 years altogether. From the time that he diagnosed his ailment correctly he made careful records of the effects of the disease, describing his symptoms, having photographs made to show the visible changes in his body. And when he died, not long ago, these records, and his body as well, went to St. Bartholomew's Hospital by the terms of his will, that medical science might be aided to this extent in fighting the fearsome malady.

Acromegaly, a term derived from two Greek words meaning "ends" and "big," is a disease which causes enlargement of the hands and feet, alteration of the bones of the head, severe headaches and other distresses, and may affect the eyesight. It is attributed to improper functioning of the pituitary gland.

Dr. Mark's hands and feet grew to enormous size. His hats became too small for him. He was seldom free from pain, particularly headaches, and near the end of his life he was scarcely able to stand. His eyes watered. Tunes kept running maddeningly through his mind.

But he steadfastly kept at the labor which he had adopted as his life work — the accumulation of data about his affliction. When his swollen hands would not permit him to write he dictated his notes. His diary forms not only a scientific record but a story of human fortitude.

He had had acromegaly a long time before he realized what it was, the doctor's diary discloses, despite the fact that "each day when I looked in the glass there was a typical acromegalic staring me in the face." The record continues:

"I am sure that I began to suffer from acromegaly when I was 24 years old, and that some queer feelings I had in my left ear must have been the first symptoms of it. The notes of a piano appeared to be double and gave me the idea that they might be coming through a metal tube.

"During the next two or three years, when I was holding resident appointments in different hospitals, I experienced various symptoms which at the time I tried to account for in every possible way but the right one.

"A peculiar feeling in the head, also a strange malaise which I called 'my fever.' I would feel quite cold, unable to fix my attention properly on anything, and rather giddy; and my eyes would become red and suffused with tears.

"I got the notion that the trouble might be due to gout. I left off drinking ale and stout, but the queer feelings went on just the same, and I felt rather like the old gentleman in 'Little Toddlekins,' who complained that his indigestion was brought on just as much by whatever he did eat as by whatever he did not.

". . . Faceache is now my most persistent trouble. Its most marked peculiarity is its constancy to the left side, and it produces such fantasies as that the left half of my head has gone to sleep; that the left eye is being pressed upon or pushed back into the socket and that a huge crab is clawing hold of me on that side. . . . After a bad attack I have perceived a sort of snap or click in my head, and the pain has gone for a time.

"I have now been subject to headaches for 23 or 24 years, and have hardly passed a day during this period without one. . . . The popular expression, a 'splitting headache,' is most appropriate, and if there was then any pushing apart or splitting asunder of some of the bones at the base of the skull it is literally correct.

"At this point I also suffered from indigestion, and Freeman (a medical friend) one day remarked that I had such a funny way of chewing my food. . . . It must have been when my lower jaw began growing . . . when it was becoming underhung.

"My power of whistling disappeared at about this time, and I got into a state of despair . . . never feeling well. Trouble with faceache, nasal catarrh, indigestion and sore eyes.

"Then came influenza, from which I never seemed able to pick up. . . . I remember being much impressed by an uncle's remark that my lace looked drawn and 'crow's footy.'

". . . My eyes have been a constant source of trouble for many years. Several times an hour large tears overflow from my eyelids and course down my cheeks onto my clothing, unless I catch them with my handkerchief.

"If my mustache, once an important feature, is now so grizzled and scanty, it is no doubt because the tears have come to the aid of time, and by their flow have soaked and rotted the roots of the hairs and caused them to drop out.

"For many months I suffered terrible discomfort from having to wear glasses. It would hardly be exact to say that I was living just then in a fool's paradise, because I was undergoing a good deal of torture, but I was buoyed up by the hope that I would soon be well. But, alas! it was a delusion. I had little idea that there was anything back of it but astigmatism.

"My nasal troubles started at the age of 30, and I would catch cold three or four times a week. . . .

"For many years I have had noises in the head, first a continual seething sound like a kettle boiling; secondly, a medley of sounds like the effervescence of a seidlitz powder, and, thirdly, a sharp, shrill noise. . . . Lately there has always been some tune running in my head. This singular obsession is a kind of melodic malady. It never leaves off. . . . Often it is but a fragment or a few phrases of a tune I am familiar with, but it is generally one quite independent of my choice.

". . . The physical changes were insidious. At 20 I was favored with a small, well-shaped hand. I then wore gloves of a size marked seven and a half. I was 35 when I began to notice my gloves were always too small and it was always a source of wonderment how kid gloves lying in a drawer could shrink so much. Finally I took size 11, and, never having been cured of the habit of going about with my hands in my trousers pockets, had to get the openings made larger to get my hand in.

"I have had many proofs of the increase in the size of my feet, both in the numerous boots and shoes I have had to discard and in the altercations which have arisen with shoemakers.

". . . One year I went to Switzerland with a well-fitting pair of mountaineering boots. Two years later I went again, and congratulated myself that I would be able to walk in comfort in boots that had been properly 'broken in.' But after a few days it dawned on me that these same boots were now too short for my feet.

"MANY a time when resting on the mountain side did I scrutinize those boots, wondering what changes could have taken place in the leather while lying by for two years, seeking for any explanation but the obvious one—that my feet had grown longer during that time.

". . . I was now definitely presenting all the symptoms of giantism about the extremities and the head.

". . . I have also had at different times to discard my hats, which have 'grown too small' or too tight. . . . Once, when there was a rage for Panamas I was assured that the one I bought would last for several seasons, but the following year, in spite of stretching and reblocking, I found I could no longer wear it."

Dr. Mark's discovery of the fact that he was suffering from the disease was made while he was walking one day across Cavendish Square. He recalled that a group of medical friends seemed to have him under discussion as he bade them adieu.

"All at once," he says, "the idea seized hold of my mind that I might be suffering from acromegaly. . . . It came upon me like a bolt from the blue.

"When I got home I looked into a textbook on pathology and what was a suspicion was confirmed. I was exceedingly annoyed with myself for not having made the discovery sooner, and felt I must be branded as an ignoramus for not knowing more about acromegaly, even though it was the rarest of diseases."

LOST A HUSBAND BUT GAINED A FATHER IN A HOLDUP

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LOS ANGELES.

THROUGH a holdup, Mrs. Ruby Scaggs of Tulsa, Oklahoma, has lost her husband but found her father.

It had been 17 years since she had seen her father, Joshua Woolridge. When she was 2 years old Woolridge and his wife had separated. He had gone West, and Ruby had stayed in Oklahoma with her mother. Her parents lost trace of each other as the years passed. Ruby grew up and married Edwin J. Scaggs. Nearly two years ago a son was born to them.

Prosperity eluded the Scaggses, and they decided to try their luck in California. Early in September, this year, they started from Tulsa in an automobile. The baby was with them, of course, and Roland Saunders, a friend of Scaggs, made a fourth member of the party.

They didn't have much money when they set out, and by the time the travelers reached Newhall, California, 30 miles from Los Angeles, they were virtually penniless. The situation was discussed as they ate a sketchy supper, and it was agreed that earnest efforts to raise money were in order. The men set out, ostensibly to look for work—any sort of a job that would yield a few dollars—Mrs. Scaggs later related. She and the little boy, Jackie, sat in the car while they waited for the others to return. Tired by the day's travel, the woman and the child fell asleep.

A shot awakened Mrs. Scaggs. She saw her husband at the wheel and Saunders beside him. In a moment they were speeding away—speeding as if in flight.

"What's the matter? Why are we hurrying so?" the woman asked in alarm. And presently, when the town of Newhall was well behind them, Scaggs explained. He told her, she afterward reported, that he and Saunders had held up a gasoline filling station and obtained $21; that when they reached the automobile the pistol which Saunders carried was accidentally discharged, the bullet wounding Scaggs slightly in the foot.

The car sped on to Santa Monica, where the travelers from Oklahoma stopped for the night in a tourist camp. Mrs. Scaggs upbraided her husband for the holdup and told him if he was going to be a robber she would not live with him. They quarreled bitterly.

The next day Scaggs and Saunders had disappeared. Mrs. Scaggs, stranded with Jackie, told her story to officers. In the course of the questioning that followed, she was asked, as a routine matter, what her father's name was.

"Joshua Woolridge," she answered.

One of the officers grinned. "That's a funny thing," he said. "There's a fellow named Joshua Woolridge works at that gas station in Newhall—the one that was held up."

Mrs. Scaggs and Woolridge were brought together. It didn't take them long to satisfy themselves that they really were father and daughter, reunited after 17 years. A search for Scaggs got under way. And his wife and son took up their residence in her father's home.

A St. Louis Architect's IMPROMPTU FLIGHT on the GRAF ZEPPELIN

William D. Crowell Records His Impressions of the Trip He and Walter Schnaider Made From Friedrichshafen To Moscow and Return.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT IS William D. Crowell, the St. Louis architect, who describes the experience. He is voyaging on the Graf Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen to Moscow and recording his impressions as he flies.

". . . Now we are passing over Prussia. There are villages all around us. We can count at least 50. We see woods and perfectly cultivated fields. 'There is a deer,' someone shouts. 'See that brown streak darting through the brush?' Over yonder a dog is chasing a rabbit. Below is a flock of pheasants. We see everything clearly. We have the point of view of an eagle seeking its prey and now we can understand how easy it is for an eagle to be sharp-eyed. . . ."

With Crowell is Walter Schnaider, another St. Louisan. It's a novel experience—this flight on the Graf Zeppelin. Except Clarence Terhune, who stowed away on the ship's first return voyage from this country, Crowell and Schnaider are the only St. Louisans who have ever ridden it. They didn't know they were going to ride it until a few hours before the dirigible started on its visit to the Soviet capital. The opportunity came suddenly. "I'll probably never get another opportunity to record impressions from the Graf Zeppelin," Crowell says to himself, "so I'll make the most of this one." Accordingly, he is writing down what he sees.

". . . We are in a storm. Nothing is visible but a white mist, for we are going through the clouds. We are flying blind. Everything is done by the instruments. The passengers are serious, but no one seems nervous. There is a feeling of security on this 750-foot giant of the air. At times there is not a movement. Then there will come an easy roll like that of an ocean liner. It is soothing. . . .

". . . It is morning and we are over Russia. What a change in the landscape below! Here is a vast rolling country, damp and soggy. Now and then one sees a cultivated patch; here and there a farm home of thatched roof and rough boards, badly made. The rest is swamp, woods, fir, cedar and poplar. The roads are primitive, muddy wagon trails. What a change from Germany! It reminds me of what I have seen in Northern Canada. Someone fired on us during the night, we are told. One bullet punctured a water ballast tank. An ignorant peasant, maybe. Such things often happen. . . ."

Thus runs Crowell's 7000-word journal of his flight with Dr. Eckener from Friedrichshafen to Moscow and back—3000 miles. The flight was begun on the morning of September 9 and by noon of September 11 the craft was back at Friedrichshafen safe and sound. Bringing home his journal and a vivid memory of the Zeppelin mode of travel, Crowell returned to this country early this month.

"We had never given a Zeppelin a thought until we arrived at Baden Baden," he explains. "We were motoring from Paris to Germany and had no very definite objective. But at Baden Baden we heard the Graf Zeppelin was making periodic trips from Friedrichshafen, her home port. We decided to go to Friedrichshafen and have a look. The trip through the Black Forest would be worth while.

"Arriving at Friedrichshafen at 5 in the afternoon we learned the Zeppelin was to leave for Moscow at 8 a. m. the following day. A week later she would fly over Switzerland to Geneva and back. We couldn't agree on which trip to take and so left to think it over. We dined and walked. All evening the trip was our sole topic of conversation.

"At 10:30 p. m. we were sipping our brandy at the Kurgarten Hotel, the headquarters of all prospective Zeppelin travelers. We saw the Moscow passengers discussing various phases of the trip with the Hamburg-American Line agent, who was in charge. 'Is it too late to go now?' we asked each other. 'What do you say?'

"IT'S all settled now, for we have seen the agent," the journal reads. "He in turn has seen the Russian official who has the yes and no authority. We're off for Moscow in the morning. . .

"Up we go to pack. What shall we wear? Will it be cold? How much baggage are we allowed to have? A thousand thoughts fill our minds. . . . We can't sleep. We're excited, thrilled and have a thousand misgivings. . . .

"A quick breakfast and it seemed no time before we were entering the airship inside the hangar. We have just time enough to walk its length and back. We are so impressed that all sense of fear disappears. We never shall forget that impression of the Zeppelin's astounding size. . . .

"And now we are moving out with great cables holding us to guide rails. We stop, cables are released and pulled aboard while 60 or more men hold us down. Hundreds of people have come from somewhere, and all seem envious. We lean out of our windows to see everything. A snappy looking young woman is taking a picture. 'Don't show it to Scotland Yard,' shouts an English voice. 'Cheerio,' replies the Miss, who happened to be Lady Drummond Hay of Zeppelin fame. A cloud of water falls from the side of the ship and several people on the ground are soaked. An officer gives the command and the men all let go. Up we move slowly. The motors are now started and with a roar we glide smoothly forward over the great Bodensee, an enormous lake half a mile away. We circle and pass directly over our hotel, on the edge of the lake, and head northeast. . . . We're off for Moscow now.

". . . We are approximately 500 feet off the ground and have kept this altitude for hours. . . . What a gorgeous panorama unfolds before us! Whoever thought we would take a trip on the Graf? It's as much a surprise to us as it will be to our friends back home. We had no thought of this nine hours before we started, yet here we are in the air, soaring at 65 miles an hour over towns, cities, swamps and lakes. And the funny part of it is, we have not even paid for our passage. We couldn't pay. We were unprepared, had no money and no time to get it. 'We'll pay you when we return,' we told the agent, and the agent said 'O K.' Can we ride through the streets of Moscow? Can we get close to these Bolsheviks we have read so much about? There's a babel of tongues. We are all asking the same question. There are 21 passengers in all—Germans, English, Americans, Dutch and Russians. . . .

"We are passing over Fuerstenwalde. It is just another of those beautiful and interesting German cities where every building has a red-tiled roof, where the streets are clean and there are no slums. The architecture is full of quaint and wholesome interest. We like old Germany. They were thorough and artistic. . . .

"For 20 hours we have been passing over the most beautiful country imaginable and the most perfectly cultivated. Woods are so thick and well groomed that we are amazed. At times we can scan 10,000 square miles of the earth's surface with just one turn of the head.

"So far, we have passed over Ulm, Nuremberg, Zwickan and Chemnitz. Everybody stops to wave. Business comes to a standstill. Pupils rush out of schools, yelling in a frenzy. Apparently there is no lack of interest in this giant of the air.

"On and on we go, now only 300 feet above the ground and again a thousand, all depending on the contour of the earth's surface, for we move in a straight line. At times we see the eyes of the farmers staring up. The land, cultivated in patches, is like a crazy quilt of colors. Rivers, marshes and canals twist snake-like beneath us. . . .

"We have just come from the chart and control rooms forward of the main saloon. We are allowed to visit it in groups of three. Dr. Eckener sits two feet away peering out of a window. Now he walks to the other side. He says nothing, but Captain Lehman, in charge, answers all our foolish questions. Rain pounds incessantly on the glass, for we are in a storm. We can see only the white mist outside.

"Bang! There is an explosion. We look at Captain Lehman with apprehension. Again, and a third time it occurs. He smiles and explains it is one of the most interesting pieces of mechanism. We are checking the altitude. We fire off a gun on the bottom of the craft and note the time it takes for the echo to return. We know the speed of sound in the air, so there we have the altitude.

"We are through the storm now and the Zeppelin is perfectly steady. The five motors produce a drone that is restful. It is so mild that it does not interfere in any way with the quietest conversation. The finest express train is a jouncing rattle-trap compared to this mode of travel. There is neither dust nor smoke. We wonder if it is a commercial success and ask Captain von Schiller. He tells us it is paying handsomely. . . .

"NOW we are passing over the German side of the River Netze which forms part of the boundary between Germany and Poland. This is the first trip the Graf has made to Moscow. Dr. Eckner promised the Russian officials he would come to Russia's new capital a year ago. The weather was bad and he didn't go. But he went to Poland. The Russians got sore and now that he is going to Russia the Poles are sore and we are not allowed to cross over Poland. We must go to the Northeast of Germany, cross the neutral Polish corridor at a given point and enter Russia over a specified city. The Poles think the Germans are getting too familiar with Russia. . . .

"We have just crossed the border into the Polish corridor. We are told it is 50 miles wide and separates East Prussia from Germany proper. Before the Versailles treaty it belonged to Germany. Now it cuts Germany in two. We all discuss and settle the affairs of nations as regular tourists are wont to do, and we decide this corridor will eventually be a bone of contention. What a change in the landscape below. Instead of nine-tenths, only one-fifth is cultivated now. The rest is swamp and woods. . . . It is now 6 p. m. and we have just crossed the river Weischel in East Prussia and the quaint old town of Marianberg is below. We remark on the beauty of a fairy-like castle we see and are told it is one of the old Teutonic landmarks that make this city famous. The setting sun brings out everything in relief, and as usual everybody stops and waves.

"The sun has gone below the horizon now and the Baltic sea ahead reflects the twilight glow. Lights appear in the villages. It is a beautiful and mysterious sight. Lighted steamers and fishing craft leave their trail on the calm 'Fischers Haff.' . . .

"We are dining and chatting and all seem oblivious to the fact that we are shooting through space in a canvas bag. . . . We are passing over Koenigsberg, the steward says, and we all rush to the windows. What a sight! A great sea of flickering lights. A city of 300,000. We see the brilliantly lighted shops and the people in the

THE SEVENTH VOTE

By

LEO F. CREAGAN

Colonel J. Randolph Symington, president and owner of a single qualifying share of stock of the Middle Bijou Railroad, strolled into the main waiting room of the Morgan City Union Station that April morning with a song in his heart and a dividend on his lips. Attired in spotless white from trim feet to the wide brim of his specially made straw hat, his tall, erect figure and the free swing of stick and stride proclaimed him a Southern gentleman of importance. A red rosebud in the lapel of his coat lent the single touch of color to his dress. Only for the whiteness of his mustache and the long hair that shimmered gently below his hat brim he might have passed for a man of half his years.

At the cigar counter he stopped to fill his case and to exchange a cheery greeting with the young woman who served him. The Colonel started toward the elevator that was to carry him to the eighth floor where his offices were located; and it happened at the elevator entrance, the incident which was to change the entire traffic arrangement of the Middle Bijou Railroad. For it is no light matter to ruffle the temper of a Southern railroad president, even if his railroad is listed among the short lines of the South.

Hat in hand he stood while the elevator filled with a bevy of chattering girls, clerks in his own office.

"Jis' room fo' you,' Cun'l," the Negro pilot beamed, "push back in de car, ladies, please. Make er lil room fo' de Cun'l."

The president was about to enter the car when the towering bulk of Stationmaster Concannon elbowed him aside.

"Up, Jim," the uniformed official snapped as he pulled the cage door sharply. "Got to get a ticket fixed. Holding a train!"

The president stood and watched the car whisk upward. After it there floated a hot curse and a bitter promise that a certain stationmaster would pay for his insolence before any other business was transacted that day.

In his office Colonel Symington pressed a certain button on his desk. For some years he had been pressing that button when he wanted anything done. It was worn quite smooth.

"Miss Mollie," he began without his usual morning greeting, "I wish you'd dismiss that impudent dog of a stationmaster—what's his name, Concannon?"

"NOT Mr. Concannon." The young woman passed a nervous hand through her bobbed brown hair. "You can't mean him, Colonel!"

"I do," he snapped. "He was rude to me and I desire you dismiss"——

"But, Colonel," Mollie objected, "we can't discharge Mr. Concannon. He's employed by the Terminal Company, by Mr. Fishback."

"Send for Fishback," he commanded.

"We can't do that either. Mr. Fishback is out of town, on his vacation."

"Then for whoever is acting in his place," he said impatiently.

"Mr. Concannon is acting general manager himself," Mollie said.

Colonel Symington thought he detected a touch of triumph in his secretary's tones. It made him furious.

"What, that uncouth person acting as general manager of this station!" he eyed her accusingly.

"We received a notice to that effect."

"And we can't fire him, or have it done?" he cried in dismay.

"No, I don't believe we can reach him, Colonel."

Colonel Symington always cursed softly when he felt moved to profanity in the presence of ladies. He did so now. It was a bitter moment, this realization that he must accept an insult from an employe of another company and be cheated of the satisfaction of having the offender's pay stopped. For a brief space he was silent.

"When is the election of Terminal officers?" came finally.

Mollie wrinkled her high white brow in deep thought.

"In about a month," she replied.

The president thought he noted a slight coldness in her voice and he threw her a sharp glance of suspicion. It couldn't be that she approved of the fellow's actions; that her sympathy was with the man who had been rude to her employer. Slowly he reached for a match and as he permitted his gaze to follow the lazy drift of smoke toward the open window he wondered if by any chance his capable secretary could have any interest in the stationmaster.

The Morgan City Terminal Company is a corporation made up of the terminal ends of the seven railroads entering Morgan City. Its property includes the union station and the yard tracks which like giant spider webs led in several directions out of the city. Management of the station company is vested in a general manager who is elected at the annual meeting by the votes of the seven executives whose railroads use the terminal. In the six years since its organization six general managers had held office, each for but a single term. Just why some of these men did not choose to run for a second term may never be told. Truth of the matter is there appeared to be considerable political jugglery in connection with the job, jugglery which annually resolved itself into a bitter tug of war between the two factions made up each of three executives and known respectively as the North crowd and the South crowd.

The North crowd, fighting desperately for traffic, feared and envied each other and voted together for the same reasons. The South group, suspicious and traffic hungry, courteously knifed each other in and out of season. Not caring for the North group for sentimental reasons, they defied them with their three votes on the first Monday of each May. The seventh, and deciding, vote was cast each year by Colonel Symington of the Middle Bijou road, a man of sterling character, one who would not line up with either faction.

The animosity existing between the two groups created a pretty situation for the president of the M. B. road. Back in 1918, after a certain traffic understanding had been agreed upon, he voted for the first time with the North crowd. True he would not publicly associate with them but in the Colonel's astute mind business and social affairs had nothing in common. At the following election, a year later, he surprised some of his brother executives by voting with the South group. In passing it may be remarked that he exacted from the South crowd, as he had from the other, a sizeable chunk of diverted freight and passenger traffic for this courtesy. With the new traffic, plus some of the old business from the North, which in some unfathomable manner he continued to hold, the M. B. road made a splendid showing.

Thus it will be seen that the situation as it existed spelled the difference between starvation and opulence for the M. B. line, and the Colonel was wont to chuckle and tell himself that if the two silly factions could afford to fight each other at the cost of much profitable traffic, his was not the railroad to put an embargo on their offerings. Besides, this bartering of his vote to the highest bidder—he would have cursed bitterly at such a crude term — rendered it unnecessary for him to maintain an expensive traffic department.

And now, his dignity outraged by the insulting thoughtlessness of Stationmaster Concannon, and not a little bit disappointed at Mollie's attitude in the matter, he set about to imperil future dividends to gain some private revenge.

For several days he had been speaking sharply to Mollie and regretting his words as soon as they had been uttered. Not that she didn't deserve sharp words for her failure to help him think of a plan to get rid of Concannon.

Then the plan came to him unaided, and he chuckled and slapped his knee in delight.

"I'm going to elect a general manager today," he paused at Mollie's desk to say, "one with stamina enough to fire that arrogant fellow, Concannon."

Mollie smiled prettily.

"I wish you success, Colonel," she remarked, "but I don't believe it can be done."

"WELL, you've some things to learn about railroading." He gave her a fatherly smile. "Just wait and see."

The annual meeting moved with the precision of a well-oiled machine. When the order of business reached that of electing a general manager, Colonel Symington stood up and announced he had something to say.

"I've been a good fellow for six years," he glanced into a group of questioning faces. "I've played a disinterested part in the factional bickering which you gentlemen seem to enjoy so"——

"Disinterested, my eye!" snorted Gibson of the North group. "You've only held us up and made us like it!"

"Tut, tut, Mr. Gibson," the Colonel frowned, "I've only cast my ballot when you gentlemen were hopelessly deadlocked. Haven't I elected your man on three occasions?"

"You surely have, Colonel," Marsh, of the other faction, shouted. "So now it's"——

"And I've also elected your man the same number of times, haven't I, Mr. Marsh?" he interrupted.

"Yes, but"——

"Then I think the time has arrived for you gentlemen to reciprocate, to join with me and elect my man," he smiled.

"But, Colonel," cried Marsh, "it's our turn, and we're ready to"——

"Pardon me, Mr. Marsh," the Colonel struck a haughty pose, "but am I to be considered an outsider in this terminal arrangement? If I am, I shall withdraw my trains from this station. It might interest you to know that I have acquired an interest in the property at Center street. With slight alterations to the main building there, and a little trackage, I could convert that site into a most serviceable station for passenger trains.

There was a moment's silence, then the executives formed what is known in football terminology as a huddle. Colonel Symington strode to an opened window and appeared to be wholly absorbed in the activities of the busy terminal yard.

"He can't be permitted to withdraw from the terminal, someone whispered huskily. "That uptown location would hurt all of us. Ten minutes. Half an hour. Then Marsh called to the Colonel.

"If we elect your man, will you agree to stay in the terminal?"

"Certainly, sir," the Colonel replied, "that is to say, if you gentlemen will make the election unanimous."

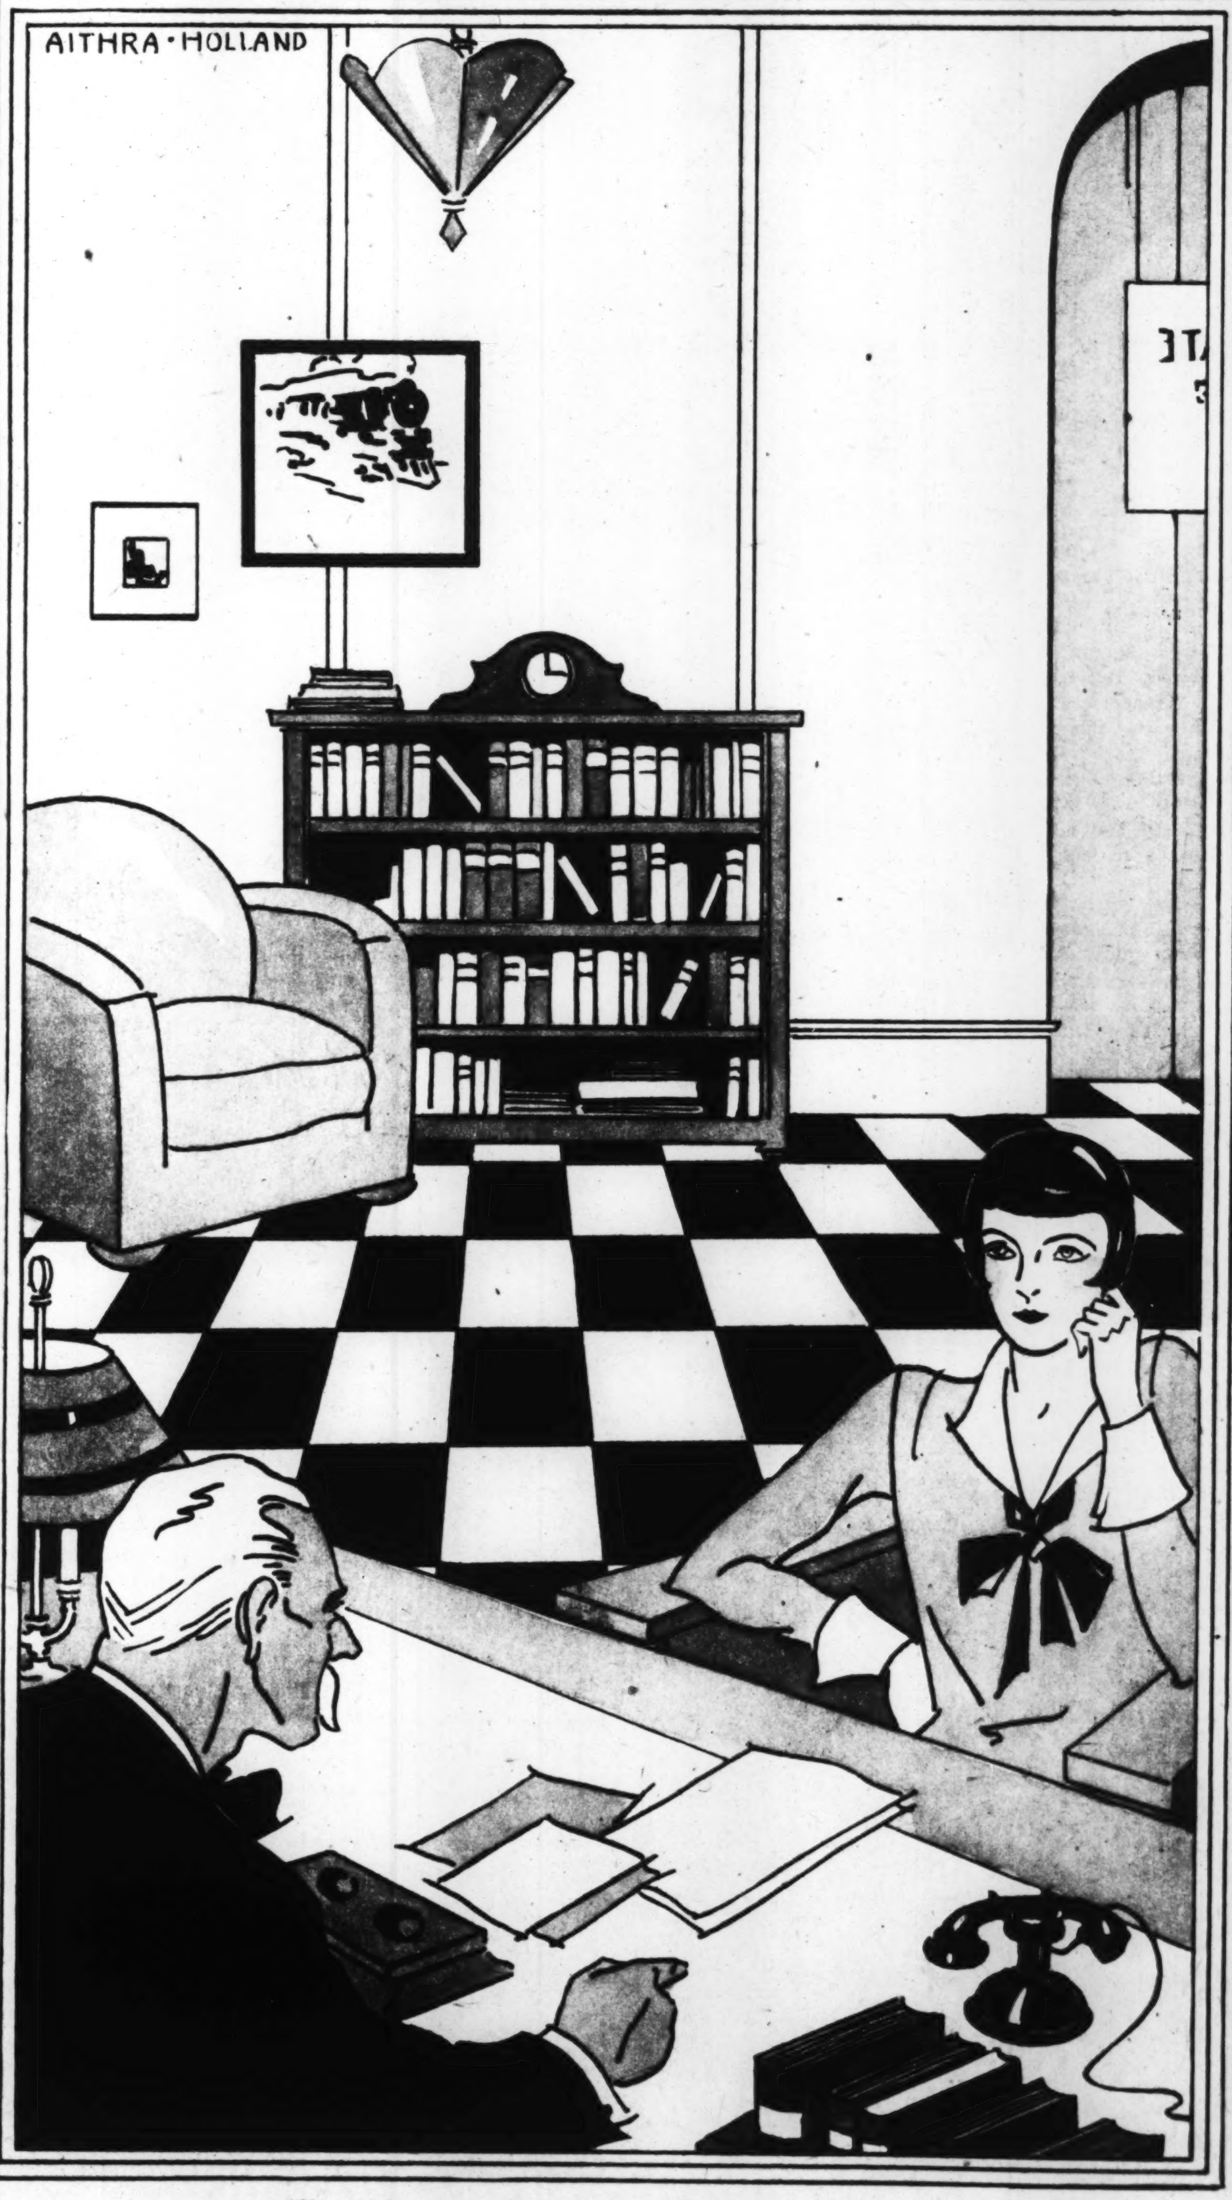
"All right," Marsh said, "nominate your man."

WITH the dignity of one about to name a candidate for the highest office in the land, Colonel Symington offered the name of M. B. Cavanaugh for the position of general manager of Morgan City's terminal company. Without enthusiasm the votes were cast and Cavanaugh was declared elected. Colonel Symington reached for a telephone instrument and gave a number.

"Come down to room 326 at once, please," he instructed.

The railway officials sat in expectant silence until the door opened to admit Colonel Symington's secretary.

"Gentlemen," the Colonel bowed first to his colleagues and then to the young woman, "I take pleasure in introducing Miss Mollie B. Cavanaugh, whom you have so wisely and so recently elected general manager of the terminal company."



"You think you're mighty all-fired cute, don't you, Miss Mollie."

For a brief moment there was an awkward silence. All eyes were upon Mollie, who had joined her employer where he stood at the end of the table. She swept the group of surprised men with an embarrassed look and giggled nervously.

"You don't mean you've elected me?" she questioned.

"I'm not in the habit of joking during board meetings," Colonel Symington reminded her severely.

Mr. Marsh rose gallantly to the occasion.

"I believe our action here this morning," he began, "makes women's rights practically unanimous. I move we give this young woman a vote of confidence—by standing up."

The men scrambled to their feet. Mollie stood flushed and smiling.

"A little more dignity, Miss Mollie," whispered Colonel Symington angrily. "This is no occasion for levity."

"It is for me," she giggled, "when I remember you told me you were going to elect a man to fire Jim—or Mr. Concannon."

During the interim following her election and the assuming of office in May, Colonel Symington's triumphant bearing slowly gave way to an air of apprehensive surprise. Misgivings came within a fortnight following the board meeting. For in the face of increasing traffic throughout the South his passenger and tonnage sheets indicated a marked decline in revenues.

The president of the Middle Bijou Railway could not understand how such a condition could exist; he was certain there must be some frightful error in the accounting. The auditor came and verified the president's worst suspicions; six railway lines were sending their traffic via routes other than the Middle Bijou.

When Colonel Symington saw the situation in all of its ugliness he cursed feelingly and curtly ordered Marsh and Gibson and the rest of the presidents of half a dozen railroads to report at his office at once. When they failed to appear he cursed piteously and stormed his way to their offices.

"The harvest days are over, Colonel," Marsh grinned. "You know you can't eat your tonnage and have it too."

"I gad, sir, what do you mean?"

"I mean—and you know as well as I—that in the past we gave you that traffic for—er—a consideration. We didn't get your vote this year, so we owe you nothing. Perhaps another year"——

"I gad, sir, I'll pull out of the terminal!" the Colonel shouted.

"No, you won't do that, Colonel," Marsh's face softened. "You never go back on a promise."

Colonel Symington drew himself from his chair.

"Very well, sir," he remarked coldly, "I'll stay in as I promised, but mark my words, Marsh, I'll find a way to bring you and your band of scalawags to your knees in my private office."

TO THE six railway executives who were punishing the Colonel for his obstinacy the situation was quite amusing. But for the unhappy president of the impoverished line the future was something bitter to contemplate.

When General Manager Cavanaugh arrived at her office on the morning of May 1 she found that chivalry or other causes had moved the executives of seven railroads and four newspapers to send expensive floral tributes.

Colonel Symington looked in early and as he attempted to make his way unannounced into the general manager's private office his progress was halted by the chief clerk.

"Wait, have a seat, Colonel," the clerk smiled. "The newspaper men are within."

The president tugged at his mustache. Then he snorted and stamped out. From his office he called the general manager on the telephone.

"Miss Mollie," he began as soon as the pleasant voice of his former secretary came to him over the wire, "how soon can you get rid of that impudent chief clerk? The ignorant fellow actually stopped me from entering your office not five minutes ago."

"Why Colonel," Mollie objected, "you can't be on the war path on such a perfect day! Besides, it was my fault. I told Mr. Rogers not to admit anyone while the newspaper men were here. You see, Colonel, they were asking such important qustions, about my age and"——

"Tut, tut, Miss Mollie," the Colonel thumped his desk impatiently, "such levity in your present position is unbecoming, unladylike. And it shows such a lack of respect and—er, gratitude"——

"NOW, Colonel, you know very well I couldn't be wanting in respect or gratitude or admiration for you."

"Well show it then," he begged. "Show it by accepting my instructions without parleying."

"Not instructions, Colonel."

"Hey, what's that? Not"——

"Didn't you say suggestions?"

"We won't quibble over a word," he snapped. "It's the same thing, when you execute my wishes. Of course, if you want to be responsible for a boorish clerk, I suppose I may as well agree. Have you dismissed that stationmaster yet? Concannon by name."

"Why, no, Colonel," Mollie admitted slowly, "I haven't."

"You haven't," he questioned in astonishment, "and you've been in authority several hours?"

"Well, you see, Colonel, Mr. Concannon relieved me of that unpleasant duty by resigning. He refused to work for me, so I"——

"Refused to work for you!" the Colonel cried in anger. "You don't mean to tell me you let him get away with that! Why, Miss Mollie, that was a damnable insult and the fellow must be blacklisted, so he won't ever be able to return to the terminal"——

"Oh, he'll never come back during my term of office," Mollie said. "You'll have to excuse me now, Colonel."

He heard the receiver click. In a moment he pushed the instrument from him with a gesture of defeat.

"Biggest fool trick I ever played on myself," he told the emptiness of his office. "Put that upstart of a

NEW YORK.

WITH a wrecking crew already in action, work has begun on the world's greatest amusement project, the Rockefeller Radio Center which will occupy three square blocks in the heart of New York City.

This project, of breath-taking proportions, will occupy property between Fifth and Sixth avenues and Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets. Office buildings, apartments, shops and brown-stone dwelling are being demolished to clear the site for this $250,000,000 project which will require three full years for completion. On this vast and highly expensive site will rise a group of buildings, harmoniously designed to form a unit, which will not only give New York City a new architectural wonder, but which will also provide a huge model workhouse for the manufacture and presentation of the entertainment of the future, entertainment that combines the theatrical and concert hall programs of the present with the motion picture, radio and television developments clearly foreseen for the years to come.

Four large theaters, twenty-seven broadcasting studios, a great oval building on the Fifth avenue front with a roof garden restaurant, a broad garden plaza, a sixty-story office and studio building, and subterranean bus terminals and parking facilities, are but a few of the major items in the detailed plan. Although the work of clearing the ground is now under way, the project is scheduled for completion not before the autumn of 1933. It is estimated that the project will necessitate the employment of 10,000 men for three years, with a total construction payroll of 25,000 men at the peak of building operations.

The development was originally conceived as being built around a new opera house as the nucleus, but this plan fell through when the Rockefeller offer was, for some unexplained reason, rejected by the trustees of the Metropolitan Opera House. Then John D. Rockefeller Jr. and his engineering representative, John R. Todd, entered into negotiations with David Sarnoff, President of the Radio Corporation of America, and from these negotiations the plans were finally evolved.

ROCKEFELLER, with whom the idea originated, owns the huge piece of property comprising the site. He will do the building and will, in effect, be the landlord. David Sarnoff, as head of the Radio Corporation, is the big power behind a half dozen industries controlling major sources of radio, motion picture and television entertainment, the last of which is expected within the next few years to emerge from the laboratory into widespread public use. Sarnoff's agreement to co-operate with Rockefeller and to lease most of the space in the completed structure is what made Rockefeller's plan a working reality.

The oval building which is to dress up the Fifth avenue front of the project will be only of moderate height; chief emphasis on this structure is to be on beauty of design. The first floor is to be for shops, and on the second floor will be a banking institution. On the roof will be a restaurant and around the entire building will run an outdoor promenade.

Directly behind this oval building will be a garden plaza, extending from Forty-eighth to Fifty-first street parallel to Fifth avenue. No expense or effort is to be spared to make it the most impressive boulevard of its kind in the world, with fountains, statuary and garden plots.

In back of this, but not quite extending through to Sixth avenue, will rise the sixty-story office building which is to dominate the development in height. In this will be located the twenty-seven broadcasting studios, some of which are to be two and three stories in height. Ten of them will be designed for photography and recording. Some of them will be concert halls in effect, and all of them, designed with an eye to the future, will be so equipped as to be ready for the day when television comes out of the laboratory. In addition, the four theaters in the project—and the symphony hall which may yet be included in the plans—will be equipped for the broadcasting of sound and eventually for the broadcasting of sight directly from the laboratory.

Of the four theaters, all of which will be leased and operated by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, one will be a great vaudeville auditorium with a seating capacity of more than 7000 and there, according to officials of RKO, many new conceptions in variety entertainment will be introduced.

The second theater, which will seat 5000, will be specially designed for sound motion pictures, and will be built around the radio and electrical developments that have so recently revolutionized the motion picture art.

THE third theater will be specially designed for musical comedy, and will be a sort of testing ground. Productions which please when presented there will then be given a wider audience by means of the motion picture, radio and television. The fourth will be a theater devoted to dramatic productions of a selective character, these also to be broadcast and converted into pictures if their reception warrants it.

The streets surrounding the development will be widened to provide more air and light and better curb facilities for shops. Transportation arteries from every direction will lead to and from this new amusement center, and the traffic problem will be eased by the construction of great underground bus terminals and by subterranean parking facilities that will be designed to accommodate many thousands of automobiles and form an underground boulevard for automobile traffic.

The three firms of architects who are collaborating on the designs of the group are Raymond Hood, Godley & Foulihoux; Reinhard & Hofmeister and Corbett, Harrison & MacMurray. They are designing the group of buildings so that the peak of the sixty-story skyscraper will dominate, with the skyline dropping from it in all directions. Except for the garden plaza which will run through the three blocks parallel to Fifth avenue, but wider than Fifth, the plot is to be covered with buildings treated in diversified sections so that the development may rise around the two or three buildings which are occupied under long-term leases or which can not be purchased. The oval buidling above referred to will occupy the Fifth avenue frontage of the center block. On the other two blocks of Fifth avenue frontage, and on Sixth avenue as well as the side streets, each sectional length will be set back and towered as if it were a separate building. The general effect which the associated architects have reached in their preliminary design is that of a symposium of buildings united by a happy adjustment of proportions, so that the whole group has the unity of a single well-proportioned structure. Although the design is done in the rectangular forms of the now familiar setback, the skyline is expected to have some of the rhythmic flow more generally associated with Gothic designs.

The joining and correlation of all these forms of amusement under one roof is the first time in history that such a combination has been attempted.

A GLANCE at the figures revealing the steady growth in theatrical attendance in this country indicates the tremendous influence that will radiate from the Rockefeller Radio Center. RKO statisticians have estimated that in 1926 in this country 63,000,000 people went to the theater, not during the year, but every week. That figure, of course, includes every sort of theater—motion picture, legitimate, vaudeville and concert, although it doesn't include the millions who receive their entertainment through the radio alone. In 1927 the weekly attendance in American theaters had grown to the incredible total of 97,000,000, and last year, in 1929, the theaters had approximately 118,000,000 patrons every week, close to the entire population of the United States. Now amusement is to be combined in the manner of big business.

girl in a position to lord it over me, over me, her benefactor. Cool my heels in her waiting room! Arrange with a damn clerk for some conversation—I gad, I'll see her in hades before I go to her office," he muttered.

Colonel Symington changed his mind about seeking an interview with Mollie. Freight traffic had shown such an alarming decrease that he was panicky.

"YOU think you're mighty all-fired cute, don't you, Miss Mollie," he complained when he was seated opposite her in the most attractive business office he had ever seen.

"Now, Colonel," Mollie smiled, "you haven't stayed away all this time just to think up something to scold me about, have you?"

"Well, why don't you show at least a spark of appreciation," he cried reproachfully.

"Because you made a mistake when you put me in," she answered.

"Mistake! I gad, don't I know it?"

"Yes, I believe you do," she admitted.

Colonel Symington was silent.

"The road's in a bad way," came finally.

"You are doing nothing to remedy it," she reminded him evenly.

"What's to be done?" he questioned wearily. "Not that I intend giving heed to your advice—now or ever."

"It's traffic, of course. For the fun of a little private revenge you put me in this office with the single idea of having me dismiss Mr. Concannon."

"But, Miss Mollie," he threw up his hands in a gesture of despair, "we're operating at a loss. We can't stand that long enough to begin at the bottom and build a traffic department."

"You wouldn't need an elaborate organization for your 500 miles of railroad," she reminded him. "A live general agent and a few alert young fellows out on the road. A little newspaper advertising; two or three dining cars and a few parlor cars for your daylight trains. Then some Sunday excursions to the resorts along the river, and in a month the Middle Bijou would be on the map again."

"Yes, of course, I know all these things," he admitted gloomily. "I believe I know more about the cost of dining cars and parlor cars than"——

"I'll have to be going now." Mollie glanced at her strap watch.

Wearily he summoned his chief mechanical officer. For an hour they discussed the cost of dining cars and parlor cars.

"There's not much sense in discussing these things, Taylor," the president said. It takes too long to move the board of directors to action. We'd have to secure permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission, too."

The president was silent. He was making a mental canvass of his brother directors. No, if the scheme received a trial it would have to be without their knowledge. And if it proved a failure—well, something was on the edge of happening anyway.

"Could you get the wheels in motion toward getting us three diners and three parlor cars while I engage my associates in a battle of wits?" he questioned the official.

"Yes, Colonel.

"You may proceed, but do not close the deal until I say the word."

Colonel Symington dined at the Southern Club that night, and he dined well. When he had consumed a fine fruit cocktail the situation did not appear so dark. The dessert served to remind him that his authority as president was not only sufficient to negotiate the purchase of rolling stock but his private fortune was ample to finance another railroad.

In a jolly frame of mind he departed from his club. Half-way across Peach Tree street he was held up on a safety isle by dense auto traffic. At the moment the Colonel was not willing to be held up.

A SWIFT-MOVING car tagged the president the instant he stepped into its path and he was on his way to the hospital before he regained consciousness.

When the Colonel returned from the land of ether, whence he had been wafted while a broken leg and several smashed ribs were receiving attention, he sent for Mollie Cavanaugh Mollie came and sat at his bedside and patted his nervous hands.

"Everything gone to smash," the Colonel groaned. "Railroad business in a tangle; now I'm crippled up for six months."

Mollies touched his brow with a cool hand.

"I'm coming back to you, to the Middle Bijou Railroad," she announced as she brushed tears from her eyes.

"A splendid idea, Miss Mollie," he murmured drowsily, "but how about your position as general manager?"

"We'll elect another," she explained as she straightened his pillow. "I'll need your proxy, to vote in your stead."

Following close upon the heels of the news of Colonel Symington's accident, events came thick and fast in railway circles. The general manager of the terminal company handed in her resignation without being asked to do so. Then circulars were distributed announcing her return as an executive vice president to her former railroad.

At a called meeting of the terminal company a week later they heard Mollie nominate her successor and in a neat little speech urge the executives to make the man's election unanimous.

It was a fortnight later when Colonel Symington learned the identity of the newly elected general manager. Mollie told him as gently as she could.

"WHAT!" he cried. "Take advantage of a man when he's on his back!"

"Now, Colonel, that's not fair, and you know it," Mollie flared.

"But, I gad, to elect that crude Concannon person as general manager!"

"He's not crude, Colonel," Mollie smiled, "and his experience as stationmaster fitted him for the place. Besides, when I returned to the Middle Bijou I found him working for you. Naturally, when he found out I was following him he quit," she explained.

"How's that? Working on my railroad! I gad, of all the impudent"——

"You mustn't worry yourself about railroad affairs," Mollie reminded the Colonel, as she smoothed his white hair with a caressing touch. "You won't mind if I put your private car through the shops while you are laid up?"

"All right, whatever you think best," he smiled, "but I don't understand yet why that Concannon fellow is running away from you. What does he mean by not working for you?"

"Oh, you don't know me, Colonel," she said. "I'm terrible to work for. I object to being bossed, by mere men, you know. By the way, I've fixed up a traffic agreement with our competitors. Our freight business is back to normal once more and still climbing."

"I think I've been a kind of figurehead," the Colonel sighed.

"YOU know you haven't," Mollie patted his hand. "Haven't I always asked your advice about everything?"

"Yes, after it happened."

"Well, now I'm going to ask you about something before it happens. Promise not to scold," she warned.

"It's something personal," he remarked sadly.

"Yes; I'm leaving when you return."

"Why, Miss Mollie," he objected, "just when you're getting things organized."

"There's another job of organizing waiting."

"I gad, I might have known! Who is the pup?"

"You won't be angry?"

"No, not if he has won your love; then I—I'll"——

"Jim Concannon," she said.

Colonel Symington was silent for a long time. Then, as was his custom when ladies were present, he cursed softly.

"Not angry with me, Colonel?"

"No," he smiled bravely, "but you just wait till some galoot nominates that fellow Concannon for re-election. I'll show that pup"——

"What'll you show him, Colonel?" Mollie leaned over and touched the president's forehead with her lips.

"I'll show that damn pup how a Southern gentleman acts when he's licked," came the emphatic promise.

streets staring up at the roaring monster. We curve to go over the heart of the city. We aren't sure whether Dr. Eckener is trying to give us a good time or advertise the ship.

"It is morning and we are in Russia—that God forsaken place we read so much about. There stands a peasant, up early for his morning duties. He has on coarse, dirty clothing. He stares spellbound by his first sight of a Zeppelin, or is just stupid, we cannot say.

"'We were shot at by the Russians,' someone says excitedly. 'It was at 1:30.' On checking up with one of the officers, we found we had been fired on 18 times and that one of the water ballast bags had been punctured. The next day we learned definitely that the shooting was done by soldiers of the Soviet army, whose orders to fire on all foreign aircraft had not been rescinded.

"Anyway, here we are and no harm done. Moscow is only one hour away. . . . What surprises us most now is that we still see great masses of forest, with only about 25 per cent of the land under cultivation—and only 50 miles from Moscow. . . .

"An airplane appears. It shoots by close to us and a lone aviator waves and smiles as we all wave at him. He banks vertically and circles back again. He dives down until it seems he will touch the tree tops, but up he zooms and does a perfect Immelmann turn. He is part of our escort, we learn. Other planes appear, singly and in groups of five, until finally we are surrounded by 21 planes. . . .

"We see Moscow ahead, an enormous city of 3,000,000 people. The river winds through it with snake-like turns. There below is the Kremlin, a huge group of buildings with a surrounding wall nearly a mile in length and 30 feet high. There is the 'Red Square,' with Lenin's monument, which is being rebuilt with permanent materials.

"People fill the streets, and in the great market place masses of humanity stare up. We learn there are 200,000 at this one point. They have been ordered there by the officials to show their appreciation to this ambassador of good will, Dr. Eckener. . .

"At last we are over the flying field. We are going to land. Slowly we glide down with all motor off. Ropes are thrown out and Russian soldiers seize them and pull us down. . . .

"We are on the ground in Moscow only four and one-half hours. . . . We are surrounded by the Russian soldiers in their long Cossack coats and boots. . . . They are big men and young, with rather coarse faces. One good looking fellow smiles and, much to our surprise, we observe it is a girl. And all around us, as we look carefully, we see many girls in the same military uniforms as the men. . . .

"As we are to be the guests of the Soviet Union for only a few hours, we hurry to a waiting bus and set out with a Soviet official, who acts as guide, to see the sights of Moscow. . . . The streets are filled with the drabbest looking people we have ever seen. . . . There is nothing to buy because no one has anything to sell. Yet there isn't a loafer in the city. . . . Throughout the city the buildings are run down. . . . We ask if they are happy. One of our American acquaintances who lives there answers, 'Hell, no; whoever heard of a Russian being happy?'

"We hasten back to the field, where we are to be guests of the Soviet Union for luncheon. . . . We are served like royal guests to caviar, pheasant, chicken, wines and desserts. . . .

"It's over—our memorable trip to Moscow with the Graf Zeppelin. If all goes well we'll get to Friedrichshafen tomorrow."

And so they did.

"Ignatz Mouse" astride the night rides the Coconino Sky - from whence to where piloting an air bubble laden with an illicit cargo of "Bricks".
A blimp full of bricks, dagnabbim, if I shoot him down there'd be a shower of bricks over Coconino that'd look like a big war offensive - and much damage would ensue.
Oh well, I'm a klever kop, I'll find some way to dispose of those "bricks".
Dump 'em in "mouse" every brick in that blimp goes into that crater - cornsarn it I never knew until now, what use old extinct volcanoes was - come on, heave 'em in - heave 'em in wen !!!
"Agathla", a million years aslumber, finds its silent maw crammed with a diet new to its palate.
From the load he had in that balloon, he must have contemplated busting every bean in Coconino with a "brick" - the wagabone - but I was to clever for him - not a head will suffer, and above all, the pretty poll of that dear "Krazy Kat"

ISABELLA AND COLUMBUS

They Finally Get Theirs in the Eighth Astral Plane.

(The scene is a public square in the Eighth Astral Plane. A lady spirit is sitting on a golden bench. A gentleman spirit in the flush of early manhood comes along.)

HE: Do you mind if I occupy the other end of this bench, madam?

She: Not at all.

(She looks at him. Then she looks at him again, and seems interested.)

She: I beg your pardon.

He: Ah, madam, beauty so rare as that with which you are endowed would scarcely feel the necessity of begging the pardon of the haugtiest monarch, let alone an unworthy esne like myself.

She: You're the one, all right. I'd know that flossy line of talk anywhere. Isn't your name Columbus?

He: Why, yes. At least it was . . . but how—— (He looks at her.)

He: Why—why, you're Queen Isabella, aren't you?

She: I was, back there.

He: Well, for heaven's sake. It certainly is a small universe, isn't it?

She: How've you been?

He: I'm all right now, but I had a tough time in the Seventh Astral Plane. I was a frog there, and believe me it was no fun. But I didn't stay long. A stork got me.

(Isabella starts to laugh.)

He: Well, it doesn't matter now.

She: Say, how did that continent ever come out that you discovered for me?

He: What continent?

She: Oh, you remember. You came to me and persuaded me to hock my jewelry to hire ships for you, so you could discover some old continent. And you certainly had a great line of talk. And, now that I think of it, you also had a very shapely leg.

He: Leg?

She: Yes. We wore legs on earth.

He: Oh, sure. I do remember now.

She: Sure you remember. I think it was that calf of yours that won me, even more than your blarney.

He: Gosh, it seems a long time ago.

She: It was a long time ago.

He: It seems so silly, yet I remember that at the time I thought it was the most important thing in the world. I thought I'd just lay me down and die if you didn't come across with that cash.

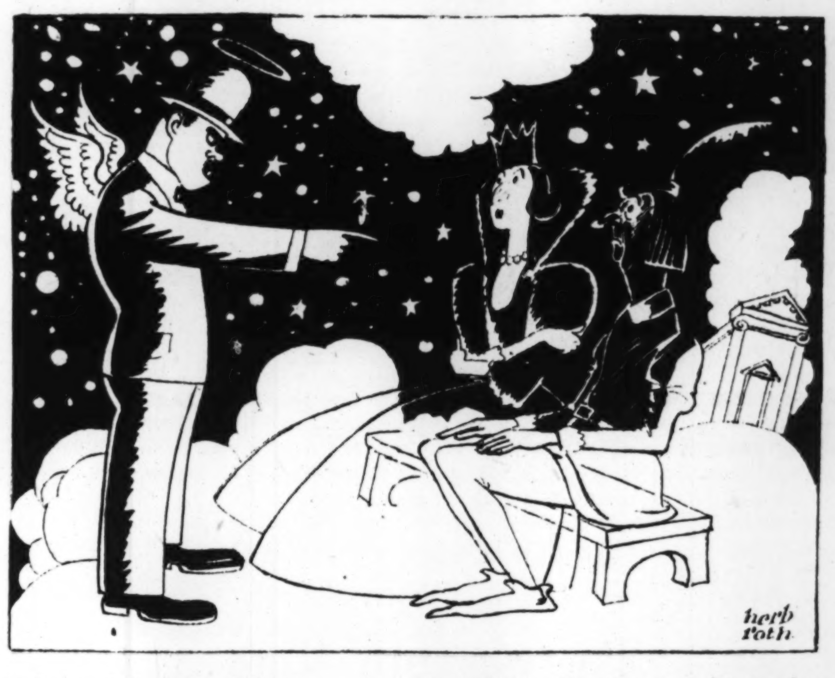
She: What was the name of the continent?

He: M-m-m-m. It's on the tip of my tongue.

She: I know it wasn't named after you.

He: Yes, I remember now. I got a dirty deal on that. At least I thought so at the time.

(A gentleman steps out of the bushes and flashes a badge.)



The Dick: Pardon me, but I'm from the central office of the Eighth Astral Plane. I couldn't help overhearing what you just said. I heard you talk about that continent you and this gentleman discovered. Perhaps I can be of some help to you in the matter of the name which you have forgotten. Was the name of the continent by any chance America?

Columbus: That's it! America! Named after a guy named Vespucci. It all comes back to me.

Isabella: Yes, that's the name.

The Dick: And I am to understand that you discovered that continent and that this lady sold her jewels to get the money to back you?

Columbus: That's the story as I recall it.

Isabella: That's right.

The Dick: Well, I'll have to ask you both to accompany me to the central office. The boss wants to see you.

(Columbus and Isabella leave wonderingly with the detective.)

The next scene is at headquarters.

The Dick: Boss, here's a piece of luck. I just stumbled on this pair by accident. Guess who they are!

The Boss: Lucrezia Borgia and the fellow that invented the radio?

The Dick: No. Better'n that! They're the pair that pulled the job of discovering America.

The Boss: Say, this IS a piece of luck. My boy, you'll get promoted to at least the Twelfth Astral Plane vice squad for this.

Isabella: I don't understand——

The Boss: You don't, eh? Well, you will. We've been looking all over the whole 245 astral planes for you two.

The Dick: We spread a dragnet for you.

The Boss: Yes, and we combed the universe for you. Do you realize that that damned continent you discovered has given us more trouble for the last 400 years than any other spot in the universe? Started with witchcraft and been getting worse ever since. Now it's needled beer, miniature golf courses, bridge, market panics, Chicago talkies, New York, bum Scotch, automobiles, hot dogs, subways and Lord knows how much else. There's a million counts against you two.

Isabella: But I didn't discover America. That fellow there did it.

The Boss: You put up the dough, didn't you? That makes you an accessory before the fact. It'll go hard with both of you.

Columbus: Wh-what's going to happen to us, boss?

The Boss: Well, as I understand it, the lady is to be sentenced to return to earth and run one of those Ye Waffle Shoppes for 40 years. Then she's to be a boll weevil for 40 more years. You're to go back and serve time as a prohibition agent until that amendment they've got down there is repealed. That'll keep you busy until about 1934, and by that time we'll find something else for you to do. This ought to learn you two to mind your own business hereafter and not go snooping around discovering strange continents. Take 'em away, Flaherty.

Isabella (to Columbus, as Flaherty leads them to the jug): You, you lousy bum! I knew from the start I hadn't ought to of paid any attention to you.

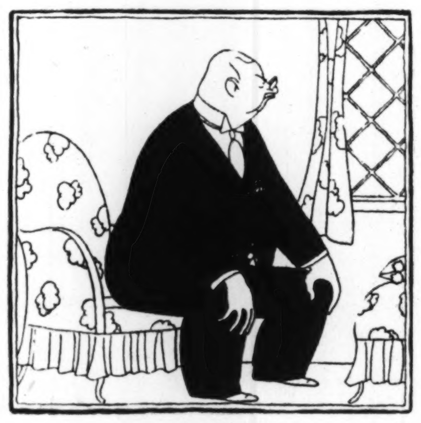
FABLES IN SLANG

Life Among the Lollipops.

ONCE upon a Time a self-made Croesus who had started in the Mud and finished in the Clouds, financially speaking, sat on the edge of a chair in a Gingerbread Suite and directed a Mean Look at the Other Half of the Sketch. He was hooked. He was more than hooked. The unfortunate Fish was landed and hung up by the Gills. Did he look the Part? Don't inquire.



This is a sad Fable about a newly rich Rube who had a Wife with shooting Society Pains which went up one Side and down the Other.

The human Mackerel who was getting all the Degrees in one brief Summer was of a Type which may be apprehended and enjoyed at any Swell Dump that charges Three Bits for a Pint of sparkling Well Water, Ten Cents per Cube for Ice and One Buck for Orange Juice. A cold-storage Warehouse with Hotel Stationery in all the Rooms and every Bell Hop trying to look like the Prince of Wales.

Lycurgus Beasley had been away from the Corn Belt for Twenty Years, but he still had Soil on his Knuckles. All of the Tailors and Haberdashers in the World had worked on him but they couldn't make him look like anything except the Vice-President of the Co-Operative Elevator Company of Gopher Crick, Ioway. He had no Appetite for Eclat.

Serena had hog-tied him before landing him at the Exclusive Resort. He was just as en rapport with his Environment as a Prairie Wolf in a Beauty Parlor. And as for Serena, she had succeeded in forgetting that she ever leaned over a Cookstove and slapped a Griddle in the Face. Inasmuch as Money doesn't care to whom it belongs and Illiteracy is the Mother of Accumulation, Lycurgus, commonly known as Lyke, had put away just as much Jack as France hopes to wring out of Germany. He had very few Side Lines of Enthusiasm to divert him from the noble Pastime of beaning the Common People with a purchased Franchise.

All of his Spare Time between the Ages of Thirty and Forty-five had been devoted to Learning to Eat with a Fork. He visited Paris in 1926 and they are still talking about it Over There.

Every time he salted away another Hundred Grand, the good Wife had her Face re-enameled, so that when they finally took the High Hurdle and landed among the Elite at the ritziest Summer Hang-out in the Western Hemisphere, they were admirable Examples of what may be achieved by a couple of Yokels who are not afraid to go to the Mat with the Complex Problems of Modern Life.

So, in Chapter One, we find Lyke and Serena in their Expensive Quarters and the Piece of Tripe who has been done over into a Lace Doily is putting up one awful Holler.

"Where I'd like to be right now is out in the North Woods with Doc Kennedy," said Lyke. "Flannel Shirt, Overalls an' a Pair of Sneakers. I'd be sortin' over my Spoons to pick out One that'd fool the small-mouth Bass."

"Huh!" said Serena. In her whole Vocabulary of 111 Words probably the most expressive Hunk of English she carried in Stock was "Huh."

"We had to give References an' bring a Letter of Introduction before we could bust into this Rat Pit," continued Lyke. "Ain't that a Scream? The only Reason we horned in is becuz Delancey Filbert is in the Red an' I let him have enough Kale to pay his Dues in about Twenty Clubs that I can't break into with a Jimmy.

"Just a Passel of Gimmicks, that's all they are here. A lot o' bleached-out Grandchildren of Grandpas that got lucky Breaks in Real Estate. Every one of 'em wearin' a hunted Look; scared that someone outside the Polo Set will try to warm up to him or her."

"Huh!"

"We are payin' four Prices to set—"

"Sit!"

"Anyway, to have some Vittles brought to us over in a dark Corner by a Lady that looks like an Actress. An' you rubberin' to pick out Mrs. Womsley hyphen Pettengill that owns all the Dogs an' wuz presented to King George. I seen her"——

"You saw her!"

"Have it your own Way. I give that Dame the Once-Over a while ago an' I'm sorry for the Dogs."

"Huh!"

"What a dandy little Investment you made when you took Bridge Lessons all Winter! You ought to been practicin' on Solitaire. That's all you'll work at up here.

"DRESS for Dinner an' then nothin' happens but a lot o' male an' female Pansies givin' us the Cold Eye. They can look right through us an' see somethin' behind us, but never see us."

"Huh!"

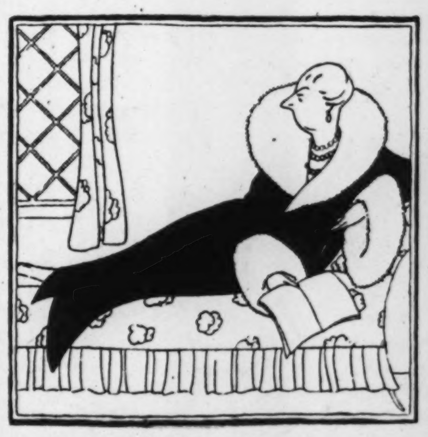
"You ain't found any Corned Beef an' Cabbage on the Score Card, have you? I'll say you ain't! Why? Becuz that Alsatian Nobleman they call the Mater de Hotel don't know how to spell it in any Foreign Language.

"An' the next time you order an Artichoke for me, you're liable to get Word from my Lawyer. Folks are bein' granted Divorces in Reno ev'ry Day for Cruel Treatment that ain't half as terrible as Artichokes. An' lay off o' that decayed Cheese that ought'o been served in 1926. I worked in a Glue Factory for Two Years an' that kind o' Perfumery is my Notion o' nothin' to smell. When I want Pie they bring me Rokefort an' some o' them huntin'-case Crackers that you couldn't split open with a Cold Chisel."

"Huh!"

"I'd be more comfortable in an Electric Chair than I am in this Dido with the Silk Flowers all over it. I never wuz brought up to enjoy sittin' on Dress Goods.

"If what I'm up against now is the Top Crust all I got to say is that I'd rather be back in the Harness Shop, playin' Checkers with Mort Kilgore."



"Huh!"

Now, Lycurgus Beasley was a big, sturdy Gink with many of the Physical Characteristics of a Horse and he was a Glutton for Punishment, but even the most durable Husky cannot stand up under a long Succession of "Huhs." Lyke was breathing heavily and the short-arm Jabs were beginning to wear him down.

Serena knew how to corral his Angora. She hadn't pulled down the Short End of a Purse in Twenty long Years. Lyke was getting ready to assume the Horizontal and take the Count. She always waited until he battled himself Groggy, and then she would slip over a Haymaker and end the Bout.

So, when she had him practically Out and looking like a Sucker, she told him where he was going to get off and made him like it. He was given a Permit to air the Dog, provided he crossed Crossings cautiously. After that he was to be Face-Massaged and Manicured, so as to resemble a Grizzly Bear as slightly as possible.

He was to punch the Clock at exactly Seven and get into his complete Regalia because there was a big Evening looming ahead. Serena had invited Madame Kahiak of the Oriental Antique Bazaar and her Side-kick, Fritzi Hibbengibben, to be her Dinner Guests and had arranged for Caviar and other forms of Whoopee, including Double Martinis, gushing from the gold-lined Shaker.

She put Lyke on the Spot and made him, as Bill Kountz said long ago, sit up and roll over and play dead. He could Bark like a Police Dog but when it came time to Bite he always licked her Hand.

They had Flowers and Place Cards on the Table and Lycurgus enjoyed himself to the extent of mopping up one whole Artichoke and a large Wedge of vintage Camembert that had to be held down with a Fork to keep it from jumping off the Plate.

Keeps Skin Young
Absorb blemishes and discolorations by regularly using Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce, and use as directed. Invisible particles of aged skin are freed and all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan, freckles and large pores disappear. Skin is then beautifully clear, soft and velvety, and looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. At all Drug Stores.
Powdered Saxolite
Reduces wrinkles and other age-signs. Simply dissolve one ounce Saxolite in half-pint witch hazel and use daily as face lotion.

● CONTRAST
FIORETTE—Black dull calf. Looped straps appliquéd with gray lizard and patent. $10.50.
MUSE—Black kid. Pearl kid piping. Gray kid, black lizard and patent appliqué. $10.50.
● If it weren't for contrast one couldn't distinguish beauty. That is why modern art and fashion insist on sharp contrast in reserved pattern, to make beauty more outstanding. These Walk-Over slippers express contrast in slenderly designed appliqués on smooth, dark backgrounds. Graceful bands and loops of rajah lizard, of shining patent, of smooth pearly kid against dark surfaces of calf or kid. And to complete the footwear ensemble . . . . Walk-Over hosiery.

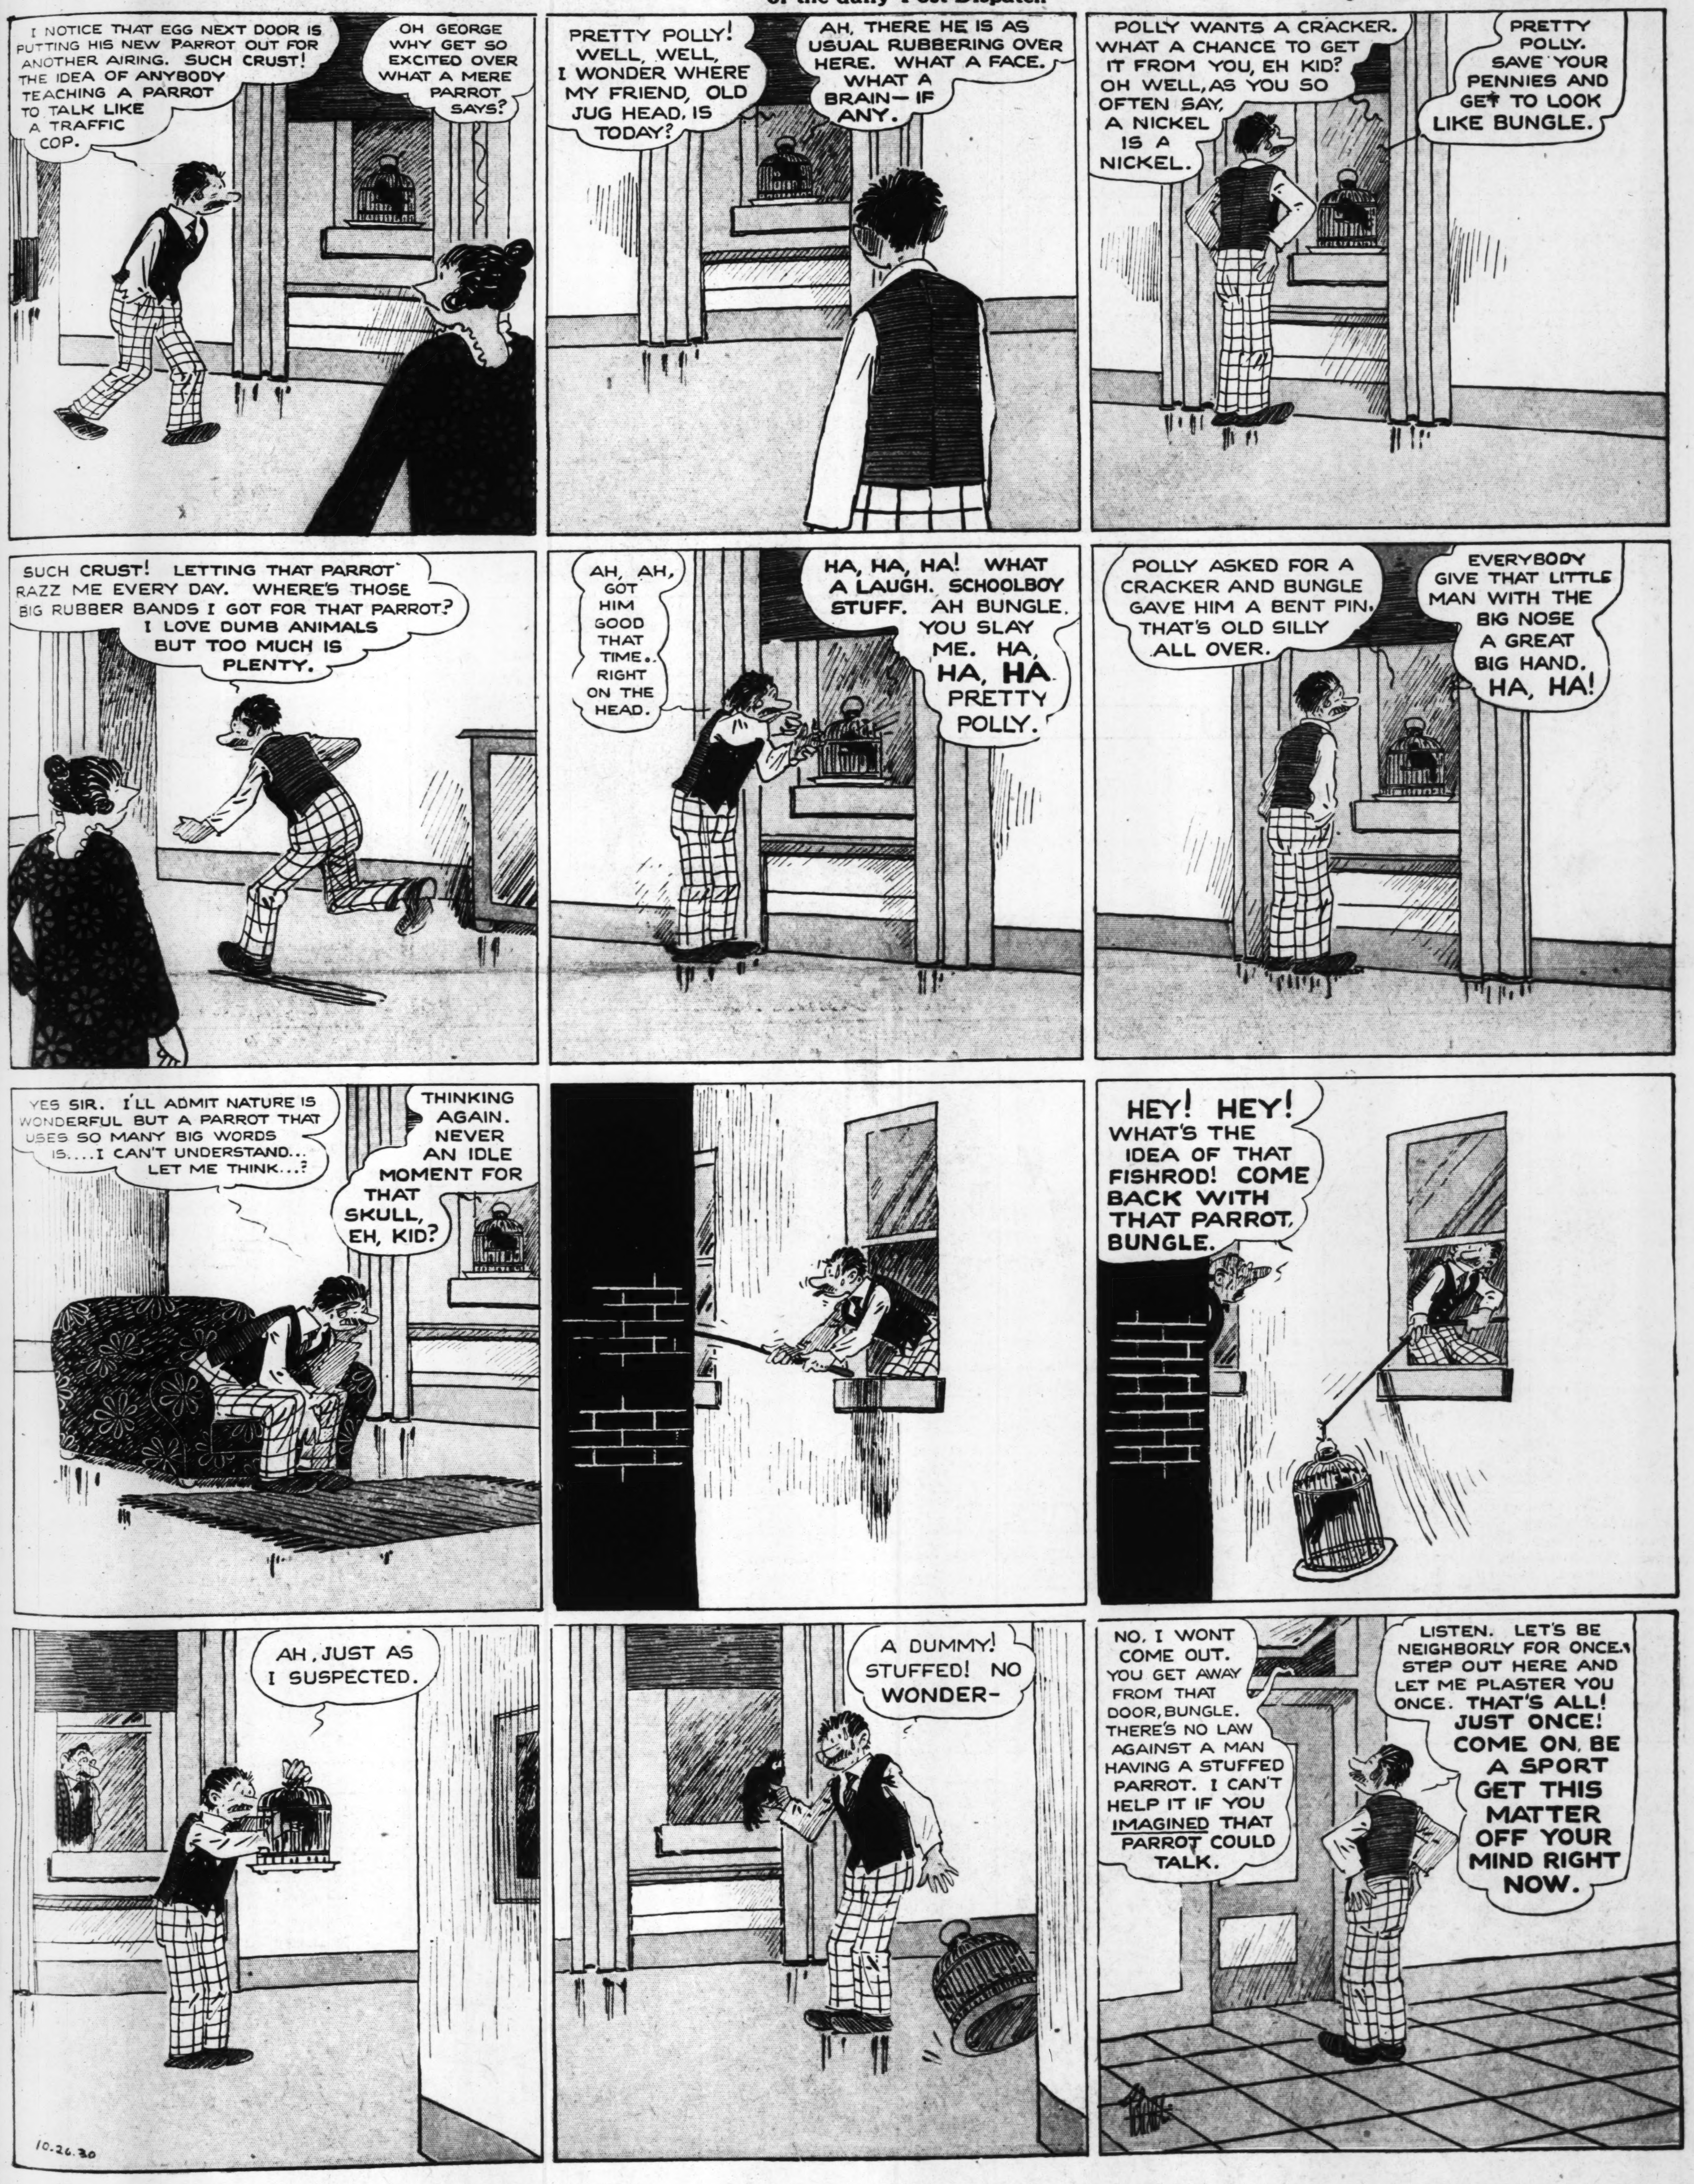
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

This comic appears every day in one of the TWO comic pages of the daily Post-Dispatch

By H. J. TUTHILL



I NOTICE THAT EGG NEXT DOOR IS PUTTING HIS NEW PARROT OUT FOR ANOTHER AIRING. SUCH CRUST! THE IDEA OF ANYBODY TEACHING A PARROT TO TALK LIKE A TRAFFIC COP.
OH GEORGE WHY GET SO EXCITED OVER WHAT A MERE PARROT SAYS?
PRETTY POLLY! WELL, WELL, I WONDER WHERE MY FRIEND, OLD JUG HEAD, IS TODAY?
AH, THERE HE IS AS USUAL RUBBERING OVER HERE. WHAT A FACE. WHAT A BRAIN— IF ANY.
POLLY WANTS A CRACKER. WHAT A CHANCE TO GET IT FROM YOU, EH KID? OH WELL, AS YOU SO OFTEN SAY, A NICKEL IS A NICKEL.
PRETTY POLLY. SAVE YOUR PENNIES AND GET TO LOOK LIKE BUNGLE.
SUCH CRUST! LETTING THAT PARROT RAZZ ME EVERY DAY. WHERE'S THOSE BIG RUBBER BANDS I GOT FOR THAT PARROT? I LOVE DUMB ANIMALS BUT TOO MUCH IS PLENTY.
AH, AH, GOT HIM GOOD THAT TIME. RIGHT ON THE HEAD.
HA, HA, HA! WHAT A LAUGH. SCHOOLBOY STUFF. AH BUNGLE. YOU SLAY ME. HA, HA, HA. PRETTY POLLY.
POLLY ASKED FOR A CRACKER AND BUNGLE GAVE HIM A BENT PIN. THAT'S OLD SILLY ALL OVER.
EVERYBODY GIVE THAT LITTLE MAN WITH THE BIG NOSE A GREAT BIG HAND. HA, HA!
YES SIR. I'LL ADMIT NATURE IS WONDERFUL BUT A PARROT THAT USES SO MANY BIG WORDS IS....I CAN'T UNDERSTAND... LET ME THINK...?
THINKING AGAIN. NEVER AN IDLE MOMENT FOR THAT SKULL, EH, KID?
HEY! HEY! WHAT'S THE IDEA OF THAT FISHROD! COME BACK WITH THAT PARROT, BUNGLE.
AH, JUST AS I SUSPECTED.
A DUMMY! STUFFED! NO WONDER-
NO, I WONT COME OUT. YOU GET AWAY FROM THAT DOOR, BUNGLE. THERE'S NO LAW AGAINST A MAN HAVING A STUFFED PARROT. I CAN'T HELP IT IF YOU IMAGINED THAT PARROT COULD TALK.
LISTEN. LET'S BE NEIGHBORLY FOR ONCE. STEP OUT HERE AND LET ME PLASTER YOU ONCE. THAT'S ALL! JUST ONCE! COME ON, BE A SPORT GET THIS MATTER OFF YOUR MIND RIGHT NOW.

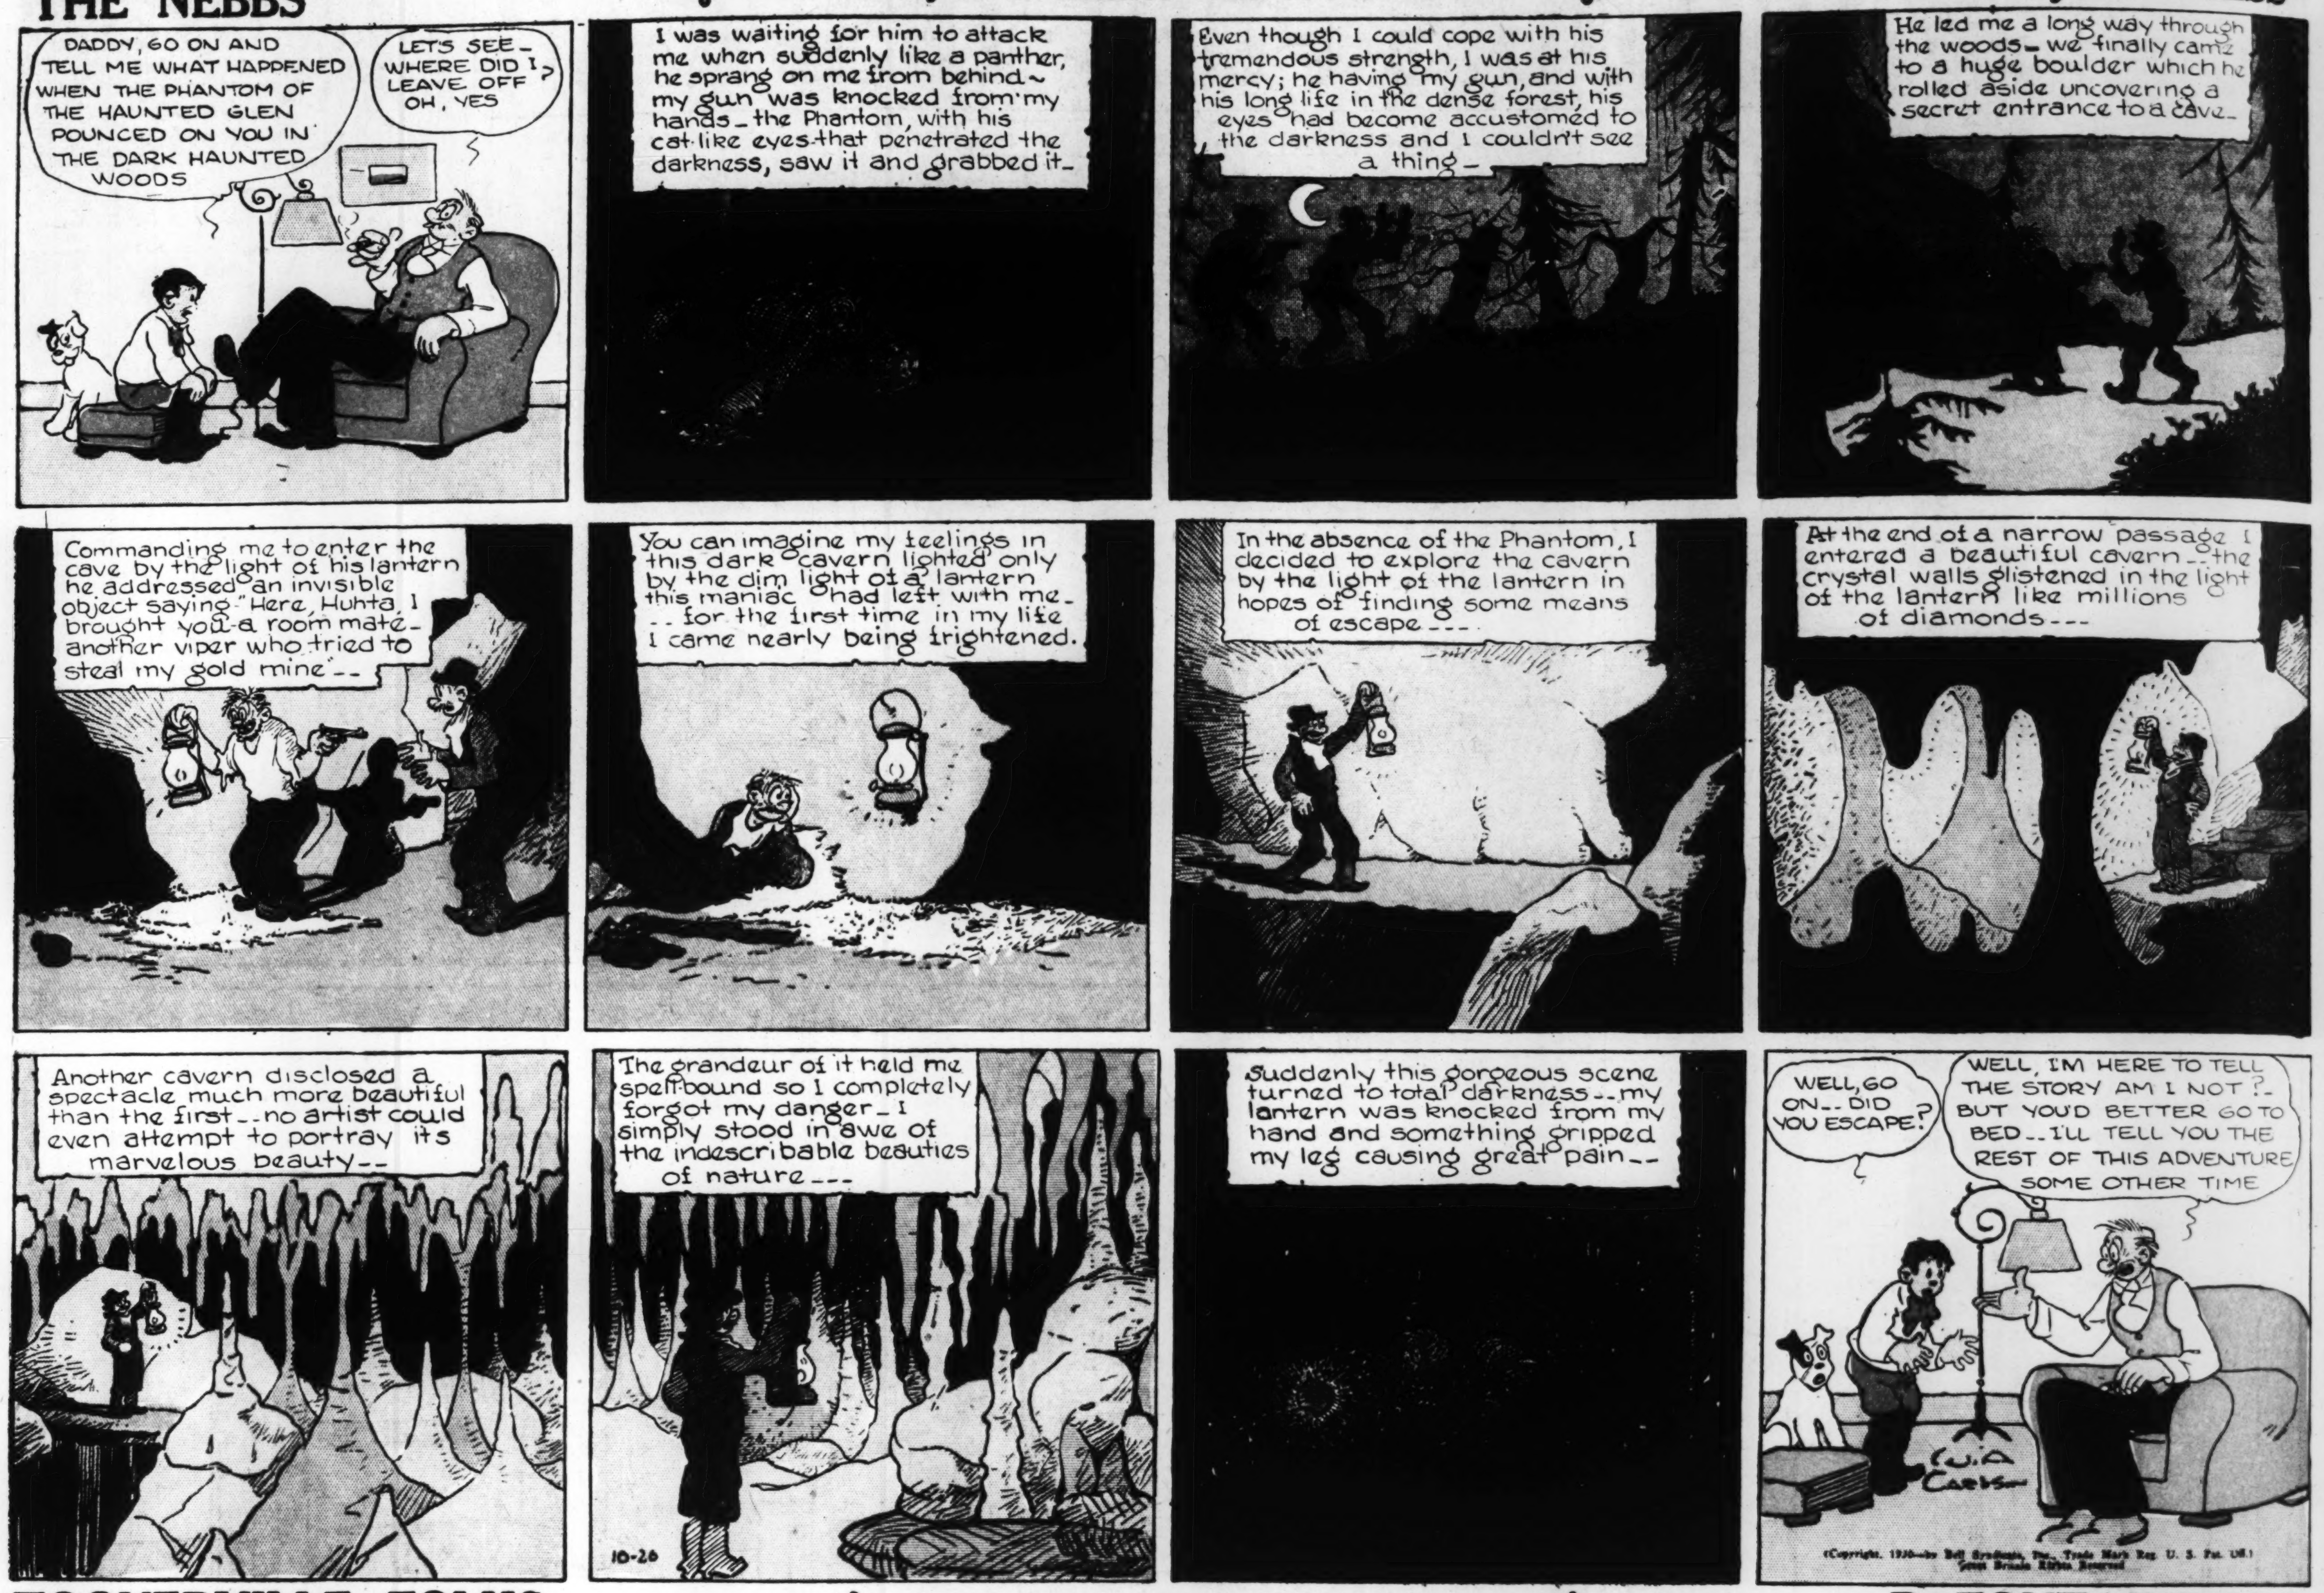
Rudy's Adventures With A Phantom

By SOL HESS



DADDY, GO ON AND TELL ME WHAT HAPPENED WHEN THE PHANTOM OF THE HAUNTED GLEN POUNCED ON YOU IN THE DARK HAUNTED WOODS
LETS SEE— WHERE DID I LEAVE OFF? OH, YES
I was waiting for him to attack me when suddenly like a panther, he sprang on me from behind— my gun was knocked from my hands—the Phantom, with his cat-like eyes that penetrated the darkness, saw it and grabbed it—
Even though I could cope with his tremendous strength, I was at his mercy; he having my gun, and with his long life in the dense forest, his eyes had become accustomed to the darkness and I couldn't see a thing—
He led me a long way through the woods—we finally came to a huge boulder which he rolled aside uncovering a secret entrance to a cave—
Commanding me to enter the cave by the light of his lantern he addressed an invisible object saying "Here, Huhta, I brought you a room mate—another viper who tried to steal my gold mine"—
You can imagine my feelings in this dark cavern lighted only by the dim light of a lantern this maniac had left with me— —for the first time in my life I came nearly being frightened.
In the absence of the Phantom, I decided to explore the cavern by the light of the lantern in hopes of finding some means of escape—
At the end of a narrow passage I entered a beautiful cavern—the crystal walls glistened in the light of the lantern like millions of diamonds—
Another cavern disclosed a spectacle much more beautiful than the first—no artist could even attempt to portray its marvelous beauty—
The grandeur of it held me spell-bound so I completely forgot my danger—I simply stood in awe of the indescribable beauties of nature—
10-20
Suddenly this gorgeous scene turned to total darkness—my lantern was knocked from my hand and something gripped my leg causing great pain—
WELL, GO ON—DID YOU ESCAPE?
WELL, I'M HERE TO TELL THE STORY AM I NOT?— BUT YOU'D BETTER GO TO BED—I'LL TELL YOU THE REST OF THIS ADVENTURE SOME OTHER TIME

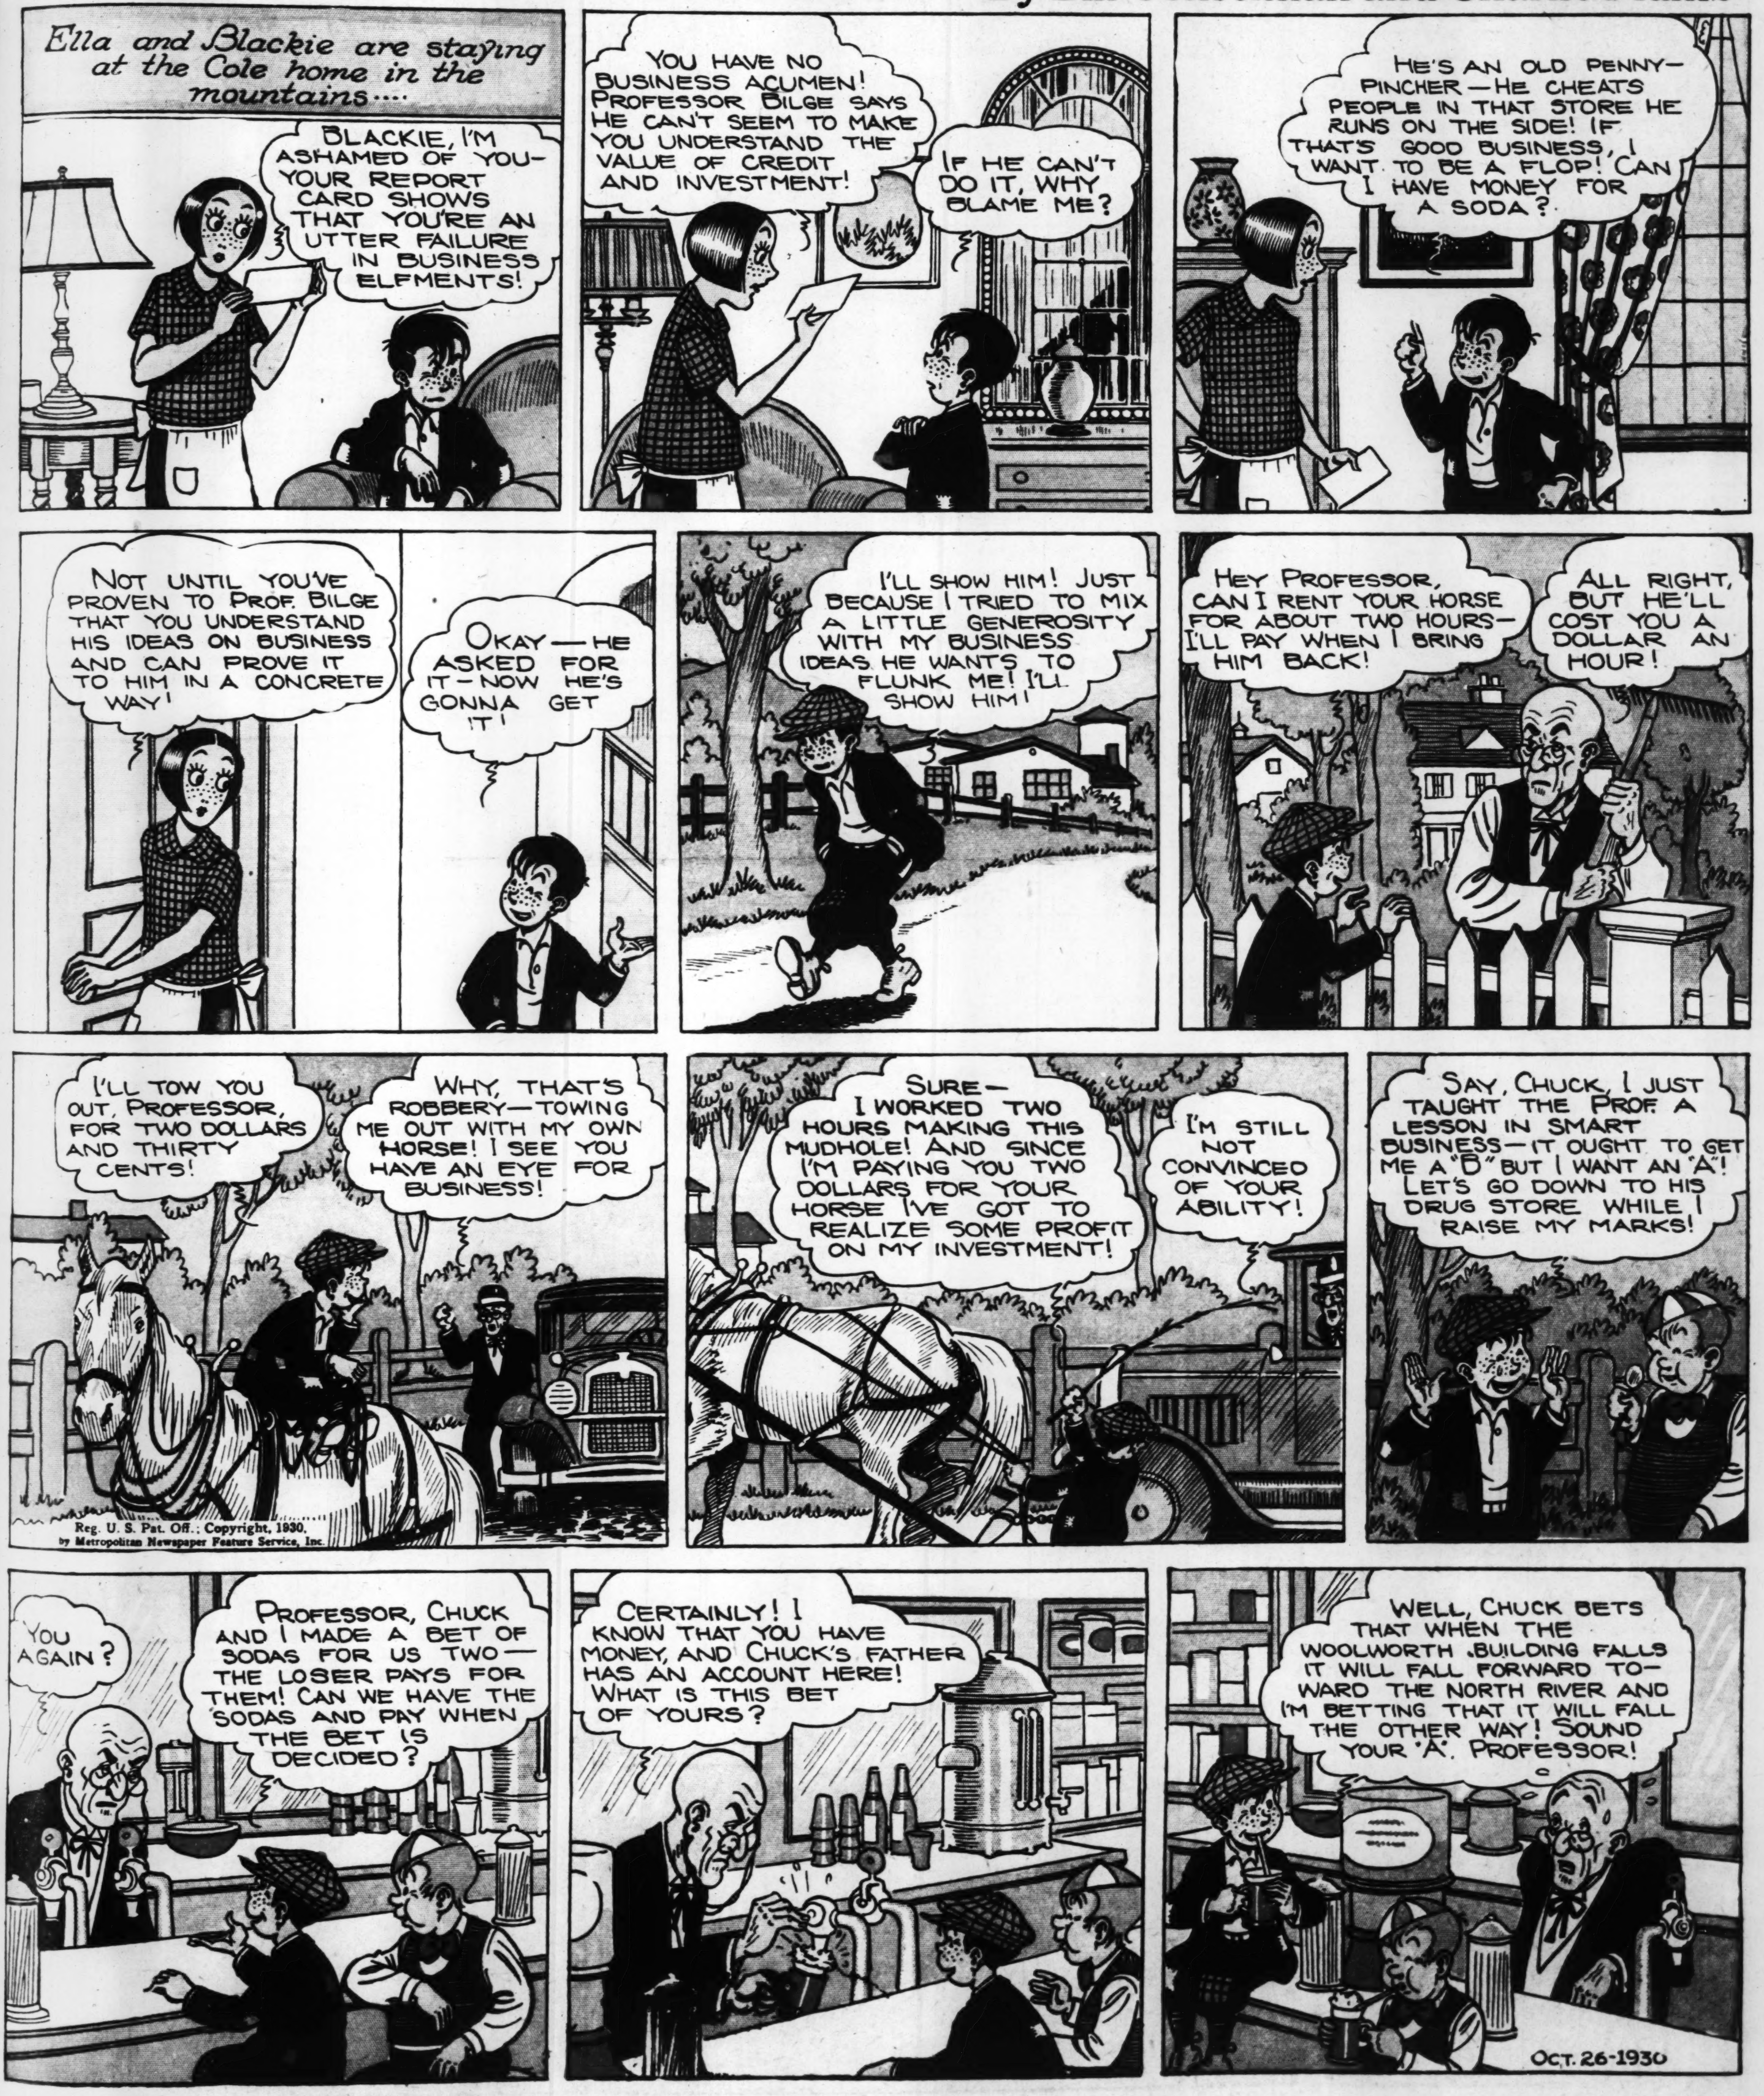
By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb



Ella and Blackie are staying at the Cole home in the mountains....
BLACKIE, I'M ASHAMED OF YOU— YOUR REPORT CARD SHOWS THAT YOU'RE AN UTTER FAILURE IN BUSINESS ELFMENTS!
YOU HAVE NO BUSINESS ACUMEN! PROFESSOR BILGE SAYS HE CAN'T SEEM TO MAKE YOU UNDERSTAND THE VALUE OF CREDIT AND INVESTMENT!
IF HE CAN'T DO IT, WHY BLAME ME?
HE'S AN OLD PENNY-PINCHER—HE CHEATS PEOPLE IN THAT STORE HE RUNS ON THE SIDE! IF THAT'S GOOD BUSINESS, I WANT TO BE A FLOP! CAN I HAVE MONEY FOR A SODA?
NOT UNTIL YOU'VE PROVEN TO PROF. BILGE THAT YOU UNDERSTAND HIS IDEAS ON BUSINESS AND CAN PROVE IT TO HIM IN A CONCRETE WAY!
OKAY—HE ASKED FOR IT—NOW HE'S GONNA GET IT!
I'LL SHOW HIM! JUST BECAUSE I TRIED TO MIX A LITTLE GENEROSITY WITH MY BUSINESS IDEAS HE WANTS TO FLUNK ME! I'LL SHOW HIM!
HEY PROFESSOR, CAN I RENT YOUR HORSE FOR ABOUT TWO HOURS— I'LL PAY WHEN I BRING HIM BACK!
ALL RIGHT, BUT HE'LL COST YOU A DOLLAR AN HOUR!
I'LL TOW YOU OUT, PROFESSOR, FOR TWO DOLLARS AND THIRTY CENTS!
WHY, THAT'S ROBBERY—TOWING ME OUT WITH MY OWN HORSE! I SEE YOU HAVE AN EYE FOR BUSINESS!
SURE— I WORKED TWO HOURS MAKING THIS MUDHOLE! AND SINCE I'M PAYING YOU TWO DOLLARS FOR YOUR HORSE I'VE GOT TO REALIZE SOME PROFIT ON MY INVESTMENT!
I'M STILL NOT CONVINCED OF YOUR ABILITY!
SAY, CHUCK, I JUST TAUGHT THE PROF. A LESSON IN SMART BUSINESS—IT OUGHT TO GET ME A "B" BUT I WANT AN "A"! LET'S GO DOWN TO HIS DRUG STORE WHILE I RAISE MY MARKS!
YOU AGAIN?
PROFESSOR, CHUCK AND I MADE A BET OF SODAS FOR US TWO— THE LOSER PAYS FOR THEM! CAN WE HAVE THE SODAS AND PAY WHEN THE BET IS DECIDED?
CERTAINLY! I KNOW THAT YOU HAVE MONEY, AND CHUCK'S FATHER HAS AN ACCOUNT HERE! WHAT IS THIS BET OF YOURS?
WELL, CHUCK BETS THAT WHEN THE WOOLWORTH BUILDING FALLS IT WILL FALL FORWARD TOWARD THE NORTH RIVER AND I'M BETTING THAT IT WILL FALL THE OTHER WAY! SOUND YOUR "A", PROFESSOR!

WHEN MOTHER WAS A GIRL
by PAUL FUNG
Registered U. S. Patent Office.
ABNER JONATHAN PERRY! HOW DARE YOU TRY TO KISS ME!
BUT, GEE, NELLIE, WE'VE BEEN ENGAGED FOR ALMOST A YEAR AND...
THAT'S ENTIRELY TOO SHORT A TIME FOR YOU TO KISS ME AND BESIDES.... JUST THINK SUPPOSE SOMEONE CAME ALONG AND SAW YOU!
I... I GUESS YOU'RE RIGHT, NELLIE = FORGIVE ME!
But Daughter Oh!!

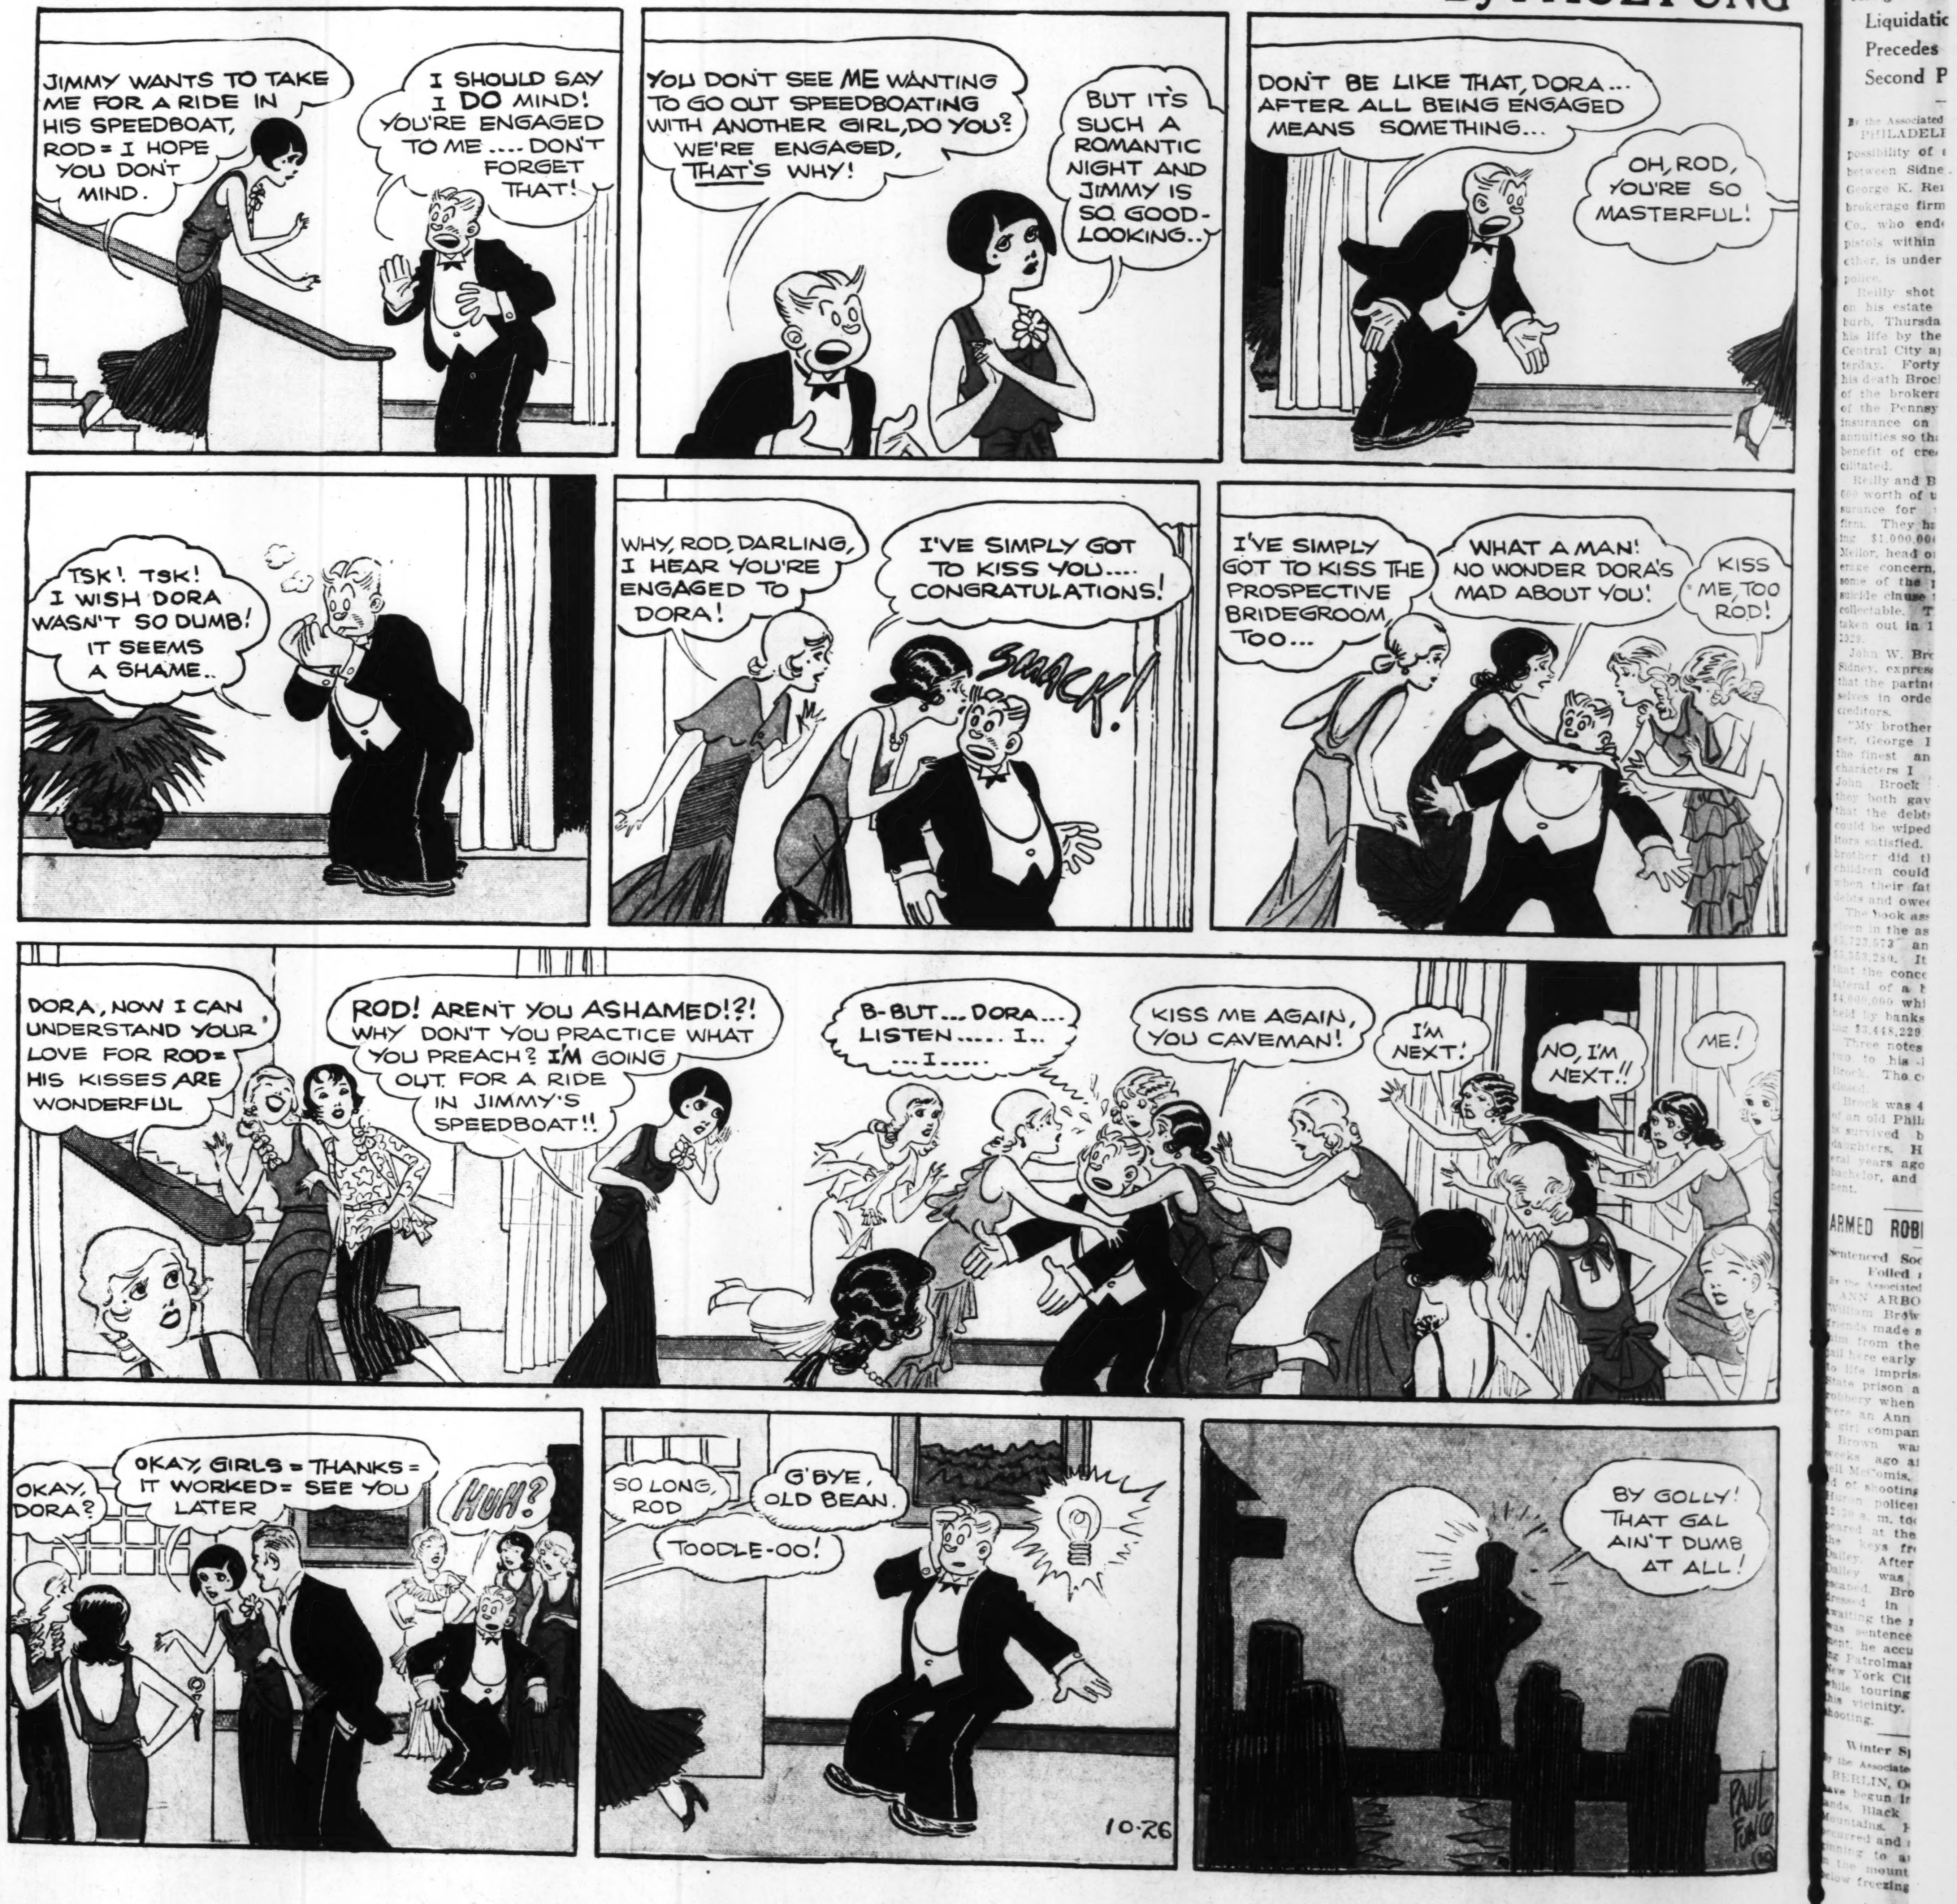
DUMB DORA

This comic appears every day in the daily Post-Dispatch

By PAUL FUNG



JIMMY WANTS TO TAKE ME FOR A RIDE IN HIS SPEEDBOAT, ROD = I HOPE YOU DON'T MIND.
I SHOULD SAY I DO MIND! YOU'RE ENGAGED TO ME.... DON'T FORGET THAT!
YOU DON'T SEE ME WANTING TO GO OUT SPEEDBOATING WITH ANOTHER GIRL, DO YOU? WE'RE ENGAGED, THAT'S WHY!
BUT IT'S SUCH A ROMANTIC NIGHT AND JIMMY IS SO GOOD-LOOKING..
DON'T BE LIKE THAT, DORA... AFTER ALL BEING ENGAGED MEANS SOMETHING...
OH, ROD, YOU'RE SO MASTERFUL!
TSK! TSK! I WISH DORA WASN'T SO DUMB! IT SEEMS A SHAME..
WHY, ROD, DARLING, I HEAR YOU'RE ENGAGED TO DORA!
I'VE SIMPLY GOT TO KISS YOU.... CONGRATULATIONS!
SMACK!
I'VE SIMPLY GOT TO KISS THE PROSPECTIVE BRIDEGROOM, TOO...
WHAT A MAN! NO WONDER DORA'S MAD ABOUT YOU!
KISS ME, TOO ROD!
DORA, NOW I CAN UNDERSTAND YOUR LOVE FOR ROD = HIS KISSES ARE WONDERFUL
ROD! AREN'T YOU ASHAMED!?! WHY DON'T YOU PRACTICE WHAT YOU PREACH? I'M GOING OUT FOR A RIDE IN JIMMY'S SPEEDBOAT!!
B-BUT... DORA... LISTEN..... I... ...I.....
KISS ME AGAIN, YOU CAVEMAN!
I'M NEXT!
NO, I'M NEXT!!
ME!
OKAY, DORA?
OKAY, GIRLS = THANKS = IT WORKED = SEE YOU LATER
HUH?
SO LONG, ROD
G'BYE, OLD BEAN.
TOODLE-OO!
